SPRING COMMENCEMENT WILL HAVE EARLIER TIME

The combined baccalaureate-commencement planned for May 14 has been moved from the usual 7:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The change was announced following discussions with members of a faculty/staff committee that oversees commencement logistics and with a group of student leaders.

"By moving the time earlier," said commencement coordinator Sally Armstrong, "there will be an opportunity for graduates to plan earlier post-graduation celebrations, attendance will be easier for older adults and children, and people attending from out of town will have more travel options."

The traditional reception honoring graduates and their families will be held from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. Graduating seniors and marshals will line up for the procession following the reception at 2:45 p.m. and faculty members will line up at 3 p.m.

HUMAN RIGHTS SCHOLAR TO LECTURE

Kevin Boyle, director of the Human Rights Centre in Colchester, England, will give a public lecture on "Latest Developments in Northern Ireland and Human Rights" at 7:30 p.m. March 1 in Student Center 207. A faculty-student panel discussion will follow.

The program will highlight the 1994 International Week celebration Feb. 28-March 5 — a week of entertainment and cultural awareness events sponsored by TCU's International Student Association. Manfred Zeidler, visiting chemistry research scholar, leads the International Week committee, and Holger Nass, a graduate student in the Neeley School M.B.A. program, serves as president of the sponsoring group. The International Student Affairs office has provided support.

Boyle is co-author of the forthcoming book Northern Ireland: The Choice, concerning his homeland. A barrister with experience before the European Commission of Human Rights at Strasbourg, he holds degrees from Queens University Belfast, Cambridge University and Yale and is a professor at the University of Essex law school. At the Human Rights Centre, a legal research facility headquartered at Essex, he currently oversees a democratic audit of the United Kingdom and other projects.

The political science department will host Boyle Feb. 28-March 2 as a Cecil H. and Ida Green Honors Professor, with the Phi Beta Delta honor society for international scholars sponsoring his March 1 lecture. Prior to his campus activities, the legal scholar will speak on "Global Human Rights and Religious Issues" at 11 a.m. Sunday at First United Methodist Church. On Feb. 28 he will lecture for Mike Dodson's "Modernizing Revolutions" class, focusing on the intersection of religion and human rights issues. That evening he will conduct an Honors Fireside, hosted by Don Jackson, on the topic of new peace opportunities in Northern Ireland. March 1 talks will include a program for Manochehr Dorraj's "Politics of the Mideast and North Africa" class and a discussion of distributive justice issues with members of Charles Lockhart's "Assessing Normative Political Theory" class. He also will visit Ralph Carter's "Mideast Conflicts" class March 2 to discuss the role of religion and human rights in that region.

Faculty and staff members, as well as students and the public, are welcome to attend any of the following events:

- Feb. 28: Opening ceremonies, noon-12:30 p.m. in the Student Center lounge, featuring remarks by Chancellor Bill Tucker and Donna Parker, vice president of Urban Development for the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, with live music, an exhibition and refreshments.
- March 1: Kevin Boyle's lecture, "Latest Developments in Northern Ireland and Human Rights," followed by a panel discussion, 7:30-9:30 p.m., Student Center 207.
- March 2: International Chapel Service, noon-1 p.m., Robert Carr Chapel.
- March 3: "Taste of the World," a 20-nation smorgasbord of food and information, served by students from the represented countries, 11 a.m.-1 p.m., Student Center lounge.
- March 4: Exhibits of cultural artifacts from around the world, on view 10 a.m.-2 p.m. in the Student Center lounge.
- March 5: International Student Association banquet, 6-8 p.m., Student Center ballroom, featuring international dishes and a student talent show. Cost: $10, $8 with TCU ID and $7 for ISA members; reservations may be made through March 4 by calling Ext. 7871.

AMNESTY VIGIL, SERVICE SCHEDULED

Amnesty International's campus chapter will sponsor a 24-hour prayer vigil, to begin at noon Wednesday with a service in Robert Carr Chapel and conclude with a noon service Thursday. According to John Butler of University Ministries, chapters across the country are addressing human rights violations with similar vigils and services.

WORKS OF MFA STUDENTS DISPLAYED

Wax, metal and crayons are just some of the the media used by seven TCU Master of Fine Arts student artists who began displaying their works in the Moudy Building exhibit area yesterday (Feb. 21). The solo, week-long exhibitions, which explore themes ranging from angels to the words of James Joyce, end April 15.

