"MERRY CHRISTMAS"

"The President, through the weekly Bulletin, wishes each member of our faculty a very merry Christmas. While this is the season when the curly head wears the Crown and the tiny hand wields the scepter over the heart and home, may it also be a season when wise men as well as humble shepherds follow their shining stars of hope. May it be for you a season full of love, joy, friendship, unselfishness, good will, peace and understanding, all that makes Christ truly King in our lives." -----President E. M. Waits.

Instead of the usual Religious Fellowship program Sunday evening, Prof. Hutton announces that a Christmas party will be held in Brite College chapel for members of the Sunday School and others wishing to attend.

Prof. Elliott and Ashburn were guests of Dr. Andrew Ashburn at C. I. A. last Saturday at a luncheon honoring Norman Thomas, noted Socialist leader.

Prof. Ashburn will spend the holidays in Austin doing research work in his studies.

Prof. W. C. Smith substituted for Clyde Yarbrough at the Allen Christian Church last Sunday evening.

"Unemployment, The Cause of and Suggested Cure," is the title of an article by Prof. Elliott appearing in the December number of Optimist International. ✓

Mrs. Beckham announces the success of the formal dinner for dormitory students held Thursday evening in the cafeteria. Students from the music department supplied the music and the Froettes furnished the Christmas decorations.

Miss Smith will spend the Christmas season in Paducah, Ky.

Miss Sherley will visit in Anna.

Miss Major will return to Columbia, Mo.

Prof. Clubb will address the forty-eighth meeting of the Modern Language Association in Madison, Wis., during the holidays, on the subject, "The Alleged Predominance of Explosive Consonants in Old English Verse."

Prof. Sammis and the University Band played at the Worth theater Friday and Saturday nights.

Prof. W. L. Moreman has been notified by Dr. A. L. Barrows of the National Research Council that the council has awarded a grant of $250 toward field expenses and laboratory supplies to enable Mr. Moreman to continue his studies on certain foraminifera of the Southwest.

Forms are being sent this week to members of the faculty. These are to be used when work is given to the Faculty Secretary. Additional blanks may be secured from the Secretary, Mrs. Yarbrough.

The professor who got the wrong hat at Dean Hall's faculty party will find Mr. J. E. Mothershead glad to re-exchange.

It appears that the summer term must be held to as conservative an offering as possible, because of the financial outlook. The Trustees have already expressed this view to the administration.

The policy has been to use as many of the regular teachers in the summer as practicable, but also to take advantage of opportunities for teaching elsewhere in the summer, as they arise. In this way the benefits can be passed around to a larger number. It will be well, therefore, for teachers who have other plans for the summer to let this be known to the administration, and for opportunities elsewhere for the summer to be used.
