

er expecto other national
o. That sly like soccer
merican folded

e 1970s.
d since is how yers are
t week,
ckham,
ights to psey to sh Pre-on.
est know rope to s, while ars may me here
bly into t morph

e's orig-
rse. But in teleproduct is will-il.

NEWS
One TCU librarian is going pin-up to benefit disaster-stricken Texas libraries. TOMORROW

FEATURES
Find out how Justin Timberlake fared in his starting role in "Alpha Dog." TOMORROW

SPORTS
See how the Frogs handled the Colorado State Rams. DAILYSKIFF.COM

TCU

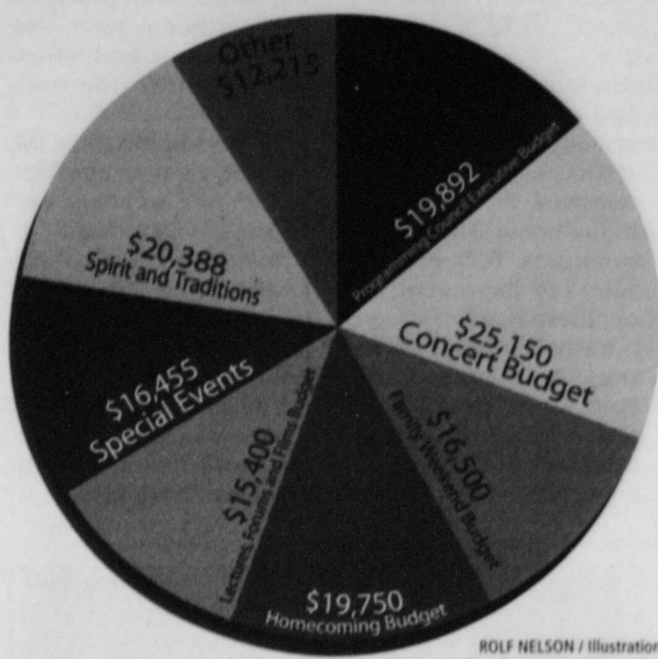

DAILY SKIFF

THURSDAY

January 18, 2007
Vol. 104 Issue 48

EST. 1902

WWW.DAILYSKIFF.COM

ROLF NELSON / Illustration
Source: Student Government Association

Fate of PC finances remains unsure

By KAILEY DELINGER
Staff Reporter

A change in Student Government Association's constitution may leave Programming Council scrambling for funds, but the group's directors are not discouraged yet.

In years past, PC, one of the four branches that form SGA, has collected a fixed rate of 50 percent of the student government fee that appears on student tuition bills each semester, said Kristen Chapman, Programming Council chair.

With the passage of new SGA legislation, however, that sum may change, said Nate Arnold, SGA treasurer.

In November, a debate over how to ration SGA's budget culminated when the student body voted to leave the fate of the PC's financial stability in the hands of the SGA members who approve the annual budget.

"We are having to spread the money that the students pay — the student fee — among lots of things now," SGA adviser Natalie Boone said. "It kind of puts us in a hard situation because Programming Council, of course, is like, 'we need the 50 percent' but, at the same time, it isn't fair for the House (of Student Representatives) to only have $10 per committee."

Now PC is left questioning its future.

"We feel that the 50 percent is a good thing to have established," Chapman said, "but the change in the budget does not necessarily mean that we will get less than 50. It is really up in the air. We could get more, we could get less."

In the coming months, Arnold said he will begin the budget proposal process by analyzing SGA expenditures from past years and the potential cost of each future activity. Until Arnold makes a final decision on next year's budget, PC will not know where it stands financially.

"The good thing about passing this bill is that if it turns out that PC needs more than 50 percent, I will be able to do that," Arnold said. "But if it turns out that they are overspending, then I can cut it."

Boone declined to comment on the validity of the new legislation.

"It really will affect Programming Council, I think, if we don't get what we need," she said.

But Arnold, who will be the ultimate say in determining next year's budget, does not consider the bill a major threat.

See PC, page 2

Conference offers help to students graduating

By ASHLEIGH WHALEY
Staff Reporter

University Career Services will give seniors a look into professional life this weekend at the annual Senior Conference.

The conference, which features keynote speakers, employers and alumni, offers a head start in life and rewards seniors for coming this far by preparing them for challenges in the future, said Kimshi Hickman, associate director of employer services.

Patrick Combs, an alumni motivational speaker and author of "Major in Success," will show seniors how to aim for success during an often difficult transition from student to professional life, Hickman said.

"Mr. Combs's big thing is major and success and how to turn what you've experienced into success in the real world," said Abby Hicks, assistant director of marketing and events.

Senior Conference is modeled after a professional conference. Students stay overnight and attend breakout sessions and workshops, some of which focus on networking or interviewing skills, Hicks said.

Students should leave feeling confident about life after graduation, Hickman said.

"The conference will help students realize that time is of the essence," Hickman said. "Students who haven't already gotten their acts together, worked on their resume or started the job search should leave motivated to do so."

Seniors who have jobs lined up already will benefit from practicing learned skills in a professional setting, Hickman said.

The students also learn about networking — an important part of job searching, Hicks said.

"Employers call our office all the time asking, 'Do you have alumni resumes with this type of experience?'" Hicks said.

Conference topics will go beyond the basics of job searching. Hicks said seniors will develop professional life skills as well.

"We're having a session on balancing professional and family life and financial management in your personal life," Hicks said.

See SENIOR, page 2

OUT COLD

(TOP) Kurtis Freeman, left, junior finance major, Codie Kretzer, junior geology major, and Peter Guempel, junior communication studies major, help Ryan Hamon, junior communication studies major, sled down a snowy sidewalk between the Tom Brown-Pete Wright apartments. (LEFT) Chase Rice, left, and Tera Perez, from the Physical Plant, shovel snow from the walkway in front of Clark Hall. (RIGHT) Guempel sleds down a hill outside of the University Recreation Center.

BILLY WESSELS / Photo Editor

Classes canceled; students enjoy snowy weather

By AUNDREA EICHMAN
Staff Reporter

Craig Jerpi woke up at 8 a.m. Wednesday to good news: the second day of classes were canceled.

The frigid Texas weather shocked many students when they looked out their windows Wednesday morning to see a blanket of snow on the ground. Some went right back to sleep or out to play, but others headed off to class.

Jerpi, a freshman graphic design major, was one of many students outside taking pictures or playing in the snow. Jerpi and his friends said they did not expect the weather but were enjoying "frolicking in the snow."

