

TO THE FACULTY

On Wednesday, February 19, we shall have on our campus the annual High School Band Clinic. About 350 band students and their teachers from the Fort Worth High Schools will be on hand all day. We wish to make these visitors welcome in every way possible, including the acceptance of the usual confusion and noise which accompanies the presence of a large number of guests with musical instruments.

We consider the band clinic a help to the university as a whole since we have found that High School band students who have entered the University have followed majors in practically all departments of the University.
