GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW CENTER

Ground was broken Jan. 15 for a weight training and rehabilitation center, which will more than double the space in TCU's current facilities. The public ceremony began at 11 a.m. in the area between the north side of Daniel-Meyer Coliseum and the south end zone of Amon Carter Stadium.

Chancellor Bill Tucker presided at the event. Participants included Pat Sullivan, football coach; Kristi Arney, womens' golf coach; John Roach, board of trustees chairman; and Frank Windegger, athletic director. Music was provided by members of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary band fraternity.

The $2.5 million project, which includes an operating endowment for the center, has been funded by gifts from 97 donors, announced Bronson C. Davis, vice chancellor for University advancement. Proposed construction contracts are being reviewed now, according to Davis, and construction will begin immediately after a bid is accepted.

A campaign to raise funds for construction, equipment purchases and the permanent maintenance endowment began last March under Davis' leadership.

To join the coliseum's north side at ground level, the new center will be an expansion as well as a modernization of existing weight training and rehabilitation areas, which are both inadequate for today's programs and enrollment. The 15-year-old weight room will be expanded from 3,200 to 7,200 square feet and the 20-year-old training/rehabilitation area from 2,100 to 4,200 square feet. Additional dressing areas, showers and rest rooms will be provided for both men and women.

While the current facilities were designed originally for football only, the new center will serve some 400 men and women participating in 17 NCAA Division I sports each year, according to the athletic director. This will include all the University's students in intercollegiate sports programs ranging from football to riflery.

While primary emphasis will be on prevention of athletic injuries, the center will include activities focusing on strength-building, treatment and management of injuries as well as education and counseling on nutrition, alcohol and drugs.

The facility also will provide a larger, more efficient clinical setting for students in the School of Education's athletic training. Some 45 students per semester participate in the program, spending 30 hours per week getting practical experience in exercise physiology, rehabilitation and basic as well as advanced athletic training.

Headed by Ross Bailey, a TCU alumnus who has been athletic trainer since 1978, the training program is the only accredited curriculum program in the Southwest Conference. Many of its graduates are employed at the national and international levels by colleges, professional sports teams and governmental agencies. Ross, author of a number of published works on fitness and sports medicine, has served on the Governor's Committee on Health and Fitness since 1984 and formerly was vice president of the Southwest Conference Sports Medicine Society. Referring to the new facility as "a human performance center," he made the initial gift to the project.

New state-of-the-art equipment will be installed throughout the center, and staff office space will be expanded. Medical staff offices will include an examination room as well as storage space for medical supplies and records.

'93 CARD GIFTS TOTAL $635

Faculty and staff members contributed a total of $635 to the Christmas card fund for 1993. The amount is added to the In Lieu of Christmas Cards Scholarship Fund, which last year reached just over the $10,000 necessary for the first scholarship to be awarded.

Funds benefitting from the 1993 gifts and the donors are:

MILLS ASSUMES POSITION JAN. 1

Don Mills, a member of the student affairs staff for 24 years, assumed that division's leadership on Jan. 1 when he became vice chancellor for student affairs.

"Dr. Mills has spent his entire professional life at TCU," said Chancellor Bill Tucker in announcing the appointment that followed a national search. "In that period of more than two decades, he has earned the solid respect of staff across the University. I am very pleased indeed that he has accepted the invitation to become vice chancellor for student affairs."

Don, who joined TCU's staff in 1969 as program adviser, had served as interim vice chancellor since 1992, when then-Vice Chancellor Margaret Barr accepted a vice presidency at Northwestern University.

The Buffalo, N.Y., native earned the B.A. degree with a major in government at Harvard University in 1968 and completed the Master of Divinity degree through Brite Divinity School in 1972. He earned the Doctor of Education degree with a major in higher education administration in 1985 at the University of North Texas.

Don, who was assistant director and then director of University programs and services, was named associate dean of students in 1978. Responsibility for campus housing was added to his title the following year. He served as assistant vice chancellor for student affairs for three years before being named associate vice chancellor in 1989.

Former president of the Texas Association of College and University Student Personnel Administrators (TACUSPA), Don has been a consultant to the U.S. Department of Education for drug prevention grantee training and the Southeast Alabama Drug Prevention Consortium. He is active in state, regional and national student personnel administrators' organizations and in 1988 received the distinguished service award of the Texas association.

