Brezhnev's pledges to be legally binding

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted Tuesday to give written and oral assurances by Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev on the Backfire bomber the same legally binding status as the SALT II treaty itself.

The Soviet Union would have to agree that Brezhnev's assurances are in fact legally binding before the treaty takes effect.

In its 9-1 vote, the committee directed President Carter to obtain the agreement of the Soviet Union to the following reservation that:

"The written statement which President Brezhnev handed to President Carter on June 16, 1979 concerning the Soviet TU22M bomber (referred to as Backfire in the United States), and the statement that President Brezhnev made to President Carter on June 17, 1979, that the production rate of this bomber would not exceed 30 per year, are legally binding upon the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

Only Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., voted against the reservation. He gave no explanation.

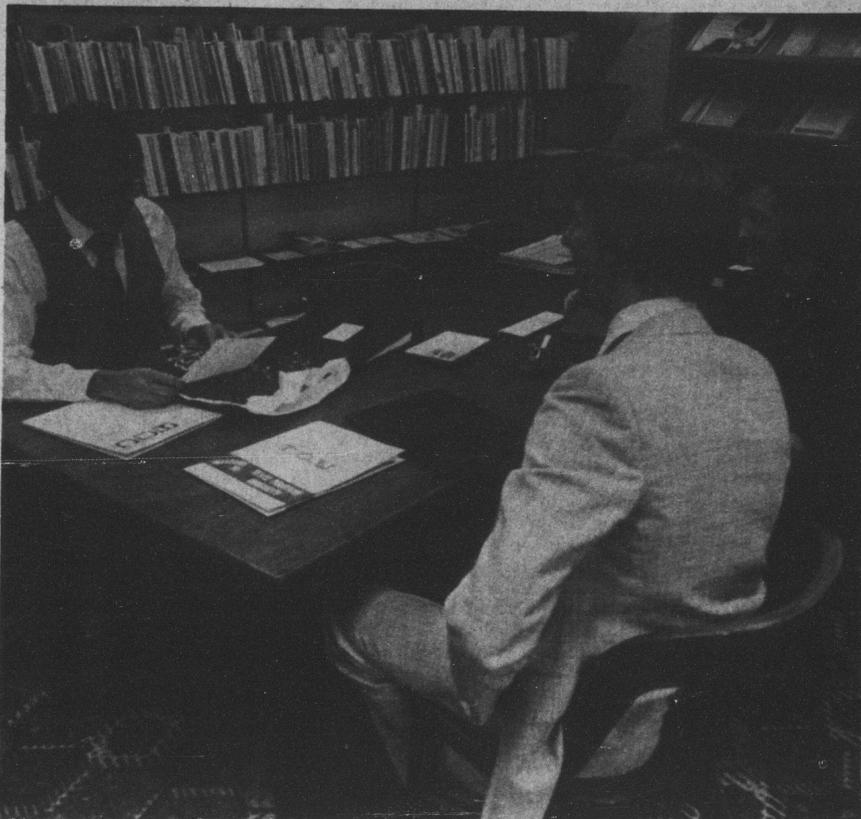

"We see no reason why the Soviet Union should not confirm this," said Lloyd Cutler, the White House counsel.

Cutler said that if the Soviets were to violate the Brezhnev statements by going beyond a Backfire production rate of 30 a year, the United States would have the right to withdraw from the treaty or take other steps as if the pact itself had been violated.

Attempts are expected to be made later, either in committee or on the Senate floor, to insist that Backfire be counted as a strategic, intercontinental weapon under the treaty terms.

The Soviets have long insisted that the Backfire is not an intercontinental strategic nuclear bomber and therefore refused to consider having it included in the treaty.

READY TO WORK—Senior accounting majors Bob Korman (center), and Dorothy Metcalf speak with Jim Barker of Price Waterhouse and Co. Fall interviews with prospective employers began Monday in the Career Development and Placement Office in room 220 of the student center. About 80 firms will hold interviews here this fall.

Baryshnikov quits troupe

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Soviet ballet star Mikhail Baryshnikov, citing severe injuries including tendonitis, has unexpectedly resigned from the New York City Ballet.

Baryshnikov, 31, had said he planned to remain with the ballet company for another year before becoming artistic director of the American Ballet Theater on Sept. 1.

But Baryshnikov said Monday that his doctor had advised him to take a few months' rest, and that he was looking forward to "at least three or four months without any obligation or commitment to dance with any company."

Baryshnikov, who spent 15 months with the City Ballet, denied he had been unhappy with the company. He said he disagreed with those critics who said he had not adapted to the City Ballet style.

