

12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30	31
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20

NEWS
The plus/minus system inches closer to finalization.
TOMORROW

FEATURES
We have your full guide to the Oscars.
FRIDAY

SPORTS
The Lady Frogs try to extend their home-winning streak to 20 games.
PAGE 6

TCU DAILY SKIFF

THURSDAY
February 22, 2007
Vol. 104 Issue 78

EST. 1902

WWW.DAILYSKIFF.COM

Police discover two suspects in string of vandalism crimes

By ASHER FOGLE
Staff Reporter

TCU Police have identified a group of teenagers they say are responsible for $20,000 worth of theft and vandalism on campus over the last three years. A group of 14- to 15-year-old boys from the TCU area have been linked to several incidents with damage totaling about $20,000, according to police estimates. The total includes the Dec. 28, 2006, vandalism of a campus bus stop and a radio-tv-film department truck windshield that caused about $10,000 worth of damage, TCU Police Sgt. Kelly Ham said. Police received a tip Tuesday from Crime Stoppers concerning potentially stolen TCU property in the creek behind Colonial Parkway, Ham said. Ham said the property was located behind the home of one of the suspects. He also said police have connected the events through interviews with the suspects and conversations with their parents. At press time, he did not know the exact number of people involved in the vandalism but said some of the suspects have admitted to the crimes. "They were basically coming over every weekend after midnight and vandalizing — nuisance types of crimes," Ham said. "But, as you can see, they elevated over the last year to where they got very, very destructive." The earliest reported incident was a January 2004 fire in a construction dumpster behind Amon Carter Stadium, he said. The fire also spread to the side of the football team's equipment trailer, causing about $8,000 of damage, said Ross Bailey, associate athletics director. The suspects, Ham said, also admitted to the November 2006 theft of a bicycle from the freshman parking lot and the vandalism of a golf cart in the overflow parking lot. This past weekend, Ham said, the boys stole concession stand items from the football stadium and poured liquid cleaner on new countertops, causing damage to the surfaces.

Legal charges in the case are pending while the investigation continues, he said, but the families involved are willing to make financial restitution for the damage and have assured police this kind of behavior will not repeat itself. "These are not gang members; these are average academic students, freshmen at Paschal High School," Ham said.

Residential policy gives 24-hr visitor flexibility

By SONYA CISNEROS
Staff Reporter

This is the real world — almost.

In an effort to make living on campus more reflective of life outside TCU, the new residence halls will have a 24-hour visitation policy, an administrator said.

The visitation policy was adopted after considering the maturity level and social and study habits of students, said Craig Allen, director of residential services.

Allen emphasized that the visitation policy will allow visitors, not additional roommates, and said administrators aren't endorsing intimate relationships with live-in partners.

Allen said some parents have voiced concerns about the policy. He referred to an e-mail from a parent concerned that TCU, being a Christian university, was sending a bad message.

Terry Pollard, a parent of an incoming freshman, disagreed. Pollard said she doesn't have a problem with the policy as she had 24-hour visitation when she was a student at the University of Texas at Austin.

She said students are old enough to make their own decisions, and that college is the time parents must trust their children to make good choices.

Dan Lienemann, a resident assistant in the Tom Brown-Pete Wright Residential Community, said there haven't been many problems in the on-campus apartments, which have a 24-hour visitation policy, and therefore doesn't foresee any problems in the new buildings.

Allen said the policy will require different methods of enforcement, but won't be any more difficult than enforcing rules in other residence halls.

The resident assistants will have to work harder to get to know each of their residents so they can be sure of who lives in the building and who doesn't, Allen said.

He said aside from observation, the only way a resident assistant will know of someone violating the visitation policy is if a resident tells them.

The policy states that students who have visitors staying in their rooms for more than two consecutive days will have to get approval from their hall director.

Lienemann said most of the time, if there's an issue with visitors overstaying their welcome, a roommate

See DORMS, page 2

ALUMS IN TOYLAND

Scott Kuehn, class of '91, and his wife, Julie, class of '94, show their award-winning board game Looney Laundry. The game was originally created as an ice-breaker for Scott's involvement with Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

Alumni couple creates award-winning game, 'Looney Laundry;' game sells in toy stores including Toys 'R' Us, FAO Schwarz

By JOHN BOLLER
Staff Reporter

During the week, TCU alumni Scott and Julie Kuehn are an ordinary married couple, but on weekends and evenings, they are board game entrepreneurs.

Scott Kuehn graduated from TCU in 1991, and Julie Kuehn graduated in 1994 — both of whom were radio-TV-film majors, Scott Kuehn said.

Scott Kuehn first created his game, "Looney Laundry," as an ice-breaker for his involvement with Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

"I was thinking of ideas to make the children feel more comfortable," Kuehn said. "It made sense, and the kids loved it."

When Kuehn saw that children enjoyed the game, he sent his idea to Grand Prix International to produce a Looney Laundry prototype.

"We produced 5,000 games for the Kuehns," said Michael Fisher, president of Grand Prix International. "We try to make the product as inexpensive as we can. We just create their idea, they go and sell it."

The Kuehns created their own Web site, bluebonnet-games.com, and soon thereafter, retailers would come knocking on their door. "Where this was going at that time, I had no idea," Kuehn said. "I felt like I had a strong idea and something that no one else had."

In the first 11 months, more than 1,000 "Looney Laundry" games had

See GAME, page 2

FOR YOUR INFO

You can read or buy "Looney Laundry" and "Toss-a-Chore" at bluebonnet-games.com.

