December 19, 1944.

The President,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President: Congratulations on your appointments in the State Department. Irrespective of the opposition led by Senators Guffey, Pepper and Murray, the public as a whole feels they are among the best appointments you have made. These men are of the highest type of character and integrity, outstandingly able and successful, self-sacrificing; and among the most patriotic now serving our country. If the senate as a whole matched folks of this type a lot of us would feel more assured as to the future of our country. We must have men of the highest ability in the service of our government if our nation is to remain influential in world affairs. We cannot have them unless we want them and give them a fair share of support and prestige when they indicate they are willing to serve.

Again, I congratulate you, hope that you enjoyed your much needed rest and that in these trying times, you and yours have the best Christmas possible and the best of health, happiness and success in the years to come.

Sincerely

Amon Carter