See SNOW, page 2

Play to raise money for national 'V-Day'

By MICHELLE EUPERIO
Staff Reporter

Soon, 18 women will have the coveted parts in a play about their coveted parts.

The women's studies department is holding auditions for "The Vagina Monologues" on Monday. There will be two performances on Feb. 9 — "V-Day" — that will raise money for awareness of violence against women.

"V-Day" is a global movement to end violence against women. The "V" stands for victory, valentine and vagina.

"The Vagina Monologues" performances serve as the center of an entire week of events known as "V-Week" that aims to raise awareness about sexual abuse.

"I believe that if we discuss it openly enough, it will no longer be a subject that's 'taboo,' and we can remove all the negative political connotations that have been associated with violence against women," said Stella South, project director for "The Vagina Monologues" and a senior political science major.

Money raised from the play's performances will go toward Assault Prevention Theatre and the national "V-Day" campaign.

"The Vagina Monologues" was first performed at TCU in 2005 and the performances raised more than $5,000. The play was not performed in 2006 at TCU but Becca Nordeen, artistic director for the play, said she hopes the performance will become an annual event.

Assault Prevention Theatre is a group of TCU students who raise awareness on sexual abuse. They perform at orientation and teach students how to prevent and protect themselves in a situation of sexual abuse.

Karen Steele, director of women's studies, said this would be the second time for TCU to present "The Vagina Monologues."

Nordeen, a senior theater major, was a participant in the show two years ago but said she fell in love with it long before she came to TCU.

"I came from an extremely conservative family, and I saw the title and I just had to see what it was about," Nordeen said. "I ended up buying the book and loving everything I read."

Nordeen said all TCU women, including staff and faculty, can audition for the play.

See THEATRE, page 2

FOR YOUR INFO

- "THE VAGINA MONOLOGUES"
- Feb. 9
- 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.
- Student Center Ballroom
- Tickets will be sold in the Student Center during "V-Week," Feb. 5-9
- Price: $5 for one, $8 for two

Student reports break-in attempts

By ASHER FOGLE
Staff Reporter

A TCU student whose report of an attempted break-in spurred a campus crime alert Tuesday told police Wednesday a prowler shone a light into her back door in a separate incident.

The woman called Fort Worth police on two consecutive nights about suspicious activity at her residence in the 3500 block of Winston Road.

Fort Worth police investigated a report of an attempted break-in at the

See CRIME, page 2

Student-produced soap opera to run on campus television channel

By JOHN BOLLER
Staff Reporter

The soap opera "Southern Comforts," created by TCU students, will be shown in its entirety by Tager TV, the campus cable system.

Students can catch the show on channel 47 of on-campus televisions. Though an ending date has not been determined for the broadcast, all episodes of the first season are airing back-to-back continuously, said Deana Muirheid, manager of media production support services.

Muirheid said it is great to be able to showcase student-produced programming, such as "Southern Comforts," on the campus channels.

Andrea Vasilio, a 2006 graduate of the radio-TV-film department, said the show has been aired on campus television before.

"The show has been shown on the National Lampoon network on the TCU campus — channel 46," Vasilio said.

RTVF students began filming "Southern Comforts" in February 2006.

Since then, the show has received several awards, including an honorable mention for television at the National Accolade Competition in 2006.

The competition recognizes professionals who demonstrate outstanding work, along with creativity in the fields of film, video, television and commercials, according to the radio-TV-film Web site.

Richard Allen, associate professor of RTVF, said winning this award was a big honor for the students involved.

"These awards are very significant to our department and students," Allen said. "The judging standards are high, and winning means the craft exhibited by your entry is outstanding and

See SOAPS, page 2

WEATHER
TODAY: Showers, 43/33
FRIDAY: Light Rain, 37/30
SATURDAY: Light Wintry Mix, 35/30

PECULIAR FACT

Nelsonville, Ohio: Two boys walked out of an unlocked juvenile detention home and took an early morning joy ride on a train, until authorities tracked them down. — Associated Press

TODAY'S HEADLINES

NEWS: Professor sees purple, thinks green, page 4
OPINION: Oops! Spears did it again, page 3
SPORTS: Track and Field runs into hurdle, page 6

CONTACT US

Send your questions, compliments, complaints and hot tips to the staff at NEWS2SKIFF@TCU.EDU

THEATRE

From page 1

"I would love to see a 20-year-old woman do a monologue followed by a professor," Nordeen said. "I would even love the Deco Deli ladies to be a part of it. All women should spread the message of being a proud woman.

They shouldn't be shameful. It should be an unconditional pride."

"The Vagina Monologues" will consist of comedic and dramatic individual and group pieces based on women's stories and experiences of mystery, humor, pain, power, wisdom, outrage and excitement.

"It spreads a message that's cathartic," Nordeen said. "The show contains mature themes but it is not for the shock factor."

Both men and women can help usher, sell tickets and help with the "V-Week" activities. Men cannot be in the show.

"Having more men involved conveys a stronger message," Nordeen said. "Men are apart of our lives and need to be a part of this too."

PC

From page 1

"It definitely was not meant to threaten PC," Arnold said. "I know that I supported it because it gave me more power as treasurer — it didn't bind me to having to do that 50 percent. I don't think it is a threat at all."

In any case, Chapman and PC Vice Chair Aaron Wolfe maintained that no matter the outcome, they will continue to put on a variety of events for the student body.

"We just want to be able to always provide quality events that students enjoy and not make people pay," Wolfe said. "That's our big concern."

SENIOR

From page 1

Seniors can nominate faculty members to attend the professional etiquette dinner Saturday night. The most nominated faculty honorees will dine with students as they learn lessons on self-presentation and table manners.

Speakers will also address whether graduate school is a good idea for certain majors.

"Part of what the conference will do," Hickman said, "is help students understand that, depending on your major, you may or may not need to go to graduate school."

SOAPS

From page 1

above other productions."

RTVF majors produced the show as part of class curriculum and were responsible for all aspects, Allen said.

Doing this helped prepare them for after graduation, he said.

"We do this because it is a great way for students to prepare for this type of work for when they graduate and pursue their careers," Allen said. "It is great to see the improvements made in the show, from the acting, to the writing and directing as more episodes are made by the students."

SNOW

From page 1

Bret Butler, a freshman interior design major, said he did not know classes were canceled until he was halfway to his Topics in Math class.

"I didn't even know it was snowing until I got downstairs," Butler said.