The exhibits are free and open to the public and include:

- Feb. 21-25: Collages and assemblages of found objects incorporating the work of James Joyce by Fort Worth Star-Telegram art critic Janet Tyson;
- Feb. 28-March 4: Colorful ceramic wall reliefs and dramatic sculpture in clay, bronze, aluminum and steel by Monterrey, Mexico, native Elizabeth Gonzalez Leal;
- March 7-11: Longmeadow, Mass., native Scott Keeley's creations of abstract, figurative sculpture and assemblages and installations in steel, stone, bronze and glass;
- March 14-18: Houstonian C. Dee Dutton's works concerned with the relationship between man and his storytelling tradition, specifically stories and myths relating to angels;
- March 29-April 1: Works using collage, wax, paint, crayon, pencil and spray paint on paper and canvas by Dallasite Eddy Rawlinson. Using images collected from books, magazines and other sources, Rawlinson creates works inspired by altarpieces of the Italian Renaissance and infused with Western and Eastern mysticism;
- April 4-8: The works of Heather Murphree of Richardson, who uses natural fibers and wax to create sculpture that she says "evokes a universal spiritual memory through the abstracted human form" as well as through references to ritual and artifact; and
- April 11-15: Works by Joseph T. Grant.

Exhibit hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays. Free, public receptions are scheduled from 6 to 8 p.m. on the opening night of each exhibition.

CONCERT WILL FEATURE ROMANTIC WORKS

Bassoonist Kevin Hall and pianist/harpsichordist Janet Pummill will give a concert of romantic and baroque pieces Feb. 28 as part of the Faculty Music Series. To include an appearance by Kevin's wife, cellist Karen Hall, the free, public concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

On harpsichord, Janet will accompany Kevin's performance of Étienne Ozi's "Troisième Sonate pour basson et clavecin" and Kevin and Karen's rendition of Georg Philipp Telemann's Sonata in F minor. On piano, Janet will accompany him in Edward Elgar's "Romance"; Adrien Barthe's Three Short Pieces from 1884, 1889 and 1894; and Ferdinand David's Concertino.

MARKETING PLAN GOT RESULTS

The 1993 marketing plan for football showed positive results in several several of its stated objectives. As outlined by Lois Kolkhorst, who heads athletic marketing, the plan's purposes were to increase season ticket sales, raise overall attendance via single-game sales, target the Oklahoma game for a large attendance and continue corporate sponsorships.

After a ticket sale decline since 1986, purchase of season tickets for 1993 increased to 7,137 from 7,112. The total included 375 new ticket holders. Credited are the variety of sales efforts ranging from a 14-night telethon to direct mailings.

Attendance at the six home games was 161,031, which was an increase from 154,745 in 1992. The increase in average attendance rose from 25,790 in 1992 to last fall's 26,839. This was the highest game average since 1990 and the second highest since 1987, according to Lois.

Efforts to attract an outstanding crowd for the Oklahoma game was an equally outstanding total of 40,418 spectators, which was the largest non-conference crowd in Amon Carter Stadium and No. 9 in largest crowds ever.

Some 20,000 tickets were incorporated into game-day sponsorships for the 1993 season. Sponsors included Kroger, Southwest Airlines, Bell Helicopter, Radio Shack, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Tom Thumb Food and Pharmacy and Samsil Corp.

Important elements in the plan's success included use of billboards, additional alumni events and pre-game activities, game-day promotions and guest stars singing the national anthem.

GERMAN FAMILY'S SAGA CONTINUES

The saga of the von Scholls, a German family immigrating to Texas in 1847, was detailed in Letters to Oma, published in 1989 by the TCU Press. The story continues in A House Divided, a recent TCU Press issue that reveals the story of the effect of the Civil War on German Texans who frowned on slavery and, like Sam Houston, thought the Union must be preserved at all costs.

The von Scholl family was split apart when two brothers chose different sides — Will joined the Confederacy and Fred refused to fight. When Fred was killed by renegade southerners and Will was captured by Union soldiers, 16-year-old Louisa, Tina's baby sister in Letters to Oma, masqueraded as a hospital orderly to rescue Will from his Yankee prison. Louisa's adventuresome story stands for that of more than 800 women on both sides who actually went to war during this tragic conflict.

Author Marj Gurasich, reared in Idaho and Indiana, has been a resident of the Houston area for more than 30 years. Her other novels include Red Wagons and White, Benito and the White Dove and Letters to Oma. She also is the author of the non-fiction book, Did You Ever Meet a Texas Hero?