Don serves on the boards of Arts on Tap and Forum Fort Worth and formerly was on the boards of Planned Parenthood of North Texas, Trinity Valley School and University Christian Church. Currently he is president of the Trinity Valley School Parents Club. Author of several published works dealing with students and campus activities, he participated in Leadership Fort Worth and has been listed in Who's Who in Religion, Personalities of the South, Outstanding Young Men of America and Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

LUNGER MEMORIAL SET JAN. 25

A memorial service for Alberta Huff Lunger, who in 1977 became the first woman to receive an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from TCU, will be held Jan. 25 at 11 a.m. in Robert Carr Chapel with Bryan Feille of Brite Divinity School presiding. Ordained as a Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) minister in 1931, she died Dec. 29 at her home in Unityville, Pa., and a memorial was held Jan. 2 in Millville, Pa.

The first woman to receive a B.D. degree from Yale Divinity School, she and her husband, Harold, who retired from the Brite faculty in 1978, shared pastorates in Illinois, Ohio and Arizona for 20 years. After moving to Fort Worth in 1956, she was a lecturer and retreat leader and served as an adjunct professor in Brite in 1975-77. She founded Fort Worth's Suicide Prevention organization and for 17 years was a board member and for five years a trustee of the United Christian Missionary Society of the Disciples of Christ.

The family has requested that memorials be made to the Brite Divinity School's Alberta H. and Harold L. Lunger Professorship in Spiritual Resources and Disciplines.

In addition to her husband, survivors include a son, Norman Lunger of Unityville; a daughter, Constance Grace Couets of Moraga, Calif.; and four grandchildren.

BENNETT HEADS DECEMBER CLASS

Three people received their baccalaureate degrees "summa cum laude," with highest honors, during winter commencement. They were Laura Clare Bennett, who received the B.B.A. with a major in marketing and was the highest-ranking member of the class; John Paul Nichols, B.B.A. with majors in accounting and finance; and Tommy Brent Duncan, B.S. with a major in radio-TV-film.

Of 425 degrees completed in December, 347 were bachelor's, 44 were master's, 11 were Ph.D.'s and 23 were through Brite Divinity School.

A diploma was awarded posthumously on behalf of Dana Louise Ivancevich, who was a senior majoring in child studies when she died in December 1992 from complications following surgery. Accepting the diploma for the B.S. degree in education from Chancellor Bill Tucker were her parents, John and Margaret Ivancevich of Spring. Last fall the couple endowed a scholarship in Dana's memory.

The 18 graduated "magna cum laude" included Kathy Anne Aebersold, Janice Elaine Bauer, Laurie Ellen Bean, Jimmy Flint, Rebecca Lynne Guess, Jody Janette Jolissant, Rebecka Ann Lusby, Robyn Lynn McCurry, Kelly Ann Mohn, Amy Joanne Oakley, Jennifer Michelle Pearson, Elizabeth Nan Reed, Piyush Surendra Sampat, Rochael Soper, Adrienne Marie Specker, Dale Francis Timmer, Melinda Sue Whitlock and Veronica Williams.

Completing their degrees "cum laude" were Alexia Leigh Adcock, Elisabeth Paige Brownlee, Forrest Corbett Buchly, Kimberley Elizabeth Cherry, Kristin Corbett, Carrie Lea Cozart, Christy Ann Fritz, Yvette Maria Gonzalez, Amy Lynn Kiser, Eric David Letsche, Melissa Ann Lofquist, Laure Lynn Morris, Jennifer Piccirilli, Aaron Reed, Suzanne Margaret Russell and Anne Giddings Yarbrough.

FRYE RECEIVES ABBOTT AWARD

The 1993 T.A. Abbott Award for Faculty Excellence, given by the Division of Higher Education of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), was presented to Bob Frye during winter commencement. Announced last summer, the honor includes $1,000 and an engraved plaque.

Bob, who has won major teaching awards both on and off campus, was chosen from 10 nominees submitted by colleges and universities related to the Christian Church. He is widely known for his use of letters as a way of teaching writing. He has written letters to his freshman students since 1978 and estimates he has received more than 5,000 replies.

The Abbott Award is named for a Disciples minister who attended Missouri's Christian University, now Culver-Stockton College, and served on its board of trustees for 20 years.