He said he had a feeling classes were canceled but decided to get up and go anyway. He said he was really excited classes were canceled and he could go back to sleep.

A few snow angels and snowmen also popped up around campus.

"After I'm done with Bartholomew Augustus the Snowman," said Ricky Anderson II, a freshman radio-TV-film major, "I'm going to go inside and get some hot chocolate."

Anderson said he had been outside playing for an hour, and that Wednesday was his first real snow day, since he comes from Houston.

In The Main, Carolyn Isbell, a freshman athletic training major, said, "I'm going to go make snow angels on the football field, again."

She said she was very excited because, being from Arizona, she has never experienced snow.

While students were either sleeping or playing, Physical Plant employees were out making sure the TCU grounds were safe. All of the groundskeepers were required to come to work Wednesday.

Groundskeeper Thomas Seidl said he had been outside since 7 a.m. putting sand on steps and sidewalks to melt the ice. He said there was no known damage from the weather.

"We didn't know we were going to get this much," Seidl said. "It caught everyone by surprise."

Seidl said he thinks the weather is going to get worse in the next few days because the snow will be melting yet temperatures will remain below freezing.

Snow accumulated to 1 to 2 inches Wednesday, and the sun won't shine through the cloudy skies until Tuesday, according to the National Weather Service.

Temperatures will remain in the 30s until Sunday with chances of light freezing rain each morning and night and light rain each afternoon, according to the weather service.

Will Stallworth, associate vice chancellor for facilities, did not return multiple phone calls requesting information about the weather's effect on the campus. Employees answering the phone at the physical plant said they were instructed to not answer questions for the Skiff.

CRIME

From page 1

residence of an unidentified female TCU student at about 2 a.m. Tuesday. Officers found screens removed from windows of the home. The incident prompted TCU Police to send out the e-mail alert on Tuesday.

Early Wednesday morning, the student called Fort Worth police again when she thought a prowler was on her property, said officer Charles Gonzalez. Gonzalez said the woman told police an unidentified person rang her doorbell and shone a flashlight in the back door.

Officers investigated the property on both incidents and found no other evidence, Gonzalez said.

Fort Worth police Sgt. J.J. Perez said, "This could be a lot of other things than somebody trying to do harm."

The student said it was too dark to get a description of the man she saw in her yard, Perez said.

TRAFFIC TICKETS

Defended in Fort Worth, Arlington, Richland Hills, Benbrook, Crowley, Hurst, Euless, Grapevine, and elsewhere in Tarrant County.

- No promises as to results.
- Any fine and any court costs are not included in fee for legal representation.

James R. Mallory
Attorney at Law

3024 Sandage Ave.
Fort Worth, TX 76109-1793
817.924.3236

www.JamesMallory.com

MAT CUT WHILE YOU WAIT.

- Diplomas •Prints
- Dry Mounting •Jerseys
- Matboard
- Custom Stretched Canvas

3515 Bluebonnet Circle
Tue-Sat 10-6
817.927.9990
villaframing.com

NOT YOUR AVERAGE SUNDAY.

GET UP TO A $10,000 ENLISTMENT BONUS IF YOU QUALIFY

Army National Guard chaplains provide spiritual guidance to soldiers at critical times. Call or visit our Web site to learn more.

1-800-GO-GUARD
www.1-800-GO-GUARD.com

Don't Procrastinate

Business School applicants must pass Excel, PowerPoint, and Word

For more information, contact the Neeley Student Resource Center (817)257-5220

The Microsoft Certification Center is available to anyone who wants to take Microsoft Access, Excel, Outlook, PowerPoint, and Word exams.

I work. Therefore, eye strain.

Eye strain from computer use is the number one complaint of office workers. Talk to your eyecare professional about computer eyewear to help prevent eye strain.

The Vision Council of America recommends regular eye exams for you and your family to ensure healthy vision.

www.checkyoureye.com

FORT WORTH, TX

FUN PATIO! ★ FAMOUS MARGARITAS

HAPPY HOUR • Mon-Fri 4pm-7pm

$1.50 DRAFTS • $4.50 MARGARITAS
$2.50 WELLS • 99¢ TACOS

YOUR STOCK SHOW & RODEO HEADQUARTERS!

WWW.CHIMYS.COM

Open Monday - Saturday 11am - 12am • Kitchen closes at 10 pm

Tucked Away Between The Foch St. Warehouses in Fort Worth's Historical Culture District.

1053 FOCH ST. • 817.348.8888

NOW HIRING

Cocktail Waitresses • Bartenders
Line Cooks • Door Guys

TCU DAILY SKIFF
TCU Box 298050, Fort Worth, TX 76129
Phone: (817) 257-7428 Fax: (817) 257-7133
E-mail: news2skiff@tcu.edu

Editor in Chief: Adrienne Lang
Managing Editor: John-Laurent Tronche
Associate Editor: Leslie Honey
Copy Desk Chief: Michael Dodd
News Editors: Andrew Chavez, Aly Fleet

Opinion Editor: Lindsey Bever
Sports Editor: Marcus Murphree
Features Editor: Amber Parzher
Photo Editor: Billy Wessels
Design Editor: Michelle Thomas

Advertising Manager: Natalie Haines
Student Publications Director: Robert Bohler
Business Manager: Betsy Faulk
Production Manager: Vicki Whistler
Director, Schiefel School: Tommy Thomason

The TCU Daily Skiff is an official student publication of Texas Christian University, published by students of TCU and approved by the University Board of Trustees. It operates under the policies of the Student Publications Committee, a component of representation from the student body, staff, faculty and administration. The Skiff is published Tuesday through Friday during fall and spring semesters except from week and holidays. The Skiff is a member of the Associated Press.

Circulation: 6,000
Subscription: Call 257-6214. Rates are $30 per semester.
Location: Moody Building South, Room 251
2005 circulation: Over 100,000 copies.
On-campus distribution: Newsprint is available free on campus. Print one per person. Additional copies are $3.50 and are available at the skiff office.

Web site: www.skiff@tcu.edu
Copyright: All rights to the entire contents of this newspaper shall be the property of the TCU Daily Skiff. No part thereof may be reproduced or used without prior consent of the Student Publications Council. The Skiff does not accept liability for any products and services advertised herein. The Skiff's liability is restricted to the best of our ability to the best of the advertising.

Adm

It seems to be waking up a nightmarish scene to be a lic.

