Dear Ame:

I was much pleased last night to listen in on the conversation between the crowd at the Drake Hotel, Chicago, and Amon G. Carter at Ft. Worth, Texas.

I listened to your entire talk and the selection by the orchestra after you got through. Then I switched back and heard the announcement made that your message had been received by the automobile crowd at the Drake Hotel.

Personally I think this is very remarkable, in view of the fact that the weather conditions were very bad, but I recognized your voice at once and understood every single word you said. As a radio broadcaster you are holding up your average percentage.

Best regards to Al Shuman and the rest of the Star-Telegraph crowd.

Sincerely,

Ame

Mr. Amon G. Carter,