"I was very happy with City Ballet and it is a painful decision for me," he said.

Professor emeritus sustains fatal stroke

Funeral and burial services were held Friday for TCU professor emeritus Dr. Robert H. Talbert at the Greenwood Funeral Home and Cemetery in Fort Worth.

Talbert, 70, died in Arlington Memorial Hospital at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 9, after suffering a stroke in a University Center restroom on the campus of the University of Texas at Arlington.

Talbert was chairman of TCU's Sociology Department from 1964-72. He joined the TCU faculty in 1946 and retired in 1977, but was continuing work as professor emeritus.

Talbert was at UTA to attend a meeting to plan for the 1980 U.S. Census when he suffered his fatal stroke. He was widely known as a Fort Worth census expert.

After the stricken Talbert was found, an employee at the University Center information desk called the UTA Health Center for aid, according to the Shorthorn, UTA's student paper.

But a nurse at the center told the caller that they did not have a policy of leaving the center to provide medical assistance and that the center could not help non-students, the Shorthorn reported.

The information desk employee then called Arlington Memorial Hospital, which sent an ambulance. Talbert received cardiopulmonary resuscitation treatment from ambulance personnel and a UTA police officer while at the University Center and during his transfer to the hospital, according to the Shorthorn.

Talbert, a Farmington, Mo. native, earned two undergraduate degrees from Southeast Missouri State College and a masters degree from the University of Missouri. He received a Ph. D. degree from Duke University in 1943.

Before coming to TCU, Talbert taught at Hollins College, the University of Alabama, and the University of Iowa. He was a visiting professor at Southern Methodist University, the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Texas at Austin.

Talbert was active in the American Sociological Association, the Population Association of America, and several professional honor societies. He was a member of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) and was a world traveler.

Talbert is survived by his wife, Kathryn, and a daughter and son-in-law, Cristina and John Thilmany of San Francisco.

Dr. Robert H. Talbert

NEWS BRIEFS

Compiled from the Associated Press

Quake victims pick up pieces

CALEXICO, Calif.—With aftershocks still grumbling, thousands of Imperial Valley residents picked up shattered possessions Tuesday after a thundering earthquake injured at least 91 persons.

Police and volunteers patrolled against the threat of looting.

Damage from Monday's quake, measuring 6.5 on the Richter scale, was widespread throughout this agricultural valley of 90,000, straddling the U.S.-Mexican border about 100 miles east of San Diego.

Injured juror returns to trial

FORT WORTH—A juror in the Cullen Davis murder solicitation trial who broke his arm returned to court wearing a cast suspended in a blue sling Tuesday—but he remained on the jury, averting a mistrial in the marathon case.

Workers cap runaway well

MEXICO CITY—Oil workers successfully installed a 310-ton steel cone over the runaway Ixtoc 1 offshore oil well to capture much of the gushing crude and cut down contamination, government oil company officials said.

But they said the rogue well, which has been spewing about 425,000 gallons of oil a day into the Bay of Campeche 500 miles south of the Texas border, cannot be plugged until two relief wells being drilled from the sides reach the two-mile-deep gusher.

Carter cleared on loan charges

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A special counsel, saying "every nickel and every peanut have been traced," announced Tuesday that no criminal charges will be brought in connection with $10 million in bank loans to the Carter family's peanut warehouse in Georgia.

"I believe it appropriate to state right here that there is no evidence to establish that Jimmy Carter committed any crimes," special counsel Paul J. Curran said in a statement accompanying the 239-page report that ended his six-month investigation.

U.S. pledges aid to Cambodia

WASHINGTON, D.C.—President Carter has announced an initial U.S. pledge of $7 million to aid millions of starving, ailing Cambodians.

There is some question whether the money, to be used by international relief organizations for food and medicine, will benefit the needy in war-torn Cambodia.

Carter is asking the Soviet Union and China to help get the needed supplies to the people. So far, the United States, Britain, the Common Market, Japan and others have pledged about $28 million as part of a $100 million, six-month program of Cambodian aid.

Train crash 275 injuries

PHILADELPHIA—A chain-reaction crash of commuter trains Tuesday sent riders tumbling down the aisles and hospital authorities said at least 275 were injured.

"All hell broke loose," said a passenger aboard one train which slammed into a parked train and shoved it into a third train on the Media-West Chester Line.

There was no word of fatalities, but reports from area hospitals showed at least 275 were injured.

