DYSON IS HONORS GREEN PROFESSOR

Freeman J. Dyson, recognized as one of the world's great physicists as well as a gifted writer who can communicate his ideas to a broad audience, will be Cecil H. and Ida Green Honors Chair Professor during Honors Week April 12-16.

Dyson, who has been professor of physics at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton, N.J., since 1953, will present two public lectures during his TCU visit. He will speak on "Revolutions in Astronomy: Past and Present" at 7:30 p.m. April 14 in the Student Center ballroom and will address the annual Honors Convocation on "The Scientist as Rebel" at 11 a.m. April 15 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. He also will continue that discussion with students and faculty at the Honors Forum at 2 p.m. that day in the Faculty Center.

A native of England, he earned the B.A. in mathematics from the University of Cambridge in 1945 and was a fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1946-47. He was elected an honorary fellow of Trinity College in 1989. Dyson came to the United States with a Commonwealth Fellowship to Cornell University in 1947, then studied at Birmingham University in England from 1949 to 1951, when he became professor of physics at Cornell. He has been a U.S. citizen since 1957.

Dyson was trained as a pure mathematician with an interest in number theory, but his particular mathematical skills were especially appreciated by physicists so he switched to physics. He helped design the TRIGA reactor and ORION spaceship at General Atomic in San Diego in the late 1950s and has been a consultant to such government bodies as weapons laboratories, the Space Agency, the Disarmament Agency and the Defense Department.

During World War II Dyson worked as a civilian for the Royal Air Force doing operations research, and he has continued to ponder human problems of war and peace, speaking and writing about ethical dilemmas of the nuclear age

In 1979 he published Disturbing the Universe, a scientific autobiography containing meditations on the human condition. Other meditations were contained in Weapons and Hope, for which he earned the National Book Critics Circle Award for Non-Fiction in 1984. Dyson's Infinite in All Directions (1988) won the Phi Beta Kappa Award in Science.

He chaired the Federation of American Scientists in 1962-63 and was elected to the U.S. National Academy of Sciences in 1964. Dyson's awards are many, including those from American Institute of Physics, Royal Netherlands Academy, Royal Society in London, German Physical Society, Center for Theoretical Studies in Miami, Technion of Israel, Wolf Foundation of Israel, the Italian Accademia Nazionale delle Scienze dei Quaranta and the American Association of Physics Teachers. He received the Britannica Award for dissemination of knowledge in 1990.

Honors Week opens April 12 with presentation of senior honors projects from 2 to 5 p.m. in Moudy 141N. After opening remarks by Honors director David Grant, student speakers will be psychology major Cherylynn Johnson, "Current Attitudes on Sexism and Sexual Discrimination"; Allison Meyer, political science, "Family Preservation: A Policy Evaluation of Prevention in America"; Elizabeth Lunday, English, "Riverside"; Holly Luttrell, mathematics, "Applications of Number Theory to Cryptography." Others will be Emily Brosveen, history, "Justice Betrayed: Japanese Internment Camps in Texas During World War II"; David Kinch, English, "Lucifer to Mephistopheles: The Representation of the Devil from the 14th to the 16th Century"; and Forrest Buchly, English, "An American Pendulum."

Jurma Chairs Boller Panel

The panel of judges to select the Boller Award winner for the outstanding project will be headed by Bill Jurma of speech communication. Others are John Bohon of history, John Breyer of geology, Joe Britton of biology and Jim Kelly of chemistry.

April 13 presentations, also in Moudy 141N from 2 to 5 p.m., will be made by Julie Feuerhelm, social work, "Social Work Education and the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator: A Self-Awareness Tool"; Jeffrey Gunter, biology, "Effects of Varying Vitamin Supplementation on Growing Juvenile Flapneck Chameleons"; Susan Firestone, chemistry, "The Kallawaya Indians -- A Guide for Modern Medicinal Research"; Lara Rankin, journalism, "Corporate Sponsorship in Equestrian Sports: Finding a Horse to Ride"; Catherine Nelson, Spanish, "El papel de la madre en obras elegidas de Camilo Jose Cela"; Kristen Norton, English, "Tom, Dick, and Huck: An Analysis of Literary Audiences"; and Jamie McIlvain, history, "History of Hispanic Fort Worth."

