HISTORIAN WILL BE HONORS WEEK GUEST

Dr. Elaine Pagels, a historian of early Christianity and Harrington Spear Paine Foundation Professor of Religion at Princeton University, will deliver lectures Wednesday and Thursday as part of Honors Week activities. As the Cecil H. and Ida Green Honors Chair Professor, Pagels will discuss "The Gnostic Gospels: The Challenge of the Gnostic Christ," at a free public lecture Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom

"Satan and All His Angels: Demonizing the Other" will be his topic for the public at Honors Convocation at 11 a.m. Thursday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Pagels also will participate in an open forum at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Woodson Room.

Pagels is the author of four books, including The Gnostic Gospels (1979), which has been translated into 10 languages and won both the National Book Critics Circle Award and the American Book Award. She was the recipient of a 1980-85 MacArthur Prize Fellowship and currently is doing research at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton.

Pagels' work in translating and interpreting the collection of early Christian writings — discovered at Nag Hammadi in Egypt in 1945 — shed new light on diversity in early Christianity. Her latest work, Adam, Eve and the Serpent, explores what the Garden of Eden story reveals about attitudes toward sexuality, politics, suffering, guilt and the roles of men and women in society.

Pagels received her Ph.D. in the study of religion at Harvard University in 1970 after acquiring a B.A. in history and an M.A. in classics from Stanford University.

Initiations included in week's activities

Honors Week opened yesterday and continues today (Tuesday) with the presentation of Senior Honors Projects, the Phi Upsilon Omicron (design and fashion) Honors Banquet and the Sigma Delta Pi (Spanish) initiation.

Wednesday's activities will include three initiations: Alpha Lambda Delta (freshman) at 4 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom; Theta Alpha Kappa (religion) at 4:30 p.m. in Beasley Hall's Bradford Room and Kappa Tau Alpha (journalism) at 5:30 p.m. in the Student Center Woodson Room.

The journalism event also will include an awards dinner featuring a talk by Marvin J. Girouard, president and chief operating officer of Pier 1 Imports. The department's ethics award will be presented, and outstanding student leadership awards and scholarships will be announced at the event, which will cost $7 per person.

Convocation, banquet set for Thursday

All 11 a.m. classes will be dismissed Thursday for the 32nd annual Honors Convocation, which will include remarks by Honors Program Director David Grant. He also will preside over the event and announce the TCU Honors Scholar Award. Nadia Lahutsky of religion will introduce guest speaker Pagels.

Chancellor Bill Tucker will introduce 1994 Phi Beta Kappa electees, and Vice Chancellor Don Mills will announce scholarship awards. Sharon Selby, president of Alpha Lambda Delta, will present that organization's awards, and Matthew Flaherty, chairman of the Student Honors Cabinet, will present the 1994 Honors Faculty Recognition Award, TCU's oldest and most prestigious teaching award given by students.

The convocation processional, Mouret's "Symphonie de Fanfare," and postlude, Langlais' "Te Deum," will be played by Emmet Smith, Herndon Professor of Music, and Sheila Allen of music will lead in the singing of the alma mater. The invocation will be delivered by Akum Norder, former chairwoman of the Senior Honors Cabinet.

David also will preside over the Honors Banquet Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. "A Penny for Your Thoughts" is the title for a presentation to be given by 1993-94 Honors Professor Bob Doran. Chancellor Tucker will present the departmental senior scholars, after which John Albright, president of the TCU Chapter of Sigma Xi, will award the chapter's Outstanding Senior in Science award. Other awards will include the Phi Beta Kappa Award to the Outstanding Senior in Liberal Studies, to be presented by Emmet, chapter president, and the Boller Award for Outstanding Senior Honors presentation, which will be given by David.

Banquet Committee members include chairwoman Amy Jablonski, Matthew, Akum, Fiona Barriac, Julie Bauer, Lisa McKenna, Heather Renders and Wendy Wright.

Weekend activities include an Honors Spring Picnic to be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at Foster Park.

A Pi Kappa Lambda Honors Recital on April 18 will conclude Honors Week activities. The event will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium and is free and open to the public. Featured performers include pianists Sallie Pummill and Xiao-Bo Chen, violinists Michelle Yang and Sylvia Cheah, organists Brent McCartney and Hyun Kim and sopranos Stephanie Lewis, Melissa Patteson and Jenna Cropper. Accompanists include clarinetist Michelle Allard and pianists Janet Pummill, Willie Martinez and Brent.