PRE-GAME PARTY TO BE SATURDAY

Chuy's Restaurant at 4544 McKinney Ave. in Dallas will be the setting Saturday for a pre-game event before the Horned Frogs meet SMU's Mustangs in a 2 p.m. basketball game at Moody Coliseum. Sponsored by the TCU Dallas Young Alumni Association and the TCU Dallas Alumni Chapter, the Dutch treat event will begin at noon.

Game tickets, priced at $5 each, can be ordered from Russell Warren in the SMU ticket office at (214) 768-2902. A block of tickets has been reserved for TCU fans.

Additional information is available from TCU's alumni office, Ext. 7803.

INTERNATIONAL FIRM'S WORKS DISPLAYED

Billed as a "Show and Tell Not to Be Forgotten," posters and other works from the Pentagram design studios of London, New York and San Francisco will be on display through Feb. 11 in TCU's Moudy Building exhibit area.

In conjunction with the exhibit, a free, public reception will honor Pentagram founding partner Alan Fletcher on Feb. 10. The reception begins at 6 p.m. in the exhibit area.

Fletcher, an internationally known designer, also will squeeze in talks with students and give a Feb. 8 lecture at the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth during his week-long stay as TCU's first Green Chair Professor in graphic design. The lecture titled "Would You Let Your Sister Marry a Graphic Designer?" will begin at 7 p.m. and also is free and open to the public.

A Briton who studied under Paul Rand of the School of Architecture and Design at Yale University, Fletcher has worked for major corporations and cultural institutions around the world and has won every major award for design and art direction. These include the Society of Industrial Artists & Designers' Annual Medal for outstanding achievement in design and The Prince Philip Prize for the Designer of the Year. He left Pentagram in 1992 to open his own studio in London.

Co-founded by Fletcher in 1972, the Pentagram firm has been widely praised and sometimes criticized for its designs and unorthodox work environment. Freely mixing graphic and industrial designers with architects, the firm's founders "love nothing better than jumbling disciplines, allowing influences and ideas to flow from one group to another like spices in a bouillabaisse," wrote Michael Kaplan in the November/December 1993 issue of Graphis.

Pentagram works on display at TCU will include posters, packaging, books, magazines and brochures. Featured under glass will be Pentagram Papers, small books that the firm sends out each year to a select mailing list. Margie Adkins, who heads TCU's communication graphics program, said the books — which cover such diverse subjects as skeletons, Mao Tse-tung and folding dinner napkins — are produced simply for the designer's pleasure and are highly prized by their recipients.

The exhibit area is in the north end of the Moudy Building. Exhibit hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays and 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

MERRILL TO RECEIVE FIRST KING AWARD

John Merrill, director of TCU's Ranch Management Program and holder of the Burnett Ranches Professorship here, will be honored Jan. 27 as recipient of the initial W.A. "Bill" King Award for Excellence in Agriculture at Livestock Appreciation Day ceremonies in Fort Worth.

The annual award was created by the Fort Worth Farm and Ranch Club to recognize individuals for their significant contributions to agriculture and agribusiness and was named after the club's founder. "John Merrill exemplifies the type of person that this award should single out," said club president Chris Miller. "He is a tremendous asset to Tarrant County's agricultural community."

John's international influence in agriculture is evident through his association with the 38-year-old TCU program and his knowledge of industry affairs. A director of the Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show since 1974, he was named to the show's executive committee in 1979. He also serves as director of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. John is past president and Fellow of the International Society for Range Management and has received its highest award for contributions to the profession.

SENATE TO CONTINUE DISCUSSIONS

At its Dec. 2 meeting, the Faculty Senate continued discussion of several items remaining from the November agenda. An original motion proposed by the role and function committee dealing with election of 12 members of the Graduate Council was approved. Rather lengthy discussion occurred on suggested changes and additions to the current sexual harassment policy of the University to include content on consensual dating. Specific recommendations for changes to the policy will be offered by Chair-elect Gregg Franzwa at the February meeting.

Other items discussed at the meeting included changes to the current University grievance policy as proposed by the tenure, promotion and grievance committee, and informing senators of progress made in the development of a Student Honor Code and "Frog Finder." These and other items will be pursued at the Feb. 3 meeting at 3:30 p.m. in the Faculty Center.

