

On Way to Discuss Memorial for Rogers

GROUP LEAVES TO CONFER ON MEMORIAL

Stating they are eager to hear proposals for building a fitting memorial to the late Will Rogers, Oscar Lawler, executor of the Rogers estate, and Lupton Wilkinson, personal representative of Will Hays, movie leader, stopped here for an hour Wednesday morning en route to Oklahoma City to attend a conference on memorial plans. They arrived by American Airlines from Hollywood, their home, and left by special plane with Amon G. Carter for the Oklahoma meeting.

At the Oklahoma session close friends of the popular humorist, writer and actor will form a national Will Rogers Association, which will take a lead in the plans to honor Rogers.

"We of California," said Lawler, "are anxious to co-operate in the building of one or more suitable memorials in honor of the beloved Rogers. When the Beverly Hills organization was formed to do honor to the memory of Rogers the leaders decided to mark time until co-operative plans could be formed for the memorial organization.

"Any such memorial that might be created should be one of service, because Will Rogers lived a life of service."

Lawler was a neighbor of Rogers and was one of his closest friends.

According to Wilkinson, the leading lights of the film world will be happy to join others in seeing that a suitable program is carried out.

Those who will attend the Oklahoma conference today will meet with Governor Marland of Rogers' native State. It is likely Vice President Garner will be chairman of the national organization and that Jesse H. Jones of Houston and Washington will be treasurer of the financial drive.

It is probable that more than one memorial will be erected.

RADIO SWEETHEART

—By Vida Hurst

BEGIN HERE TODAY:

Anna Stahl is left responsible for her 4-year-old half sister, Tanya, upon their father's death, and hopes she will never meet again from Tanya's mother, who deserted Peter Stahl and Tanya to marry a wealthy Englishman. Anna and Tanya find a happy home with Jimmy Steele and his mother, who become fond of them in short order. Jimmy introduces Anna to Carey Dennison, radio singer, and Carey promptly falls in love with her. She won't admit her own love for him until she is very sure of herself, but when she does tell him, they are blissfully happy. The long dreaded word from Connie, Tanya's mother, arrives.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY!

CHAPTER XI.

"Dear Anna," wrote Connie. "You

tion my father insisted upon before he would agree to the divorce. You see, Connie didn't have any real reason for getting one. She couldn't have gotten it if he had fought it."

"What makes you think she'll want Tanya now?" Jimmy asked more hopefully.

"I don't know. Only knowing Connie as I do, I realize she might.

The situation is so different since her husband is dead. She has enough money so that she wouldn't have to have the actual care of Tanya herself. And she might get the idea that a young widow with ful, lonely children whose wistful expression almost broke your heart.

For the first time since her engagement to Carey, Anna was too absorbed to think of him. All her attention was centered on the threatened menace back of Connie's letter. Following Jimmy's advice, she took it to her office and asked her employer if he could help her.

Mr. Cosgrove frowned.

"You say there's nothing against her? No reason why she shouldn't have the custody of the child?"

Anna shook her head.