PHYSICAL PLANT, CITY HOST EVENT

Representatives of some 200 colleges and universities are attending the annual meeting of the Texas Association of Physical Plant Administrators that concludes today (Tuesday). Hosting the annual event, which began Sunday, are TCU's physical plant and the City of Fort Worth.

Sessions are being conducted by technical people along with some 50 vendors.

Introductory remarks at Monday's breakfast were made by Chancellor Bill Tucker. Director Will Stallworth of TCU's Physical Plant will conclude his term as the association's president at this meeting.

CASH TO BE COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Dr. James Cash Jr., TCU alumnus who has been a member of Harvard University's faculty since 1976, will speak at spring commencement May 14.

As announced earlier, the combined baccalaureate-commencement will begin at 3:30 p.m. in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum instead of the previous time of 7:30 p.m.

Cash, a Fort Worth native who was named to TCU's board of trustees in 1988, is the James E. Robison Professor of Business Administration and chairman of the Master of Business Administration Program for Harvard's Graduate School of Business. Holder of master's and Ph.D. degrees from Purdue University, the former Horned Frog basketball letterman has received a number of academic and professional honors. A two-time all-America cager at TCU, he has served in consulting and teaching roles for companies throughout the world.

EVENT TO NOTE SERVICE, RETIREMENTS

More than 1,600 years' service to the University will be noted April 20 at the annual service awards program. To be held in the Student Center ballroom, a 3 p.m. reception will be followed by a 3:30 p.m. program with Chancellor Bill Tucker presiding.

The ceremony will mark the 20th anniversary of the program recognizing people for their longtime service to TCU. Two brief ceremonies to honor people with service of 25 years or more preceded the current format, which began in 1974.

Awards, given on the basis of permanent half-time or more cumulative service, include engraved Bulova watches to those with 40-year records and engraved Bulova captain's clocks to those with 35 years. For 30 years' service, engraved Cross pen and pencil sets are given. Other awards are small replicas of the official University seal. The 25-year pins are 10K gold with a small diamond insets; the 20-year, gold-filled pins have emerald insets; 15-year awards are sterling silver with ruby insets; and 10-years pins are golden bronze.

Names of honorees will be read by Provost/Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler and Vice Chancellors Edd Bivin, Bronson Davis, Don Mills and Jim McGowan. Assisting will be Lois Banta, director of benefits.

Of 100 to be honored for service, a 40-year award will be given to Betsy Colquitt, professor of English. The Fort Worth native and TCU alumna received the Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching in 1982. Past president of the Texas Association of Creative Writing, Betsy has been editor of Descant, TCU's literary journal, since 1965.

Mildred Hogstel, the first Abell-Hanger Professor of Gerontological Nursing in Harris College, will be recognized for 35 years of service. She is a three-time recipient of the book-of-the-year award presented by the American Journal of Nursing.

Thirty-year awards will be presented to three people. They are Jim Kelly and Manfred Reinecke, both of the chemistry department, and James Williams, instrument maker in research and sponsored projects.

For 25 years' service, 17 people will be honored. They are Chancellor Tucker; Provost/Vice Chancellor Koehler; Associate Vice Chancellor Larry Adams; Victor Belfi, mathematics; Betty Benison, education; Sally Bohon, Honors Program; David Conn, art; and Roberta Corder, AddRan College. Others are Geraldine Dominiak, accounting; Bob Doran, mathematics; Dale Huckaby, chemistry; Doug Newsom, journalism; Mabeth Rhodes, Air Force ROTC; Bill Vanderhoof, education; Spencer Wertz, philosophy; and Harrel Moten and Judy Smith of publications.

Also retiring are Guillermo Ochoa, Facility Services; Willie Mae Moore, health center; Charles Peveler, housing; Inez Phillips, Greek hall adviser; Eugenia Trinkle, News Service; and Dick Waits, economics.