Carter blasts Cuba, Castro

CHICAGO—President Carter vowed Tuesday the United States will not recognize Cuba until the Caribbean island nation recalls its troops from "unwarranted involvement in other countries."

At a town meeting in mostly blue-collar suburban Dolton, Ill., Carter was asked why his administration will not accept the fact that the Cuban government "is here to stay."

The president responded by blasting Cuba for "constantly interfering" with the affairs of other nations. He repeated his view that Fidel Castro's government is a "surrogate" of the Soviet Union.

Cities benefit from sales tax

AUSTIN—Texas cities shared $22.2 million in rebates from the one percent local sales tax this month, according to a statement Monday from State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office.

The statement said 1979 payments total $364.6 million, which is $34.7 million more than was paid in the first 10 months of last year.

Newton makes things run

She's Tucker's right hand lady

Retiring Chancellor Jim Moudy gave only one piece of advice to his successor, Bill Tucker—to retain Mrs. Toni Newton in her position as Administrative Assistant to the Chancellor.

Despite Newton's original intention to retire with Moudy, Tucker asked her to stay on and she agreed. "I didn't want to pass up the opportunity of working with Dr. Tucker," Newton said.

"It's hard to explain what I do because it differs so much from one day to the next," Newton said. Essentially, she assists the chancellor so his time can be spent productively and without needless interruptions.

She may be called upon to be an office manager, a receptionist, or a liaison. Her duties include anything from delegating authority to handling public relations to planning menus, depending on what demands are placed on the chancellor's office.

"By picking up loose ends" and "making things run as smoothly as possible," Newton said, she facilitates the chancellor's work.

She becomes involved with as broad a range of concerns as the chancellor himself. And, like the chancellor, Newton works long hours, putting in a significant amount of overtime. A twelve-hour work day is not unusual for Newton.

She also spends considerable time in the office on weekends preparing for the week ahead.

Newton says that she is "not conscious of the long hours because it's a fun job... every day I have the occasion to meet someone new or learn something new about someone I already know."

She said she enjoys meeting and working with vice chancellors, deans, faculty and students. She also enjoys the challenge of "looking for new ways to become more productive" in the chancellor's office.

Fraternities battle at Fight Night

Sigma Chi Fight Night, boxing competition between TCU fraternities, will be held at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 19 at the Panther Boy's Club, said Tim Lucas, chairman of the event.

Five members from each fraternity participate in the contest. Each boxer is matched with an opponent from another fraternity, according to his weight and arm length, Lucas said. Fight Night is a fund-raiser for the local TCU fraternity. Proceeds from the event will go to the Wallace Village for Children, a home for the underprivileged, Lucas said.

The winning team will be judged by how many individual winners there are from each fraternity, Lucas said. That fraternity will receive a "travelling trophy," which is passed on each year to the winner, he said.

This is the fourth year for Fight Night at TCU. Many Sigma Chi chapters across the nation sponsor Fight Night but it is not yet a national activity, Lucas said.

Admission to the event is $1.50. The children's home is the national Sigma Chi philanthropy project, Lucas said.

'Superman,' prizes to be offered

"Superman"—winner of Academy awards for special achievement and visual effects and nominated for best music—will be shown in the student center ballroom this Friday at 5 p.m., 8 p.m., and midnight. Admission is 75 cents.

The films committee will give free Superman iron-ons to the first ten customers at each show. Door prizes will also be given to the 200th and 500th persons to walk through the doors of the ballroom Friday night, films chairman Holly Nelson said. Halloween weekend, October 26th and 27th, the films committee will show "Magic" on Friday and "Love at First Bite" on Saturday.

There will be a costume contest on both nights at 11:15 p.m. before the midnight showing of each film. Registration for the contest will begin at 4:30 p.m. in the ballroom and will end at 10:45 p.m.

Judges will include faculty members and selected student leaders. Prizes will be awarded to winners of the following categories: Best Overall, Best Male, Best Female and Best Group of between three and ten members with a unified theme.

Prizes are being donated by community merchants.

The films committee meets every Tuesday at 4 p.m. Room 202 of the student center. Membership in the committee is open to anyone in the university community, and student participation is encouraged.

TCU DAILY SKIFF, student newspaper at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, Texas, is published Tuesday through Friday during class weeks except review week, finals week and summer term. Views expressed are those of the students involved and do not necessarily reflect administrative policies of the University.

And now, something in a more serious vein

TCU students are rarely heroes. After all, how often are we directly responsible for saving a life?

