U. S. Court Order Curbs Tenn. Valley Project Extension

By Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 15.—A federal court order restrained the Tennessee valley authority today from extending its far-flung power facilities—with certain exceptions.

Nineteen private power companies operating in the valley obtained the temporary injunction yesterday from Judge J. Gore, but the TVA won exemption for approximately Boys at Play Find Body of Man Near Anaheim Blvd.

The body of a man dead at least 60 days was found in a roadside ditch near the intersection of Anaheim boulevard and Gaffey streets today.

Although hundreds of motorists passed within 100 feet of the body every day, it was so well concealed that no one noticed it until some boys, playing, stumbled on the gruesome form.

The body was that of a small man, possibly a Filipino, and it

Herald-Express Serenaded By Texas Christian Band

Led by Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, students and the famous band of the Texas Christian University, serenaded The Evening Herald and Express yesterday, and today was on its way home. Upon their visit to The Herald and Express, they were greeted by Dr. Frank F. Barham, the publisher, who is a friend of Mr. Carter.

With the band was Miss Bess

Coughlin, known as the "Songbird of the Southwest"; Don Gillis, band leader, and the assistant band leader, Miss Helen Moody, known also as the official "sweetheart" of the team.

Members of the team, tired after their 9-0 victory over Santa Clara, heretofore undefeated, stayed on the special train, which left last night for Fort Worth, via Salt Lake City and Denver.