Police statistics indicate fences decreasing crime

By ASHER FOGLE
Staff Reporter

Although construction of new fences around campus has decreased the number of vehicle burglaries in many parking lots, according to TCU Police data, additional methods are being implemented in other areas where crime remains frequent.

TCU Police statistics indicate that fences on campus have made parking lots safer, significantly decreasing the total number of vehicle burglaries, yet crime in certain areas is consistently high.

Fences around the formerly higher-crime area of Worth Hills have made access harder for thieves and there has been a drastic decline in burglaries since construction, said TCU Police Sgt. Kelly Ham.

During the 2005-2006 school year, there were 10 burglaries of vehicles in Worth Hills, according to TCU Police crime statistics.

A fence along Berry Street was completed during the fall semester, and two incidents of burglary have

See FENCE, page 2

SAEROM YOO / Staff Photographer

A car is shown leaving the fenced-in parking lot on the south side of the University Recreation Center. TCU Police data shows that there has been a decrease in the total number of vehicle burglaries since the creation of fences like this one.

AddRan looks to hire faculty member to teach Chinese

By MICHAEL BOU-NACKLIE
Staff Reporter

An upcoming Chinese program might grow with support from other departments.

TCU currently only offers one Chinese course, but the course is being taught in English with an emphasis on culture solely. Sharon Fairchild, dean of the department of modern languages, said the AddRan College of Humanities and Social Sciences hopes to add an actual language component to the curriculum.

The Chinese culture and civilization course is important because it can't be taught like mathematics, Fairchild said.

"You need to learn about the culture and the other elements which make up the language," she said.

Currently, six students are enrolled in the Chinese Culture and Civilization course.

Fairchild said the department is working on a proposition to add a full-time faculty member to teach Chinese.

"We would also hope that with a new Chinese program, we would have other departments that would send us their students, such as political science or the ROTC program," Fairchild said. "Especially, since the state department is pushing for students to learn new languages."

Adding a Chinese language course could benefit the Asian studies minor, which political science professor Carrie Currier became the chairwoman of in November.

"The Asian studies minor has been around for 10 years, but it hasn't been widely publicized," Currier said. "Those of us who are interested in China felt it was necessary to have a Chinese language course."

Currier also said that in her research of Chinese programs nationwide, TCU was one of the few institutions that did not offer Chinese as a course.

"Even Paschal High School has adopted Chinese into their curriculum, so recommending it as a language course was a natural choice," Currier said.

Currier also said a Chinese program would aid in developing a study abroad program in China because learning a language is the first step in developing an interest in a region.

Ann Vu, president of the Asian Students Association, said having a more diverse language program would make TCU more appealing to a more diverse group of students.

"TCU already has a lot of classes about China and the economy," said Vu, a senior biology major. "A Chinese course makes sense."

WEATHER
TODAY: Mostly sunny, 76/55
FRIDAY: Few Showers, 70/60
SATURDAY: T-Storms, 67/45

PECULIAR FACT
MILAN, Italy — A man is suspected of hiding his dead father in a freezer for two years so that he could continue to collect the old man's pension.
— Reuters

TODAY'S HEADLINES
NEWS: Admissions staff learns Spanish, page 4
OPINION: No-smoking rule wrong, page 3
SPORTS: Learn about Caleb Bulls, page 6

CONTACT US
Send your questions, compliments, complaints and hot tips to the staff at NEWS2SKIFF@TCU.EDU

FENCE

From page 1

been reported this academic year in both lots closest to the football stadium, which will soon also be fenced in, Ham said.

He said the fences are effective because "crooks don't like to be bottled in."

"We can trap them, and that's exactly what's happened," Ham said. "That's why we've been able to make so many arrests in there and in the other parking lots."

TCU Police have arrested nine separate groups during the 2006-2007 school year that were related to burglary of a motor vehicle, Ham said.

Gates across the Cantey

Street exit have made it easier for TCU Police to arrest suspects in the freshman lot.

"If we get a call that there's somebody snooping around in there, all the officers have to do is block Frog Alley and then send another car in there," Ham said. "And they're either going to have to abandon their vehicle and run on foot — make it a foot chase — or we've got them."

Despite the increase in arrests, police statistics do not show a decline in the number of burglaries of vehicles in the freshman and overflow parking lots when compared to the previous year.

During the 2005-2006 academic year, 17 thefts occurred in the two lots, and 18 burglaries have been reported since August 2006.

TCU Police will install several cameras during Spring Break to monitor the license plates of cars entering parking lots around the coliseum and football stadium, which will assist in apprehending suspects, Ham said.

Mikey Bernick, a junior accounting and finance major, lives in Tomlinson Hall in Worth Hills.

Although he believes burglaries have decreased because of the fences, he said he wishes residents had access through the gate at the Berry Street entrance.

"It's just annoying when you are trying to get home," said Bernick, the president of Kappa Sigma. "I like the fence idea, but

FOR YOUR INFO

Parking Lot	August 2005 - 2006	August 2006 - February 2007
Worth Hills incidents	10	2
Freshman and Overflow incidents	17	18

the gate I don't agree with."

Chari Perkins, the head resident assistant of Wiggins Hall, said that TCU Police informed her on several occasions last year when residents' vehicles were burglarized.

She said she does not know of any Wiggins Hall residents who have been burglarized this year.

"I feel that crime has definitely gone down," said Perkins, a senior marketing major. "Driving around is a change to get used to, but to me it isn't a big deal."

