FIRST HORIZON AWARDS TO HONOR PATRONS

The College of Fine Arts and Communication will honor longtime supporters Constance and Jesse Upchurch at its first annual Horizon Awards presentation luncheon at noon Oct. 14 in the Student Center ballroom. Chancellor Bill Tucker will greet luncheon guests, and Dean Emeritus George Tade will deliver the invocation.

The Horizon Awards were created by the college to recognize the outstanding contributions of community leaders and college alumni to fine arts and communication at TCU as well as in Fort Worth and the Metroplex, said Dean Robert Garwell.

"We look forward to publicly recognizing the distinctive achievements and leadership that the Upchurches have contributed to fine arts and communication in Fort Worth and at TCU," Dean Garwell said. "I am absolutely delighted that I will have the opportunity to bestow this recognition on two very special friends of the college."

The Upchurches were instrumental in establishing of the music department's Constance J. Upchurch Electro-Acoustic Music Studio, which allows students to explore new technology in music performance, analysis, composition, education and research; and the Gwendolyn P. Tandy Memorial Library in the Department of Radio-Television-Film, which contains every genre of film, including the largest animation collection in the Southwest and an extensive inventory of musical films. The library is named in honor of Mrs. Upchurch's mother.

Jesse Upchurch is the founder and developer of one of the state's largest travel companies as well as chairman and chief financial officer of the Upchurch Corporation. Mrs. Upchurch is vice president of the Benjamin F. Johnston Foundation. Both Upchurches sponsor a number of civic and environmental programs and are active participants and supporters of polo.

Last semester nominations for the Horizon Awards were solicited from all departments by the college's Administrative Council, which comprises the dean, his assistant Audrey Campau and eight department chairs. The council established a list of possible recipients, and final selections were made by the dean and Vice Chancellor for University Advancement Bronson Davis.

Members of the campus community who would like to attend the luncheon must make reservations by Thursday. The $7-per-person reservations can be made at Ext. 7601.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO MEET OCT. 12

Joyce Gibson Roach, adjunct faculty member who is well known for her writings, will discuss "Eats: A Folk History of Texas" for the Oct. 12 brown bag meeting of the TCU Woman's Club

Joyce's presentation will be taken from material collected for the book of the same title that she co-authored with Ernestine S. Linck. It was published by the TCU Press in 1989.

The brown bag session will begin at 11:45 a.m. in the reception room of Ed Landreth Hall.

PRE-GAME EVENT SET FOR HOUSTON

Calypso, located at 5555 Morningside Drive in Houston, will be the setting for Saturday's gathering of alumni and friends before the TCU vs. Rice game. The informal event is planned for 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Kickoff for the 73rd game between the Horned Frogs and the Owls will be at 2 p.m. in nearby Rice Stadium.

Reservations for the reception are due by today (Tuesday). Also due today are orders for game tickets, set at $18 per person. These can be ordered by check, payable to TCU, through the alumni office, Ext. 7803. Tickets will be distributed at the pre-game party.

'PROF-INCLUSIVE' EVENT ENVISIONED

Student planners of the University's annual homecoming have expressed a desire for more staff and faculty involvement in the Oct. 24-31 celebration. According to Andrea McEvoy, who chairs "TCU Homecoming Team 1993," and Christine Stern, publicity chairwoman, the door is open for participation in everything from the Oct. 29 parade to the Caravan of Dreams concert Oct. 30. They may be reached by calling Ext. 7926.

OCT. 11 EVENT WILL HONOR HEATH

Library Director Fred Heath, who has been named dean and director of Texas A&M University's Sterling C. Evans Library, will be honored at an Oct. 11 reception. The 3:30-5 p.m. event will be held in the Faculty Center with a program scheduled at 4 p.m.

The invitation is extended to persons across campus as well as retirees and board members of Friends of the TCU Libraries.

Fred, who came to TCU in 1988 after serving eight years as dean of library services at the University of North Alabama, has introduced numerous information technologies. His efforts also have included securing archival collections of former Speaker Jim Wright and the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. He initiated a program of free, unmediated electronic document delivery for faculty members, postdoctorates and Ph.D. candidates.

At A&M Fred will be involved with library building programs, a $40 million library capital campaign and development of a presidential library. He will assume his position with the Evans Library, largest in the A&M system, on Nov. 1

SYMPHONY TO PLAY WORKS OF 3

The works of Ludwig Van Beethoven, Franz Joseph Haydn and Sir Edward Elgar will be featured during an Oct. 6 performance of the TCU Symphony at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The concert is free and open to the public.

Kurt Sprenger, director of orchestral studies and TCU Symphony conductor for four years, will lead the orchestra in performances of Elgar's Serenade for Strings and The Drum Roll from Haydn's Symphony No. 103. Michael Ekbladh, a graduate student currently studying under Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra conductor and TCU conductor-in-residence John Giordano, will conduct Beethoven's The Coriolan Overture.

More than 75 musicians—including more than 40 string players—are members of TCU's orchestral division, which is divided into the symphony, chamber orchestra, strolling strings and the chamber music ensemble. This year the orchestral division groups will perform more than 20 concerts, including performances in San Antonio and Oklahoma.

