TCU, UDLA SIGN EXCHANGE AGREEMENT

A regular exchange of students between TCU and the Universidad de las Americas-Puebla (UDLA) is the result of a new agreement between the two private institutions. The official document was signed recently in Puebla by Chancellor Bill Tucker and Dr. Enrique Cardenas, UDLA president. Other TCU administrators present were Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler and Associate Vice Chancellor Larry Adams.

The agreement provides for a one-to-one exchange of students in good academic standing with their home institutions who meet language and other academic standards of the host school. Both TCU and UDLA will nominate participants, who must be approved by the host institution. Individual exchange times normally will be for one academic semester, Dr. Adams explained.

Tuition will be paid by students to their home institution, where they will receive academic credit. Costs for room, board and fees will be those of the host school.

"The agreement between the Universidad de las Americas-Puebla and TCU, recently signed by President Cardenas and me, will enrich the education of students both here and there," said Dr. Tucker. "I harbor the hope that the exchange will open other avenues of cooperation to the mutual benefit of both universities."

The five-year agreement, effective immediately and subject to extension after review by both TCU and UDLA administrators, also provides for exchange of faculty members and sharing educational resources. TCU's library already is linked via automation with the UDLA library.

Two persons currently are taking part in the new educational partnership. They are Julie Jones of Fort Worth, a senior majoring in Spanish who now is in Puebla, and Gerardo Gomez de Alvear, a senior from Puebla studying communication graphics here.

The exchange program is in keeping with one of TCU's new initiatives, approved by its board of trustees last year, calling for increased efforts to prepare students and faculty members to live and work in a global society, according to Dr. Adams, who heads the global theme committee.

Institutional as well as individual ties between TCU and UDLA, formerly Mexico City College, date back to the early 1960s. Three TCU administrators have been prominent in leadership at the Mexico institution. The late Dr. Otto Nielsen, former dean of TCU's School of Education and University vice president, accepted a teaching appointment at Mexico City College in 1967. The late Dr. D. Ray Lindley, who served as vice president and then president of TCU, was UDLA president during the time of transition in the 1960s. As director of the TCU Summer School in Mexico in 1961-64, former Dean Malcolm McLean represented another link between the institutions. Both TCU and UDLA are accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

'MEDIA, INDIAN' CONFERENCE SET

A conference on "Media and the American Indian: A Quincentenary Project -- 1492-1992: The Year of the American Indian" will be held Nov. 12-13 in Dallas. Sponsor for the Southwest regional event, which includes six states, is the Tribal American Network Inc. (TAN). Co-sponsors are the journalism departments of TCU and the University of North Texas along with the Dallas Morning News.

To be held at the Clarion Hotel in Dallas, the day-long session is one of several of the national Native American Journalists Association's regional conferences to talk about issues of tribal history and culture. Also to be discussed will be critical issues impacting on tribal people and media techniques used to cover these issues.

Other topics will be tribal government sovereignty based in treaties, media ethics such as respect for tribal culture and religion, burial issues and other unique features of tribal tradition, beliefs and practices.

Journalism chairman Anantha Babbili, one of the featured speakers, will present a seminar on "Media Ethics and Privacy."

The $200 registration fee, which includes two meals, should be sent to TAN Inc., Box 542441, Dallas 75354-2441. Additional information is available from the journalism office, Ext. 7425.

TEXAS CIRCUIT RIDER IS BOOK'S SUBJECT

Lone Star Preacher, a novel by the late John Thomason Jr., has been reprinted by TCU Press as Number Nineteen in its Texas Tradition Series of classic fiction.

Praxiteles Swan, the red-headed fighting preacher at the center of Lone Star Preacher, stands tall among Texas heroes. After seeing action at Sharpsburg and Gettysburg during the Civil War, Swan traveled the backroads of frontier East Texas as a Methodist circuit rider. This series of tales, narrated by one who knew Swan when he was one of the grand old men of Texas Methodism, is alive with the battles of the Civil War and the eccentricities of frontier religion.

First published in 1938 by Curtis Publishing Company, Lone Star Preacher is illustrated with drawings by the author. The new edition has an afterword by Texas newspaperman Max Lale, past president of the Texas State Historical Association.