In addition to other security measures, fences have been installed around several new parking lots, such as the one on Sandage Avenue.

Ham said the university is trying to make all parking lots "very difficult for the bad guys to get in there and do something they shouldn't."

"When you work for a police department for a university, you're constantly fighting that battle between access for the students and security for the students," Ham said. "You want the students to have easy access, but you don't want the bad guys to. So you've got to have that fine balance."

GAME

From page 1

been sold. Soon, 43 retailers were selling "Looney Laundry" in their stores, as well as appearing on gaming-industry Web sites.

"I first agreed to sell the game in my store because the creator was a local Texan," said Sandy Challinor, owner of The Owl's Nest in Southlake.

"When we tested the game on kids, we were very pleased with the results and confident that 'Looney Laundry' would sell," Challinor said.

Toys 'R' Us and FAO Schwarz were selling "Looney Laundry" on their Web sites, which would eventually lead to Creative Child Magazine naming the game as the recipient of its Preferred Choice Award in 2006.

"The game is a fresh, humorous look at laundry that will appeal to boys and girls aged 5 to 9," according to an article published in Creative Child Magazine.

Recently, "Looney Laundry" was entered into the American International Toy Fair competition in New York City. The competition was Feb. 11 through Feb. 14, according to the Toy Industry Association's Web site.

This is the largest trade show in the Western Hemisphere according to the Toy Industry Association's Web site.

More than 1,500 manufacturers, distributors, importers and sales agents from 30 countries showcase their toy and entertainment products.

"I am optimistic that we will get positive results from our market representatives at the toy fair," Kuehn said. "In past fairs and exhibitions we entered 'Looney Laundry' in, our market representatives have given us good news."

The results from the toy fair will not be available to the Kuehns for about another week, Kuehn said.

"We have to wait for our market reps to send the information back to us," he said.

He said the next step for "Looney Laundry" will be a toy fair in California.

"We will use the results from New York and go to California and do it all over again in a few weeks," he said.

"Looney Laundry" is not the only thing that the Kuehns have developed. The couple also developed another game called "Toss-a-Chore."

"It is another way to teach children that work can be fun," Kuehn said. "It is great a feeling to bring joy to those who play our games."

Toss-A-Chore has become a popular seller in stores.

"Toss-A-Chore is one of our top sellers," Challinor said. "Within a few weeks we were ordering more because the demand was so high."

The Kuehns' are enjoying their involvement in creating new board games, but it is still just a hobby.

"This is still just a side project for my wife and I," Kuehn said. "I do have ideas for other games. I want to see how successful Looney Laundry is to see if it is worth it to make another game."

DORMS

From page 1

will inform the resident assistant to get the issue resolved.

He said most couples who choose to live together do so off-campus.

Allen said the policy is meant to treat students like adults, but students must act accordingly.

He said visitation policies will continue to change as some residence halls will become coed.

Do it for someone you love

Edward Asner ACTOR

Tonight, make it vegetarian

For more information, contact Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine (202) 686-2210, ext. 306 · www.pcrm.org

PHOTO © ROBERT SEBREE, 2000

A Fort Worth Tradition for Over 13 Years

SPORTS LOUNGE

Comedy Nightclub & Sports Lounge

Doors Open @ 4PM

These aren't Specials...

$1.50 Domestic Bottles	$2.50 Import Bottles
$2.25 Wells	$2.75 Calls
$3.50 Premiums	$4.00 Shots & Bombs

these are our Regular Prices! Sun-Thur

- ★ 9 - 42' HD Plasmas
- ★ 3 - 50' HD Plasmas BOSE Surround Sound Touch Tunes Juke Box
- ★ 2 - Brunswick Pool Tables Golden Tee Big Buck Hunter Silver Strike Bowling

Come Meet Your New Favorite Bar

Now Hiring New Wait Staff

605 Houston Street • Downtown Fort Worth

www.hyenacomedynightclub.com

TCU does not encourage the consumption of alcohol. If you do consume alcohol you should do so responsibly, and you should never drive after drinking.

Snookie's EVERY SUNDAY

52" PLASMA TV w/ $2 and $3 U-CALL-IT'S

Tuesdays Half-Price Burgers & Chicken Sandwiches after 4PM

Thursdays $1.50 Coors Original $2.50 Well Drinks $3 Well Martini's

Wed. & Sat. Nights Karaoke 10PM - close

2 mini Burgers for $3 MIDNIGHT-Close EVERYDAY

2755 S. Hulen • 817.207.0788 www.snookiesbar.com

JUNIOR JUMPSTART

March 3, 2007 10AM-3PM Radisson Fort Worth South

Learn about networking, graduate school, internships, interviewing, and more!

Network with DFW employers from various career fields at the Networking Luncheon!

Get motivated by renowned speaker Suzie Humphreys!

Register now at www.FrogJobs.net or at University Career Services! Call 817-257-7860 for more information!

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"You can't make up anything anymore. The world itself is a satire. All you're doing is recording it."
— Art Buchwald

THE SKIFF VIEW

Company's no-smoking rule goes too far

Scotts Miracle-Gro Co. has been hovering through headlines the past two years because of health care policies that indicate human resources will start firing smokers.

An article in the "Billings Gazette" from December 2005 called out the new non-smoking regulation, but that was just the beginning of a series of new regulations the company is taking to lower health care costs by keeping employees in a fit state.