This month, Tom Brown, Jarvis and Brachman dormitories are sponsoring the university blood drive with the cooperation of Fort Worth's Carter Blood Center. They've set a goal of 500 pints for this drive.

Traditionally, TCU blood drives fail to meet the goal. This is sometimes due to an outbreak of strep on campus. We suspect, though, that more often a student just doesn't find it "worth it" to lie on a cot with a needle in his arm.

Then there are students who can't give blood because they're on medication, or are anemic, or don't make the age and weight requirements (18 years, 110 pounds).

Nobody on campus has an excuse valid enough to ignore this semester's blood drive. If you can't actually give blood, you are always welcome to talk to people who are giving blood—they need someone to keep their courage up. If the sight of blood makes you ill, you can help by recruiting others to donate.

The goal of 500 pints set by TB-J and Brachman is a reasonable one. (Enrollment is up this year, remember?)

We're dealing with someone's life. Don't pass up the chance to be a hero.

Editorial policy

The TCU Daily Skiff encourages guest columns, editorials, and editorial cartoons. Columns and editorials must be typed, double spaced, and signed by the author. No anonymous material will be accepted. Cartoons must be drawn in india ink on white paper, and must also be signed.

All material will be edited for style, grammar, and taste. Signed material is solely the opinion of the author; unsigned editorials are the opinion of the majority of the Skiff staff.

Kennedy tactics hurt Americans

BY CHRIS KELLEY
Skiff Columnist

Ted Kennedy is playing a dirty game, and the American people are on the losing side.

Not in recent memory has a "non-candidate" for president received so much media attention. And why? Kennedy is not an official candidate for president. Or is he?

Last May Kennedy said he would not seek the Democratic nomination for president. Carter, he said, would seek reelection and could count on Kennedy's support.

Now, apparently, there have been a few changes in the game plan. A month ago, Kennedy told reporters he has not decided whether or not to run. By Thanksgiving, he said, he'll know for sure.

Until then, he apparently expects the American people to sit patiently on the sidelines and await his signal. Well, I'm tired of waiting.

Kennedy must stop manipulating the minds of the American people with his deceitful tactics.

Example: Currently, there are draft-Kennedy groups in 19 states. The Federal Elections Commission ruled recently that those groups enjoy a potentially enormous advantage over committees backing declared candidates.

According to the FEC, individual donors can give only $1,000 to a declared candidate. They can, however, give as much as $5,000 to as many as five separate committees which seek the draft of an undeclared candidate, such as Kennedy.

Exploiting this loophole, Kennedy could build a huge war chest with donations from a relatively small number of contributors before formally entering the campaign.

Example: The American people have been gradually losing confidence in Carter's ability to lead.

Kennedy's cheap shots at the President serve only to widen this gulf.

Example: Kennedy is obviously enjoying the fuss being made over whether or not he is going to challenge Carter for the right to live at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

Encountering a group of newsmen just off the Senate floor recently, Kennedy nudged one of them in the back and whispered: "What do ya hear today? Will he run or won't he?"

I wish Ted would do us all a favor. Either put up or shut up. His current game plan is cheap.

Nukes no longer necessary for future energy needs

BY KEN DOUBLE
Guest Columnist

Three significant reports were published on the subject of energy this summer, and they were in surprising agreement on several topics.

Published by Washington-based research group Resources for the Future (RFF), Harvard Business School and the Ford Foundation consecutively, they all expressed optimism that—with proper policy and planning and a willingness to pay the costs—energy can be produced to meet any reasonable projection of demand.

All three reports argued for the decontrol of domestic oil and natural gas prices.

And the three reports agreed as well on their opinion that nuclear fission has no future hope of playing any major role in the production of energy in this century.

Indeed, though it may have its supporters and its detractors, the case for nuclear fission reactors may prove in the end to be merely academic. The number of utility companies applying to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for authorization to build a nuclear reactor has been steadily decreasing since the mid-1960s.

Even the Three Mile Island incident may prove to be merely an epitaph for a fledgling industry when viewed in this light: not a single utility company has petitioned the NRC for a license to operate a new nuclear reactor since 1977.

For although serious opposition to nuclear plants is only beginning to get off the ground, they have been a considerable cause of unrest in Europe for many years. An anti-nuclear rally in the south of France attracted 350,000 supporters two years ago.

While Austria may be the only country thus far to say no to nuclear development entirely through referendum, Switzerland, Sweden and Japan have adopted go-slow policies in light of its dangers, and Norway appears to have no intention of ever building nuclear reactors.