CANCER RESEARCHER TO LECTURE

Dr. Randy Legerski of the University of Texas at Houston's M.D. Anderson Cancer Center will discuss "Mechanisms in Nucleotide Excision Repair" at noon Friday in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 3. His presentation, sponsored by the TCU Research Fund Lectureship and hosted by the biology department, is open to all faculty and staff members, students and the public.

TRIER DANCERS TO APPEAR IN CONCERTS

TCU dancers will share the stage with dance professionals from the City Ballet of Trier, Fort Worth's Sister City in Germany, at the Spring Dance Concert Friday to Sunday.

The Trier group will perform a different work each night, including the suite from "Carmen" on Friday, "Three Penny Opera" on Saturday and "A Trip Through Germany," a "travelogue" of the different cities in Germany, on Sunday. A selection of works danced by TCU students and staged by dance faculty members also will be featured at each concert.

Performances will be at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. All three concerts staged in Ed Landreth Auditorium are free and open to the public.

The Trier group's ballet director and choreographer, Sergey Volobuyev, is representative of its international character. He was born in the former Soviet republic of Georgia, and danced and/or taught in Italy, Australia and Germany before joining the City Theater Trier in 1991. He has danced in major operas, including "Aida" and "La Traviata," and in ballet productions including "Giselle," "Peer Gynt" and "Carmen."

The other 10 members of the diverse group have both classical ballet and modern dance backgrounds and hail from Ukraine, Russia, France, Romania, Spain, Finland and Brazil. The visit to Fort Worth broadens the dancers' scope, adding Texas to a performance list that already includes New York's City Center Theater and numerous shows in Europe.

From TCU's dancers and choreographers, audiences will see both ballet and modern dance, including the second act of the classic, "Swan Lake," re-staged by Stephanie Woods Rand and Li Chou Cheng. The TCU Jazz Vocal Ensemble will accompany a modern dance staged by the department's newest faculty member, Susan Haigler-Robles, centering around a Jewish mythical character in the Garden of Eden. Another modern dance piece — Susan Douglas Roberts' surreal "White Courtesy Phone Please" — will feature nine students dancing to music by Laurie Anderson.

Former dance faculty member David Hochoy returned to campus in January to choreograph a piece examining the homeless in New York. Rehearsals for the work, titled "Hello In/Out There," were directed by current faculty member Elizabeth Gillaspay.

Theatre faculty members Nancy McCauley, LaLonnie Lehman and Michael Skinner provided assistance in scenic, costume and lighting design. Student Rob Laney directed music for Haigler-Robles' piece, titled "Lilith Begot Eve . . . and Hunting Season Began."

The Trier dancers, who will be accompanied by German dignitaries and musicians, will be recognized at a Fort Worth City Council meeting today (Tuesday). Their visit is a joint effort of TCU and Fort Worth Sister Cities International. The Sister Cities organization facilitates cultural, social, educational and business exchanges between the people of Fort Worth and its Sister Cities to enhance communication and to foster and encourage mutual understanding, friendship and peace. Trier is the second community to establish a Sister City relationship with Fort Worth.

Fort Worth dance instructor Gayle Corkery initiated the Trier/TCU project after meeting Volobuyev, according to Ellen Garrison, dance department chairwoman. Dancers from TCU plan to visit Trier next year, she added.

CHEMIST TO CONDUCT SEMINAR

Dr. Ed Quitevis of the Texas Tech University chemistry department faculty will lead a seminar on "Solvation Effects in Cis-Trans Photo-Isomerization Reactions" at 11 a.m. today (Tuesday) in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 4. All interested faculty and staff members are invited to attend.

TRUSTEE, WIFE WILL BE HONORED

Trustee Ben Fortson and his wife, Kay, who are credited with building the internationally known Kimbell Art Museum over the last 30 years from the private collection of her uncle, will be honored May 3 at the Exchange Club's 65th annual Golden Deeds Award banquet. The event honoring the outstanding citizens will be at the Worthington Hotel. Speakers will be honorary trustee Ann W. Marion, who was last year's honoree, along with alumnus/trustee Dee Kelly and Edwin S. Ryan.

Fortson, named to TCU's governing body in 1986, also is a trustee of the Burnett-Tandy Foundation and the Moncrief Radiation Center and a director of Justin Industries Inc. President and owner of Fortson Oil Co., he is a vice president of the Kimbell Art Foundation.