More recently, a "BusinessWeek" cover story gave an inside look at where these policies have saved lives, as well as ended careers for members of Scotts Miracle-Gro. One executive, Joe Pellegrini was a triathlete who had an indulgent lifestyle devouring high-fat, high-protein foods. The company's health care intervention for his eating habits ended up saving his life when doctors discovered a 95-percent blockage in Pellegrini's heart. Meanwhile, a 30-year-old lawn-care worker, Scott Rodrigues was fired for being a smoker roughly two weeks after he was hired. He violated the tobacco-free policy so his termination was just, but a larger question gets raised by this firing.

How many companies will begin throwing the book at employees who are at risk toward corporate health plans?

A healthier America would be a wonderful goal, but with a growing demand for instantaneous service, fast food lifestyles and glorified professional eaters such as Takeru Kobayashi (the hotdog eating champion from Japan) are becoming part and parcel of modern society.

Perhaps raising the price for health insurance co-payments and premiums will help change the habits of these workers. If raising the price does not work, firing very well could be the best alternative. As a whole, people need to examine their personal lifestyle choices and embrace the gifts companies give such as dental plans and health insurance instead of squandering these benefits with reckless abandon.

Competing in a company picnic pie-eating contest is one thing, challenging the system with aggressive lifestyles is crossing the line.

Sports editor Marcus Murphree for the editorial board.

OOFSPOOF BY ROLF NELSON

Rolf Nelson

Consumers be wary of products; some foods may contain bacteria

Before getting out a jar of Peter Pan for a tasty peanut-butter treat, it might be a good idea to reconsider.

On Feb. 13, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention released a report to the Federal Drug Administration on a recent epidemiological study in which 288 cases of salmonella were discovered in 39 states. These cases were all traced back to one simple food product, which many Americans delight in daily: peanut butter.

It all started in a little plant in Sylvester, Ga., where the population is about 5,900. This plant, owned by ConAgra Foods, is one of the largest peanut butter plants in the nation.

MCT

It produces Peter Pan peanut butter and some batches of Great Value peanut butter, the store brand you can find on the shelves of Wal-Mart. The number denoting that a product was created at this plant is "2111."

With this outbreak of salmonella, the epidemic of mad cow disease in 2003 and various reports of E. coli, I think the Food and Drug Administration should do more to check the sanitation in food plants.

They need to check food production plants more frequently because of the high probability of contamination. The last time the ConAgra plant was inspected was in February 2005. The FDA should inspect these major plants at least every year, if not twice a year. Peanuts used in peanut butter must be heated to a high temperature in order to kill germs, so the most likely cause of this epidemic would be contamination in either equipment or the jars in which the product is held. However, it is not only the responsibility of the FDA to inspect these plants; it is also the duty of the companies to ensure quality products by constantly maintaining and cleaning their workspaces. The FDA should also find a way to inspect farms or ranches where the ingredients are grown or where the animals are kept to see if anything is out of line. According to the Organic Consumers Association, some animals are fed other animal parts and plants are tainted with dangerous chemicals. Consumption of meat and chemically enhanced crops can lead to disease and further health problems.

One of the first cases of salmonella popped up in August 2006. Since then, about 300 more cases have caused Americans to get sick. Instead of the reports of food-borne illnesses increasing, I believe that our trust of the quality of the food we eat should rise. I do not want to be afraid to eat my PB and J.

ConAgra received a tough blow in which it must do damage control in order to recover. Not only has it lost a pretty penny in refunds and in closing down its Georgia plant, it has also lost the trustworthiness of its name.

If one has delighted in a delicious peanut-buttery treat which had the label "2111" on the jar, carefully watch for symptoms, such as fever, diarrhea and abdominal pain, which usually begin 12 to 72 hours after ingestion. Food companies and the FDA can only do so much to protect consumers. I believe one is better off reading the labels and checking the news often for reports like this. I took a peek at the CDC's Web site at cdc.gov and found some highly informative tips about cases of food poisoning, prevention and suggestions on avoiding sickness. As for what products to buy, the power is in the hands of the consumer. Choosy consumers choose healthy.

Hayley Freeman is a freshman English major from Fort Worth.

Don't let age dictate attitude; stereotypes aren't always true

Last week my grandmother turned 90 years old and danced at her party.

Only in the past year has my grandmother said she is beginning to actually feel old.

Age is a number that represents us chronologically, but does it really represent who we are?

A political scientist would argue age is an excellent basis for making an educated guess about a person's political view.

For example, people in their early 20s are more likely to be politically liberal than those in their 30s.

Marketing divisions target specific age groups as more likely to consume or have the financial capacity to consume specific goods.

It is not likely, for example, that a 50-year-old will purchase video games or that a 20-year-old will buy a home security system.

And yet, every day there are stories about people acting outside the stereotypical limits of their age.

Mozart, for instance,

was 3 years old when he began composing music.

And my grandmother danced at her 90th birthday party.

So what is it that enables people to act in ways atypical of their ages?

In the case of my grandmother, I believe the adversity she faced in her youth forced her to find a strength in herself, which she has never lost.

Until she was a teenager, Eva Jessner, my grandmother, was a member of Germany's privileged class, but, during Adolph Hitler's Nazi regime, things changed drastically.

By this time, the depression had hit everywhere, but, in Germany, the extreme poverty became a political tool for Hitler, who blamed the depression on Jews, Poles, Catholics and other groups that did not fit his twisted concept of Aryan supremacy.

