Friend Carter:

Every time I get an invitation -- and they come quite frequently -- to visit something that you are promoting or to attend some other function in Texas, I seem to be in that condition where I can't accept.

Just incidentally but important to me, I have been quite ill this year and doing very little of anything except trying to get well. And it just so happens that on the 4th of November I will be in New York or perhaps I will be returning to St. Louis. I am going to attend a meeting of the Coca-Cola Board called for the 3d. I am particularly anxious to attend this function as I have missed several this year, and I am very anxious to get the inside information about what is doing in the industry this company contributes so much to.

I know the unveiling of the Will Rogers Equestrian Monument dedicated by Dwight D. Eisenhower, General of the Army, will be dramatic and significant in more ways than one and I am sorry that I can't attend.

Yours very truly,