Other April 13 events include two honor society initiations, Sigma Delta Pi (Spanish) at 4 p.m. in the Faculty Center and Kappa Tau Alpha (journalism) at 5:30 p.m. in Student Center Woodson Room. Dean of Students Libby Proffer will be speaker for the journalism dinner meeting.

Honors Recital Is April 14

Ten student musicians will present the 18th annual Honors Recital at 3 p.m. April 14 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Performers were selected by audition to take part in the recital, sponsored by Gamma Epsilon chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda, music honor society.

Organist Kevin Estes will open the program with a movement from Charles Marie Widor's Symphonie pour Orgue No. 5, followed by soprano Stephanie Lewis singing two arias from Puccini operas. Other organists on the program will be Brent McCartney, playing Bach's Toccatina in D minor, and Hyun Kim, Cesar Franck's Piece Heroique.

Vocalists also will include tenor Tony Gonzalez, singing an aria from Donizetti's Elisir d'amore; soprano Julianne Akers, an aria from La Boheme by Puccini; and soprano Reyth Oliver, songs by Mendelssohn, Mozart and Brahms. Flutist Lynne Guess will play Charles T. Griffes' Poeme, and piano performances will be by Xiao-Bo Chen, playing L'isle joyeuse by Debussy, and Alexandre Cabral, two movements from Alexander Scriabin's Sonata No. 4.

The Golden Key reception, "Best of America," begins at 4 p.m. that day in the Faculty Center, and Kappa Delta Pi education honor society will hold its initiation and reception at 6:30 p.m. at Starpoint School. Dyson's 7:30 p.m. talk in the ballroom will be the final event on the April 14 program.

David Grant will preside over the April 15 convocation, for which all 11 a.m. classes will be dismissed. The organ processional and postlude will be played by senior biology major Kevin Estes, and the invocation will be delivered by Jamie McIlvain, who formerly chaired the Student Honors Cabinet. Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler will make welcoming remarks. Alpha Lambda Delta Award winners will be named by the society's president, Jennifer Duncan, and Don Mills, interim vice chancellor for student affairs, will announce scholarship awards.

Chancellor Bill Tucker will introduce the 1993 electees to Phi Beta Kappa, and David will present the TCU Honors Scholar Award. Junior Akum Norder, who chairs the Student Honors Cabinet, will announce the winner of the 1992 Honors Faculty Award, TCU's oldest and most prestigious teaching award given by students.

Dyson will be introduced by mathematician Bob Doran. Sheila Allen of music will lead the Alma Mater.

Banquet Honors Babbili

The Honors Banquet at 6:30 p.m. April 15 in the Student Center ballroom, subtitled "A Bazaar of the Bizarre," pays tribute to the 1992-93 Honors Professor, Anantha Babbili. After the Indian dinner and a performance of two classical Indian dances by Simona Bhatia, Akim will introduce the journalism chairman, who will speak on "Tyranny of Image: The World Outside and Our Failure to Communicate."

Vice Chancellor Koehler will introduce departmental senior scholars. C.A. Quarles, president of the TCU chapter of Sigma Xi, will present its award to the outstanding senior in science, and the Phi Beta Kappa award to the outstanding senior in liberal studies will be presented by Phi Beta Kappa president Emmet Smith. David Grant will announce the Boller Award winner. Julianne Akers has chaired the banquet committee, which includes Akum, Fiona Barriac, Amy Jablonski, Ben Johnson, Jennifer Sherpan and Wendy Wright.

Closing event of Honors Week will be the alumni initiation and graduation reception of Phi Upsilon Omicron, honor society for home economics-related disciplines, at 7 p.m. April 16 in Annie Richardson Bass Building living room.

HISPANIC CULTURE CELEBRATED

Anna Martinez of Channel 8 News will speak during a TCU Fiesta Week V.I.P. luncheon at 12:30 p.m. today (Tuesday) in the Student Center's Woodson Room. Tickets to the $7-per-person event may be purchased at the door.