Although the Jessners were a Jewish family, Eva had been raised a Christian Scientist by her grandmother, so you can imagine the emotional turmoil she faced when she was forced to return to Germany and wear the yellow star.

By the time she came to America, her grandmother had been picked up by the Nazis and would never be heard from again. Her mother, who had been perpetually ill as long as Eva had been alive, died after being kicked out of a hospital when a nurse found out she was a Jew.

Eva's two sisters were both sent to concentration camps but fortunately would survive.

And so, with her family torn apart and with barely enough money to get by, Eva had to find the strength within to get herself out of Germany.

Teenagers are not supposed to be mature enough to take care of themselves, but if Eva had waited around for someone to tell her what to do, she may very well have ended up in one of the death camps.

So maybe we can guess a few things about people based on their age, but we can't let age dictate who we are.

If we find the strength within to overcome adversity, then we too will have a reason to dance when no one expects us to.

Talia Sampson is a junior news-editorial journalism and international relations major from Moorpark, Calif.

Population needs lesson in everyday, communication etiquette

She was talking loudly and insistently, and that might not have made a difference except that she was alone in the stall of a ladies' room. Sure, times are tough all over, but who knew matters had gotten this bad?

Of course, she wasn't alone, going off the deep end. She was chatting on her cell phone. In a place created for privacy, she abandoned the privilege, encouraging eavesdropping, though, alas, there was nothing interesting to purloin. Isn't eavesdropping always like that? Rarely are you privy to really juicy conversations.

The other day, I was in a hotel restaurant and ascertained that the overnight guests chatting nearby were married, but clearly not to each other. Frankly, I didn't realize that people still had the time, legal counsel and emotional fortitude for such behavior. As is my luck, the couple's conversation was exceptionally dull, too, something to do with sweaters and energy costs.

Why, they might as well have been married to each other.

Anyway, having lived through the '80s, when restrooms were used for more intriguing recreation than chatter — it was common to find four people jammed into a nightclub stall — I can attest that the cell-phone business is annoying and wrong. If people need updated etiquette lessons then, all right, I'm here to provide them:

1. If you don't wish to invite eavesdropping, avoid using a cell phone in quiet places. This would mean the train. And the elevator. Or a restaurant. And a public restroom. Especially the restroom. Don't engage strangers in lengthy conversations in public restrooms, either. We have the Internet for that.

2. Disconnect. Cell phones and laptops plug us into the modern world, but there are times, and places, where we should detach. Such as while relaxing or exercising. Working on a laptop at the beach or talking on the cell during a hike is annoying and wrong. It reminds other people around you of the very life they're trying to escape. People did without such technology for centuries. You can do without for a few hours.

3. E-mail is not an opportunity for verbal flashing, bombarding people with hostile comments, egregious grammar and wretched spelling. Correspondence, in any form, is a reflection of ourselves. Just because e-mail is fast doesn't mean it should be gratuitous and sloppy. Relative anonymity isn't an excuse for personality disorders, puerile taunts and gross misconduct. Treat strangers with the respect, dignity and kindness you would friends and family.

4. Leave dietary issues at home. If you're invited to someone's table, accept the bounty offered. Push what displeases you to the side. Hosts should cease inquiring, and guests should stop itemizing issues. It's only food, not global warming, and listing all your restrictions and phobias isn't only passive-aggressive, it's unattractive.

5. There is such a concept as too casual. Bank officials shouldn't first-name customers. When asking for donations, or doing business with someone, proper manners work wonders. Young people shouldn't first-name relative strangers old enough to be their grandparents. You think this is ageist? Fine, it's ageist. It appeared we had reached the apogee of bedroom casual when flip-flops were worn to the White House. But this was wrong. Young people have taken to wearing pajamas and slippers on the street. There's an axiom that when you're young and good-looking, you can get away with wearing anything. This, however, is the exception.

6. Realize that when asking a favor, you're asking someone to do work for you. So the proper response is to say "thank you." Or possibly send a note, even a gift. Gifts are nice. They make an impression. It isn't proper to ask repeatedly for considerable favors, unless you're offering some form of compensation. Such as a gift. The improper response to someone's doing you a favor is to ask for yet another favor. This, like so much modern behavior, happens to be annoying and wrong.

Karen Heller is a columnist for The Philadelphia Inquirer. This column was distributed by MCT.

Editorial Board	ANDREW CHAVEZ	Editorial Policy
JOHN-LAURENT TRONCHE	LINDSEY BEVER	The content of the Opinion page does not necessarily represent the views of Texas Christian University. The Skiff View editorial represents the view of the TCU Daily Skiff editorial board	listed to the left. The Skiff View is the collective opinion of the editorial board and may not reflect the views of the individual writers. Signed letters, columns and cartoons represent the opinion of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the editorial board.
MARCUS MURPHREE	AMBER PARCHER		Letters to the editor: The Skiff welcomes letters to the editor for publication. To submit a letter, e-mail it to LETTERS2SKIFF@TCU.EDU. Letters must include the author's classification, major and phone number. Skiff reserves the right to edit or reject letters for style, taste and size restrictions.

TODAY IN HISTORY
1819: Spanish minister Do Luis de Onis and U.S. Secretary of State John Quincy Adams signed the Florida Purchase Treaty, in which Spain agreed to cede the remainder of Florida to the United States.

WORTH A LAUGH — BUT ONLY ONE
Q: How many psychiatrists does it take to change a light bulb?
A: One. But the light bulb has got to want to change.

The Quigmans

by Buddy Hickerson

"I love it when he gets angry."