What was direction for stranded in than turning recent troops ca in deeper

Iraq has called for an ing the new lives by fol the bipartisan administrati for the long

The group unheeded b though it of pathway to

Spe wit

Oops! Sh Before th The Web sit printed an a Bringin' Slu

COMMENTARY

Leslie Honey

getting out of her priv The pho a drunk Sp bad girl Pa leave noth nation; yo scar from tion from of her chil and Jayde

After th from hush Spears is f reviews as

The ne has broug one of ma add to her ous past.

The mo Spears cre of her chil beginning reputation almost dro ing a car v front seat wrongly in

Op

Oprah r school call frey Leade Girls in a t ly-on-Klip

COMMENTARY

Ylona Cupry

fireplaces There are china dish forms and well as pl bright col walls.

"These surround beauty do said.

JOHN-LA MARCUS ANDREW

"Man is the only animal that laughs and has a state legislature."
— Samuel Butler

THE SKIFF VIEW

Administration makes bad call

It seems the Bush administration is finally waking up to a situation that is already a nightmare for most Americans. But their most recent solution to the problem doesn't seem to be sitting well with American public.

What was once just a step in the wrong direction for the United States has left us stranded in the wrong direction, and rather than turning around and going back, the recent troop surge is simply digging America in deeper.

Iraq has developed into a lose-lose situation for America, and instead of curtailing the inevitable loss of more American lives by following the recommendations of the bipartisan Iraq Study Group, the Bush administration has decided that we're in it for the long haul.

The group's report seems to have gone unheeded by senior administrators, even though it offered what is the most plausible pathway to an Iraq that may, someday, no longer be a burden for Americans.

This need to minimize the conflict's adverse effects on Americans must also be balanced with a responsibility to help Iraqis recoup from the damage done by America's invasion.

This year alone, 34,000 Iraqis were killed, according to the United Nations. The Iraqi infrastructure is devastated, and the country is in ruin and deteriorating rapidly.

The United States has overstayed its welcome in Iraq, and the country is broken as a result. It appears the Bush administration is now following the adage of "You break it, you buy it."

That's exactly what they're doing, too. We've broken it, and now we're trying to buy it — this time, with another 21,500 American troops.

Eventually, our nation's leaders will just have to accept that Iraq may be broken beyond repair.

News editor Andrew Chavez for the editorial board.

OOOFSPOOF BY ROLF NELSON

Spears won't win respect with sleazy new behavior

Oops! She did it again.

Before the Christmas break, the Web site livejournal.com printed an article titled "She's Bringin' Slutty Back" referring to Britney Spears' wild, new life-style minus a husband, Kevin Federline. By slutty, the headline refers to photographs taken of Spears getting out of a car — photos of her private region.

COMMENTARY

Leslie Honey

The photographs reveal a drunk Spears with fellow bad girl Paris Hilton. They leave nothing to the imagination; you can even see the scar from her cesarean section from the birth of both of her children, Sean Preston and Jayden James.

After the recent divorce from husband Federline, Spears is facing tough reviews as a single mother.

The new spotlight Spears has brought upon herself is one of many bad moves to add to her already-scandalous past.

The motherhood rap Spears created after the birth of her children was just beginning to repair her bad reputation. However, after almost dropping Sean, driving a car with him in the front seat and strapping him wrongly into a car seat, Spears has quite a few mistakes to make up for, especially when they are reviewed by the scandal-crazed media.

This new revelation of partying and panty-dropping will in no way help Spears gain the respect of old fans and the media.

Although Spears didn't intentionally have photos taken of her private area, the mother of two should be adult enough to carefully watch her clothing and underwear choices, especially when she will be entering and exiting a small vehicle for the evening.

The problem is, Spears never intentionally does anything wrong. Problems keep landing on her lap unexpectedly. Being an extremely public figure, Spears should prepare herself for the hunger of the paparazzi and expect them to photograph her.

In a recent interview with Matt Lauer, Spears sobbed that she was just a "normal person." However, 20 hit songs and millions of dollars later, she's more than a normal person.

I almost feel sorry for Spears, but when you throw yourself into the spotlight and expect fame and fortune, having your photo taken everywhere you go becomes part of the job.

Spears should embrace the new journey she has taken by becoming a mother and keep her legs closed. After two children with a wannabe rapper, Spears has had her legs open enough.

Pop star mothers should not be out all night partying with heiresses; they should be at home singing their babies to sleep. If Spears wants to be treated as a respectable mother, she needs to clean up her act and realize the party is over.

Leslie Honey is a senior news-editorial journalism major from Longview.

Appreciate little details

It has always amazed me that some of the world's greatest discoveries were accidentally made by people looking for something else.

Alexander Fleming, for instance, discovered the antibiotic penicillin in 1928 when his neglected bacteria culture got moldy.

In the 1940s, four teenage boys stumbled upon some of the world's oldest cave paintings in Lascaux, France, when they followed their dog into a hole in the ground.

Even Christopher Columbus was just trying to find a faster way to India when he sailed into the Americas.

But even more incredible to me than the significance of these discoveries is the fact that these people took the time to appreciate what they found.

I mean, imagine if those boys had not understood that the paintings in that cave were anything special, and simply found their dog and went home without ever telling anyone what they had seen.

Or what if Fleming had merely glanced at the mold and then thrown the spoiled culture away? Even Columbus could have decided to merely stock up on supplies and keep sailing.

Marcel Proust once said, "The real voyage of discovery consists not in seeking new landscapes but in having new eyes."

In other words, discovery is not about the things you may see, but the way you look at them.

This past fall, I studied at the TCU London Centre and was fortunate enough to see several well-known places, but the most fulfilling experiences came when I abandoned my checklist and took the time to appreciate anything I came across.

For instance, one day, I decided to take a stroll along Fulham Road, a street near my residence hall.

When I set out, my only intention was to see how long it would take to walk to a cinema up the street, and so I let myself randomly stop to read placards, stare at buildings and watch other people enjoying the day.

On that day, I saw several wonderfully designed churches, a Volkswagen Beetle straight out of the 1960s parked between Aston Martins and, my favorite discovery, a placard on a brick wall marking the spot where Beatrix Potter's house once stood.

Everything I saw that day was mundane and easy to overlook, but I remember almost every detail of that day more clearly than when I saw some of London's most famous attractions.

Life can become pretty hectic for college students. As we try to balance academics, socialization and personal health, we become engrossed in checklist schedules.

But the greatest moments in life are unplanned and occur when we allow our eyes to wander to whatever entices them and allow ourselves to appreciate what we see.