Thomason (1893-1944) was an artist, an author and a career military man in the Marine Corps. His works include a classic biography of Confederate Gen. Jeb Stuart, a study of Gen. Marbot who served under Bonaparte, a novel entitled Fix Bayonets! based on his own experiences in France and countless stories about both the Civil War and the Marine Corps. Lone Star Preacher began as a series of tales published in the Saturday Evening Post. Thomason's papers are now in the John W. Thomason Jr. Collection at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville.

Priced at $29.95, the 300-page book is available in the University bookstore.

ALUMNI TO MEET IN SAN ANGELO

West Texas-area alumni will gather Nov. 17 in San Angelo for a dinner meeting. Purpose of the event is to form an alumni chapter, according to Dick Baggett of San Angelo, a member of TCU's Class of 1966.

To be held at Bentwood Country Club in San Angelo, the 6:30 p.m. reception will be followed by dinner at 7:15 p.m. Additional information is available from the alumni office, Ext. 7803.

HISTORIAN WILL BE ALUMNI SPEAKER

Professor Spencer Tucker, widely known as a military historian, will be featured at a Nov. 12 "Lecture and Lunch" event. "Vietnam Revisited" will be his topic for the noon program in the Trinity Room of the Fort Worth Club.

Sponsoring the occasion is the TCU Fort Worth alumni chapter, headed by Class of '73 members Richard and Kristi Wiseman.

Spencer, whose presentation will focus on his 1992 trip to Vietnam, began studying that country in late 1965 as a military intelligence analyst in the Pentagon. As a captain in Army intelligence, he prepared briefings for the Army chief of staff and was desk officer for North Vietnam and Laos. He has traveled extensively and was guest lecturer on the alumni association tour on the Danube River last summer.

A faculty member since 1967, the history chairman formerly was on the faculty at Wake Forest College and the University of Maryland. He has been an instructor of military history at the U.S. Military Academy.

Spencer, graduate of Virginia Military Institute and holder of two degrees from the University of North Carolina, was a Fulbright scholar in 1959-60 in Bordeaux, France. He was one of only two persons to receive the Vice Admiral Edwin B. Hooper Post-Doctoral Grant in 1988-90. He received a John Lyman book award from the North American Society for Oceanic History for his book, Arming the Fleet, chosen best book in marine science and technology in 1989.

The $12-per-person reservations, due by Nov. 10, can be made by check, payable to TCU, sent to the alumni office, Box 32921.

LIBRARY FRIENDS TO MEET FRIDAY

Dr. Elizabeth Merle Richmond, a member of the English faculty at the University of Texas at Austin, will address the Friends of the TCU Libraries at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Reading Room of Mary Coats Burnett Library.

Her lecture on "Submitting a Trifle for a Degree: Dramatic Productions at Oxford and Cambridge in the Age of Shakespeare" is open to everyone, and information is available at Ext. 7106. The library will exhibit Shakespeare pieces in conjunction with her talk.

Richmond, a Shakespearean specialist, is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley who earned master's degrees from Columbia University and from Oxford University in England and the Ph.D. from Columbia. She taught at Columbia before joining the UT faculty. A Fulbright Fellow at Oxford in 1987-88, she also has held Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities.

Richmond's topic fits well with one of the library's noted strengths -- the William Luther Lewis Collection of works by outstanding English and American writers of the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries. Centerpiece of the collection is an exceptionally rare set of Shakespeariana, the Pavier Quartos. The only other known set in a contemporary binding is in the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, D.C. The Lewis collection also contains a fine copy of the Second Folio (1632) of Shakespeare's plays from the library of Viscount Brackley, son of the first Earl of Bridgewater, along with a Third Folio, second issue (1664) and Fourth Folio (1685).

SURVEY SHOWS TCU IS 'A GOOD BUY'

An institution's reputation as "a good buy" usually rests on the cost of tuition and fees. Based on that criteria, TCU is one of the best buys among 20 private institutions which are considered major competition for student applicants.