Mrs. Fortson, director of Performing Arts Fort Worth and a trustee of the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth, is a former member of the Fort Worth Cultural District committee, the collections committee of the National Gallery of Art in Washington and the executive committee of the Van Cliburn Foundation. She has been president of the Kimbell Art Foundation since 1975. She was named one of its directors in 1956.

SATURDAY IS SIGN-UP DAY

Saturday will be sign-up day for enrolling in the six two-week swimming sessions planned for May and June. For registrants' convenience, the Rickel Building swimming office will be open from 9 a.m. to noon.

Planned for after-school hours, the first three sessions will be May 2-12, May 16-26 and May 31-June 9. These will be from 3:15 to 3:55 p.m. for beginners, 4 to 4:40 p.m. for intermediates and 4:45 to 5:30 p.m. for advanced swimmers and beginners.

Other sessions will be June 13-23, June 27-July 8 and July 11-21.

Offered at the Rickel Building's indoor pool, classes will be for children four and older with ability levels ranging from beginning to advanced competitive strokes. Supervising will be Richard Sybesma, named 1993 Southwest Conference "Coach of the Year." One instructor will be assigned to a group of six students.

The cost for each session will be $65 each for children of faculty and staff members. Registrations can be made by mail to Richard at Box 32924. Brochures about the swimming program are available on request by calling Ext. 7963.

TCU GROUPS TO RACE FOR THE CURE

Several TCU groups will participate Saturday in the second annual Tarrant County Race for the Cure. Held in cooperation with the Main Street Arts Festival, the race supports the Tarrant County chapter of the Susan G. Komen Foundation for breast cancer awareness, education, detection and research.

Last year's race attracted 2,000 runners and raised approximately $100,000, which was more than was generated by races in New York and Atlanta, explained Peggy Conway, Neeley School M.B.A. admissions director and publicity chairwoman for the event. "We expect this year's race to be even larger," Peggy said.

The Neeley School will field a corporate team of faculty, staff and students. Other race-day participants include the Executive M.B.A. Women's Forum and the TCU chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha.

The race will feature a one-mile fun run/walk that is open to everyone and a female-only 5K (3.1 mile) run. Five-time Olympian Francie Larrieu-Smith as well as recreational runners and those whose lives have been affected by breast cancer are expected to be attracted to the race, Peggy said.

MAY GRADUATES TO EXHIBIT WORKS

Eleven communication graphics and studio art majors who are graduating in May will show their works in two free exhibits April 18-23 and April 25-29 in the Moudy Building exhibit area.

Three studio art majors will exhibit paintings, sculptures, drawings and prints April 18-23. Opening reception for the exhibit, titled "Mass • Ritual • Tension," will be April 18 from 6 to 9 p.m. Exhibit hours are 11 a.m.-4 p.m. April 19-23.

Exhibitors include painters Mike Morford and Glenn Ruthven and sculptor Laura Gutierrez-Ross.

On April 25, a 6-8 p.m. reception will open an exhibition of works by eight communication graphics majors. Works may include logos and corporate identity systems, stationery, brochure and magazine design, original illustration and packaging and print advertising.

The "Pieces of Eight" exhibit will include works by Shannon Armstrong, Amy Bubna, Tiffany Craun, Lauren DiRusso, Angela Edmondson, David Jones, Julie Poth and Jill Shuert. Exhibit hours are 11 a.m.-4 p.m. April 26-29.

BARNEY TO LECTURE APRIL 15

Management expert Dr. Jay Barney of Texas A&M will be guest lecturer Friday for the Neeley School Visiting Scholar Series. The presentation, "A Resource-Based View of the Firm: Origins and Implications," will begin at 3:30 p.m. in Tandy Hall 120.

Barney's research concentrates on the relationship between sustained competitive advantage and an organization's unique skills and capabilities. He has published articles in the Journal of Management, where he was associate editor, and in the Academy of Management Review and Strategic Management Journal, where he previously served on editorial boards. He currently is senior editor at Organization Science. Implementing large-scale organizational change and strategic analysis are Barney's consulting focuses. He has worked with numerous public and private organizations including Westinghouse Electric, the Masonite Corp., McDonnell Douglas Corp., Wells Fargo Bank, Honeywell Information Systems, Mead, Hewlett-Packard, Texas Instruments and Tenneco.