Fort Worth City Council member Carlos Puente and the band Mariachi Zacatecas opened the week Monday with a city proclamation and concert.

Ballet Folklorico Azteca y Mariachi '90, a Fort Worth dance and music ensemble, will perform a free concert at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center ballroom.

Programming Council member Greg Treviño, a sophomore business management major, coordinates Fiesta Week events as chairman. "We hope students will understand more about Hispanic culture here on campus as well as outside the campus," he commented.

The Organization of Latin American Students (O.L.A.S.), the programming council and its "T.G.I.F." committee, Marriott Food Service and the City of Fort Worth lent support to the 1993 campus celebration. Monica Mendez-Grant, minority and program adviser in the University's student activities office, also worked with student planners.

Student activities scheduled during the special-emphasis week include a piñata party, a game of loteria and a "Some Like it Hot" jalapeño-eating contest.

WADSWORTH, SPRINTERS WIN

A throw of 54 feet and a 39.79-second run were enough to put Stevanie Wadsworth and the Frog spring relay team in winners' positions at the SMU Invitational track meet March 27 at Morrison-Bell Track Stadium.

Stevanie threw her outdoor-season best on her third attempt to defeat SMU's Joan Hacker, who recently finished third, two places above Stevanie, at the NCAA indoor meet.

For the second consecutive meet, Horned Frog runners won in the men's and women's 4x100 competition. The women's time was 46.12, while the men broke the 40-second barrier with a 39.79.

In individual competition, Freshman Eddie Crowe won the 1,500 meters in 3:51.32. Ann Moon, anchor for the women's sprint relay, placed first in the 400 meters with 55.69. Sprinter Beverly McDonald ran a 22.94 to better the previous week's NCAA qualifying time of 23.22, but she finished the 100 meters with 11.141, just over her previous 11.38. Both times are under the 1.43 necessary to qualify for the NCAA.

ARLINGTON, PLANO BANDS ARE WINNERS

Jazz bands from Arlington and Plano won all the prizes in the University's 16th annual Jazz Festival March 27 in Ed Landreth Hall.

The first and second bands from Arlington Lamar High School won first places in both 5A first band and 5A second band competitions. John Gray, a trumpeter with the Lamar first jazz band, was chosen as outstanding performer in the festival.

Other first band competition winners were Plano East Senior High School, second, and Plano senior high, third place. Second and third prizes in second band competition were awarded respectively to Plano's Clark high and Arlington's Martin high. Competition jurors were Leon Breeden, director emeritus of jazz studies at the University of North Texas and former TCU band director; Rex Cadwallader, assistant jazz studies director at the University of Texas at Arlington; Tim Ishi of the Texas Wesleyan University music faculty; and Noe Marmalejo, jazz studies director at the University of Houston.

ANDEAN FILM SERIES CONTINUES

Two April programs will conclude a four-part film series on Andes cultures that has been open to the University community and the public. The films are being shown in conjunction with a course on "Indigenous Peoples of the Andes" taught by anthropologist Andy Miracle.

"The Spirit Possession of Alejandro Mamani" and "Evil Wind, Evil Air" will be shown during tonight's (Tuesday) session to coincide with class discussions of Andean sickness and healing. The program will begin at 8 p.m. in Dan Rogers 134.

On April 20 students and visitors will consider the plight of Aymara peasants in an urban world after the showing of two short films. That session will begin at 7:30 p.m. "Viracocha" concerns traditional political relationships with non-Aymara Bolivians, fictive kin relationships and subordination of indigenous peoples; "Aymara Leadership" offers a view of internal village politics.

"I want to give people an opportunity to learn something about the Andes. This is a critical area, with a lot going on in terms of economic and social change. The films will provide a backdrop to current events," Andy commented.

VOICE-OVER ACTOR BOOKED APRIL 12

Fans of "The Ren and Stimpy Show," a Nickelodeon cartoon spinoff from "The Simpsons," will have opportunity to welcome the man behind the voice behind the animation as Billy West entertains at 7:30 p.m. April 12 in the Student Center ballroom. For those nostalgic for more conventional television treats, West also embodies the voices of his former characters, including the Honeynut Cheerios bee and Cecil the seasick sea serpent from the old ABC cartoon "Beanie and Cecil."