Sixteen of the total are members of the Southern Consortium of College Admissions, a group with which TCU personnel travel for recruiting purposes, explained Joan Rogers of admissions. Non-consortium members listed are University of the South, Austin College, Southwestern University and Baylor.

The survey with cost references from the Oct. 21 issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education and enrollment figures from the 1992 Higher Education Directory showed the average cost of these private institutions for 1992-93 to be $10,500. Five on the list -- TCU, Rice, Baylor, Southwestern and Austin College -- fall below that figure.

The listing of schools, their 1991-91 and 1992-93 costs along with enrollment figures, provided by Buck Beneze of the Dean of Students office, includes the following:

School	Tuition & Fees		Enrollment
	1991-92	1992-93
Tulane	17,000	18,200	11,100

MINORITY INTERN PROGRAM BEGINS

A college publication internship program for minority high school students is under way in the journalism department. Internships are available in writing, editing, photography, design and production, according to Chairman Anantha Babbili. Interns will work for the TCU Daily Skiff.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for young men and women who are interested in journalism to learn more about the profession," Anantha said. "They will work with some of the best student writers and editors on an award-winning college newspaper. We hope some of the enthusiasm of our student journalists will rub off on these high school students and they will enroll in our college journalism program."

High school students will work under the guidance of student editors and will have the opportunity to learn all aspects of newspaper journalism, added Publications Director Paul LaRocque.

Being sought from all Fort Worth-Dallas area high schools, students will work one or two evenings a week on the Skiff, writing and editing stories, writing headlines, taking and developing pictures, designing pages and producing them on a computer. While the internships are non-paying, they provide valuable experience to anyone interested in a journalism career, he said.

Some students already are interested in the program, according to Paul, "but we have a problem getting students who live some distance from the campus to TCU and back. Some do not have transportation, so we're seeking volunteers to pick them up after school and return them home after they finish work here."

If the program is successful and enough interest is shown, it will be expanded to include advertising and Image.

"There are not enough minority students going into journalism, and news media across the country are begging colleges to send them qualified minority journalism graduates," Paul said.

High school students interested in applying for the program or drivers who can provide transportation should contact Paul at Ext. 7425.

ARTISTS' COLONIES TO BE NOV. 10 TOPIC

Ree Schonlau founded and directs a 68,000-square-foot art facility in Omaha that provides 14 work/living spaces and monthly stipends plus an exhibition program for artists on a year-round basis in a redeveloped urban warehouse.

Visiting Fort Worth as a TCU Mary Potishman Lard lecturer in art, Schonlau will discuss "Eighteen Artists' Colonies" in her free, public lecture at 7 p.m. Nov. 10 at the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth. She is a board member of Fairly Loose Association of Artists' Communities, a group of 18 artists' communities funded by the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation.

A native of Omaha who earned her Bachelor of Fine Arts degree at the University of Nebraska-Omaha, Schonlau began her career as a studio artist in 1968 and opened her own art gallery three years later. In 1980 she founded Alternative Worksite, Artist-in-Industry Program, which brought more than 100 artists to work at industrial sites. Schonlau has originated and presented 134 exhibitions and 48 workshops since 1971.

Her current project, Alternative Worksite/Bemis Foundation, has been in business since 1985. As executive director, she handles fund raising, grant writing, programming and exhibitions for the organization, which has an annual budget of more than $400,000.

ALUMNI PLANNING SPRING TRIPS

Two trips for alumni and friends to sunny climes are on the spring schedule under the sponsorship of the TCU Alumni Association in cooperation with INTRAV.

"Wings over the Nile Adventure" is the theme for the 13-day journey that begins Feb. 20 and includes a four-night cruise of the Nile River aboard the M. S. Nephtis as well as the flight aboard a privately chartered plane to such important Egyptian sites as Abu Simbel, the Red Sea and the Sinai Desert. Cities on the itinerary include Cairo, Hurghada, Luxor, Aswan, Edfu and Kom Ombo.