This is not to say that we should completely abandon our class schedules to frolic merrily on Sadler Lawn just for the change of scenery, because it is not about new landscapes.

Rather, as we go through our days, we should take time to see everything we see every day from a new perspective.

And who knows, maybe that fruit you left molding on the counter, that one hole you keep tripping over on your way to class, or even that "faster" route you planned to get to the Stockyards will yield greater discoveries and adventures than you ever imagined.

Talia Sampson is a junior news-editorial journalism and international relations major from Moorpark, Calif.

Oprah's $40 million African school for girls too extravagant

Oprah recently built a school called the Oprah Winfrey Leadership Academy for Girls in a town called Henly-on-Klip, 40 miles outside Johannesburg, South Africa, according to Newsweek.

COMMENTARY

Ylona Cupryjak

Included in this school will be a yoga studio, beauty salon, indoor/outdoor theaters and large fireplaces in every building. There are also hand-picked china dishes, mattresses, uniforms and oversized closets, as well as plenty of tribal art and bright colors to decorate the walls.

"These girls deserve to be surrounded by beauty, and beauty does inspire," Oprah said.

And the price tag on this beauty?

It amounts to about $40 million. Fortunately, anyone accepted into Oprah's school is exempt from any tuition or education expenses. The South African government had planned to help in the beginning but pulled out, claiming the school was "too elitist and lavish for such a poor country," according to Newsweek.

Oprah, however, has taken no notice of her critics, and instead, has asked local South African tribes to recommend or nominate girls who show leadership qualities or potential. More than 3,500 girls applied; however, the school only had 152 places available to offer.

Oprah relays the message that children are the future, but does that future also include visions of desirable wealth, western ideals of materialism and knowledge of status power? Does Oprah hope the girls accepted will grow to become international stars or famous leaders who will wipe out all poverty and strife in Africa?

"I wanted to take girls with that 'it' quality and give them an opportunity to make a difference in the world," Oprah said.

But what about those many girls who don't have the "it" quality Oprah is diligently searching for, and instead, are ordinary girls who only have a desire to learn, as well as better themselves and their lives? What about those girls who aren't as outspoken or persistent as Oprah would like, and don't know how to distinguish themselves from the thousands of others? Some girls will be privileged, while others will be left behind, forever knowing only poverty and despondency.

Also, there is the question of spending so much money on the school, yet there are so few spots available for placement. For $40 million, do those African girls really need a yoga studio? Of course, these girls must look at everything Oprah offers in the school with wide-eyed appreciation and delight, which they too can be worthy enough to possess; in contrast, most children in America take for granted the little luxuries they have and are provided with. But Oprah is building her school with an Americanized "eye." These chosen girls are so young, yet they are already noticing the grandeur and possibility of accumulation that is materialism. Couldn't at least some money be spent on making more rooms available so there are more chances for an "it" quality girl to be accepted? Children are the future and deserve the best, but the best of education available to as many as possible should be the top priority.

Now, building a school is a fine achievement, especially in a poor country such as South Africa, where education is but a luxury. Building a $40 million school in Africa, however, with such a low acceptance rate, questionable acceptance qualifications and facilities that seem too frivolous and extravagant for such young girls is a bit overgenerous. Of course, it is very commendable of Oprah to get actively and directly involved with poor African girls and be generously giving with her wealth. She has plenty of desire, passion and vigor when it comes to altruistic donations and working to provide better lives for underprivileged people. But when young girls are suddenly thrust into Oprah's ostentatious and wealthy charity, she has as much the same chance of producing spoiled, visionless consumers obsessed with material wealth and portentous status as grounded, sensible, and intelligent leaders and activists.

But, on the other hand, perhaps it is wise to observe that at least Oprah is taking charge of her vision and doing something productive with all her wealth and power. Her dignified disregard of other's disapproval shows that she won't let her critics, or anyone else, stop her from fulfilling hers and the African girl's dream.

Ylona Cupryjak is a sophomore theatre major from Keller.

JOHN-LAURENT TRONCHE
MARCUS MURPHREE
ANDREW CHAVEZ

LINDSEY BEVER
AMBER PARCHER

Editorial Policy

The content of the Opinion page does not necessarily represent the views of Texas Christian University. The Skiff View editorial represents the view of the TCU Daily Skiff editorial board listed to the left. The Skiff View is the collective opinion of the editorial board and may not reflect the views of the individual writers. Signed letters, columns and cartoons represent the opinion of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the editorial board.

Letters to the editor: The Skiff welcomes letters to the editor for publication. To submit a letter, e-mail it to LETTERS2SKIFF@TCU.EDU. Letters must include the author's classification, major and phone number. Skiff reserves the right to edit or reject letters for style, taste and size restrictions.

Professor sees purple, thinks green

Sociology teacher wants campus more residential

By AUNDRÉA EICHMAN
Staff Reporter

A sociology professor said he is using purple bicycles to preserve the world for future generations.

The Purple Bike Program, which creator Keith Whitworth, sociology professor, said has become nationally renowned, currently has five bikes.

These five original bicycles were purchased with a $4,080 Vision In Action grant.

He said the funds not only go toward the bikes, which are budgeted at $500, including a helmet, lock, and other supplies, but also advertising and marketing for the program and GPS units. Whitworth said he would like each bike to have a GPS unit so they can be tracked and monitored to see where they travel most.

Whitworth said his biggest obstacle with his program is not having enough bikes.

To change that, he has submitted a $60,000 grant for 100 bikes. He ultimately wants 500.

"With 500 bikes, the campus will move more toward becoming more of a residential campus," Whitworth said. "Students, faculty and staff will be constantly reminded

BILLY WESSELS / Photo Editor
Keith Whitworth, sociology professor and creator of the Purple Bike Program, shows off one of five purple bicycles outside of the sociology building. One of his goals for the program, he said, is to improve the environment.

to think 'green' as the purple bikes cruise through the campus."

The goal with the Purple Bike Program, Whitworth said, is to "utilize the resources of today, so we don't have to compromise the resources of future generations."

"Basically, my motivation is my kids," Whitworth said.

"They're the ones having to react to my generation's abuses of our earth and they're going to have to somehow reverse them."

More than 100 students and faculty members signed up last semester to rent a bike for a day or a week. With such a turnout, Whitworth said, he will raffle off names the third week of January to determine who gets to ride a bike.

He said he hopes to purchase more bikes with money received from donations and through ads on the spokes of the bicycle wheels, a "rolling advertisement" for the companies that participate.