HUFFHINES SERVICES HELD JAN. 3

Funeral services for Myra Sowell Huffhines, a nursery school pioneer who was a home economics department faculty member from 1960 until her retirement in 1970, were held Jan. 3 at Dallas' Restland Wildwood Chapel. The Fannin County native died Dec. 30 at Presbyterian Village North.

A graduate of North Texas State University, she earned a master's in child development and family living from Colorado State University. Holder of a religious education degree from Southwestern Theological Seminary, she conducted special studies in child development and family relations at the Merrill Palmer Institute in Detroit. Earlier in her career she taught in Dallas and Waxahachie.

Mrs. Huffhines established what later became the Child Development Laboratory at North Texas while teaching child development courses beginning in the early 1930s. After moving to Dallas in 1944, she was a volunteer and consultant with the Head Start Program and PTA groups. She taught child development to women enrolled in Dallas Housing Authority courses.

After joining the TCU faculty she established a nursery school program similar to that at North Texas. She taught child development courses until her retirement, when she moved back to Dallas. Named to life membership in the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, she was active in Phi Upsilon Omicron. Her studies were published in Practical Home Economics.

Survivors include three stepdaughters and seven grandchildren.

RETIRED PROFESSOR GIBSON DIES

A memorial service for O. Hoyt Gibson, former associate professor of marketing who joined the faculty in 1962 and was named emeritus when he retired in 1987, was held Jan. 12 at First Presbyterian Church. He died Jan. 10 in a local hospital.

The Indiana native, who taught both graduate and undergraduate courses here, earned the B.A. degree at the University of North Texas. He spent several years in the retailing business before earning M.B.A. and Ph. D. degrees at the University of Texas at Austin.

A member of the TCU retirees executive committee, Hoyt received the Achievement Bronze Leadership Award from Junior Achievement in 1988. He was active on the JA scholarship board. His interest in Hopi Indians and the mythology of Kachina, which spanned almost 30 years, he carved his own collection of more than 75 kachina dolls.

Survivors include his wife, Alice, of Fort Worth and a brother, Jack Gibson, of Lawton, Okla. The family suggests that memorials be made to a favorite charity.

THREE ARE DEANS' AWARDEES

Professors Margie Adkins from the College of Fine Arts and Communication, Mildred Hogstel of Harris College of Nursing and Howard Stone of Brite Divinity School were named as recipients of the 1993 Deans' Teaching Awards during winter commencement Dec. 18. Checks of $2,500 each and citations were presented by Provost/Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler.

Chosen by their colleagues and recommended to the Dr. Koehler, the honorees are "among those who incorporate unusually successful teaching with the other professional expectations of the University's faculty members," Dr. Koehler said.

Margie, who joined the faculty in 1982 and heads the communication graphics program, earned the B.F.A. degree here and the master's degree from the University of North Texas. On the West Texas State University faculty in 1976-82, the Fort Worth native is on the board of Graphic Design Educators and Communication Arts Center, and her memberships include Advertising Artists of Fort Worth, American Institute of Graphic Arts and University and College Designers' Association.

Her numerous awards include those from the Texas Association of Museums, several Addy awards from the Fort Worth Ad Club, Houston Art Directors Club, Portfolio Fort Worth, Art Museum Association of America, Dallas Ad League and Fort Worth Society of Creative Communications.

A Clifton native, Mildred is the initial holder of the endowed position of Abell-Hanger Foundation Professor of Gerontological Nursing and has been a nursing faculty member since 1966. Holder of a bachelor's degree from Baylor University, a master's in nursing from the University of Texas at Austin and the Ph.D. from the University of North Texas, she is widely known for her books on gerontological nursing and her studies published in leading professional journals.

Three of her books — Management of Personnel in Long-Term Care, Nursing Care for the Older Adult and Geopsychiatric Nursing — received book of the year awards from the American Journal of Nursing. She serves on the editorial board for Advances in Nursing Science. Awarded the distinguished alumni award in 1989 by Texas Lutheran College, she has been named to Outstanding Educators in America, Who's Who of American Women and was cited in 1992 as one of Dallas-Fort Worth's Great 100 Nurses. Mildred, also on the board of Senior Citizens Services of Greater Tarrant County, received the outstanding nurse award from the Beta Alpha chapter of Sigma Theta Tau in 1982.