April 17-20 are dates for the 13-day air/sea cruise aboard the Sun Viking for "The Many Faces of Canary Islands, Morocco and Spain." Going from medieval Morocco to modern Spain, the travelers will visit Santa Cruz; Tenerife, the largest of the Canaries; La Palma, considered the greenest of the islands; and Grand Canary before sailing to the volcanic island of Arrecife, Lanzarote. Morocco's Agadir is on the schedule as are Casablanca and Gibraltar before sailing to Barcelona. A two-day trip to Marrakech is an option as is a two-day extension to Madrid.

Folders and additional information are available from the alumni office, Ext. 7803.

CAMPUS MENTORS OFFER FALL UPDATE

The Campus Mentor program will host a program titled "How I've Used My Training," a panel discussion featuring veteran participants, at 12:30 p.m. Nov. 17 in Student Center 218. Faculty, staff members and students may attend.

Yesterday (Monday) Campus Mentors sponsored two educational programs and a reception in the Student Center. "When a Student Has AIDS or is HIV+," was offered for faculty and staff members in the afternoon and was followed by a reception for program participants. In the evening "College Students Get AIDS, Too" was presented in the ballroom.

'FUN, FESTIVE' EVENT SET

Billed as a "fun and festive evening," a gathering of Kansas City-area alumni is planned for Nov. 10.

To be held at Hale Arena in the new American Royal Building, the event is sponsored by TCU's Kansas City alumni chapter, headed by Jim and Katherine Biety Schorgl of TCU's Classes of 1984 and 1985, respectively.

A 5:30 p.m. reception will be followed by a performance by country music star Susie Boggus.

SKI TRIP OPEN TO FACULTY, STAFF MEMBERS

The recreation and travel committee of the Programming Council will again arrange a winter break ski trip open to faculty and staff members as well as to students. Dates are Jan. 3-10, 1993, in Steamboat Springs and Breckenridge, Colo. Details may be obtained at the Student Center information desk, and reservations may be made in the student activities office.

TCU TRIO WILL PLAY NOV. 9

The TCU Trio -- composed of violinist Kurt Sprenger, pianist Jill Sprenger and cellist John Burton -- will present a TCU Music Series recital at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 9 in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

On the program will be two Trios, Op. 70 No. 1 (The Ghost) by Beethoven and Modere by Ravel.

The TCU Trio, now in its third year, performs locally and has toured as far as Hawaii. Kurt Sprenger directs orchestral studies in the music department; his wife teaches in the University's piano preparatory division; and Burton is an associate professor of music, teaching in the place of his first cello teacher, Harriet Risk Woldt, now retired from TCU.

COMPUTER MUSICIANS TALK THURSDAY

Perry Cook, researcher at Stanford University's Center for Computer Research in Music and Acoustics, and Dexter Morrill, professor of music at Colgate University, will be featured in a Theory/Composition/Computer Music Lecture Series here Thursday. The program is open to all.

Cook will speak on "SPASM: A Real-Time Vocal Tract Physical Model Controller and Singer: The Companion Software Synthesis System" from 12:30 to 1:45 p.m. in Room 103 of Ed Landreth Hall, and Morrill will present "The Trumpet as a MIDI Controller" from 2 to 3 p.m. in Ed Landreth 207.

SPASM (Singing Physical Articulatory Synthesis Model), a voice synthesis system using a physically parameterized model of the human vocal tract, is a real-time Digital Signal Processor interface program allowing graphical interactive experimentation.

Morrill, who directs Colgate's Computer Music Studio, has received composition grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and other performing organizations, and his computer music compositions have been performed throughout the Western Hemisphere and in Europe.

He spends part of his time researching the analysis/synthesis of trumpet tones. In his lecture he will demonstrate the MIDI trumpet system and discuss use of the small computer for MIDI processing and proposals for a new MIDI trumpet.

ANATOMIST TO LECTURE FRIDAY

Robert Wordings, Ph.D., of the Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine will present a seminar at noon Friday in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 4. He will lecture on "Immunolocalization of basic fibroblast growth factor in uterine tissue." Wordings is vice chairman of TCOM's anatomy department and an associate professor.