"An Evening with Billy West, the One Man Voice Squad" is a 75-minute multimedia presentation offering a romp behind the scenes of cartoon creation. It climaxes with a video of the classic "Ren and Stimpy Show" episode dubbed in Japanese. He will discuss voice-overs in radio and television advertising and the development of characters. The Programming Council arranged for West's appearance. Admission is free with University ID.

Well-known in animation circles, West is of a breed seldom seen. In addition to the cartoon voices, he also has been a self-described "utility infielder" for flak radio personality Howard Stern and has mimicked the voices of Leona Helmsley and others. Another current project featuring the actor's versatile vocal cords is "Doug," the story of a "painfully ordinary" 11-year-old boy in the suburbs.

A Mel Blanc devotee, West recalls that even as a very small child he listened to radio voices and imitated them. Sitting in front of the television watching Hanna-Barbera cartoons in the 1950s, he scanned the credits. "Much to my astonishment," recounts West, "it was usually only a couple of guys doing armies of characters."

West is a Detroit native who moved to Boston in 1963. He ventured onstage as a standup comic in 1978, worked at a rock radio station and landed the "Cecil" role in 1988. He moved to New York City to work in radio and television and has performed in hundreds of commercials.

COMMUNICATION DAY IS TOMORROW

Participants in the Biosphere II project are planning to visit the campus tomorrow through a teleconference at the Neeley School's Center for Productive Communication videoconference center. The session is part of the CPC's second annual Business Communication Day from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Tandy Hall atrium

More than a dozen vendors will display such communication technologies as audio graphics teleconferencing, satellite-based education programs, computer data base services and software that assists organizations with crisis management.

Among companies at the communication technology fair will be Ansoft Data Systems, AT&T, Bank One N.A., Computer City, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Harwood Marketing, IBM, J.C. Penney Company Inc., Lanier Worldwide Inc. and Lockheed Fort Worth. Others will be PictureTel, Radio Shack, Satellite Management International, Shure Teleconferencing, StarText, Tarrant County Junior College, Texas Department of Commerce and The Business Press.

In addition to demonstrations of communication technologies, other sessions will focus on interpersonal relations. Both undergraduate and graduate students will address a group of human resource executives from local businesses judging the "Let's Talk Business" speech contest. The competition begins at 12:45 p.m. in Tandy 193.

The "Communication in Business" forum address by Tim Carter, president of Texas Commerce Bank N.A., will conclude the day's activities. To speak at 3 p.m. in Dan Rogers 264, he will discuss the bank's employee and corporate communication program.

ISLAND TOUR ADDED TO GEAR TRIP

Gail Gear's May 18-June 2 trip that originally included art history tours of Egypt and Greece and a five-day Nile River cruise has been changed to eight days in Athens with a seven-day cruise to the Greek islands and Turkey.

Arriving in Athens May 19, the group will study there until May 24, embarkation day for a cruise to Dikili, Istanbul and Kusadasi, Turkey, with a side trip to Ephesus, then on to Rhodes, Santorini, Delos and back to Athens May 31. Cost is $3,885 plus tuition for three to six hours of upper level credit. For more information, call Gail at Ext. 7118 or 7643 or at 924-0933.

SAFE BREAK SUPPORTERS THANKED

Safe Break '93 committee members have issued a statement of appreciation for those who took part in the pre-spring break campaign against high-risk behaviors during the holidays. "As faculty and staff, you play an active and influential role in encouraging participation in the types of programs R.O.A.D. (Responsibility of Alcohol and Drugs) Workers offer. During Safe Break '93, many professors incorporated the message of alcohol and drug abuse prevention into their lectures through classroom presentations and activities. This type of promotion is essential in realizing the goals we set at the beginning of the awareness week. Through these activities, students and faculty members become more aware of the issues we are facing. . . . R.O.A.D. Workers and the Alcohol and Drug Education program appreciate all you do to support their efforts to create a healthier campus environment."