Howard, a Brite professor of pastoral care and counseling since 1979, earned the B.A. degree in 1965 at Minnesota's Augsburg College, the Master of Divinity degree in 1968 at Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia and completed the Ph.D. in 1970 at the School of Theology in Claremont, Calif. He formerly was on the faculty of Arizona State University for nine years after serving in clinical pastoral education at the Philadelphia State Hospital and Los Angeles County General Hospital.

On the editorial boards of Journal of Religion and Aging, Journal of Pastoral Psychotherapy and Journal of Religion in Psychotherapy, Howard is active in the American Association of Pastoral Counselors and American Association of Marriage and Family Therapists and Society for Pastoral Theology. The Minneapolis native is author of numerous studies. Among the latest are "Depression" in the Handbook to Basic Types of Pastoral Care and Counseling and "Longitudinal View of Test Scores" in Advances in Clergy Assessment.

CONTROLLER ANNOUNCES CHANGES

Three changes, currently effective, have been announced by Controller Larry Calloway.

These are:

- The cashier section of the controller's office has changed its opening time from 9 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. to accommodate needs of students, faculty and staff members;
- The automobile mileage reimbursement rate for business miles increased from 28 cents to 29 cents per mile as of Jan. 1. The rate is consistent with the authorized rate established in the Internal Revenue Code;
- Faculty and staff members on the monthly payroll will be paid Jan. 28 rather than the following Monday.

SERVICE HELD JAN. 6 FOR DEEN

Nationally known author Edith Alderman Deen, who donated a 4,000-book collection known as The Edith and Edgar Deen Library and Archives to TCU's library in 1982, died Jan. 3 following a lengthy illness. Funeral services were held Jan. 6 at University Christian Church with Chancellor Bill Tucker officiating.

Women's editor and columnist with the Fort Worth Press for 29 years, the former Fort Worth city councilwoman was widely acclaimed for her Biblical writings. Her All of the Women of the Bible, published in 1955, was an outgrowth of Press columns she had written at the urging of her husband, former Fort Worth Mayor Edgar Deen. Other books included Great Women of the Christian Faith, Family Living in the Bible, The Bible's Legacy for Womanhood, All the Bible's Men of Hope and Wisdom from Women in the Bible. After sales of more than two million, several books were published in German, Korean and Japanese.

The Weatherford native was honored in 1988 when Fort Worth declared Aug. 23 as "Edith Deen Day" to coincide with issue of her first book in paperback. At the time it was in its third edition, 40th printing.

Holder of two earned degrees and the honorary Doctor of Letters degree from Texas Woman's University, Dr. Deen was given the honorary LL.D. degree by TCU in 1972. A nationwide lecturer, she was listed in Who's Who of American Women, Who's Who in the Southwest, Foremost Women in Communications and other volumes.

TCU's Deen collection includes her 29 years of daily columns, book manuscripts, speeches, scrapbooks containing clippings documenting the Deens' 12 years of public life and personal correspondence with such national figures as John F. Kennedy, Lyndon and Lady Bird Johnson, Hubert Humphrey, Jim Wright and John Connally.

WACO TROUPE TO PERFORM TRIBUTE

The Black Student Caucus will host two troupes from Portraits, a Waco-based organization of youths working to teach history through performance, Thursday evening. Members will recite excerpts from African-American literature and employ music and sign language in commemorating the life of Martin Luther King Jr.

Their contributions will be part of a program beginning at 7 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom, immediately following a 6:30 p.m.-7 p.m. candlelight march through the campus. Other featured performers in the ballroom will include the O.D. Wyatt High School Chaparrals choir and the University's Word of Truth Gospel Choir.

A reception will be held afterwards in the Woodson Room. Faculty and staff members, as well as students, are welcome to join the march—which will begin and end at the Student Center steps—and to attend the program and reception.

NEELEY SCHOOL HELPS AIRLINE

Fort Worth-based Lone Star Airlines announced in January non-stop service between Chihuahua, Mexico, and Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport. Months earlier the Neeley School played a key role in establishing contact between Chihuahua business people and the airline.

During the 1993 spring semester a group of Neeley School M.B.A. students completed a Student Enterprises project for American Industries International, a major industrial developer in Mexico with headquarters in Chihuahua. As a result of the project, the school was introduced to Luis Lara, founder, president and chief executive officer of AII.