NURSING INSTITUTE SET OCT. 14

The 18th annual Lucy Harris Linn Institute featuring Sister Rosemary Donley of The Catholic University of America is planned for Oct. 14.

"The Future of Health Care Reform" will be discussed by Dr. Donley, currently executive vice president of The Catholic University and past president of the National League for Nursing and Sigma Theta Tau International. A fellow of the American Academy of Nursing, she is widely recognized as an author, researcher and educator.

Deadline for registrations, set at $35 per person and including a sandwich buffet, is due by Oct. 5. The $40 charge after that date will not include the buffet. Reservations can be made with Linda Curry or Danna Strength in Harris College, Ext. 7650.

The 5:30-9:15 p.m. program will be held in the Student Center.

The annual institute is named in honor of the late Lucy Harris Linn, founding dean of TCU's Harris College of Nursing.

FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Holder of the B.B.A. degree from Baylor, Suzanne Hollabaugh will join Information Services Oct. 11 as systems analyst. She formerly was programmer/analyst with BizMart Inc., Meridian Oil and Compu-Shared Inc.

Leo Newland has accepted reappointment as director of the environmental sciences program for a three-year term beginning this semester. The professor of biology and geology has headed the program since 1971.

With experience ranging from artistic director to stage combat instructor with a variety of weapons, George Brown has joined the theatre department as assistant professor of acting/directing. He earned the B.A. degree in theatre arts at Glassboro State College and the M.F.A. in directing at Pennsylvania State University. He most recently was managing artistic director and theatre instructor at the Island Center for the Performing Arts in St. Croix, Virgin Islands, and adjunct professor at the University of the Virgin Islands.

Richard Stein was development director for the American Cancer Society for seven years before assuming his position as annual fund officer Sept. 20. The San Antonio native, currently a resident of Coppell, earned the B.B.A. degree in marketing in 1985 at Texas A&M.

Four persons have joined the campus police department. They are Michael Alexander and David Dennis, who will serve as police officers; Shelagh Pennington, dispatcher and traffic specialist; and Deborah Jo Van, security guard.

Three persons are new to the hall directors' staff. They are Jamey Day, graduate of Valdosta State College and now in the M.Div. program at Southwestern Theological Seminary, in Brachman Hall; Kimshi Hickman, holder of two degrees from Texas A&M, in Waits Hall; and Tas Shore, TCU alumna and now a graduate student in exercise physiology, in Colby Hall. Holly Cole has returned to her hall director position in Jarvis after serving as interim director in the spring. The TCU alumna is working on a master's degree in education.

A trio of persons is new in recreational sports. Formerly with the drug and alcohol education program, Steve Cummings heads the TCU Challenge Course. Alumnus Joe Vano's responsibilities include training and supervision of the aquatics staff. Holder of two degrees from TCU, Kay Hancock has been named fitness coordinator and offers instruction in the use of weight equipment on Tuesdays.

Newcomers in student activities include Kristin Kirst, Greek affairs program adviser who is a 1992 graduate of the University of Arizona and former Sigma Kappa sorority field coordinator; Joy Golden, Greek resident adviser for Kappa Delta and Alpha Delta Pi sororities; Blake Nichols, resident adviser for Phi Gamma Delta and Phi Kappa Sigma fraternities who is a Union University graduate now pursuing a degree at Southwestern Theological Seminary; and Benjamin Phillips, resident adviser for Kappa Sigma and Sigma Chi fraternities who is a graduate of Southern Illinois University and also is working on a master's at Southwestern Seminary.

Among new interns in the University ministries office are Brite Divinity School students Allen Shriver and Terry Inman. From Illinois, formerly a farmer and affiliate with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), Allen has primary responsibility in the area of social justice. A registered nurse with a special interest and extensive experience in psychiatric nursing, Terry is working primarily with the church host family program. Married and the mother of three grown children, she is affiliated with the United Methodist Church.

SCHIZOPHRENIA IS VIDEO TOPIC

"Schizophrenia: The Individual and Society" is the title for the free PBS videoconference scheduled for 1-2:30 p.m. Friday in the TAGER TV/Telecommunications Studio.

To be presented live from the annual Institute on Hospital and Community Psychiatry of the American Psychiatric Association, the program will feature a six-member panel of noted medical persons from the University of Maryland. They are Dr. John A. Talbott, professor and chairman of the psychiatry department at the School of Medicine; Dr. Howard H. Goldman, director of the Center for Mental Health Services Research; Dr. Anthony Lehman, director for the Center for Mental Health Services; Dr. William T. Carpenter, director of research; John Herron, director of Harbor City Unlimited with the University of Maryland Medical Systems; and Dr. Carol Tamminga, research professor.

The videoconference will offer a comprehensive understanding and update of schizophrenia and the importance of multiple approaches to treatment.