Of German descent, Ms. Gurasich visited the Texas Hill Country several times researching the background for A House Divided, which is a 170-page volume in the TCU Press' Chaparral series for young readers. It is available in the University book store.

RANGERS TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE

Once again Chancellor Bill Tucker is providing Rangers tickets for the 1994 season. Two tickets for the 1994 home games may be reserved by faculty and staff members who did not receive tickets for the 1993 season beginning March 7 on a first-come/first-serve basis. Interested people should call the office of the chancellor (Mary Nell Kirk at Ext. 7783) between 8 and 9 a.m. or 1 to 2 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday or Friday.

CLASSES TO HEAR ARAB EDUCATOR

Dr. Mai Abdul Wahed Al Khaja of the United Arab Emirates University will be a campus guest Feb. 29-March 4. The visit is part of her spring sabbatical travel schedule in her study of how advertising and public relations are taught in American colleges and universities.

She will speak with a number of classes in the journalism and speech communication departments. For two classes — Doug Newsom's class on Public Relations Principles at 9 a.m. Feb. 28 and for Anantha Babbili's 11 a.m. class on Mass Communication and Society on March 1 — seating will be available for interested people in addition to students. Both are held in Moudy 141N.

Dr. Al Khaja, a faculty member on the mass communication department faculty at the United Arab University, earned the Ph. D. degree in communication at Cairo University. She also holds B.A. and master's degrees in public relations and advertising from that institution. Her research has centered on media exposure habits and patterns among academic staff at the United Arab Emirates University. She also is working on "Public Opinion in the United Arab Emirates in the 1990s: An Analytical Study of 'People's Opinion' and 'Gulf Forum' Newspapers."

To be a guest of Doug, Dr. Al Khaja was a participant in the second conference on "Challenges Facing the Arab World in a Changing International Environment" held last month in Cairo.

Dr. Al Khaja discussed "The Role of the Arab Media in Countering the Zionist Propaganda Challenge." She has taken part in symposiums on "The Image of Arab Gulf Countries in British Press After the Gulf Crisis," sponsored by the Arab Sociological Association and held last year in Tunisia. She also has been active in workshops for scholastic broadcasting of education in the United Arab Emirates. She took part in "Women and Social Work in the United Arab Emirates," a symposium organized by the Law and Sharia Society.

CONSTRUCTION ALTERS ENTRY

Entry to the athletic training room and locker room areas of Daniel-Meyer Coliseum will be changed during construction of the new weight training and rehabilitation facility. Entrances on the ground level adjacent to the stadium's south end zone will be altered as the project progresses, Athletic Trainer Ross Bailey explained.

Signs will be posted to direct visitors to the correct entrance, he said. These will be updated as work continues.

WRITING INSTRUCTOR TO SPEAK

Dr. Jeanne Simpson, assistant vice president for academic affairs at Eastern Illinois University, will discuss "The Role of Writing Instruction in the Academy" on Feb. 28 and "New Directions for Writing Across the Curriculum" on March 1. The free, public lectures are scheduled from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Student Center Woodson Room.

Dr. Simpson is former president of the National Writing Centers Association (NWCA). She is the author of numerous articles on writing instruction and was one of the editors for The Writing Center: New Directions, which was named "Book of the Year" by the NWCA in 1991.

Registration for the lectures is available at Ext. 7221. Refreshments will be served.

NOTES ON FOLKS:

The Journal of the Association for Information Sciences has accepted an article by Holly Taylor (psychology) "Spatial Mental Models from Descriptions." Holly presented a paper, "Producing Spatial Descriptions," in January at the Winter Text Conference in Jackson, Wyo.

Former Radford Chairholder Winn Horner is keeping busy. In addition to serving as a Cecil and Ida Green Distinguished Emerita Tutor, she is maintaining her close ties to TCU by teaching a graduate student seminar on the history of English language studies and a Master of Liberal Arts course on "Writing Auto/Biography." She's writing and editing a variety of books and magazines and last year her Nineteenth Century Scottish Rhetoric: The American Connection was published by Southern Illinois University Press. Also published in 1993 was Learning from the Histories of Rhetoric: Essays in Honor of Winifred Bryan Horner, which includes a piece by current Radford Chairholder Susan Jarratt.

Wayne Ludvigson (psychology) chaired the "Affect or Information" session at the 1994 Winter Conference on Animal Learning XII, held in Winter Park, Colo. He also presented a paper and led a related focus group on "Picturing the mind-body issue: What do we tell them?"