Sarah Warner is one of the 60 student volunteers who participate in the program to protect the environment and promote a healthier lifestyle.

"We're not really a generation that rides bikes," said Warner, a junior sociology major. "This is a great way to change that."

The program started as a hands-on project for his Applied Sociology class two years ago, Whitworth said.

Potentially, Whitworth said, he would like freshmen to have the opportunity to purchase a bike for four years at $400, with free monthly maintenance.

Whitworth said he hopes his program also encourages students to bring bikes from home. Free monthly maintenance will extend to them as well, but they won't have the one-of-a-kind purple bike.

"We decided to spend a little extra money on them to make them appealing," Whitworth said.

Whitney Barnard, a junior radio-TV-film and communication studies major, hopes the Purple Bike Program will mean great publicity and a new tradition for TCU.

Whitworth said one of his concerns was that students wouldn't want to wear the helmets provided with the bikes. He said when students rent a bike, they are required to sign a waiver saying they are responsible for the bike and themselves.

Barnard said she would love to ride the bike, but when it came to wearing the helmet, she said, "I don't know if I'd go that far."

Online sign-up for the bikes will be posted soon, and the program will have a formal kickoff in March.

BILLY WESSELS / Photo Editor
Dancers perform one of several Mexican culture pieces at the Fort Worth Stock Show and Rodeo on Jan. 14. The Fort Worth Stock Show and Rodeo runs through Feb. 4.

STOCK SHOW FIESTA

FRIDAY'S EVENTS

Time	Event	Location
8 a.m.	Southwestern llama show	Justin Arena
12 p.m.	Junior heifer sift / registration	Watt Arena
6 p.m.	South central select llama sale	West Arena
7:30 p.m.	World's original indoor rodeo	Coliseum

OFFENSE? DEFENSE.
Daniel L. Young
Attorney at Law
Board Certified Criminal Law Specialist
T.C.U. Alumnus
817-877-3400
DUI, Drug Possession, Assault, Theft, and all other State felonies and misdemeanors
2630 West Freeway, Suite 208 (just east of Poppadeaux)
www.danielyoungattorney.com

#1 CHOICE FOR SPRING BREAK
BRECKENRIDGE
Ski 20 Mountains & 5 Resorts for the Price of 1
Breckenridge Vail Beaver Creek Arapahoe Basin & Keystone
6 Days & 5 Nights of Lodging
4 Day Lift Pass & Non-Stop Parties
1-800-SKI-WILD
www.ubski.com

Pulido's
MEXICAN RESTAURANT
99¢ Margaritas
Friday & Saturday • 6:00PM - 9:00PM
Lunch specials starting at $4.99
Try Saturday & Sunday Breakfast
7:00-11:00AM
2900 Pulido St
817-732-7571

KAPLAN TEST PREP AND ADMISSIONS
Double your MCAT prep—for free!
up to a $1,749 value
Not sure which of the 19 MCAT dates is right for you? Enroll in an MCAT course in January and prepare for any 2007 test date. You'll have unlimited access to online resources and can take a second course—FREE!
Classes begin January 20th at TCU
- and -
February 3rd at the Ft. Worth Kaplan Center
Enroll by January 31st!
1-800-KAP-TEST | kaptest.com/mcat
Higher MCAT score guaranteed or your money back.
KAPLAN STUDENTS RECEIVE UNLIMITED ACCESS TO ALL 8 AACM EXAMS.

This word is way overpriced.

If you didn't buy your textbooks at Half.com, you paid too much. Half.com has all the textbooks you need like chemistry, astronomy and history for a lot less. FOR A LIMITED TIME, SAVE AN ADDITIONAL $5 ON PURCHASES OF $50 OR MORE. SIMPLY USE THIS CODE: SAVEBIGNOW

half.com
by eBay

The Quigm
"I ate th and I pick
The Quigm
"Do you lik
HOO
LOV
In
Mon. We Thurs. • Fu Full 15 an 1/2 Price Nights Offer BY 1406 817 BYBL Now acc for

TODAY IN HISTORY
1912: After a two-month ordeal, the expedition of British explorer Robert Falcon Scott arrives at the South Pole only to find that Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, had preceded him by just over a month.

WORTH A LAUGH — BUT ONLY ONE

Q: What do you call 10 rabbits marching backward?

A: A receding hare line.

The Quigmans

by Buddy Hickerson

"I ate that 'Give a Hoot, Don't Pollute' owl, and I picked my teeth with his little protest sign."

The Quigmans

by Buddy Hickerson

"Do you like my makeover? I switched to high-def."

SUDOKU PUZZLE

Sponsored by:

MEN'S BASKETBALL SATURDAY AGAINST UNLV AT 7:00 PM
COACH DOUGHERTY SHOW AT THE ORIGINAL MEXICAN EATS ON CAMP BOWIE BLVD 7-8 PM AND ON 88.7 KTCU

5								2
	1		6			5
3	4					7		8
		3	7		1	4
		6				9
		8	6		4	2
8	5					6		7
		9		5		1
1								9

Directions

Fill in the grid so that every 3x3 box, row and column contains the digits 1 through 9 without repeating numbers.

See Friday's paper for answers to today's sudoku.

2	1	9	5	6	7	8	4	3
4	6	7	3	2	8	5	1	9
5	8	3	1	9	4	7	6	2
3	9	6	8	5	2	4	7	1
1	5	4	7	3	6	9	2	8
7	2	8	9	4	1	3	5	6
6	3	5	4	1	9	2	8	7
9	7	1	2	8	5	6	3	4
8	4	2	6	7	3	1	9	5

GET TIPS AND MORE SOLUTIONS AT WWW.SUDOKU.COM

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

Sponsored by:

Gear Up For Spring Break

COLONEL'S Bicycles 10% OFF PARTS AND ACCESSORIES WITH TCU ID
 www.colonelsbikes.com 3021 S. University Blvd. (817)924-1333

ACROSS
 1 Lose vibrancy
 5 Punta del
 9 Skiers' rde
 14 Mythical monster
 15 Van Halen or Trebek
 16 Ins and outs
 17 Equipment
 18 Occupancy fee
 19 Mongol tents
 20 Start of a motto
 23 Environmental prefix
 24 Double-croser
 25 Mel of the Polo Grounds
 26 Spotted
 29 Sentence structure
 31 Double Lill
 32 Bullets, briefly
 33 Air circulator
 34 Cartoonist Silverstein
 35 Pork cut
 36 Part 2 of motto
 39 Actor Estrada