PIER 1 CEO SPEAKS WEDNESDAY

Clark Johnson, chairman and chief executive officer of Pier 1 Inc., will address the TCU chapter of the American Marketing Association tomorrow (Wednesday). Students, faculty and staff members are welcome to attend the 5 p.m. lecture in Dan Rogers Hall 134. Johnson, a member of TCU's board of trustees, will discuss trends in the retail industry as well as how students can prepare for today's challenging job market.

Dr. Irene Burnside of the University of North Carolina's School of Nursing in Greensboro will be the keynote speaker Oct. 15 for the third Hogstel Gerontological Nursing Research Symposium. Sponsored by the Beta Alpha chapter of Sigma Theta Tau, the 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. event will be held in Harris College of Nursing.

The visiting professor, who is a fellow of the American Academy of Nursing, will speak on the concept of reminiscence in the gerontological population. The day's program also will feature will research presentations by nationally known authorities as well as posters relevant to the symposium topic.

The $40-per-person registration fee with an additional charge for a box lunch are being accepted by Freda Murray and Carol Stephenson in Harris College, Ext. 7650.

JUST A REMINDER...

...of the informal conversation tomorrow (Wednesday) on "What Is the Place of Teaching at TCU?" Open to all interested persons, the session at 3:30 p.m. in the Faculty Center is sponsored by the Committee on Teaching, a Faculty Senate select group.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Kelly Murphy, writing consultant for the center for productive communication, recently completed a user's manual for software produced by Intellinetics, an international software house based in Golden, Colo.

Mark Thistlethwaite (art and art history) recently presented two public lectures at the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth and one at the Kimbell Art Museum. The latter talk was one of series Mark is giving that focuses on modern artists. The remaining 12:30 p.m. lectures will be on Picasso (Oct. 6), Leger (Oct. 20), Miro (Nov. 3) and Matisse (Nov. 17). The talks take place in the Kimbell auditorium.

Lee Daniel (modern languages and literatures) has been informed that his "Década del insomnio: Entrevista con Antonio Porpetta" will be published in a forthcoming issue of Confluencia: Revista a Hispánica de Cultura y Literatura.

Dale Young (education) presented a workshop titled "Parent, Teacher, School Relationships" for Granbury, Bursleson, Tolar and Glen Rose teachers Sept. 21. This workshop also was presented Sept. 23 for Arlington teachers.

Spencer Wertz (philosophy) attended the second Conference on Persons held at St. Mary's College in South Bend, Ind., in late September. He presented a paper titled "Persons and Collingwood's Account" and attended panel discussions on "Persons and the Environment" and "Persons and Pragmatism."

TCU IN THE NEWS

"Taxing effort: Attempts at tax reform bump into deficits" was the title of The Business Press story Sept. 24 that quoted Will Yancy (accounting). In tax reforms, he said, "what actually gets enacted is more of an appeasement than major reform." Often times it's "a subtle form of Congressional subterfuge that is buried amid tax acts and facts."

Burleson resident Carol Young was quoted in the Cheers and Jeers section of the Sept. 25 Star-Telegram. She wrote: "CHEERS: To the Air Force and Army ROTC cadets from TCU who helped cleanup the tornado damage in Cleburne."

According to the Sept. 25 Wedgwood paper, Melissa Gibbons, an earth and life science teacher at Dunbar and adjunct faculty member here, was the only Texas teacher named to the honor roll of the Association of Science-Technology Centers, a non-profit organization of 400 science centers/museums in 36 nations. Last year she was named a Tandy Teacher Scholar.

Bert Franks, physician for the football team, was quoted Sept. 12 in the Star-Telegram story about girls playing football. "At the middle school level...girls are probably more suited to competing against boys than they are at older ages," he said. In Texas girls have been allowed to play football in junior high since 1987.

Mirta Toledo, her visual and literary expression and her three-day campus art show were featured in an illustrated cover story for the Star Telegram's Sept. 29 Tarrant Southwest section.

TWO TRIPS ARE ON SPRING AGENDA

For alumni and friends already thinking about spring travel, the Alumni Association has two trips on the agenda.

The first is a deluxe Trans-Panama Canal air/sea cruise aboard the Royal Princess. The 11-day trip will begin March 5. The cruise will depart from Acapulco, Mexico, for Puerto Caldera, Costa Rica, and through the 51-mile Panama Canal during daytime to Cartagena, Colombia. San Maarten in the Netherlands Antilles, will be the next stop. There also will be shopping opportunities in St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands, before the cruise to San Juan, Puerto Rico. A pre-cruise option for three days and two nights will be available from Acapulco.

Jerusalem, Tiberias, Tel Aviv and Rome are on the itinerary for the 12-day trip that begins April 22. In Israel, travelers will spend four nights at the Hyatt Regency in Jerusalem with tours and a number of options included. By motorcoach they will transfer to Tiberias with visits to Jericho, Capernaum and Tabgha en route. From Tiberias they will go to Tel Aviv via Nazareth, Acre and Caesarea with lunch served on Mount Carmel in Haifa. One night in Tel Aviv will precede the four-night stay in Rome.

Folders and additional details are available from the alumni office, Ext.7803.