The program, hosted by the department of biology, is sponsored by the TCU Research Fund as part of its current lectureship series. Interested faculty and staff members as well as students may attend.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Student Center Director Larry Markley and Programming Council students Christopher Hightower and Andrea McEvoy attended the National Association for Campus Activities South Central Regional Conference in Houston Oct. 8-11. They attended educational programming sessions, talked with various artists' agents, viewed 40 showcase acts and discussed similar programming situations with 80 other colleges.

Larry presented a session, "Program Board Structures - How Do They Stand?" He also presented the Markley Scholarship to Donna Hadley of Angelo State University and the Markley Award to Belinda Miller of Designs for Development. This is an annual presentation of awards named for him.

Chemist Bill Smith has been asked to serve an additional three-year term on the advisory editorial board of the international journal Magnetic Resonance in Chemistry. He has served on this board since 1983.

Gerald Gabel (music) attended the International Computer Music Conference Oct. 14-18 at San Jose State University (CA). He and graduate student Jay Upchurch delivered a "Studio Report" entitled "The Constance J. Upchurch Studio for Electro-Acoustic Music." Smets and Zeitlinger in the Netherlands report they will publish Gerald's article, "A Context-Based Approach for Musical Textous," in their journal Interface during 1994.

Judy Lambiotte (educational foundations) attended the Midwest Educational Research Association Conference in Chicago in mid-October and served as chair/discussant for a session on "How Abstract Representations Facilitate a Variety of Learning Outcomes."

Alan Shepard (English) has learned that his essay, "Aborted Rage in Beth Henley's Women," a study of the relationships of oppression and subjectivity across several of the Mississippi-born playwright's scripts, will be published in Modern Drama (University of Toronto Press).

The Physical Plant Employee of the Quarter Award has been given to Tom Washburn for the third quarter of 1992. Tom is a Craft Tech II in the grounds department. The award recognizing the employee for outstanding service carries with it a $150 cash award, a commemorative coffee mug and an engraved entry on the physical plant performance board.

David Addis, George Gilbert and Rhonda Hatcher (mathematics) and senior Steve Scott received word that their paper, "Mellin transforms of a generalization of Legendre Polynomials," written jointly with Michael Oberle of Oklahoma State University, has been accepted for publication in the Journal of Computational and Applied Mathematics. The research for this paper was funded by a National Science Foundation REU grant.

Gary Wilson (Ranch Management) presented a paper entitled "Value Determination in Beef Cattle" during the World Simmental Federation Conference. The paper was translated into French, German, Italian and Spanish. Simmental breeders from all over the United States and many foreign countries attended the conference.

Ruth and Terry Ellmore (retired, radio-TV-film) will be among participants in the 12 annual Craft Basket sale Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. near Southwest High at 4271 Cadiz. As in the past, handmade and handcrafted gifts, holiday decor, etc. will be featured.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Five TCU staff members attended the annual meeting of the National Academic Advising Association in Atlanta Oct. 11-14. Three Center for Academic Services staff members made presentations during the conference. Teoby Gomez spoke on "Using Self-Assessment to Promote Students in Academic Difficulty," and Gail Zimmerman's subject was "Advising the Learning Disabled College Student: A Primer for the Non-specialist." Center Director Michael Brooks co-presented an invited pre-conference workshop on "Administering Advising Units: Case Analysis and Issues Clarification." Cassandra Adams (Neeley School of Business) and Sarah Schafer (Extended Education) also were among more than 1,300 conference participants.

Andrew Lester (Brite) was guest speaker last week for two Metroplex meetings on pastoral care. On Oct. 27 he was featured speaker for the 30th annual Powhatan W. James Memorial Seminar in Pastoral Care at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas. Theme of the seminar was "Pastoral Care of the Angry Person," and Andy delivered three addresses on "Understanding Angry People: A Pastoral Theology of Anger," "Anger and the Spiritual Journey: Creative or Destructive?" and "Pastoral Care with Angry Persons: Strategies for Assessment and Intervention."

At All Saints Episcopal Hospital's Pastoral Care Conference Oct. 29 at the Fort Worth Botanic Garden Center, Andy lectured on "Masculinity Revisited: The Search for Hope." Theme of the conference was "The Male: Health of Body, Mind and Spirit."

