CHANCELLOR RESPONDS TO SWC CHANGES

Changes in the Southwest Conference and acceptance of invitations by the University of Texas, Texas Tech, Texas A&M and Baylor to join the Big Eight were major news items during the last week.

"The breakup of the Southwest Conference is keenly disappointing to Texas Christian University," said Chancellor Bill Tucker. "The conference figures prominently in the great tradition of the State of Texas. We have had a strong and valued relationship with the member institutions through thick and thin and for many decades.

"Athletics is and will continue to be important in life and work here." Dr. Tucker continued. "If the ground shifts beneath us, we shall consider all options in the best interest of the University. Whatever the outcome, TCU remains firm in its commitment to maintain an intercollegiate athletics program at the level of Division I-A and in concert with others."

PHI BETA KAPPA SCHOLAR WILL SPEAK

Dr. Bruce B. Lawrence of Duke University will speak twice on campus next week as a Phi Beta Kappa Scholar. His March 7-8 visit will be hosted by TCU's chapter of the nation's oldest scholastic honor society.

A professor of religion and chairman of the comparative area studies program at Duke, he will discuss "The Colonial and Post-Colonial Muslim World: Its Formation, Scope and Prospects" during a public lecture March 7. The free event will begin at 8 p.m. in the Sid Richardson Building's Lecture Hall 1.

"Islam and the Changing World Order: Academic and Popular, Media and Governmental Views of Humankind's Second Largest Religious Community" will be his topic March 8 for a Phi Beta Kappa banquet. The 7 p.m. event will be in the Student Center ballroom. Reservations, set at $12 per person, must be made by Friday with George Gilbert in the mathematics department.

In addition to his public presentations, Lawrence will teach undergraduate classes in the religion and political science departments and meet with faculty members.

Lawrence has written extensively on Asian Islam and religion in the modern world. A member of the Duke faculty since 1971, he is president of the American Society for the Study of Religion. Of his six books, Defenders of God: The Fundamentalist Revolt Against the Modern Age received the 1991 prize for excellence in historical studies from the American Academy of Religion. Currently he is engaged in a book-length study of the post-colonial Muslim world.

With assistance from the Pew Charitable Trust, Lawrence began a multiyear transnational Forum on Global Islam in 1991.

A consulting editor of Abingdon Dictionary of Living Religions, Classics of Western Spirituality and the Encyclopaedia Iranica, Lawrence serves on the editorial board of Religion and the H. F. Guggenheim Review.

His advisory activities have included the American Institute of Indian Studies and The Guggenheim Foundation.

SERVICE TO CELEBRATE DIVERSITY

Interfaith worship will characterize Wednesday's noon service in Robert Carr Chapel as International Week participants acknowledge and celebrate religious diversity within the campus community. All faculty and staff members, students and the public are welcome to attend.

International students will read passages and prayers from Buddhist, Hindu, Jewish, Muslim and Native American sources. Student testimonies, hymns, anthems, responsive readings and moments of silent meditation also will be included in the service.

Scott Wells, a Unitarian Universalist student at Brite, planned the service, working with Neeley School undergraduate Geoffrey Aludo, a native of Kenya. Other students assisted.

"It is vitally important if we are to live successfully in our interconnected world that each of us learns to rejoice in the diversity of human experience and to accept our common humanity," Scott wrote last week.

SCHMIDT LEADING LENTEN SERIES

The Catholic Community has begun a Lenten Series, "What Did Jesus Really Say? With Implications for our Faith/Prayer Lives." Each Thursday program will begin at 6 p.m. in the Faculty Center, following a free 5:30 p.m. supper. The series, introduced on Feb. 24, will continue through March 17 and is open to all faculty and staff members, students and the public.

Daryl Schmidt of religion introduced the series and will return to speak March 10 and 17. This week's program will involve a group discussion of materials he has prepared.

Daryl participated in the Jesus Seminar, a project involving biblical scholars across the United States. Their work has resulted in a book, The Five Gospels — What Did Jesus Really Say? Members studied the Gospels according to Matthew, Mark, Luke and John as well as the book of Thomas, a narrative discovered in 1945 in an abandoned Egyptian monastery. They voted on each book's accuracy and attempted to distinguish the actual words of Jesus from other passages, instructing the publisher to color-code various passages as attributable to Jesus, representative of Jesus' ideas or reflective of later traditions.