"I was using my iPod and iPhone around some poor people today, when I was suddenly stricken with iGuilt."

SUDOKU PUZZLE

Sponsored by:

THE TCU WOMEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM PLAYS WYOMING TONIGHT AT 7 PM. SUPPORT YOUR LADY FROGS AS THEY LOOK TO EXTEND THEIR 19-HOME GAME WINNING STREAK!

	8			6
3					1
	1	6	9	3	8
	1	2	9		4
	9		4		5
	3	8	5		6
	7	9	2	1	5
1					2
	2			7

Directions
Fill in the grid so that every 3x3 box, row and column contains the digits 1 through 9 without repeating numbers.

See Friday's paper for answers to today's Sudoku puzzle.

Wednesday's Solutions

8	6	5	1	2	9	3	4	7
7	2	9	6	3	4	8	1	5
4	3	1	7	5	8	2	9	6
3	4	8	5	9	6	7	2	1
9	7	6	2	8	1	4	5	3
1	5	2	3	4	7	9	6	8
5	1	3	9	7	2	6	8	4
6	9	4	8	1	3	5	7	2
2	8	7	4	6	5	1	3	9

GET TIPS AND MORE SOLUTIONS AT WWW.SUDOKU.COM

TODAY'S CROSSWORD

Sponsored by:

- ACROSS
1. Ben Arthur sitcom
 6. Worker's gear
 11. TV network
 14. Studio stand
 15. Mooring basin
 16. Drawing on the IRA
 17. Start of Evan Esar quip
 19. Tony-winner Hagen
 20. King Arthur's paradise
 21. Adenoidal
 23. Establish in office
 26. Part 2 of quip
 27. Want too much
 28. Eminem's Dr.
 30. Bad day for Caesar
 31. Ostrich's cousin
 32. Choice
 35. Dispatched
 36. Part 3 of quip
 38. Epidermal opening
 41. Glossy cotton fabric
 42. Gallivant
 45. Stuntman
 46. Knives
 46. Brand IDs
 47. Distant ones
 49. Part 4 of quip
 51. Hammer and Spade
 53. Shoe designer Magli
 54. Non-violent protests
 56. Fall behind
 57. End of quip
 62. Maria in wool
 63. Knight's mail
 64. Avoid capture
 65. Behold
 66. Sierra
 67. Evil spirit

By Alan P. Olschewski
Huntington Beach, CA

Wednesday's Puzzle Solved

RAMP	ATTRA	TRIMS
ELBA	SALT	RURAL
ALAN	ALTO	ALOHA
GENETIC	CANDID	PENAL
AGILE	AES	WYO
NEE	STAPLE	MAAM
ALONE	CORNS
MINOR	ANDARE	SA
MANN	CRIME
ALSO	BEHAVE	OIL
MCM	BAR	RONCO
MORSE	ANOTRA	FFIC
ARTEL	IOWA	TICK
LABEL	EDIT	ELLE
BLEDS	SONE	NEED

©2007 Tribune Media Services, Inc. All rights reserved.

See Friday's paper for answers to today's crossword.

WWW.DAILYSKIFF.COM • WWW.DAILYSKIFF.COM • WWW.DAILYSKIFF.COM

DAILYSKIFF.COM

Check out the classifieds • Get your latest news and sports
• Find out what everybody thinks

Amanda Geiger never saw the drunk driver.
Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk.

2006 OSCAR NOMINATED SHORTS

See all ten of the 2006 Academy Award® Nominated Shorts together before the Oscars are given out!

Plus additional qualifying and shortlisted shorts from 2006!

Best Live Action Short Film Nominees
Binta and the Great Idea (Binta Y La Gran Idea)
Eramos Pocos (One Too Many)
Helmer & Son
The Saviour
West Bank Story

Best Animated Short Film Nominees
The Danish Poet (Den Danske Dikteren)
Lifted
The Little Matchgirl
Maestro
No Time For Nuts

magnolia atThe Modern

February 23-25
Fri 6 pm ONLY, Sat 5 pm, Sun 2 pm ONLY tickets $7.50 members $5.50
817.738.9215 www.themodern.org

Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth
3200 Darnell St, Fort Worth 76107
See/Magnolia AmericanArtworks

HOOKAH
In Ft. Worth

LOUNGE
In Ft. Worth

Mon - Wed. Open until 11:00pm
Thurs • Fri • Sat open until 2:00am

Full Service Bar
18 and over welcome

1/2 Price Hookah Wed
Nights w/ TCU ID
Offer expires Mar. 2007

BYBLOS
1406 N MAIN ST
817 625 9667
BYBLOSTX.COM
Now accepting applications for employment.

Family Dentistry

open mon.-sat.

GRAND OPENING
Inquire about free bleaching for the month of March and April. Please bring this ad.

