Dear Mrs. Raymond:

Your letters of September 11, 17 and 20 have been received, and I have been too busy to breathe, so please excuse the delay. Mr. Carter's check for $400.00, as itemized in your letter of September 11, is enclosed and it is my understanding that Mr. Carter wishes you to handle the matter direct with Mr. Quattrocchi.

The suggested wording for the invitation is being forwarded to Mr. Carter and I am sure either you or I will hear from him soon about it. After it is definitely decided upon I think he intends that an order be placed for the invitations here.

In so far as the list is concerned, it is ^{his} impression that there will be so much publicity locally that no invitations will be sent to Fort Worth citizens, and only to those out of the city. Inasmuch as Mr. Carter will probably not return from his honeymoon until shortly before the unveiling, it has been my thought to order the stock for the invitations and guess at the number of people he might want them sent to and have everything in readiness when the final wording is approved. Anyway, you will probably be here before he returns and all of these problems can be worked out.

Yours very truly,

KD:mmm