Student Enterprises strives to link business students with both profit and non-profit organizations seeking special analysis, surveys and business plan development. It offers students a chance to gain real-world experience by applying skills and knowledge gained in the classroom.

The relationship with Lara led to an introduction of Dean Kirk Downey and Tandy American Enterprise Center Director Jack Barrett to the board of directors of the Monterrey Tech—Chihuahua campus, which is devoted to business education. During the meeting, Lara noted that air travel between Chihuahua and the United States was difficult because of the lack of a direct connection with Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport.

The Monterrey Tech board asked Kirk to contact any U.S. airline willing to discuss developing a non-stop route. He asked Neeley School Executive-in-Residence and former Fort Worth Mayor Bob Bolen to contact several air carriers, one of which was Lone Star Airlines.

"This shows how the interconnection of the academic and business worlds is a strong asset locally and how TCU has provided a community service," Jack said.

PARABLES TOPIC OF JAN. 20 LECTURE

Dr. Lane McGaughey will discuss "Parables as Paradigm: The Use of Parables in the Early Church," at a free public lecture Thursday. The program, hosted by the religion department and Brite Divinity School, begins at 4 p.m. in Beasley Hall 206.

Dr. Lane holds an endowed chair at Willamette University in Salem, Ore., and also is chairman of Willamette's religion department. He has published numerous articles on the interpretation of parables.

8 PLAYERS, COACH ARE GRID HONOREES

While underclassmen received most of TCU's post-season football honors, John Oglesby and Coach Pat Sullivan made the final post-season "news" of 1993 on Christmas Day.

Handling the fullback duties for the South all-star team in the Blue-Gray Classic at Montgomery, Ala., John helped the Gray to a 17-10 victory. The 220-pound senior from Detroit, Mich., contributed a couple of runs along with a pair of pass receptions and several timely blocks to the South offense.

Of course, John was quite familiar with the Gray's offensive scheme since it was the brainchild of Sullivan, the offensive coordinator of the South all-stars. For the Frog coach, the contest pitting some of the country's top senior footballers revived fond memories. He had played in similar post-season classics in 1972, garnering Most Valuable Player honors at both the Senior Bowl and the College All-Star games.

As far as recognition and honors for 1993 gridiron accomplishments, talented junior defensive tackle Royal West was the major winner among the Horned Frogs. He not only was a consensus all-Southwest Conference selection, but he also gained third-team all-America honors from Football News as well.

Joining Royal as '93 all-conference honorees among the Frogs were:

- Greg Evans, senior safety, Daingerfield
EXXON Supreme — first team
Associated Press — second team
- Brian Collins, sophomore, tight end, Texarkana
Consensus second team
- Bart Epperson, junior, offensive lineman, Rockwall
Fort Worth Star-Telegram — second team
- Andre Davis, sophomore, running back, Longview
Associated Press — second team
Houston Post — second team
- Reggie Anderson, junior, linebacker, Austin
Football News — first team
Waco Tribune — second team
Austin American-Statesman — second team
- Lenoy Jones, sophomore, linebacker, Groesbeck
EXXON Supreme — first team

PRINTING SERVICE DRAWS KUDOS

Extended Education Director Fred Terasa has written in praise of the University's printing services, noting that the philosophy of "quality and customer service" adopted by David Grebel, manager, is alive and well. Fred described a recent TCU/Cliburn Piano Institute assignment in which letterhead and envelopes were produced "at less expense, on time and with quality."

"David and his staff truly are customer-oriented. He took the time to understand our needs and even took the time to invite Lewis Glaser, the artist who created the institute's letterhead design, to the press check to ensure that we received the quality we desired," Fred stated. After working with David and Maxine McMurry, who operated the press for the institute job, Fred indicated that "every piece of Extended Education's printing will go to Printing Services first. If they can't produce it, David can point me in the right direction."

Initially skeptical, Lewis reflected: "I was impressed with the professionalism and commitment to detail that David Grebel and his staff displayed. Their positive attitude coupled with excellent printing skills made the difference between a mediocre job and the high quality work they achieved on the TCU/Cliburn Piano Institute pieces."

STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Stephan Mark Levering has joined the staff in Information Services as the new computer support specialist. He received the B.B.A. degree from Samford University in Birmingham, Ala., and has most recently been employed by National Rx Services in Fort Worth.