KODAK SEMINAR TO BE THURSDAY

"Techniques of the Masters," a free satellite teleconference featuring Kodak's April seminar, will be shown Thursday from noon to 2 p.m. by TAGER TV/Telecommunications. Ansel Adams protege John Sexton and Magnum photographer Sebastao Sabagado will be featured in the program dealing with black and white photography.

Sexton's landscapes and technical imagery will be illustrated along with his first-hand demonstration of creating black and white prints. Salgado, known for his photographs of "The Workers," will be shown at work in his Paris darkroom as he prepares for a new exhibit opening in Philadelphia later this month.

Additional information about the teleconference, to be in TAGER Building 103, is available from Deana Muirheid at Ext. 7632.

HONOR SOCIETY INDUCTS 43

Dr. Edward Simmen, professor of English and American literature at la Universidad de las Américas-Puebla (UDLA) in Mexico, addressed the Beta Epsilon chapter of Phi Beta Delta, honor society for international scholars, at an induction ceremony March 23 for 43 new faculty, staff and student members. Simmen, who earned his doctoral degree in 1966, talked on "Clashing Cultures -- The Table is in the Chicken."

Honorary memberships were granted to Reece Moyers, U.S. Department of State officer-in-residence in the Neeley School of Business; Antonio Sánchez Aguilar, professor of computer science and vice president of academic support at UDLA; Simmen; and former Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives Jim Wright .

Faculty and staff members inducted into Phi Beta Delta were Margie Adkins, art and art history; Peggy Brightman, ballet and modern dance; Robert Garwell, fine arts and communication; Joe Helmick, graduate studies and research; Jane Kucko, design and fashion; Charles Lamb, marketing; Nancy Meadows, curriculum and instruction; David Nolan, advancement; Mark Thistlethwaite, art and art history; and Sandra Ware, admissions.

The chapter's new international student members include Jing Chen, Qi Jai, and Li Jin, all of People's Republic of China; Hans Katte, Germany; Jane Kragh, Denmark; Tom Leoni, Italy; Shen-Pai Liu and Ya Fang Chen, Taiwan; Oriana Mourides, Cyprus; Yuji Nishimura, Naoko Sato and Elizabeth Wenegieme, Japan.

Students from the United States were Therese Albers, Leslie Borkowski, John Clark, Heather Cunningham, Kristal Griffith, Howard Horn, Sharon Jett, Karen Johnstone, Julie Jones, Michael LaHood, Leslie Lambie, Catherine Nelson, Lee Perkins, Kelly Rose, Erika Schermerhorn, Nancy Severa and Suzanne Straight.

MORTAR BOARD INDUCTEES HONORED

On April 4, the new members of Mortar Board were inducted during an afternoon ceremony in Robert Carr Chapel. Along with their families, they attended a reception in the Faculty Center.

The recently tapped members are Baron Atkins, Brien Bergner, Michelle Bourgeois, Scott Brown, Kathleen Bury, Kimberly Christenson, Derek DeCross, Pamela DeGroat, Barry Gore, Andrew Grove, Benjamin Hall, Jennifer Hall, Holli Harry, Jennifer Haskins, Michael Henry, Laurie Hyde and John Lamb. Others are Angela Langer, Kathleen Martin, Lisa McKenna, John Morris, Stephen Mueller, Jason Orr, Thomas Phu, Elizabeth Robertson, Ann Schonberg, Shannon Sill, Adrienne Specker, Mary Stocks, Linda Taylor, Kristen Trevithick, Benjamin Trujillo, Sara Turman, Kristen Turner, Jay Warren, Trisha Worlow, Wendy Wright, Sarah Yoest, Laura Young and Christie Zatopek.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Peg Brightman (ballet and modern dance) presented a paper entitled "Her Body as Medium - The Dialectic of Dance: Toward a Humane Dance Pedagogy" at the national AAHPERD convention in Washington, D.C., March 28.

Ruth Whitlock (music) lectured on teaching audiation and music reading at the University of North Texas Feb. 19.

In March, John Breyer (geology) began his term as chairman of the South-Central section of the Geological Society of America. John was in Washington, D.C., recently serving as a member of the society's Committee on Geology and Public Policy. The committee met at the headquarters of the American Geological Institute in Arlington, Va., and received briefings from House and Senate science aides at the Rayburn Congressional Office Building.