DOWN
 1 Old-fashioned folk
 2 Part of 54D

By Barry Silk, McLean, VA 1/18/07

Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

RATIO RECAP PRUNE
 ULNA ARUBA ONER
 EASY ELLAS ALTA
 CONROGITHEDOTS
 CALER EAR ALE
 ORE ASHER NADER
 ATND DIL PER
 LETOPFBOMESTEAM
 NIA POT ENE
 SBEAR AEDS TOM
 HIR SAM SPIRO
 ONESTEPATATIME
 PURE SEDER FAXI
 PELT ORATE OTIS
 ETES PERED NEAR

- 3 Mosquito eaters
- 4 Saarinen of Finland
- 5 Aural buildup
- 6 icy forecast
- 7 Campsite sight
- 8 No wallflower
- 9 Lovers' secret meeting
- 10 Boxing match
- 11 4 of dates
- 12 Part of AAAP
- 13 Sound of a leak
- 21 Unclogging product
- 22 Water, elec. etc.
- 26 1961 hit by the Corsairs
- 27 Nice girlfriend
- 28 Came out on top
- 30 Discussions
- 31 French deer
- 32 Warning signal
- 34 Home to the Philadelphia Athletics
- 36 Like the Sahara
- 37 Second prime
- 38 Banjo sound
- 39 Threshold
- 44 Proverb
- 45 Computer's computer
- 46 Allen and Coen
- 48 Sharpens
- 49 Unadorned
- 51 Skedaddled
- 52 Nondairy spread
- 53 Barrett of Hollywood
- 54 See 20A, 36A and 51A
- 55 Moreover
- 56 Perce

DAILY SKIFF.COM

Serving Texas Christian University Since 1902

Check out the classifieds • Get your latest news and sports • Find out what everybody thinks

HOOKAH LOUNGE
 In Ft. Worth
 Mon - Wed: Open until 11:00pm
 Thurs - Fri - Sat: open until 2:00am
 Full Service Bar
 18 and over welcome
 1/2 Price Hookah Wed Nights w/ TCU ID
 Offer expires May 2007
BYBLOS
 1406 N MAIN ST
 817 625 9667
 BYBLOSTX.COM
 Now accepting applications for employment.

EL DISEÑO PRESENTS
A FILM BY ALMODÓVAR
"ONE OF ALMODÓVAR'S AND THE YEAR'S BEST. ENOUGH SAID."
 -Peter Travers, ROLLING STONE
"A TERRIFIC MOVIE! A TRIUMPH!"
 -Glenn Kenny, PREMIERE MAGAZINE
VOLVER
 PENÉLOPE CRUZ
 WRITTEN AND DIRECTED BY PEDRO ALMODÓVAR
 SONY PICTURES CLASSICS
 VIEW THE TRAILER AT WWW.VOLVERFILM.COM
magnolia at The Modern

January 19-21 AND 26-28
 Fri 6 & 8:15 pm, Sat 5 pm, Sun 2 & 4:15 pm
 tickets $7.50 members $5.50
 817.738.9215 www.themodern.org
 Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth
 3200 Darnell St, Fort Worth 76107

Spring Break Trips
 Acapulco • Cabo • Las Vegas
 Disney • Daytona Beach
 FROM $399
 www.studenttravelamerica.com
 800-235-TRIP

TCU DAILY SKIFF 35c PER WORD PER DAY
 45c PER BOLD WORD PER DAY
 www.tcdailykiff.com/classifieds TO PLACE YOUR AD

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED
GOURMET COFFEE WITH ATTITUDE
 Stop paying outrageous prices for that overrated coffee brand. Form your own VIP Coffee Club. Earn nice commissions while enjoying really delicious coffee. No upfront cost. No monthly obligation. Contact LJWelsh@RabbitsRunJava.com for details. 817.234.5200

~ SMOOTHIE STORE ~
 Needed: Motivated person to work full/part time in a retail environment. Knowledge of Nutritional supplements a PLUS. Great pay, fun environment! call Casey: 972.322.7793

SEASONAL WORK Jobs available promoting biodiesel at the 95.9 RANCH booth during the Ft. Worth Stock Show. Flexible hours January 12 - February 4. Contact Heather at hgcoyburn@yahoo.com 817.565.5660

WEBMASTER / INTERNET MARKETING preferred skills html, SEO, php, linkbuilding, $15 hr set your schedule, email inquiries to sfletcher@applebc.com

TUTOR FOR 3RD GRADER Well behaved 3rd grader needs wants to turn B's into A's needs help with flashcards / review homework 3 days per week. email stevesemailbox@yahoo.com 817.626.5907

PERSONAL ASSISTANT NEEDED!

time assistant to run errands, make phone calls and handle projects. Lives just two minutes from campus! Call 817-560-6119 or email resume to: bferris@imgweb.com 817.560.6119

EXEC. ASSISTANT - ARLINGTON
 20-25 hours per week, flexible M-F, 9-6 PM, $10.00 per hour. Professional, organized, and dependable. Duties include clerical and miscellaneous tasks to assist the president of Arlington film production company. Excellent opportunity for business admin., marketing or public relations student. Must be available to work for at least one year. Fax resume to (817) 795-1132.

BARTENDER APPRENTICE WANTED. Showdown Saloon, 4907 Camp Bowie Blvd. 817.233.5430

BABYSITTERS $10+
 Set your own hours. References required. Call J. Vienyard 817.944.3153

PART-TIME NANNY
 Part-time nanny needed near downtown asap. Flexible schedule, approximately 20 hours/ week. References required. Please email resume to: auruhart@gmail.com

FOR SALE
SUBARU IMPREZA 2.5 RS 2000
 82K PW PDI. PS AWD AC new r.dif nice www.oblivion.net/~nemo/ subaru/ $8250 OBO 817.584.4695

ONLINE ENERGY DRINK SALES!

drink on the internet! Get paid DAILY to drink healthy energy drinks! 972.358.5169

FURNITURE SALE Selling: Dining table (medium oak finish) 6 chairs $75; desk, computer desk, shelf, matching file cabinet (maple) $150; glider & ottoman $50; buffet table (walnut) $50; Mexican serving table-wine rack $50; black wood 2-file cabinet $30; E-mail me at mwindsor@loewarren.com for info & photos or call Mike Windsor at 817-377-0060.