FREEDOM FORUM DIRECTOR TO SPEAK

"Global News in the Post-Cold War Period: Implications for U.S. Foreign Policy and International Relations" will be discussed March 7 in a free, public program beginning at 7 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. The speaker will be Dr. Everette E. Dennis, executive director of The Freedom Forum Media Studies Center at Columbia University.

Dennis will be a guest of the journalism department March 7-9 as a Green Honors Professor. In addition to his public presentation, he will meet with classes and individual students and faculty members.

Also director of Columbia's Center for Telecommunication and Information Studies of the Graduate School of Business, he is co-chairman of the University Seminar on Communications and Society. He is a trustee of the London-based International Institute of Communications and serves on the board of the Center for Foreign Journalists in Reston, Va. He also is a member of the Asian Fellows Selection Committee at the University of Hawaii and was national president of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication in 1983-84. He is vice president of The Freedom Forum, formerly the Gannett Foundation, in Arlington, Va.

The Freedom Forum Media Studies Center for which Dennis is chief executive officer is the nation's first institute for the advanced study of mass communication and technological change. It conducts research and sponsors conferences and meetings, and its favorably reviewed research and publications are widely disseminated. Dennis also is editor-in-chief of the Media Studies Journal.

Dennis led a First Amendment Task Force while the Freedom Forum reorganized as an information freedom of expression philanthropy. In 1990 he headed a task force to Eastern Europe and wrote a major report.

Holder of three post-doctoral fellowships at Harvard University, Dennis earned the Ph.D. at the University of Minnesota and B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Oregon and Syracuse University, respectively.

Author, co-author or editor of 26 books as well as more than 150 articles in professional and scholarly journals, he was dean and professor of the School of Journalism at the University of Oregon in 1981-84 and director of the National Project on the Future of Journalism Education.

Special reports by Dennis include "The Unfolding Lotus: East Asia's Changing Media," issued in 1993; "The Media at War: The Press and the Persian Gulf Conflict," 1991; and "Emerging Voices: East European Media in Transition," 1990.

Dennis, active in the International Press Institute and other professional organizations, is listed in Who's Who in America, International Who's Who and Who's Who Among Authors and Journalists. His books include Demystifying Media Technology, Beyond the Cold War, Media and the Environment, Understanding Mass Communication and Justice Hugo Black and the First Amendment.

SENATE WILL MEET THURSDAY

The Faculty Senate will meet Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Faculty Center. Agenda items will include a report from the role and function committee on proposed changes in membership of the budget and finance committee and University Council. Recommendations on a revised Student Honor Code and revitalization of "FrogFinder" will be given by the student relations committee. The committee on committees also will give a report.

Minutes of the Feb. 3 meeting will be circulated to update faculty members on proceedings, according to Secretary Carolyn Spence Cagle.

Faculty members are encouraged to contact their senators with ideas and concerns relevant to the faculty role at TCU and to attend this week's meeting.

POLYMER CHEMIST TO LEAD SEMINAR

Polymer specialist Dr. Daniel T. Glatzhofer of the University of Oklahoma will lecture on "Synthesis and Properties of Poly(paracyclophanes): Organic Chemistry to Polymeric Photoconductor" at 11 a.m. Thursday in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 4. All interested faculty and staff members are welcome to attend his seminar.

Hosted by the chemistry department and faculty member William Watson, Glatzhofer will share results of his ongoing and recent research. His areas of interest and publication include organic and polymer chemistry, synthesis and electronic properties of polymers, polymer electrochemistry, polymeric surfactants, cyclophane chemistry and metalarene chemistry. Prior to joining the OU faculty, Glatzhofer conducted postdoctoral research at Ohio State University and was associated with the Max Planck Institute for Polymer Science. He holds degrees from Denison University and the University of Michigan.

'94 GAME SCHEDULE CHANGES

Changes have been made in the 1994 football schedules of many Southwest Conference teams. Some of the rearranged dates are the result of television opportunities, according to an announcement by SWC commissioner Steve Hatchell. This included the major change of the Texas-Texas A&M game to Nov. 5 instead of the Thanksgiving date that had been the occasion for 68 times of the two teams' 100 meetings.

The Horned Frogs will open their '94 season with North Carolina on Sept. 3, followed by New Mexico on Sept. 20. Both will be played at those institutions. The team plays Kansas here on Sept. 17 and the University of Texas here on Sept. 24.

