Lt. Amon Carter,
Father Reunited

SOMEWHERE IN GERMANY, May 5.—(INS)—Lieut. Amon Carter Jr., son of the publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, was brought safely out of the Luckenwald prisoner of war camp south of Berlin today.

The rescue was effected by Frank dConiff I.N.S. war correspondent, who "jeeped" Lieutenant Carter to a reunion with his father now in Germany with a group of American editors and writers investigating German war atrocities at first hand.

Lieutenant Carter was taken prisoner during the North African campaign more than two years ago.