While the German Bundestag has voted to go ahead with nuclear development, several states within the Federal Republic have opted out. In fact, nuclear energy development has been cause for vocal opposition in every country in Western Europe where it has been proposed, and most of them are far more reliant upon imported oil than is the United States.

Of the major nations in the world, only the Soviet Union appears to be going full speed ahead with nuclear energy development—opposition forces there, if there are any, being presumably less vocal than their counterparts in the West.

In the light of these developments, if the United States should look toward other sources of energy—and from a practical standpoint has already begun to do so—what then is to be our response as a nation?

For all long-term purposes the energy situation looks promising. Electrification by coal, oil shale, and wind power are beginning to come of age. Solar energy has shown itself to be very effective for heating purposes, with initial costs being relatively low. NASA knows this, as the electrical systems on our unmanned satellites are powered exclusively by solar batteries and have been for many years.

In the short term, however, conservation is the order of the day, and can be accomplished quite painlessly. We needn't live at a lower standard—we need only live better, using our energy sources more wisely than we have in the past.

The choice is therefore a fundamental one. Are we to reduce our own levels of consumption in the short term through more efficiently designed cars, houses and appliances? Or are we to face long-term economic ruin by continuing to consume increasingly costly and non-renewable fossil fuels for our short-term satisfaction, and rely upon such potentially hazardous energy sources as nuclear reactors as these fossil fuels become depleted?

Only the American people can effectively answer this question. We shall decide our fate and that of our children.

Letters

To the Editor:
I question the Daily Skiff's priorities in selecting news stories for print. According to the CBS Evening News (Oct. 9), two million people in Cambodia face possible death by starvation by the end of the year because of the political situation in that country, yet the Daily Skiff has, so far, chosen to ignore this very urgent issue.

Certainly the wire services have sent out reports from the United Nations or Washington concerning efforts being made to secure relief measures for these people. As part of a university whose goal "is to seek, advance, and transmit truth," the Skiff has an obligation to make students aware of the situation in Cambodia.

Though I do not intend at this time to question the worth of some of the stories and news briefs the Skiff publishes, this issue is certainly more worthy of publicity than some of the other stories that the Skiff publishes.

Nun's stand seen as gently heroic

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Some women are hailing her as a new Joan of Arc, the 15th-century saint who challenged ecclesiastical authority. But Sister Theresa Kane's bold, but gracious stand for women's admission to the full Roman Catholic ministry, including the priesthood, was of a different, gentler stripe.

It was not put before a threatening inquisitor, but to a warm-hearted Pope John Paul II, and it was not defiant, but couched in utmost gentility and respect.

Nevertheless, it was a rare and dramatic gesture. Not in modern times, scholars say, has a pope been formally confronted by a devout adherent in public with a position differing with his own.

It came in Sister Theresa's opening greetings to the pope before about 5,000 nuns crowded into the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington Sunday, Oct. 7.

Sister Theresa, the elected head of an organization including leaders of most of the nuns' communities in the United States, expressed deep loyalty and respect for the pope and appreciation for his defense of human rights.

She then said, "The church in its struggle to be faithful to its call for reverence and dignity for all persons must respond by providing the possibility for women as persons being included in all ministries of the church."

The pope did not respond directly, although he earlier had reaffirmed limiting the priesthood to men. But he did afterward place his hands on Sister Theresa's head in blessing as she knelt before him.

Sister Theresa may get another chance to make her case in November when the Leadership Conference meets in Rome. An audience with the pope has been requested.

FW restaurant has 'atmosphere'

By ELLY SIEB
Skiff Critic

What is green and white, has a romantic-resort, family-type atmosphere, and leans considerably to one side?

The answer is not the sinking of "Loveboat." It is Fort Worth's Joe T. Garcia's Mexican Dishes restaurant.

Joe T.'s began serving Mexican food lovers nearly half a century ago. The restaurant's structure is a converted home that leans badly on the kitchen side. The green trimmed windows and gutters are hanging by their last nails.

In short, Joe T.'s has atmosphere. Three dining areas inside achieve family, romantic and casual moods. Young families feel at home in the family room with its kitchen tables.

The dining room's romantic atmosphere is set off by red and yellow tablecloths and a serenading guitarist. (Don't be discouraged when the host leads you through the kitchen to get to this room).

Finally, Joe T.'s provides a resort setting on a patio that overlooks a small pool lit by hurricane lamps.