"Interaction Between Slow Positrons and Atoms," a collaborative effort co-authored by Bruce Miller (physics) and a group of Soviet and Australian atomic physicists headed by Victor Flambaum, will appear shortly in the proceedings of the 85th Nobel Symposium on Atomic Physics. It uses current state-of-the-art software to determine the effective interaction of a positron with a single Xenon atom and verifies the existence of a strong virtual resonance in the positron-Xenon system. This work was initiated last spring while Bruce was on sabbatical leave at the University of New South Wales in Sydney.

The National Science Foundation recently approved a proposal submitted by Bruce and former physics graduate student Terrence Reese (Ph.D. Aug. 1992). For "Localization of a Light Particle in a Dense Fluid," the NSF has allocated 400 units which, with a commercial value of about $1,000 per unit, are most welcome, the physicists indicated. They will use the supercomputer to carry out structural computations of positronium in a dense fluid.

Nancy Sayner (nursing) has received confirmation that her manuscript, "Evaluating Research Findings for Clinical Applicability," will be published in the American Journal of Neuroscience Nursing" next June.

Psychologist Lisa Rollins-Garcia (counseling center) recently was elected secretary of the Tarrant County Psychological Association.

TCU VS. TEXAS KICKOFF IS AT NOON

Changing from the earlier-announced schedule, Saturday's game with the University of Texas will begin at noon in Amon Carter Stadium. The move from a 2 p.m. start was made when the game was chosen to be televised by Raycom on Channel 11.

The game will represent the 77th battle between the Horned Frogs and the Longhorns. The first game in the long history of competition was in 1897 in Austin with UT winning 18-10. The only tie was 0-0 in Austin in 1927. Of their 76 games to date, Texas has won 57.

ORDER INITIATES FACULTY, STAFF MEMBERS

For the first time, the Order of Omega, an organization of fraternity and sorority leaders who maintain grades above the all-Greek grade-point average, has initiated faculty and staff members. Charles Becker, Mary Anne Gorman, Larry Markley, Bill Moncrief and Roger Pfaffenberger joined Oct. 26 and will serve as liaisons between their colleagues and the student members.

The order will sponsor an all-campus party to raise funds for its annual Christmas Tree Lighting and Greek Week events. To attend the fund-raiser, scheduled for Nov. 5 at Billy Bob's Texas, supporters will contribute $5 per person. University students must bring proper identification.

From Nov. 16 through Dec. 1, Order of Omega members will register participants in the "Spirit of Christmas" children's gift program coordinated by Team Bank. Collection of pledged gifts will culminate in the Dec. 4 festivities around the campus Christmas tree.

TCU IN THE NEWS

It's rush season for political science professors. Ralph Carter, department chairman, was in the news twice on Oct. 20. He did a live interview with KRLD Radio at 3:45 p.m. on democracy in Kuwait, then was interviewed on Channel 5's 10 p.m. newscast on female voter turnout this year along with senior Jennifer Klein.

"Political mud was thicker in early elections" was the Star-Telegram headline for the Oct. 14 story that quoted historian Paul Boller extensively. He noted that Abraham Lincoln suffered the most vicious political attacks in American history in 1864 and his wife became the first first lady to be a campaign issue and remained the most vilified presidential wife until Eleanor Roosevelt. In earlier times, "all this mud was slung by the candidates' followers," he said. "When you get presidential candidates like George Bush making petty remarks, that's new."

The Oct. 22 Star-Telegram included a photo of Bill Vanderhoof (education) in action as a volunteer for the recent library book sale at Will Rogers Complex.

Joe Phipps's book, Summer Stock: Behind the Scenes with LBJ in '48, released by TCU Press, was discussed in a lengthy article in the Oct. 21 issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education along with a quote from Press Editor Tracy Row.

Coach Pat Sullivan was among those featured in the July-August issue of Southern Living in the article "New Faces on Campus" in its all-South special section. Quoted in the story was Chancellor Bill Tucker.