Parents Weekend will include the Oct. 1 game with Baylor. After playing Tulane and Houston away from home, TCU's Homecoming game will be with Rice on Oct. 29. Two November out-of-town games — SMU on Nov. 12 and A&M on Nov. 19 — will be followed by the season's last home game Nov. 25 against Texas Tech.

WADSWORTH RANKS HIGHEST

In the recent Southwest Conference Indoor Field and Track Championships held in Fort Worth, Stevanie Wadsworth was the highest ranking entrant from TCU. She finished in second place with 55 feet, two inches in the shot put.

The TCU men's team finished in eighth place. Contributing to the total score were Brashant Carter, who was sixth with 22.42 in the 200 meter, and Cain Miller, who ranked third in the 3,000 with a time of 8:31.45. A sixth-place time of 3:16.70 was earned by the team of Carter, Dallas Cowan, Lloyd Edwards and Chad Voss in the 1,600 relay.

The TCU Women finished in seventh place. Competing in addition to Stevanie was the team of Melony Patterson, Kim Dooley, Rhonda Harris and Robin Schieffer in the 1,600 relay. They were fifth with a time of 12:10.38.

TV SOAP DIRECTOR WILL LECTURE

Give up a weekend for a special project and not get any class credit? That's what some students from the departments of radio-TV-film and theatre will be doing this Friday, Saturday and Sunday as they work with Al Rabin, former executive producer for the NBC soap opera "Days of Our Lives."

About 55 students have volunteered for the two-and-one-half day workshop with Rabin, who is providing copies of scene scripts from recent shows, audio tapes of the show's theme music and video tapes of the scenes as they appeared on the air. Friday evening Rabin will discuss his approach to directing and show students how a director marks a script used in production. At the close of the Friday session, theatre students will act a recent "Days of Our Lives" script under Rabin's direction.

During Saturday's session Rabin will work one-on-one with 10 of the students chosen to assume director roles as they prepare individual scripts for a Sunday production schedule.

Student directors as well as actors and those selected to fill production positions will gather in the Moudy Building television studios Sunday to tape the "Days of Our Lives" scenes. Rabin will screen student tapes at the conclusion of production to compare and contrast the work with the actual "Days of Our Lives" broadcasts.

"Al's real goal is not so much to turn out professional-quality scenes as to put people under a professional level of pressure and urgency," explained Richard Allen, a radio-TV-film assistant professor who joined the faculty in 1993 following a professional writing career that included work for "General Hospital" as well as "Days of Our Lives." Richard continues to write professionally in addition to his faculty responsibilities.

Richard said Rabin was in charge of the NBC soap opera for 16 years and is highly regarded in the entertainment industry, which considers him the "Godfather of Romance." Rabin strived to create a huge fan following as he focused on a couple by developing a very emotional, long-term love story involving trials and tribulations, he noted.

"A good portion of what I teach my students about directing I learned from Al," Richard said. "He's a terrific teacher and one of the few people I know in show business who is able to articulate what he does and how he does it to people who are interested in doing the same thing. He loves training young directors."

WRIGHT RECEIVES MAYBORN SCHOLARSHIP

Angela Wright, a senior majoring in journalism, is the first recipient of the scholarship of the Mayborn Award for Community Leadership.

Announced by journalism chairman Anantha Babbili, the award was established in 1992 by Mrs. Frank Mayborn and the Texas Daily Newspaper Association to honor the late Frank W. Mayborn. Longtime publisher of several Texas newspapers, including the Temple Daily Telegram, Mayborn was well-known for serving his community, especially through education.

The award was presented initially to Richard Connor, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. He asked TCU to name an outstanding senior journalism student to receive the scholarship portion of the award.

Angela, a 1990 graduate of Dallas' Skyline High School, plans to attend graduate school after graduating in May.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Anne Gudmundsen (nursing) spoke Feb. 24 to the Association of Operating Room Nurses at the Harris Methodist Southwest Education Center. The continuing education program on "Progress Through the Ranks" included traits of a successful nurse educator, educational requirements for management positions and some personal experiences from Anne's career.

Christina Murphy (Writing Center) was the keynote speaker at the South Carolina Writing Centers Association Conference in Columbia, S.C. She discussed "Evaluating the Writing Center: How and Why" and also conducted a workshop on how writing centers can enhance students' critical thinking skills.

Gail Davis (nursing) has been elected as a member-at-large of the Governing Board of the Association of Rheumatology Health Professions (ARHP).

Terri Howell (Facility Services) has passed all portions of her GED exam and now has her high school equivalency diploma.

