

CONGRATULATIONS—FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM.

The Jewish Monitor congratulates the Fort Worth Star-Telegram most heartily upon the completion of its new building and plant. It is no small thing for an institution like a newspaper to represent a layout of a million dollars in any city—to represent such an amount in a city of 150,000 is phenomenal. The whole Southwest is proud of the record of the Star-Telegram, and rejoices with it.

To Col. Louis Wortham and Mr. Amon Carter, we want to extend our personal congratulations. That these men represent brains, energy and vision, is more than obvious. It takes real men to build an institution like that paper—and these are real men, and their paper, is a real paper. Always fair, honest and truthful, it gives the news as it happens. The scholarly and interesting editorials are builders of public opinion, and the cleanliness of the Star-Telegram is characteristic of the best newspapers on the continent.

The Star-Telegram has always been a friend of Jews and Jewish Monitor.

From the very beginning of this journal, we have received the encouragement and the good will of our contemporary. And the publishers and the editor of the Jewish Monitor have appreciated their interest, and they take this opportunity of extending to Messrs. Wortham and Carter, Shuman and North and Record, their thanks.

We wish for the Star-Telegram continued and increased success; we wish it renewed strength in promulgating, and defending, if necessary, those lofty American principles of democracy and freedom, broad-mindedness and friendliness for which the paper has stood; and to the older members of the corporation, to Col. Wortham and Mr. Carter, we wish many years of health, happiness and success.