GEOLOGIST TO DISCUSS GROUNDWATER

A geological engineer who has worked on more than 30 "Superfund" projects for industrial and governmental clients will speak on campus Monday afternoon.

Roger A. Pennifill, earth sciences manager for Enserch Environmental Corporation in Lyndhurst, N.J., will discuss "Practical Considerations and Problems in Designing a Groundwater and Vapor Recovery System" at 4 p.m. in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 3. The geology department will host the free public lecture.

"Superfund" — the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act of 1980, revised in 1986 — has called for the cleanup of nearly 1,300 sites across the country. In his December 1993 Scientific American update on the Clinton administration's overhaul of the trust fund, Gary Stix pointed out that, even as different factions argue over risk assessment, "protection of groundwater . . . justifies the tendency to hew to conservative numbers." Taxes collected from industries, including petroleum and chemical producers, provide most of the money for the program.

Enserch is an environmental and engineering company, formerly the environmental division of Ebasco Services Inc. Pennifill currently serves as project manager for its investigation and remediation of a northern New Jersey site contaminated with radioactive and chemical wastes.

ERISMAN WILL BE HONOREE

Fred Erisman will be one of four honorees Friday at the fourth annual luncheon for Longview High School's distinguished alumni. The event will be held at the First Baptist Church in his hometown.

TCU's Lorraine Sherley Professor of Literature, Fred will be cited for his international reputation as a scholar as well as his skillful performance in the classroom. He is widely known for his research and writing of children's literature. The 1954 Longview high graduate received the Burlington Northern Foundation Award for Teaching in 1991 and in 1981-85 was the only American on the eight-member governing board of the International Research Society for Children's Literature.

Fred is co-author of Fifty Western Writers, now a standard reference work. His other publications include Barnbroken U.S.A., published in Sweden, and articles in such journals as Western American Literature, The American Quarterly and The New England Quarterly. In addition to delivering papers on children's literature in Germany, France and Russia, he is author of five books and 65 articles and has presented papers at numerous scholarly meetings.

THREE NAMED TO POSITIONS

Beth Aine Bollinger, John Lumpkin and Rebecca Coffman will hold leadership positions with student publications during the 1994 fall semester. They were selected by the publications committee, headed by Michael Meckna of music, during its April 4 meeting

Chosen as Image editor, Beth is a senior majoring in both news/editorial journalism and French. She was one of 13 students invited to membership in Kappa Tau Alpha, the national honor society for journalism students, in 1993. Treasurer of the TCU chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists and co-recipient of the William Randolph Hearst Scholarship last year, she was production assistant for last summer's Urban Journalism Workshop.

John, currently news editor for the campus paper, will become its editor. Majoring in journalism, the senior was editor of his high school paper in Richardson. In addition to his work in various capacities on the TCU Daily Skiff, John has worked with the Associated Press, Harte-Hanks newspapers and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. He also is a member of Kappa Tau Alpha.

Rebecca, a sophomore majoring in advertising and public relations, will be advertising manager for the paper and magazine. The Little Rock resident is active in the TCU chapter of Society of Professional Journalists and currently is assistant advertising manager of the Skiff. Chosen for participation in TCU's Leadership II program, she has been a press box hostess.

IDEAS SOUGHT FOR VOLUNTEER EVENT

Faculty and staff members are invited to join in planning the Oct. 8 "Into the Streets" event designed to introduce students to community volunteer work. Kathleen Malone Stearns, Alcohol and Drug Education program specialist, will hold the first in a series of planning sessions at noon Thursday in the Student Center Pit. Future sessions are scheduled for April 21 and 28.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Chuck Williams (management) has been appointed to the editorial board of the Journal of Management. Bob Greer (management) has been appointed to the editorial board of the Academy of Management Journal.

Judith Gans (music) judged the District I-AAA Music Festival of the Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schols (TAPPS) on March 25. The festival, held on the campus of Ursuline Academy in Dallas, included vocal solos, vocal ensembles and large choirs. Judy was in Houston, where she did consulting work for the 1994 Texoma NATS Conference to be held at Rice University.