The new Fort Worth Press carried a lengthy interview with Bob Frye (English) Oct. 15 after he won the Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching. The writer, Z. Joe Thornton, called special attention to Bob's weekly exchange of letters with his freshman students and quoted a former student as remembering Bob for "his unbounded intellect and his absolute faith in the value of student contributions. His lectures were both conversational and informationally jam-packed."

Vice Chancellor Bronson Davis' presentation at an April conference on major donor research was noted in the November/December issue of CASE Currents. "If you feel that way (the Daingerfield of development) as a prospect researcher," the story read, "there's hope -- and respect -- ahead. Take a tip from Bronson Davis..." It suggested that interested persons write him for a copy of his advice on setting priorities, guiding solicitations and becoming a full partner in the office.

Calendar of Events

- Nov. 3 --TCU Research Lecture in mathematics, "Limit sets of Kleinian groups," by Prof. David Wright of Oklahoma State University, Winton-Scott 145, 4 p.m. Refreshments served in Winton-Scott 171 at 3:30 p.m.
- TCU faculty art exhibit, Moudy Building Exhibition Hall, through Nov. 25. Opening reception 6-8 p.m. Nov. 3, subsequently open 1-4 p.m. weekends, 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Mondays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Tuesdays-Fridays.
- Nov. 4 --Journalism department videoconference, "Refrigerator Journalism: Making Your Writing More Useful and Usable," featuring Dr. Don Ranly, head of the magazine program at the University of Missouri, Moudy Building 164S, 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m. Free but reservations must be made at Ext. 7425.
- Seminar, "Working with Non-Traditional Students," Center for Academic Services, Rickel 106, 3:30 p.m. Call Ext. 7486 to make reservation.
- Nov. 5 --TCU Theory/Composition/Computer Music Lecture Series: Perry Cook of Stanford University speaking on "SPASM: A Real-Time Vocal Tract Physical Model Controller and Singer: The Companion Software Synthesis System," Ed Landreth Hall 103, 12:30-1:45 p.m.; Dexter Morrill of Colgate University discussing "The Trumpet as a MIDI Controller," Ed Landreth Hall 207, 2-3 p.m.
- Nov. 6 --Men's soccer, TCU vs. West Texas State, TCU soccer field, 3 p.m.
- Friends of TCU Library, featuring Dr. Elizabeth Richmond of the University of Texas at Austin speaking on "Submitting a Trifle for a Degree: Dramatic Productions at Oxford and Cambridge in the Age of Shakespeare," Mary Couets Burnett Library, 7:30 p.m. The program is open to all interested persons, and information is available at Ext. 7106.
- Concert by Sharir Dance Company/Austin and Contemporary Dance/Fort Worth, Ed Landreth Auditorium, 8 p.m. Admission $8 ($5 for students and senior citizens), co-sponsored by CD/FW and TCU Department of Ballet and Modern Dance. Ext. 7615.
- Nov. 7 --Football, TCU vs. Texas, Amon Carter Stadium, noon.
- Nov. 8 --Men's soccer, TCU vs. SMU, TCU soccer field, 1 p.m.
- Nov. 9 --Schedule advising for spring, through Nov. 20.
- Monday at TCU.
- TCU Music Series recital by TCU Trio, Ed Landreth Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

OFFICIAL ABSENCES

Students listed below must make up any class assignments that were missed. It is the responsibility of the student to arrange with his/her professor for the make-up. If you have any questions, call 921-7855.

Women's golf team members who missed classes after 3:30 p.m., on October 21, 22 and 23 to participate in the NCAA Preview Invitational at Athens, Georgia:

Copping, Charlotte Doran, Geraldine Germain, Sharon Kragh, Jane
Perry, Julie

Men's golf team members who missed classes on October 26, 27 and 28 to participate in Nike Northwest Classic at Corvallis, OR:

Adams, Slade Flynn, Mike Roecker, Doug White, Wade
Zinnecker, Deron

Men and women swim team members who missed classes on Friday, October 30, to participate in the Southwest Conference Relays at Austin:

MEN

Blair, Robert	Doggett, David	Dolynchuk, John	Fell, Brian
Fennell, Joseph	Forrest, Ronald	Gauthier, Philippe	Gobel, Erik