Sandra Dees (IBR) and Don Dansereau (psychology) share authorship of an article titled "Using schematic organizers to help college students organize personal concepts and behavior related to alcohol and cocaine use" in the journal Addictive Behaviors.

"Social anxiety and speaker gaze in a persuasive atmosphere," an article by David Farabee (psychology Ph.D. 1992), Melvin Holcom (psychology Ph.D. 1993), Shawna Ramsey (psychology Ph.D. 1992) and Steve Cole (psychology), was published in the Journal of Research in Personality.

It's a boy named Jake at the home of Karen and Eric Webber (development). The 7-pound lad, "with lots of black hair," was born Feb. 18.

The physical plant's "employee of the quarter" award has been given to Daniel Herrera Sr. for the fourth quarter of 1993. He is a Craft Tech II in the sign shop. The award recognizes the employee for outstanding service. The recognition carries with it a $150 cash award, a commemorative coffee mug and an engraved entry on the physical plant's performance board.

An article by Michael Meckna (music) titled "'As If Your Life Depended on It': Advice from Some Horn Masters" appeared in the February issue of Horn Call, the journal of the International Horn Society.

John Touliatos (educational foundations) has been appointed to the National Council on Family Relations board of directors. The council is the primary professional organization for family studies.

Ruth Whitlock (music) served as a Music Educators National Conference program evaluator for the McAllen Independent School District choral music program in December. In January, she presented an audiation workshop for Region V junior high and middle school choral directors in Arlington. In February, a $1,000 contribution to the Rio Grande Valley International Music Festival was made as a "living honor" to Ruth, a founder of the festival, by the Pharoah C. Thompson Foundation.

Janet Pummill (music) recently was invited by Robert Shaw to sing with his Festival Chorus for a week-long workshop that culminated in a Carnegie Hall performance of Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem." Janet also was invited to be the organist at this year's All State Choir held during the Texas Music Educators Association Convention in San Antonio.

Curt Wilson (music) reports that the TCU Jazz Ensemble delighted state, national and international dignitaries when they performed at Lockheed's "rollout" of the first F-16 jet delivery to the Portuguese air force on Feb. 18. Guests at the event included the Portuguese minister of defense and the chief of staff of the Portuguese air force. The Curt Wilson Quartet also played at a reception for the delegation at the Fort Worth Club.

NOTES ON FOLKS

"A Status Report on Methods Used in Mass Communication Research," written by Roger Cooper (radio-TV-film), appeared in the winter 1994 issue of Journalism Educator. The article was co-authored by W. James Potter and Michel Dupagne of Indiana University.

Mathematics faculty members Janice Adams, David Addis, Victor Belfi, Roy Combrink, Charles Deeter, Bob Doran, George Gilbert, Rhonda Hatcher, Jesse Hyder, Mary Landers, Allison Owen and Efton Park attended the Teachers Teaching with Technology (T3) Conference along with 1,000 other mathematics teachers from around the nation. The Feb. 11-13 event was held in Fort Worth.

Victor Belfi and Charles Deeter (mathematics) attended the Harvard Calculus Workshop at Oklahoma State University Feb. 18-20. Along with approximately 120 other mathematics teachers from the central United States, they were introduced to the new curriculum materials for calculus instruction, developed by the Harvard Consortium, as well as brief descriptions of several other project materials for calculus reform. Also attending was David Lee Drennan, a Fort Worth native and alumnus of the TCU's mathematics Ph.D. program.

Chris Barry (finance and decision sciences) has been named to the editorial advisory board of the Journal of Investing, published by Institutional Investor. Chris' specific responsibility is to identify and attract new work in the area of emerging capital markets.

Mark Thistlethwaite (art & art history) presented a paper titled "The Promise, Practice and Problems of Discipline-Based Art Education" at the recent annual meeting of the College Art Association held in New York.

Larry Withers (Counseling Center) and Richard Wantz of Wright State University are authors of an article titled "The Influence of Belief Systems on Subjects' Perceptions of Empathy, Warmth, and Genuineness" that appears in the winter issue of Psychotherapy.

The Journal of Professional Services Marketing has published "Measuring Architectural Design Service Quality" by Charles Lamb (marketing) and co-author Julie Baker of the University of Texas.

Dave Kuhne (Ph.D. student in English) has published a review of Michael Lee Lohen's The Twentysomething American Dream in the winter 1993 issue of Texas Books in Review.