The journalism department recently hosted prominent writer Ashis Nandy of the Center for the Study of Developing Societies in New Delhi, India. Nandy, as the director of the center, has been influential in post-colonial theories of international and intercultural discourse. His presentation to faculty members and graduate students focused on cultural studies in the context of post-colonial theory. He is the author of The Intimate Enemy; Science, Hegemony and Violence and Traditions, Tyranny and Utopia, all published by Oxford University Press.

A March 16 visitor in the journalism department was Professor Käärle Nordenstreng of the University of Tampere, Finland. Currently a visiting professor at the University of Texas at Austin and the holder of the Finnish Chair at the University of Minnesota, he is the author of several books in international communication and is a consultant to the United Nations on communication and diplomacy.

Freda Murray and Laura Talbot (Harris College) were chosen as two of the "1994 Great One Hundred Nurses" for the Dallas-Fort Worth area. They will be honored May 11 at the Morton Meyerson Symphony Center in Dallas.

The Collected Works of Alfred B. Sedgwick by Michael Meckna (music) has been published by Garland Press. In it Michael introduces and provides critical commentary for 23 works by a prominent 19th-Century musical theater composer. Seventh of a 16-volume series, the book is titled Nineteenth-Century American Musical Theater.

Anantha Babbili (journalism) has been selected as one of the seven jurors for the Commonwealth Award in Mass Communications, one of the group of awards presented each year by the Bank of Delaware for areas in public service, dramatic arts, government, science and invention. Winners receive $25,000 each. Last year's winner for mass communication was Larry King. As a juror, Anantha will be invited to the awards luncheon and will be present at the press conference where the winner will be announced. This year's nominees are Barbara Walters, Kate Graham, Diane Sawyer, Peter Arnett, Molly Ivins, Connie Chung and Bob Schieffer.

Ann Ashworth (English) has learned that her article on Muriel Spark will appear in the Journal of Evolutionary Psychology.

David Conn (art and art history) has been notified that two prints of his have been selected for the juried exhibition titled "1994 British International Miniature Print Exhibition." The five-member jury, including Sheila Sloss, artist, lecturer, and chairwoman of the Printmakers' Council of Great Britain, and Joe Winkleman, artist and president of the Royal Society of Painters and Printmakers, selected 200 works from 1,835 submitted. The exhibition will show June 22 through July in Leicester before going to six other galleries in Britain during 1994 and 1995. The two prints titled "Dialogue with Dead Fathers" are etchings.

NOTES ON FOLKS:

Takayuki Nakata (psychology graduate student) earned an honorable mention for the student paper competition at the Southwestern Society for Research in Human Development, held recently in Austin. The paper, "Lag Sequential Analysis: Robust Statistical Methods Revisited," was presented with David Cross (psychology).

Mauricio Papini (psychology) presented a paper, "El efecto de frustración en el automodelamiento con ratas," to the XII Mexican Congress of Behavior, held in Cocoyoc, Mexico, in February. This paper was done in collaboration with Tom Dudley (psychology graduate student). Mauricio chaired the session "Recent Advances in the Study of Animal Behavior." In collaboration with Norah White of Argentina's University of Buenos Aires, he has had an article, "Performance during signals for reward omission," published in the journal Learning and motivation..

Danica Knight (IBR), Don Dansereau (psychology), George Joe and Dwayne Simpson (IBR) have in press for the American Journal of Drug and Alcohol Abuse an article, "The role of node-link mapping in individual and group counseling."

The Journal of Behavioral Neuroscience has accepted an article titled "Tactile-extinction following unilateral lesions in the rat anteromedial cortex: the effects of a contralateral cue" by Timothy Barth (psychology) and Betthany Marks (psychology graduate student).

The Latin American Theatre Review carried a glowing appraisal of the book El Nuevo Teatro Popular en México authored by Don Frischmann (modern languages and literatures) in its most recent issue. The reviewer, Elena M. DeCosta of Santa Clara University, concluded, "As Frischmann so well demonstrates in his study, the sense of social urgency that is generated in this new strain of popular theatre both in Mexico and throughout the Americas is communicated in its varied themes and styles (testimonial, didactic, consciousness-awakening). But it is refreshing that the author does not ignore the more entertaining side of this dramatic form — its influences from the clown figure, the street vendor, the minstrel or troubadour, and Mexico's own popular merolico."