Park Hill Dental Building
Dr. Erin Duyen Tran, DMD.
2417 Park Hill Drive, Ste. B
Fort Worth, TX 76110
817.921.2900

GET REAL

76% of TCU students reported that they consumed 4 or fewer alcoholic drinks per week within the past year*

For More Information Contact TCU Alcohol & Drug Education Center
Campus Rec Basement 257.7100

TCU DAILY SKIFF 35¢ PER WORD PER DAY
45¢ PER BOLD WORD PER DAY
www.tcudailyskiff.com/classifieds TO PLACE YOUR AD

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

BARTENDER APPRENTICE WANTED. Showdown Saloon, 4907 Camp Bowie Blvd. 817.233.5430

NANNIES NEEDED P/ T/ F/ T, CHILD CARE EXPERIENCE, NON-SMOKER, OWN TRANSPORTATION, TOP PAY 972.713.7773

HIRING Tuxedo Junction is hiring for FT & PT sales in the Tarrant Co. area. Contact Misty Collinsworth at (817)294-1365 fax or mcollinsworth@tuxedojunctiondfw.com

THISTLE HILL PUBLISHING is seeking a part-time administrative assistant. Editorial aptitude and computer proficiency required. Please email resumes to: jobs@thistlehillpublishing.com

Can you network? Awesome commission & residual. 817.223.9958

FORT WORTH STOCKYARDS RETAIL STORE IN THE STOCKYARDS LOOKING FOR HELP. WORKING WEEKENDS AND HOLIDAYS A MUST. WILL WORK AROUND SCHOOL SCHEDULE. 25 TO 30 HOURS PER WEEK. $8.00 PER HOUR. FAX RESUME TO 817-244-2366 OR CALL 817.625.1221

SERVICES

OPEN CASTING CALL
Ticket2fame.com exclusive! Novices to A-listers welcome. 2/24/07, Westin Galleria, Dallas Room, Dallas, Texas. 13340 Dallas Parkway @ 635. 1pm/3pm/5pm.

Skiff Advertising
817-257-7426

TODAY IN SPORTS

See how the men's basketball team has been preparing for the final home contest of the semester against the Air Force Falcons.
TOMORROW

Q&A

with Caleb Bulls

BILLY WESSELS / Photo Editor
Freshman Caleb Bulls returns a shot against UT-Pan American on Jan. 24. Bulls transferred from Tyler Junior College before the spring season.

By KYLE ARNOLD
Staff Writer

Q: When and why did you start playing tennis?

A: I started playing tennis when I was 11 or 12, and both of my parents played so I just got into it through them.

Q: What has been your biggest match in your career?

A: I would probably say my first match at TCU this spring. Before this, I went to junior college and it was good, but this was everything I had worked and practiced for.

Q: Do you prefer to play in singles or doubles matches?

A: I really actually prefer doubles a little bit more, probably because I've won more in doubles so far. Also, it's just nice to have a teammate out there with you because it can get a little lonely during singles.

Q: Do you have a specific routine before your matches?

A: I usually like to get a good meal in beforehand and crank up the iPod for a little bit. Then, I take a shower, get warmed up and go.

Q: What parts of your game are you happy with and what do you need to work on?

A: I'm happy with my forehand for sure and my consistency; I get to most of the balls. I could definitely work on making my serve a little more offensive, as well as my backhand.

Q: Which opponents look as though they are going to present a big challenge and which are you especially excited about facing?

A: Baylor is probably going to be the biggest challenge. They are always ranked top five, and they have a really good team. I'm excited about playing some of our conference teams just because we get to go to San Diego. Also, I'm excited about playing Texas A&M because I grew up close to there.

Q: How do you keep focus on the tasks at hand throughout the season?

A: I think a lot of it is time management. If you can stay on top of your courses, it's usually not too big of a deal. If you know when you're going to practice and set aside time for practicing and whatever else you do during the day, it's usually not that difficult to accomplish everything.

Q: Do you have a specific off-season plan that you go through?

A: I will probably take a week or two off at the beginning and let the body rest up and everything, but I usually can't take that much time off without getting too excited to play again. So, once I get into the middle of the summer, I will start playing a ton of matches again and that will lead up to the school year.

Lady Frogs aiming for conference lead, face Cowgirls at home

By AMBER PARCHER
Features Editor

Now tied for second place in the Mountain West Conference, the Lady Frogs are ready to put their current four-game winning streak to the test tonight.

The Lady Frogs (19-7, 9-3) will play the Wyoming Cowgirls in a critical conference match-up with a home-court advantage.

The Frogs have not lost a home game in a school-record 19 games, but they did lose to the Cowgirls on Jan. 20 when the teams last played each other.

With the conference tournament rapidly approaching, senior guard Ashley Davis said the team is ready to put it all on the line tonight.

"We're a team of veterans — we know what's on the table," Davis said.

Although Wyoming, 16-8 and 7-5 in the Mountain West Conference, is sitting in fifth place in the conference standings, this game is critical because the Frogs are only one game behind conference frontrunner Brigham Young University (10-2 MWC).

Davis said the team knows that if it wins the rest of its games, they will play BYU in the conference championship.

"It's kind of like our backs are against the wall," Davis said. "But we play better under pressure."

Senior forward Hanna Biernacka said the team is preparing for Wyoming by focusing on its own game.

"They're a good team," Biernacka said of the Cowgirls. "It's going to be a good physical game, but we have to relax and play our game."

Head coach Jeff Mittie said his team has been playing at a more intense level but has room for improvement for Thursday.

Mittie cited an increased defensive effort as one of the advantages for the Frogs, but said he is worried about the team's ability to sink shots. In the last game against the Utah Utes, the Lady Frogs shot only 34.1 percent from the field compared to the season average of 42.7.

"We have to play a smart game against Wyoming," Mittie said. "They have a lot of good scorers."

As the end of the season nears, Mittie said the team is getting better at finding its tempo in games.

"People get caught up in momentum, but how many times does momentum change during the game?" Mittie said.

"It's more important to play at a higher level consistently," he said.

Whether the Frogs find their cadence against the Cowgirls remains to be seen.

