Dear Amon:

Do you happen to know a big shot in the New York Life Insurance Company? They are planning to go on the air some time in the Fall and Paul has a very splendid idea for a radio program for them and would like to have entree to the right man.

As you seem to know all the big shots in practically all the big companies in the United States, we thought you might know someone in this particular company. If you do, let us know.

Yours,

Morgan