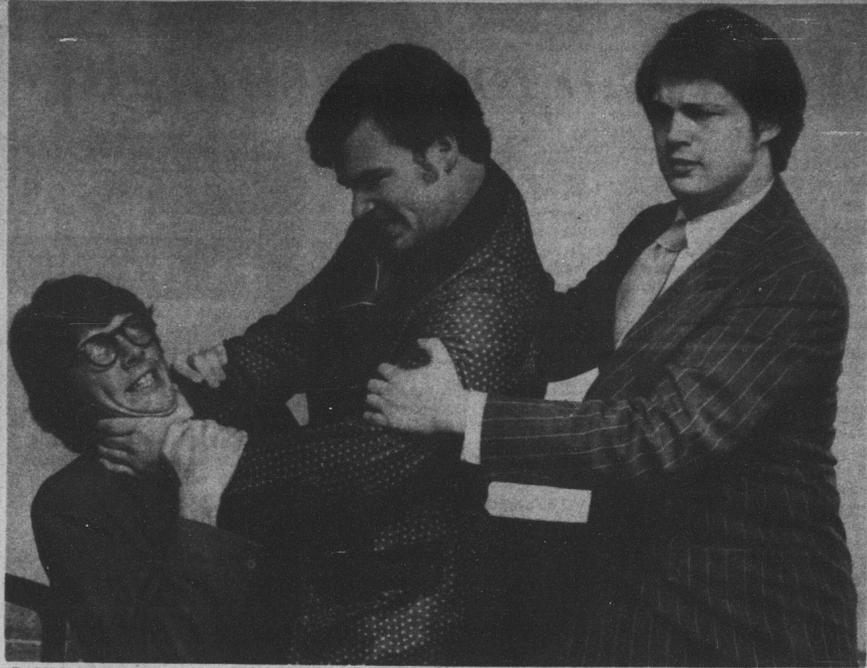

Deciding on the atmosphere is your only decision at Joe T.'s. There is no menu. Once you are seated, the waiter will take your cocktail order (they specialize in margaritas) and your feast is served promptly.

Nachos accompany your drink, followed by tacos, burritos, enchiladas, tortillas, rice, beans, guacamole and sopapillas for dessert. The dishes are served family style on platters and you can eat as much or as little as you choose.

The prices are moderate—the tab for two runs about $10, not including drinks.

Joe T.'s on Commerce Street in downtown Fort Worth serves lunch and dinner seven days a week, without reservations.

Wogs win fourth straight

By CHARLEY ALBERTO
Skiff Sports Writer

The TCU junior varsity remains undefeated, after a 32-20 win over the UTA J-V Monday night.

In the beginning of the first quarter, the Mavericks took the lead when running back Darwin George ran for a 17-yard touchdown.

The Wogs came back twice, with a 32-yard field goal by Chris Leiss and a 1-yard touchdown run by Kevin Speer, to take a 10-6 lead.

In the second quarter, the Wogs outplayed the Mavericks, scoring 14 unanswered points. Quarterback Reuben Jones hit flanker Joe Breedlove with a 65-yard touchdown pass, then Speer jumped over the top for a 1-yard touchdown, stretching the score to 23-6.

TCU scored again in the third quarter with a 23-yard field goal by Leiss.

UTA cut the lead to 26-13 on a 1-yard run by Anthony Price, but the Wogs leaped right back with a 91-yard touchdown return by freshman running back Marcus Gilbert, giving TCU a comfortable 32-13 lead.

SPORTS

The last score of the game came by UTA when quarterback David Newcomb hit tight end Keith Melton for 9 yards and a touchdown.

This was the Wogs' first game on a wet field, but the defense swam fast as they intercepted four passes and recovered a fumble.