Bob Staples, Douglas Hollinger, Toni Howell and Ann Ashworth (English) read papers at the South Central Renaissance Conference in San Antonio March 25-27.

Michael Brooks (Center for Academic Services) attended meetings of the Southwestern Social Science Association in New Orleans March 18-20. He presented a paper entitled "Active Learning, Student Development, and Grounded Teaching: Toward a Sociology of Undergraduate Education." Michael also is chairing the student paper competition committee.

As a part of retirement activities for Charles Isoline, former TCU faculty member who headed the commercial art division from 1962 until 1974, Baylor University's art department is compiling a collection of notes and/or letters from his friends. Those wishing to send greetings, which should be on unfolded letter-size stationery, should mail them to John McClanahan, Department of Art, Baylor University, Box 97263, Waco 76798-7263. After retiring, Chuck and his wife will divide their time between Fort Worth and Colorado.

"Media Coverage of Race Relations in Dallas and the Role of Minority Journalists" was the topic discussed April 1 for a public town hall meeting sponsored by the D/FW Association of Black Communicators, D/FW Network of Hispanic Communicators, Asian American Journalists Association and Native American Journalists Association. Among the panelists was Mercedes Olivera (journalism).

Sympathy is extended to Anita Westmoreland (church relations) whose mother, Winnie Lazenby, died March 30. Services were conducted April 1 at Shannon Funeral Chapel, TCU South.

More than 300 geologists descended on the campus during the first part of spring break as the geology department hosted the annual meeting of the South Central section of the Geological Society of America. Faculty members from the host university designed and oversaw several symposia, and students as well as faculty members presented a total of 18 papers. These included: "A MacIntosh-Based System for Acquiring, Processing and Storing Macrofossil Images" by Art Busbey; "Lithologic Mapping of the Arbuckle Group Formation in the Slick Hills of Southwestern Oklahoma, Utilizing Geographic Information Systems/Remote Sensing," DeNeice Collerain, Ken Morgan, Nowell Donovan and Art; "Use of Spectral Data and LANDSAT TM for Mapping Alluvial Fan Deposits of the Rosillos Mountains in Brewster County, Texas," Susan M. Bittick, Ken and Art; "Permian Karst Topography in the Wichita Uplift, Southwestern Oklahoma," Nowell and Art; "A Lowland Karst Surface in the Mississippian of the Midland Valley of Scotland," Nowell; and "Requirements, Options and Uses of Geographic Information Systems for Land Use Planning," Ken and Art.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Among other papers presented were ""Impervious Cover Mapping and Runoff Predictions in a Dallas Watershed Using LANDSAT TM" by Karen Singletary, Ken, Art and Leo Newland; ""Using Landsat TM, a Spectrometer, and a GIS for Lithologic Mapping in a Portion of Eastern Slick Hills, Oklahoma," Stacey Savell, Ken, Nowell and Art; "Pan-African Collisional and Intracontinental Orogenic Belts in Southern Africa in Relation to Neoproterozoic Plate Configurations," Richard Hanson and T.J. Wilson; "Utilizing LANDSAT TM Thermal Data to Map Urban Heat Islands in Dallas/Fort Worth," Catherine Aniello, Scott Lowry, Ken, Leo and Art; "Using LANDSAT TM to Evaluate Erosion by Mapping Land Use Changes in Urbanizing Watershed," Byron Haney, Ken, Art and Leo; "The Geological Significance of the Boundary Between the Fort Sill and Signal Mountain Formations in the Lower Arbuckle Group (Cambrian)," Randy Hosey and Nowell.

Also presented at the geology conference were "A Transgression-Regression Event During the Deposition of the Upper Cambrian Honey Creek Formation in the Southern Oklahoma Aulacogen," Courtney McElmoyl and Nowell; "Evaporites in the Middle Devonian of the Orcadian Basin New Berriedale, Caithness, Scotland" by Nowell; "Preliminary Results of the Shape Analysis of Fossil and Recent Crocodylian Skulls" by Art; "Using Eustatic Cycles as an Exploration Tool in the Fort Worth Basin," Jimmy Thomas; "How Shallow Drilling Would be Useful in Establishing a Reference Section for Syntectonic Pennsylvanian and Permian Sedimentation Patterns Adjacent to the Wichita Uplift" by Nowell; and "Devitrification of the Carlton Rhyolite in the Blue Creek Canyon Area, Wichita Mountains, Southwestern Oklahoma," Sarah Bigger and Richard.