Texas Zeta, the University's chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta pre-medical/pre-dental honor society, was well-represented at the biennial regional convention March 24-26 in Houston. Faculty adviser Phil Hartman (biology) and honor society regional director Manny Reinecke (chemistry) were accompanied by 15 students who cut short their spring break for a series of lectures, panel discussions and social activities. Texas Zeta won awards for best attendance at the convention and best chapter activities during the past biennium.

Army ROTC cadets from the University led in the planning and organizing of the Fifth Brigade's Camp Apache Mini-Camp held April 6-10 at Fort Hood. The camp commander and staff, chosen from the Horned Frog Battalion, led more than 600 soldiers and cadets representing 17 ROTC units from schools across Texas. Cindy Bishop served as commander with fellow cadets Brian Axelsen, John VanHook, Lita Teran, Tristan Aitken and Jim Alcock forming the staff. Mini-camps provide training and evaluation to MSIII cadets, most of whom are in their junior year of college, in six key events used to determine cadet scores at the annual Advanced Camp held at Fort Lewis, Wash. Maj. Ronald Bumgardner (military science) noted that "each event has been designed not only to evaluate performance but to build confidence as leadership challenges are met and overcome." U.S. Army Reserve units from Fort Worth and four other units supported the exercise.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Sympathy is extended to the family of Alta Bateman Forrester, member of the Harris College of Nursing faculty in 1963-66. A TCU graduate, she died April 4. Formerly associated with the Texas State Health Department, she is survived by her husband, Billy Forrester of Fort Worth; two sons; and two daughters.

Kenneth Raessler (music) became president-elect of the Texas Association of Schools of Music at the 55th annual meeting of the association in Austin. The group's membership includes 90 college and university music schools and departments throughout Texas. Ken will assume the state presidency for the 1995-96 academic year and is the third TCU chairman to hold the post. T. Smith McCorkle served as state president in 1944-45 and Michael Winesanker in 1960-61.

Violinist Frank Almond will make his first appearance on the Storioni Series at Northwestern University's Pick-Staiger Concert Hall in Evanston, Ill. on May 4. The program titled "From Russia with love" also will feature the Storioni Ensemble Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Victor Yampolsky and violist Adam Smyla. Frank and Smyla will be heard in the U.S. premiere of Alexander Chaikovsky's "Distant Dreams of Childhood."

Dave Cravens (marketing) has been notified that his co-authored paper titled "Incorporating a Quality Improvement Perspective into Measures of Salesperson Performance," published in the Journal of Personal Selling and Sales Management, has been selected as the winner of the Mu Kappa Tau "Best Paper of 1993." The winner of this competition is selected by a survey of the journal's review board members.

"Crossing Internal Career Boundaries: The State of Research and Subjective Career Transitions," written by Greg Stephens (management), has been accepted for publication by the Journal of Management. The article is scheduled to appear in the journal's yearly review edition.

Journalism's Doug Newsom has been named to the national Honor Roll of Women in Public Relations, an honor reserved for women "who have contributed significantly to the growth of public relations in the 20th Century." She is president-elect of the Greater Fort Worth Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America.

SCOTT JOINS FIC STAFF

Joan Scott, who has served as both board member and volunteer with several area non-profit organizations, has joined the Funding Information Center (FIC) as assistant director for community relations. Formerly associated with the Kimbell Art Museum, she earned a B.A. degree from the University of California at Santa Cruz and completed the Master of Public Affairs degree at North Carolina State University.

Scott's appointment was announced by Karen LiBassi, director of the FIC.

Located in the Mary Courts Burnett Library, the center operates a library of funding information and resources for the non-profit community and local fund raisers and conducts workshops. It also publishes Directory of Tarrant County Foundations, which contains detailed information on the county's grant-making foundations, areas of giving, trustees and officers, recent recipients, average gifts and application procedures.

According to the 1993 edition, Tarrant County foundations awarded more than $64 million in grants to non-profit groups and individuals in 1992.

The volume, priced at $60 plus $3.50 for postage and handling and $4.65 for tax if not exempt, can be ordered from the FIC at Box 32904.