Formerly administrative assistant to Kansas' secretary of health and the environment, Sue Pettet joined the development staff Dec. 20 as secretary in major gifts. Her husband, Ron, is minister of Rockwood Assembly of God.

Patricia Lewis, Secretary I in radio-TV-film since October 1989, recently was promoted to program support specialist in Student Activities.

Patricia Kirk, Secretary I in radio-TV-film, previously was library assistant at Rosemont Middle School in Fort Worth.

Ann Chamberlain has been hired as general clerical assistant in Air Force ROTC. Her past employment includes ARC and managing a local boot store.

James Cypert, who has joined the grounds department staff as the new engine mechanic, formerly was with the Fort Worth Lawn Sprinkler Co. as a sprinkler technician.

The Alcohol and Drug Education Program welcomes two new University staff members this month. Kathleen Malone Stearns is coordinating the program's institution-wide grant. A certified social worker, licensed chemical dependency counselor and certified alcohol and drug abuse counselor, she comes to TCU from Granbury Middle School where she served as prevention coordinator/counselor. Alumna Penny Woodcock, who received her degree in social work in December, is assistant coordinator for the Students Reaching Out (SRO) dissemination grant. She also will advise students who are affiliated with the SRO and R.O.A.D. (Responsibility of Alcohol and Drugs) Workers organizations on campus.

GUIDE FEATURES NEW OPPORTUNITIES

From shadow embroidery to discussions of women in mythology to scuba diving and advanced self-defense, the new edition of The Learner's Guide holds many intriguing community course topics. Diane Lovin, community and professional services coordinator for extended education, has incorporated 20 new courses into the non-credit listings for spring. Copies of the catalogue are available in Sadler 212.

Faculty and staff members qualify for a tuition discount of 50 percent for most courses; exceptions are listed on page 24 of the new guide.

Another innovation in the community curriculum is a course that will double as basic training for Fort Worth Ballet Company docents: "The Wonders, Magic, Moves, and Melodies of the Ballet: Living the Dream Vicariously." Dance historian and former dancer Julie Otero will offer a six-week seminar exploring the history of the ballet, its development in the United States since the 1930s and aspects of choreography, music, dancer training and performance. Participants will attend a technical rehearsal for the local company's February production of "Hamlet" and, as a group, receive a discounted admission to the performance. Enrollment continues through today, and the first class meets tonight (Tuesday) at 7 p.m. in Dan Rogers 272.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Kenya Taylor (communication sciences and disorders) has been informed that her article, "Audiologist Counseling Effectiveness Scale for the Elderly," has been accepted for publication in the Journal of the Academy of Rehabilitative Audiology.

Don Jackson (political science) has been notified that his book, Even the Children of Strangers, has been named an outstanding book by the Gustavus Myers Center for the Study of Human Rights in the United States. The center is sponsored by B'nai B'rith, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, Free Inquiry, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the National Interreligious Commission on Civil Rights, Project Censored and the Unitarian Universalist Association.

Hal Nelson (engineering) attended the Pacific International Conference on Science and Technology in Tainan, Taiwan, on Dec. 6-8. He presented a paper, "History of Rotor Dynamics Analysis," at National Cheng Kung University in Tainan Dec. 8 and a second paper, "Modeling of Geared Systems," at National Chung Cheng University in Chin-Yi Dec. 9. On Dec. 10 he toured the Taiwan Industrial Research Institute in Hsin-chu and presented a paper, "Coupled Lateral-Torsional Machine Vibrations," at National Tsing Hua University.

Anantha Babbili (journalism) was a keynote speaker at the International Communications Congress organized by the Department of Communication at the Universidad de Las Americas at Puebla, Mexico, Nov. 23-25. His address was titled "Postcolonial Discourse in the Americas." He also presented a paper, "Hispanic Media in the U.S.: The Fragile Marketplace of Ideas." The conference drew 400 participants from Central and Latin America and examined the consequences of increased international communication on culture.

Anantha also participated on a panel on the recruitment of women and minorities for journalism faculty at the meeting of the Association of Schools of Journalism and Mass Communication held Dec. 3-5 in Atlanta.

Sympathy is extended to Jack Scott (Counseling Center) whose mother, Ethel A. Scott, died Dec. 30 in a Corpus Christi hospital. She was a member of Central Christian Church in San Antonio. Funeral services were held Jan. 1 in Pearsall.

