Amon, dear:

Wednesday night -

Just had to call you today to tell you how relieved I am to learn of Amon, Jr.'s whereabouts. He'll be all right, I know. If there's anyway I can write him through Red Cross or send him something, I'll surely do it. God will keep him brave and strong and safe now, he's eleven and will get along fine. I'm so happy with you - wrote the news to Sidney, for he likely doesn't know it. I shall try to get news of Amon, Jr.'s promotion probability from Sidney for you.

We have a nice trip to New York - your mind is much more at ease now - and I have confidence that Amon, Jr. will come through all of this unscathed - If you hear of his definite whereabouts, let me know, for I'd tell Sidney - never know what might help -

Lovingly
Jane