Both Eddie Clark and Reuben Jones were at the helm for the Wogs

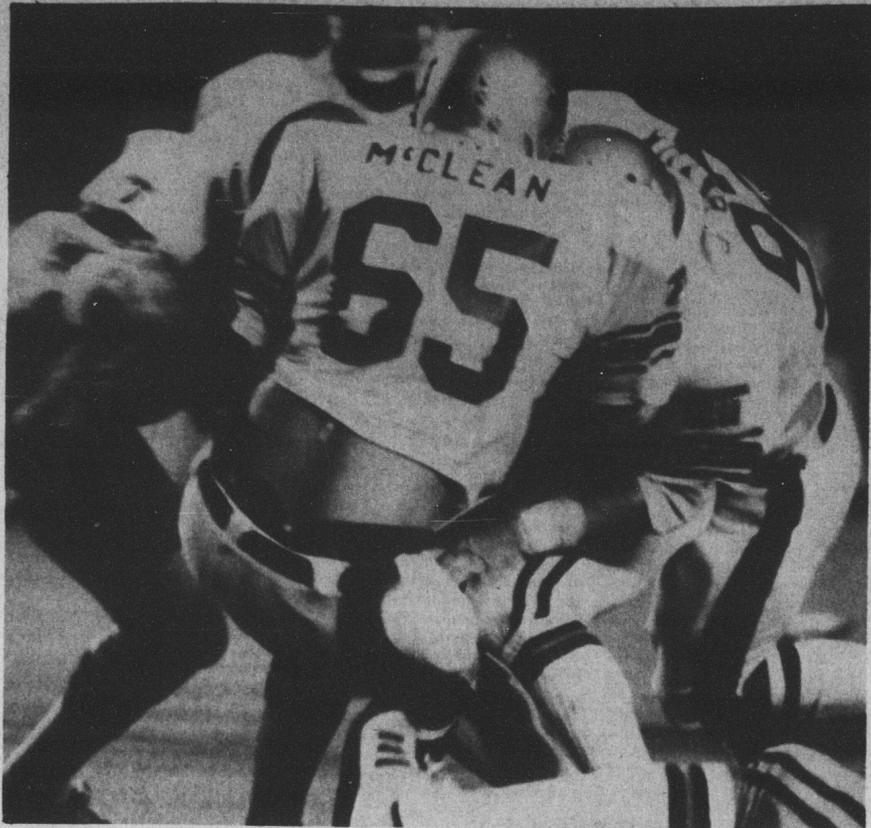

Monday. Clark completed 3 of 5 passes for 87 yards, while Jones completed 3 of 5 passes for 71 yards and one touchdown.

The leading rushers were Reuben Jones, J.C. Morris and Kevin Speer, who gained 78, 28, and 21 yards respectively. Speer also scored the two touchdowns.

Freshman Joe Breedlove was the leading receiver for the Wogs, with four receptions for 124 yards and one touchdown.

Freshman punter Bobby Corbell averaged 40.6 yards on five punts. His longest was 51 yards.

The Wogs are now 4-0 on the season. They return to action at 2 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 5, when they travel to Fouts Field in Denton for a rematch against the North Texas State J-V.

DEE-FENSE—Somewhere in this mass of white shirts is a Rice ballcarrier, trying to gain yardage. However, TCU's John McClean (65) and Jim Bayuk (right, 92) get together with other Frog defenders to make sure the Owl doesn't go anywhere. The Frogs only gave up 125 yards on the ground in Saturday's 17-7 win over Rice.

Soccer team drops third straight

By ROBERT HOWINGTON
Skiff Sports Writer

Despite outplaying, outshooting and outthrusting the MacMurray College Highlanders, the TCU soccer team suffered a 2-0 loss Wednesday at the TCU soccer field.

Rich Mufuka, MacMurray's All-American from Rhodesia, scored both Highlander goals. The first one came 1:30 into the game when Mufuka slapped a rebound past TCU goalie Doug Johnston. Seven minutes later Mufuka struck again, slipping through two TCU defenders and calmly rolling the ball past Johnston, giving MacMurray an early 2-0 lead.

In the second half TCU outshot MacMurray 11-0, but the tremendous pressure applied by the Frogs was to no avail as Highlander goalie John Kelker denied TCU time after time.

"We outplayed them," said TCU coach Frank Lukacs after the game, "but we just can't find the net. I don't know why we can't score." The Frogs have scored only two goals in their last three games, all losses.

MacMurray coach Pete Glon admitted TCU outplayed his troops. "TCU pressured us real well and we couldn't open up our offense. Mufuka's outstanding, and he was the difference."

TCU's record drops to 5-6-2, but the Frogs remain atop the South-west Conference standings with a perfect 2-0 conference mark. TCU has five games remaining, all of them being against SWC foes.

Deciding game tonight

Pirates even series with 4-0 win

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dave Parker and Willie Stargell, the power part of Pittsburgh's lineup, drove in a pair of seventh-inning runs to ignite the Pirates' attack as they tied the 1979 World Series at three games apiece by defeating Baltimore 4-0 in Tuesday night's sixth game.

It was the second straight victory for the Pirates and forced the Series to a decisive seventh game Wednesday night. Scott McGregor, the winner in Game Three, will pitch for the Baltimore Orioles—possibly against Jim Bibby, who started Game Four but was not involved in the decision for Pittsburgh.