Rudy Brun (biology) has received word that his paper entitled "Integrating Evolution: A Contribution to the Christian Doctrine of Creation" has been accepted for publication in ZYGON, Journal of Religion and Science.

RUSSELL LECTURES ADD ELDERS SESSION

For the 14th year, Brite Divinity School will sponsor Charles Jackson Russell and Benjamin Franklin Russell Disciples Heritage Lectures April 13-14. Dean D. Newell Williams of Christian Theological Seminary at Indianapolis will be the speaker. For the first time, a lecture primarily for church elders will be added to the program designed especially for seminary students and ministers.

Newell, an ordained minister in the Christian Church who also is professor of modern and American church history at the seminary, formerly taught church history at Brite, where he was assistant dean in 1978-83 and associate dean in 1983-84.

His lecture on "Reclaiming the Disciples Eldership" will begin at 7:30 p.m. April 13 in the activities room of University Christian Church. He will discuss the role of the elder in and beyond the congregation, relation of the elder to the pastor and the elder's contribution to vital congregational life.

Morning lectures will deal with "The Power of Christ's Sacrifice: Barton W. Stone's Doctrine of Atonement" from 11 a.m. to noon April 13 in Robert Carr Chapel and "Future Prospects of the Disciples of Christ -- Reflections on A Case Study of Mainstream Protestantism: The Disciples Relation to American Culture 1880-1989," 11 a.m.-noon April 14, Weatherly Hall at Brite. Newell edited that work, which was published in 1991 by William B. Eerdmans Publishing Company.

The Russell lecture series was established in 1980 by Mr. and Mrs. C. Jones Russell of Columbia, Mo., honoring Russell's father and grandfather, both longtime elders in the Christian Church.

EAST TEXANS TO HEAR KOEHLER

Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler will speak to two East Texas gatherings of alumni and friends of the University today (Tuesday). To discuss both academic and athletic initiatives for this decade, he is speaking at a noon luncheon at Pinecrest Country Club in Longview. The event is sponsored by the TCU Longview Association, headed by Class of '69 members Phil and Carolyn Cupp Wilson.

Tyler's Willow Brook Country Club will be the setting for this evening's reception and dinner sponsored by the TCU Tyler Association.

TCU IN THE NEWS

The recent reception and autograph party hosted by TCU Press on the publication of Red Steagall's book of poetry, Ride for the Brand, was noted in the Star-Telegram's Click section March 25 with a photo of Steagall and his wife Gail. "Write em Cowboy" was the title of a feature on the Cowboy Poet of Texas, a title bestowed on him in 1991, that appeared March 29 in the Star-Telegram.

Shari Barnes and Susan Oakley (human resources) and their work as volunteers with Dispute Resolution Service of Tarrant County were featured in an illustrated cover story in the Tarrant Southwest section of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram March 31. Quoted extensively on the uses of mediation skills in their work and personal lives, they discussed with staff writer Paul Bourgeois the "hidden agendas" and roots of problems and the need to identify them in seeking a lasting settlement between disputing parties.

Cathy Collins Block (education) discussed the importance of thinking skills during a March 19 broadcast of "Awaking the Mind" on WFAA-TV Channel 8.

SERVICES HELD FOR PROCTER

Funeral services were held March 30 in Palestine for Charles W. Procter, member of the government department for 26 years before retiring in 1973. He died March 26.

The TCU alumnus earned a law degree at the University of Texas and served with the U.S. Civil Service Commission and the War Assets Administration before joining the faculty. He began his law career as attorney for Anderson County in the mid-1930s.

Survivors include two sons, C. W. Procter Jr. of Mansfield and James Procter of Bedford, a daughter, Nancy Marion Procter, of Fort Worth; seven grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.