SOLOS FEATURED IN CONCERT

Two percussion solos and a piece written by Associate Director of Bands Robert Foster Jr. will be the highlights of a free concert presented by the TCU Symphonic Band tonight (Tuesday). Robert will direct the band, which will begin playing at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Band graduate assistant Larry Gerber will be a percussion soloist on two numbers: Paul Creston's Concertino for Marimba and Band, Op. 213, and his own arrangement of Clair Omar Musser's Etude in C. Other selections will include Gordon Jacob's "Music for a Festival," Percy Grainger's "Handel in the Strand" and Henry Fillmore's "Lassus Trombone." The concert will close with Foster's "Childrens Song" and Malcolm Arnold's "Four Scottish Dances."

MILLER TO "MAP" PASSIONS IN DANCE

New York-based Bebe Miller, who has been called "a cartographer of human emotions" by Suzanne Carbonneau of The Washington Post, will bring her dancers and her dynamic brand of choreography to Ed Landreth Auditorium Saturday at 8 p.m. The production is being presented by TCU New Century Danscene.

Miller's work, which often explores human emotion and the desire to connect with nature, has earned her a variety of commissions and praise from critics. She has received fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts and the New York Foundation for the Arts in addition to an American Choreographer Award and a 1988 John Simon Guggenheim Fellowship.

Miller's interest in finding a physical language for the human condition is a connecting thread in two of her recent works, which are set to the music of Jimi Hendrix. Those works include "The Hendrix Project," which premiered in 1991, and "Paisley Sky," commissioned by the Boston Ballet in 1992.

Tickets for the performance are $10 for general admission and $6 for students and senior citizens. Additional ticket information is available from Central Ticket Office at 335-9000.

The production is a Mid-America Arts Alliance Program made possible by the Dance on Tour Program of the National Endowment for the Arts. It is funded in part by the Texas Commission on the Arts.

Miller will conduct master classes in TCU's Ballet and Modern Dance Building Thursday from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and Saturday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. The classes are open to the public and are recommended for intermediate and advanced dancers. For more information on classes or to reserve a space, call Ext. 6676.

CABLE TV CARRIES BREAKFAST

Fort Worth Subscribers to Sammons Cable Television service can tune into a recent Executive Breakfast speech by Preston Townley, president and chief executive officer of The Conference Board. The breakfast was sponsored by the Neeley School's Charles Tandy American Enterprise Center.

The taped presentation of Townley's Feb. 15 speech will air eight times in early March. The City Video 45 production can be viewed on Sammons Channel 45. The dates and times are: March 6 at 7 p.m.; March 7, 10 a.m.; March 9, 1 p.m.; March 12, 1 p.m.; March 13, 7 p.m.; March 14, 10 a.m.; March 16, 1 p.m.; and March 19, 1 p.m.

SERVICES HELD FOR PADGETT

Funeral services were held Feb. 21 for Sidney Padgett, who retired in 1987 after serving as the physical plant's construction superintendent. The Fort Worth native died Feb. 18 in a local hospital.

Former owner of the architectural firm that bore his name, Sid earned the Bachelor of Architecture degree in 1950 at the University of Texas at Austin and had been a registered architect since that year. The Moudy Building was among his major projects on campus.

Sid was a member of the American Institute of Architects and Texas Institute of Architects and was a former member of Boy Scouts of America. He served in the U.S. Navy Seabees in 1942-46. He completed the M.L.A. degree here in 1986.

Survivors include his wife, Gloria; two sons, four daughters, a sister, five brothers and 12 grandchildren.

EVALUATION WILL BE TOPIC

"Evaluation of Instruction" will be the topic for a March 10 brown bag event coordinated by the TCU Evaluation Committee. The meeting will begin at 12:30 p.m. in Student Center 207.

The discussion will include considering whether student evaluations provide useful information and the meaning of course evaluations. Information will be available on various techniques for evaluating and/or documenting effectiveness of instruction.

Students will be available to present/discuss their points of view, according to Kathymu Mueller, who leads the evaluation committee.

THESIS PERFORMANCE SET

A thesis performance by Delight Roach-Hardee, who is a candidate for the Master of Science degree in speech communication, will be given March 6 in the Stockyards Station Market at the Cattleman's Club. The 1:30 p.m. public program will be followed by a reception in the North Fort Worth Historical Museum in the Exchange Building.

"Southwestern Triptych: The Performance of Ethnography in a Gallery Theater Format" is the topic of the program featuring the role of women in three cultures. Delight earned the B.S. degree here in 1991.
