Ft. Worth, Texas

Dear Mr. Carter:

Sometime ago I took about an hours time in "hunting and pecking" a letter out to you, which so far has been un-answered.

I realize you are a busy man, but at the same time I would like to discuss with you the possibilities of the Bill in Congress at this time, and to get your helpful ideas.

I am very desirous of talking to you at your convenience, so would appreciate you advising what would be the most convenient date, at which time I would gladly come to Ft. Worth.

Thanking you for an early reply, and with the kindest of good wishes, I am,

Sincerely your friend,

Morton R. Harrison

RADIUM WATER

Will Rogers

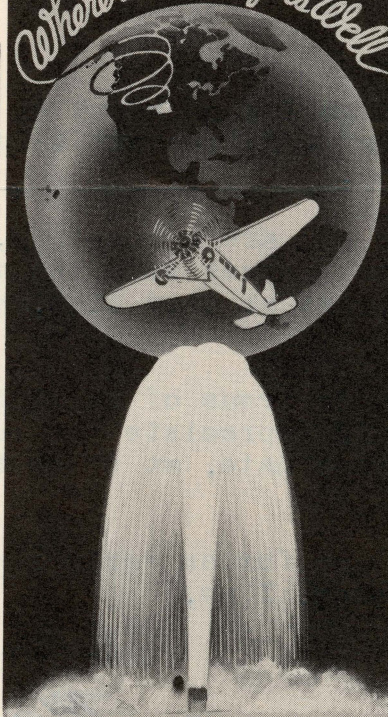

There is no historic legend back of Claremore's famous Radium Water—no mystic past linked with early Indian life. The curative value of this famous water is a matter of undisputed fact; its healing power, one of Nature's greatest gifts to man.

Although a knowledge of its great health-restoring faculties is comparatively recent, its wonderful medicinal properties were assembled centuries ago by Nature's Alchemy and remained stored away in the impervious rocks of the earth's interior, until the hand of modern progress brought it forth for the benefits of man. In 1903 a test well was drilled near Claremore for Oil or Gas, those valued treasures buried beneath the surface of Oklahoma's soil. At a depth of 1100 feet a large vein of artesian water was pierced, which bubbled and sparkled forth with such tremendous pressure that all efforts to continue drilling had to be suspended. It was Radium Water, now famous, but then considered an unwelcome interference; and was let run to waste for some time before it was known to possess powerful medical properties.

The discovery of the curative qualities of Claremore Radium Water, like many other famous discoveries that have proved a boon to man, was purely accidental. The neighbors living near this now famous well, while using its water for bathing purposes, found it to have remarkable healing effects.

Where the World gets Well

RADIUM WATER BATHS

Recreation plays an important part in the life of the health seeker. Claremore with its all-year-round mild climate offers a variety of diversions to promote the happiness and health of all. Among the outdoor sports are: golfing, swimming, motor boat racing and delightful motoring through the scenic foothills of the Ozarks, and just a mile from the city limits is Lake Claremore with its 19 miles of rustic shoreline—which has been stocked with over three-quarter million bass, crappie and channel cat. Naturally fishing is always good at Claremore.

Rich, not only in wealth, but favored with a richness of natural beauty, Claremore is a city truly typical of "Eastern Atmosphere, Western Welcome and Southern Hospitality."

RADIUM BATHS

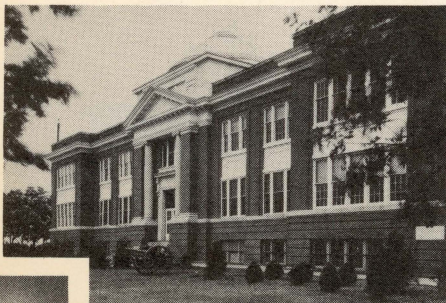

The unusual cures accredited to Claremore Radium Water soon interested men of wealth, who tested its chemical properties and immediately invested their capital in Claremore. Since that time several wells have been drilled for the express purpose of obtaining this famous Radium Water, considered to be one of the greatest mineral waters known to man. Today the city of Claremore has six modern Radium Water Bath Houses, serving the constantly increasing number of men, women and children, whose health is being restored through the scientific process of Radium Water Baths and Internal Treatments.

The curative powers of the Radium Water in all Claremore Bath Houses are equal, since the water comes from the same "Reservoir of Nature" more than a thousand feet below the earth's surface.

Complete information will be gladly furnished upon request, including many letters of reference from those who have improved their health with Claremore Radium Water Process of Healing. Radium Water is Nature's Greatest Asset in the treatment of Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, Lumbago, various forms of Eczema, Acid Gastritis, Gastric Ulcers, infection of Throat, Nose and Nasal Sinuses, Toxemias, Nervous Disorders, and General Run-Down Conditions due to overwork and Nervous Strain.