FOR YOUR INFO

The Lady Frogs will host the Wyoming Cowgirls at 7 p.m. tonight in the Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

ROBYN SHEPHEARD / Staff Photographer
Junior guard Helen Roden completes a pass against the Air Force Academy on Feb. 10. The Lady Frogs look to extend their school-record of 19-home-game-win streak when they play Wyoming tonight.

Frogs receive confidence before Beach Classic tourney

By BILLY WESSELS
Photo Editor

The Horned Frog baseball team is riding a wave of confidence heading into its four-game weekend on the East Coast.

TCU moved up three spots to No. 18 in the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association Poll after sweeping Oral Roberts University (2-3), and now the Frogs (6-1) have high expectations going into the Baseball at the Beach Classic hosted by Coastal Carolina University in South Carolina.

"Sweeping a quality team like that will boost our confidence going into a big weekend," junior relief pitcher Cody Dunbar said. "We are going to come into this tournament wanting to prove something and still make a statement."

Head coach Jim Schlossnagle said that confidence can greatly affect a team, especially in baseball.

"Baseball is such a game of failure that if you're not consistently trying to find a way to maintain your confidence and believe that you can do it, baseball will eat you alive," Schlossnagle said.

Junior catcher Andrew Walker said a way to fight off overconfidence is to stay within the team.

"Don't listen to what other people have to say outside of the team," Walker said.

This weekend trip will give the Frogs a chance to play two more top-30 ranked teams. The two ranked schools are the host school, the No. 30 Coastal Carolina Chanticleers (7-0) and the No. 29 North Carolina State Wolfpack. The other two teams the Frogs will face in the Classic will be the Notre Dame Fighting Irish (2-1) and the UNC-Wilmington Seahawks (3-4). The Seahawks, Fighting Irish and Wolfpack all were in the NCAA tournament in 2006.

"It's going to be a good tournament with a bunch of quality teams," Dunbar said. "It's going to be good for us to see how we match up. If we go 4-0 like we want to, it should boost us up and show that we are going to make a statement this year."

The four games the Frogs will be playing in three days will give the team some quality experience for tournaments they will compete in later on in the season, Schlossnagle said.

"It's a good preparation for a regional," Schlossnagle said. "It's good to play at different times, which has a chance to happen when you play in a conference tournament with odd times."

During the NCAA regionals, a team can play up to five games in four days.

Schlossnagle has already decided three of the starting pitchers he will use this weekend.

Junior Jake Arrieta (2-0) will start Friday night in the first game for the Frogs. Chris Johnson (1-0) and Chance Corgan, both juniors, will start Saturday, but Schlossnagle has not decided which will pitch in the final game.

The Frogs will open the Classic against the Chanticleers at 11 a.m. on Friday.

ROBYN SHEPHEARD / Staff Photographer
Senior third baseman Steven Trout finishes an at bat against Oral Roberts Saturday. The Frogs will play in the Baseball at the Beach Classic this weekend.

Don't Procrastinate
Business School applicants must pass Excel, PowerPoint, and Word

Microsoft Office Specialist Authorized Testing Center

For more information, contact the Neeley Student Resource Center (817)257-5220

Neeley TCU
SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

The Microsoft Certification Center is available to anyone who wants to take Microsoft Access, Excel, Outlook, PowerPoint, and Word exams.

computers made easy

WESTCLIFF SHOPPING CENTER (across from Minnyards)

817.386.2530

INTERNET • COPIES • FAX • NOTARY

oil change, detail package & wash packages discounted with TCU ID

FLAGSHIP CAR WASH & LUBE CENTER

3124 Collinsworth (behind University Park Starbucks & Hooters) • 817.335.9274

- Free Internet for Customers
- Free Carwash with Oil Change
- Fast Full Service Car Wash
- Free wash every 10th visit
- Transmission Flushing
- Windshield Repair
- 48hr Raincheck
- Gas Pumps

TRAFFIC TICKETS

Defended in Fort Worth, Arlington, Richland Hills, Benbrook, Crowley, Hurst, Euless, Grapevine, and elsewhere in Tarrant County.

- No promises as to results.
- Any fine and any court costs are not included in fee for legal representation.

James R. Mallory
Attorney at Law
3024 Sandage Ave.
Fort Worth, TX 76109-1793
817.924.3236
www.JamesMallory.com

OFFENSE? DEFENSE.

Daniel L. Young
Attorney at Law
Board Certified Criminal Law Specialist
T.C.U. Alumnus

817-877-3400

DWI, Drug Possession, Assault, Theft, and all other State felonies and misdemeanors

2630 West Freeway, Suite 208 (just east of Poppadeaux)
www.danielyoungattorney.com

The most dangerous animals in the forest don't live there.

DR. MICHAEL GREEN
Ph.D. in Ecology & Evolutionary Biology
University of Texas at Dallas

EST. 1902

Re

By SONYA C
Staff Reporter

In the v
the womer er room more surv
being add Recreation
Before t in, camera

By ASHLEIGH
Staff Reporter

Agricult
in southw
ing ranch
dents wh in textboo one of five students
"The G
caravan o takes 29 students
in Texas, homa to l
lar agricult

Ath

By MICHELLE
Staff Reporter

Horne
letes are department after ach semester in fall 20
of the ath
vices offic
The at GPA of 2.
from the athletes,
spring 20
is the hi

US

By JOHN B
Staff Reporter

A docum professor Southern
day throug autobiogr and media
Michael critical st
radio-TV
Green Ho
"Dr. M internatio