The Journal of Behavioral and Neural Biology has published "Learning under partial reinforcement in the toad (Bufo arenarum): Effects of lesions in the medial pallium," by Mauricio Papini (psychology).

Three of Timothy Barth's students presented papers Feb. 19 during the regional Psi Chi conference hosted by the psychology honor society's campus chapter. Undergraduate Lynley Fowler discussed "Recovery and Maintenance of Function After Cortical Lesions in the Rat: Effects of the Noncompetitive NMDA Antagonist Mk-801," graduate student Stephen Irish presented his findings on "Motor Learning as a Possible Mechanism of Behavioral Recovery Following Cortical Lesion in the Rat" and graduate student Mike Hoane spoke on "Effects of Scopolamine on Recovery from Somatic Sensorimotor Cortex Lesion in the Rat."

Harris College's Susan Wilson is the author of an article titled "Bed Rest Won't Prevent Post-LP Headaches" that appears in the February issue of the American Journal of Nursing. (LP is lumbar puncture.)

Bob Cooter (education) was a featured speaker Feb. 11 at the South Carolina annual conference of the International Reading Association. His topic was "Using Portfolios to Inform Reading Instruction and Reporting."

STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Tom Camacho has been promoted to Craft Tech II painter. He has been a Craft Tech I painter in the physical plant since 1991.

Nelda McGlinchey has returned to admissions as a Secretary II after an eight-month hiatus from TCU. She has a B.B.A. degree from the University of Texas, but her husband and three sons are graduates.

Otis Duncan is a new Service Assistant I in Facility Services. He previously was employed by Saint Joseph Hospital.

NOTED BRITISH PROFESSOR TO VISIT

Kevin Boyle, professor of law at England's University of Essex, is leading the first attempt to judge the democratic condition of Britain's political institutions. Supported by the Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust, the effort also will offer an assessment of the democratic quality of ordinary citizens' lives.

Founding director of Article 19, the international freedom of expression body based in London and established in 1986, Boyle will be a guest of the political science department Feb. 28-March 2. As a Green Honors Professor in the position endowed by Dr. Cecil H. Green and his wife, the late Dr. Ida Green of Dallas, he will meet with students, faculty and staff members in informal sessions in addition to speaking to political science classes.

His public presentation March 1 will be "Latest Developments in Northern Ireland and Human Rights." The free program, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Student Center 207, will be a part of this year's observance of International Week, described elsewhere in this bulletin.

Boyle began his full-time appointment as professor of law at the University of Essex in 1989. He also directs the University Human Rights Centre, an interdisciplinary center for research and teaching on the theory and practice of human rights.

"An effort to develop and apply indices of democracy can help both the deepening of democracy at home and also make a contribution to the search for a stable universal democratic order," Boyle said of the precedent-setting audit, which ranges from public institutions to private lives.

Boyle also leads an international project funded by the Philadelphia-based Pew Charitable Trust to prepare a World Report on Freedom of Thought, Conscience and Religion or Belief.

Born in Northern Ireland, Boyle has written widely on international human rights and is author of several books, including volumes on British-Irish relations, the Northern Ireland conflict and sentencing law. Educated at Queens University Belfast, Cambridge University and Yale University, Boyle is a barrister at law with extensive experience before the European Commission of Human Rights at Strasbourg. Before assuming his position at Essex, he was professor and dean of the faculty of law at University College in Galway, Ireland.

While in Fort Worth, Boyle will speak Feb. 27 at the 11 a.m. service at First United Methodist Church. His topic will be "Global Human Rights and Religious Issues."

TCU IN THE NEWS

Director Larry Kitchens of instructional services was among panelists discussing violence on television for the KXAS-TV Spectrum show that aired Feb. 12.

Chancellor Bill Tucker and Athletic Director Frank Windegger have been quoted recently in the Dallas Morning News and Fort Worth Star-Telegram regarding proposed reconfiguration of the Southwest and Big Eight conferences.

The Texas Jewish Post carried a story on John Loud (modern languages and literatures) and his work on recent translating projects in the Feb. 3 issue. John's circle of translators includes Russian Jewish immigrants living and working in the Fort Worth area.

The University's Intensive English program, directed by Ken Bus (international student affairs), received attention in a Feb. 12 Star-Telegram article by Lydia Lum, who interviewed Ken in the process of gathering information about four area programs. In addition to acquiring English usage skills and expanding vocabulary, Lum noted, participants also gain a cultural orientation.