FOR RENT
NEW TOWNHOME! 3/2/1 1600sf $995 817.300.6777

FOR SALE
3 BEDROOM 2 BATH 2 BLOCKS AWAY Total renovation all bedrooms w/private entrance. 314.568.1513

SERVICES
MY DOMESTIC DIVA Aromatherapy housecleaning, lifestyle management and errand service. www.mydomesticdiva.com 817.597.5964

Failed, failed, failed.
 And then...
PERSISTENCE
 Pass It On.
 THE FOUNDATION FOR A BETTER LIFE
 www.forbetterlife.org

FROG BALL

See how the Frogs handled the Colorado State Rams on tcdailyskiff.com.

Weather puts practices on hold

By MARCUS MURPHREE
Sports Editor

Weather may not only be affecting the classrooms at TCU; the Flying Frogs are having trouble scheduling their practices, the track and field head coach said.

"It's 27 degrees, and we have to take our time with what the weather is doing," said head coach Darryl Anderson. "I told the kids to run on their own in the Rec Center."

Two members of the team who were continuing their training this week were shot put and discus throwers, freshman Trey Jordan and sophomore Tommy Killem.

Both Killem and Jordan were working on their throwing techniques in the hallway of Daniel-Meyer Coliseum Monday afternoon. Jordan won first place in the shot put at the Arkansas Invitational on Jan. 13—his first collegiate competition.

"My distance was 54 feet, 11.5 inches, and I threw against 16 other people," Jordan said.

Jordan said preparation for the outdoor season tends to be Anderson's main focus at this point in the year.

"My goal is to peak at the outdoor conference meet, and coach Anderson works us to be an outdoor team," Jordan said.

Though only jumpers and throwers won events at the meet, Anderson was still pleased with the team's performance as a whole.

"We got out to as fast a start as we'd like to with getting back from Christmas Break," Anderson said.

Anderson is looking further down the road at the Mountain West Conference Indoor Championships set to take place Feb. 23 and 24 in Albuquerque, N.M.

SKIFF ARCHIVES
Calandra Stewart, senior distance runner, finished in sixth place in the Women's 3,000 Meter at the Arkansas Invitational on Jan. 13.

"We'll see how we manage in the next five weeks," Anderson said.

The early parts of the seasonal training rely not only on getting back in shape but building team chemistry, Anderson said.

"We just got back on Monday before the meet, and we needed to get the competitive juices flowing," Anderson said. "I was glad to get on the bus and travel as a team together and warm up as a team."

Other Flying Frog notables from the Arkansas Invitational are men's triple-jump winner Jonathan Jackson, a junior, and women's shot put winner Candice Kelley, a sophomore. Senior distance runner McKale Davis took second place in the women's 3,000-meter race.

Director: Student attendance low

By MICHELLE NICOUD
Staff Reporter

Student attendance at college sporting events around the country is dropping, and TCU is no exception, an athletic administrator said.

Scott Kull, associate athletic director for external operations, said the size of the average basketball crowd at Daniel-Meyer Coliseum is 3,000 to 4,000 people, most of whom are young children and their parents.

Despite the Lady Frogs' 13-4 record and reaching No. 23 in the ESPN/USA Today coaches' poll and the men's team sitting at 10-5, Kull said students are not making the trip out to Daniel-Meyer Coliseum on game days.

The majority of basketball tickets sold go to large groups of children from the surrounding area, Kull said.

"We go after those groups that really show an interest in basketball," he said. "This year, we've really tried to go into smaller communities, like Aledo and Burleson and towns like that, to try to gain support for our basketball programs."

Christian Smith, a sophomore theatre major, said he doesn't go to games because he thinks they are not publicized enough.

"(They are) not advertised very well," Smith said. "For the football games, there's advertisements all over TCU. There's messages over the phone, but for basketball games, there's nothing like that."

Freshman nursing major Diana Singer agreed more advertising would help fill the seats, especially because game days are not the same week after week. She also suggested featuring halftime concerts to draw in more students.

"They just don't advertise very much," Singer said. "Is it on a set day? Football games are always on Saturday. If they had halftime shows or sell T-shirts for a certain game, or have a certain person performing, I'd be more likely to go."

On game days, Kull said members of the athletic department place signs along campus walkways and intersections.

Past promotions, such as T-Shirts, have not increased attendance, Kull said.

Jack Hesselbrock, associate athletic director for internal relations, said it can be difficult for students to get involved because TCU has only been in the Mountain West Conference for two seasons, and no rivalries have emerged yet.

"Some of the teams that we're playing, people haven't really grown accustomed to yet," Hesselbrock said. "When you say TCU-SMU, everybody kind of goes 'grrrr'; When you say TCU-Wyoming, they go 'OK.'"

The student section, the band, the cheerleaders and the Showgirls all work together to bring a competitive and supportive atmosphere to the floor, Hesselbrock said.

"There's just a difference with the cheerleaders, the Showgirls, the band and the student section full," he said. "That's what the arena is supposed to be like."

Members of the women's basketball team could not be reached for comment due to their travel schedule. Members of the men's basketball team declined to comment.

The Frogs' next home game is against the UNLV Rebels at 7 p.m. Saturday in the coliseum.

TOP 3 ATTENDED BASKETBALL GAMES OF 2006-07 SEASON

Opponent	Men's Basketball Attendance
Texas Tech	5,438
SMU	3,987
New Mexico	2,284

Opponent	Women's Attendance
Florida	2,359
Colorado State	2,334
SMU	2,284

GOFROGS.COM

LAST DAY FOR THE SHUTTLE SERVICE
FROM SANDAGE LOT TO BOOKSTORE

9AM to 5PM

REFUNDS WILL BE GIVEN THROUGH THE 24TH

EST. 1902
Da
Members of TCU
a Spring perfo
auditioning fo
Scholarship th
80 students an
of up to $10,0
Prog
to g stud
by in
By MICHAEL
Staff Reporte
Soon, up
be able to new on-car
gram that with stude
ests.
TCU Re
will laun
ing Comm
February
The pro
students t est they students a
the same
dence hall
The na
gram is s who have niche at T
ty to lay a within the Allen, dire
services.
Stephan
director and Jarvis
LLC prog
students'
riences.
The pro
the studen and their o
pus in gen
The LL
build on Boschini's program w
a "richer r
nity and r
ment to heritage,"
VIA Web
"We wa
atmosph
dents can have lear
apply the ment whic
tual stimu
"The LLC
to further residence
Allen s at TCU p
used to n
Learning
incoming er, the p
be availa
seniors.
Linda
and chair
departme
like the L
the TCU o
See