Dear Amon:

Thank you for sending me the copy of your telegram of congratulations to the President and also the editorials which appeared in your paper. I want you to know that I appreciate your thoughtfulness in sending these editorials to me as I have read them with great interest.

The outcome of the election was a smashing victory for us all. A great many of us did our part, but I agree with you that the real credit belongs to the fighting Harry S. Truman. His unfailing courage and faith carried the people with him.

With every good wish and again thanking you for taking the time to write to me, I am

Sincerely yours,