Sympathy is extended to Paula Reeves (controller's office) on the death of her brother, Atwell Holveck, who died Jan. 8 in Dallas. Services were held Jan. 11 in Midlothian.

Michael Meckna (music) contributed entries on Alejandro García Caturla, Jacobo Ficher, Silvestre Revueltas and Domingo Santa Cruz to the Biographical Dictionary of Latin American Classical Composers (Scarecrow Press).

An essay, "White Lies in the Writing Center: The Fragile Balance Between Praise and Criticism," by Steve Sherwood (English/Writing Center) appeared as the lead article in the December issue of Writing Lab Newsletter. The essay, presented to the 1991 Rocky Mountain Writing Center Association conference, explores the role of truth in one-on-one writing instruction.

Nadia Lahutsky (religion) and Eugene Boring (Brite) traveled to Rome Dec. 4-11 for the annual meeting of the Disciples of Christ-Roman Catholic International Commission for Ecumenical Dialogue. The commission, which was received in private audience with Pope John Paul II on Dec. 10, spent the rest of the week discussing varying perspectives on "the individual and the church."

Sympathy is extend to Kate Hawthorne (Center for Productive Communication), whose mother passed away Dec. 28.

Mauricio Papini (psychology) collaborated with colleague M.E. Bitterman (University of Hawaii) in writing "The two-test strategy in the study of inhibitory conditioning," which has been published in the Journal of Experimental Psychology. During the 34th annual meeting of the Psychonomic Society, held recently in Washington, D.C., Mauricio and graduate student Tom Dudley presented a paper, "Proactive effects of surprising reward omissions on autoshaping with rats." At the same meeting Holly Taylor gave a paper, "Environment Features Influencing Spatial Description Perspective."

The most recent issue of the Journal of Counseling Psychology included a paper by Don Dansereau (psychology), George Joe and Dwayne Simpson (IBR), "Node-link mapping: A visual representation strategy for enhancing drug abuse counseling."

During the recent annual meeting of National Association of Social Workers/Texas, Linda Moore (social work) served on a panel of educators and discussed "The Future of Social Work Education." The Texas Association of Social Work Deans and Directors sponsored the panel. Linda also presented a paper, "A Postmodern Approach to Feminist Therapy," with Gail Wallace (adjunct faculty member, sociology). She also attended a quarterly meeting of the deans' and directors' group.

Bill Smith (chemistry) received a nice Christmas present when word reached him Dec. 24 of his election as a Fellow of the Royal Society of Chemistry. Nominators were Sir John Cornforth, 1975 Nobel Laureate; John Gibson, Scientific Secretary of the Royal Society of Chemistry; and Henry Shine, Paul Whitfield Horn Professor of Chemistry at Texas Tech University. Bill's three most recent research publications are "Synthesis of Two 2-(Oxoalkyl)-3-methyl-2-cyclopentenones," with former graduate student M.S. Sant; "Electrophilic and Radical Transannular Cyclizations of 5-Cyclodecenone to Give either Hydronaphthalene or Hydroazulene Products," both in the Journal of Organic Chemistry, and "Molecular Modeling and NMR Spectroscopic Examination of (E)-Cyclodec-5-enone and its 2- and 10-Methyl Analogs," in Magnetic Resonance in Chemistry. The second and third articles represent a research collaboration with Y. Chu, D. Cloclough and J.W. White, all of the University of Texas at Arlington.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Developmental pediatrician Julian Haber, M.D. (adjunct, communication sciences and disorders) recently attended the 29th annual conference of the Learning Disabilities Association of Texas, formerly TACLD, in Austin. Julian, who has served on the National Committee on Children with Disabilities for the American Academy of Pediatrics, presented a paper, "ADHD is Not Just a Disorder of Attending and Activity." He also participated in the "cracker barrel session," a panel discussion involving experts in the learning disabilities field as well as participants from the audience.

The American Institute for Foreign Study has notified Roberta Corder (study abroad) that it will provide support for spring-semester studies at the Richmond College in Florence, Italy, for undergraduate Christy McKenney. The junior speech communication major is one of 50 winners of the institute's international merit scholarships; hers is in the amount of $1,000. In addition to meeting grade-point and other admissions criteria for acceptance into AIFS overseas programs, Christy wrote an essay on the benefits of studying abroad.