Left-hander John Candelaria and bullpen ace Kent Tekulve combined for the seven-hit shutout—the first of the Series—as Pittsburgh kept its chances going to become the fourth team to recover from a 3-1 game deficit and win a best-of-seven Series.

Since scoring six runs in the eighth inning of Game Four, the Orioles have fallen into a dreadful slump, managing just one run in 19 innings. Their slumbering bats proved fatal to starter Jim Palmer, who pitched a creditable game, matching Candelaria's shutout through the first six innings.

Candelaria, who has been troubled by back and rib cage injuries, was lifted for pinchhitter Lee Lacy leading off the seventh as the Pirates sought to get something going against Palmer. But Lacy struck out as a capacity Memorial Stadium crowd of 53,739 roared its approval. Soon, however, the Pirates silenced the crowd.

Speedy Omar Moreno, criticized for his poor hitting in earlier games, drilled the second of his three singles on the night to right field. Then, on a hit-and-run play, Tim Foli bounced a ball up the middle. Orioles shortstop Kiko Garcia tried to field the ball and keep his foot on the base for the force play on Moreno. But he succeeded in neither, and the ball squirted through for a single.

That set the Pirates' table with big guns Parker and Stargell coming up. In the first inning, Palmer had escaped a similar jam against the same two hitters. This time, however, he didn't get away.

Parker, who carried a .429 Series batting average into this game, drilled a single past second baseman Rich Dauer, scoring Moreno on the game's first run and sending Foli scampering to third. A moment later, Stargell got the second run home with a sacrifice fly to left field.

Finally in front, Pittsburgh went to the ace of its bullpen, the lanky, bespectacled Tekulve. He had been ripped in Game Four—the victim of the bulk of that big Baltimore six-run rally. This time, it was a different story as he mowed the Orioles down easily, allowing one hit the final three innings.

The Pirates doubled their lead in the eighth. Ed Ott opened with a single and dashed to third on Phil Garner's ground rule double that bounced into the left field stands. It was the second hit of the game and 11th of the Series for Garner, who also set a World Series record in Tuesday's game by participating in his ninth double play.

Bill Robinson, who had come into the game in a defensive shift in the seventh, followed with another sacrifice fly to left, and then Moreno, who had left 11 men on base in the first two games of the Series, delivered an RBI single, making it 4-0.

Since 1922, when the best-of-seven format was adopted permanently, only three teams have wiped out 3-1 deficits to win the Series. The last was Detroit in 1968 against St. Louis.

Cardinals won't see Dutton

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday it will probably be at least another week before defensive end John Dutton suits up for the National Football League team.

The Cowboys gave Baltimore No. 1 and No. 2 draft choices last week for holdout Dutton, who was then signed to a multiyear pact.

"John has been working hard, lifting and running, but he still needs work," said Landry. "He has a good attitude but we aren't expecting any miracles from him."

Landry said, "We have until next Monday before we have to move a player off the roster. I think John probably wouldn't be ready for St. Louis this Sunday."

Landry said Dutton "has to prove he is better than somebody we already have in there. We'll give him spot work over a period of three games or so. In this business, you don't want to step on the field unless you are prepared."

Asked if the presence of Dutton along the sidelines in Sunday's 30-6 victory over Los Angeles had helped the Cowboys' performance on the defensive left side, Landry smiled, "I would say it would stimulate you. He just looks good standing around."

Landry added, "We picked our first (round) choice for next May right now."

Owls still upset over TD

HOUSTON (AP)—The jubilation response changed from the Rice Owls to the Texas Christian Horned Frogs in a split second Saturday when an official ruled that TCU quarterback Steve Stamp scored on a one-yard plunge shortly before halftime.

Rice, trailing 3-0, threw up a goalline stand and held TCU three straight downs and apparently stopped Stamp short on fourth down. Rice players leaped joyfully as the play ended, thinking they had stopped the Frogs.

"It would have given us a tremendous lift going in at halftime trailing 3-0 and having stopped them like that," Rice Coach Ray Alborn lamented.

Instead, one official, after appearing to spot the ball short of the goal, suddenly raised his arms signaling a touchdown. Alborn dashed his headset to the ground as TCU started celebrating.

A review of the film Tuesday appeared to show Stamp hitting just short of the goalline and then bouncing into the end zone.

"We're calling it the alleged touchdown around here," Alborn said. "I don't know if it would have made any difference in the outcome or not," Alborn said. "But there's no question it would have given us something to build on in the second half."

"I didn't feel it was a touchdown then and I still don't today," Alborn said, but he also said he did not intend to call the SWC league office to complain about the call.
