INFORMATION AGE WILL BE TOPIC OF CASH AT MAY 14 GRADUATION

"Preparing for the Information Age" will be the topic when James Cash Jr., the James Robison Professor of Business Administration at Harvard University, returns to his alma mater Saturday as speaker for spring commencement.

With some 850 people expected to receive degrees, the combined baccalaureate-commencement will begin at 3:30 p.m. in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum with Chancellor Bill Tucker presiding. Others taking part will be Provost/Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler, academic deans, Faculty Senate chair John Breyer and Registrar Pat Miller. Chief marshal is Anantha Babbili, and Jim Henley is associate marshal. Assistant marshals are Toni Craven and Ron Flowers. Assisting them will be faculty marshals Jennifer Watson, Manocherr Dorraj, Arturo Flores and Sally Fortenberry along with student marshals Al Mladenka, Morri Wong, Nowell Donovan and Carol Stephenson. David Vanderwerken and Ed McNertney will be flag bearers.

For the procession, graduates and marshals will assemble at 2:45 p.m. and faculty and staff members at 3 p.m. in front of the coliseum.

A special commencement concert, beginning at 3 p.m. in the coliseum, will feature the University Band under the direction of Gregory Clemons and Rob Foster.

Cash, who has served in consulting and teaching roles for companies throughout the world, is chairman of the Master of Business Administration program for Harvard University's Graduate School of Business Administration. The school recently unveiled a series of proposals that could result in a major restructuring of its M.B.A. program, according to the Nov. 9, 1993, issue of the Wall Street Journal. The paper identified Cash as the "professor who led the program review."

A member of the Harvard business faculty since 1976 and that institution's first tenured black faculty member, Cash introduced four computer-based systems courses into the second-year M.B.A. program and started the Computer Industry and Technology Club. Currently he also is faculty chairman and/or instructor in several of Harvard's short executive education programs.

Cash, who earned a bachelor's degree in mathematics here in 1969, holds the Master of Science in Computer Science degree from Purdue University, where he completed the Ph.D. in management information systems in 1976. Before joining the Harvard faculty, he was director of the computer center at Oklahoma's Langston University and was systems analyst, programmer and consultant to Indiana-based Arth Drug Stores Inc.

Named to TCU's board of trustees in 1988, Cash also is on the board of Tandy Corp., RentGrow Corp., the Massachusetts Computer Software Council, and State Street Boston Corp. and has been on the editorial board of the Harvard Business Review since 1983. He has served on the boards of SPRINT Corp., Boston Museum of Science, Xcellenet Corp., Bay Bank System Inc., Affiliated Publications and Montessori Educare.

Cash, author and co-author of six books and numerous articles in leading professional journals, was honored by TCU in 1986 with its distinguished alumni award. Speaker at TCU's annual fall convocation in 1988, he was cited as First Century Distinguished Alumni by the Fort Worth Independent School District in 1983.

The Fort Worth native also was honored by the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children in 1991, by the Southwest Conference with its distinguished achievement award in 1989 and by the Phi Kappa Phi honor society in 1974.

In 1992, Cash and his sister, Pamela Cash Menzies, established the Juanita Cash Fellowships here in honor of their mother, a longtime Fort Worth teacher who received her Master of Education degree at TCU in 1965. The awards are designated for graduate studies for minority teachers.

Earlier this spring, Cash was one of five honorees of the National Association of Basketball Coaches as athletes from the Class of 1969 who have gone on to achieve prominence in their respective careers. An all-state center for Fort Worth's I. M. Terrell High School basketball team, Cash was a three-year starter for the Horned Frogs and still ranks 13th in career scoring and fourth in career rebounding at TCU. The first black scholarship player in the Southwest Conference, he selected for academic all-America honors twice and all-SWC athletic honors during his playing career at TCU. He was drafted by Seattle of the National Basketball Association and Miami of the American Basketball Association.

Cash was the spokesman at the event for the 1994 Balfour Silver Anniversary All-America team in Overland Park, Kan.

EVENTS WILL HONOR GRADUATES

Two Saturday afternoon events will honor spring graduates and members of their families.

A 30-minute outdoor carillon recital will be presented by Emmet Smith, Herndon Professor of Organ and Church Music, from the tower of Robert Carr Chapel. It will begin at 1 p.m.

Members of the Class of 1994 and their families will be honored at a 1:30-2:30 p.m. reception. Hosted by the University, the special event in the Student Center ballroom offers an opportunity for faculty and staff members to join in the day's festivities with the graduates and their guests.

CLINIC TO ENCORE SOUND CHECK

Faculty and staff members and students of the University's Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic and the communication sciences and disorders department will conduct free hearing screenings Friday in celebration of Better Speech and Hearing Month. Hours for the public service are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the clinic.

Traditionally, Fort Worth's Sertoma Breakfast Club sponsors the screenings as part of its year-round support of the clinic.

MCDORMAN WILL HEAD HONORS

Kathryne McDorman, an associate professor of history who has been honored by students for her teaching, will become the seventh director of the Honors Program on June 1.

"I am delighted at the outcome of this search," said Provost and Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler in making the announcement. "The selection was a difficult one because of the experience and credentials of the applicants. Dr. McDorman is a respected colleague who has been very active in the Honors Program and is committed to it," he added. "I know she will provide the same outstanding leadership the program has enjoyed during Dr. Grant's tenure."

She succeeds David Grant, an associate professor of religion who has been program director since 1988.

A member of the history faculty since 1977, Kathryne was named Mortar Board "top prof" in 1981 and received the Honors Faculty Recognition Award the following year. She was a leader in TCU's student study programs at Oxford in 1979, 1982 and 1984, and is scheduled to take part in this summer's session there.

Kathryne, holder of degrees from the universities of Kentucky and North Carolina, received a certificate of merit at Scotland's University of Edinburgh in 1968. She held teaching and tuition scholarships while completing the Ph.D. at Vanderbilt. She was a visiting instructor at East Texas State University prior to coming to TCU.

The Alabama native, author of numerous articles on modern British social history, holds membership in the Southern and American historical associations, the Conference on British Studies, the Popular Culture Association and Southwestern Social Science Association.

SEWELL ACCEPTS NEW APPOINTMENT

Ann Sewell, assistant vice chancellor for financial analysis since 1990, will become associate vice chancellor for finance and business on June 1.

In announcing the appointment, Vice Chancellor Jim McGowan noted that she will continue her work on budgeting and financial analysis while "broadening activities in areas such as investment management, faculty relations, management information services and other issues."

Ann joined the staff in 1978 as coordinator of institutional studies. Named interim vice chancellor following the Vice Chancellor Leigh Secrest's retirement last June, she was director of institutional research for nine years before being named director of financial analysis in 1988.

Holder of three degrees from the University of Alabama and the M.B.A. from TCU, she has been active in Leadership Fort Worth, Forum Fort Worth and the Society for College and University Planning.

KENEALLY TO LECTURE JUNE 7

The Dan Danciger Jewish Community Center, in cooperation with Tarrant County Junior College and the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will bring Schindler's List author Thomas Keneally to Fort Worth June 7.

The sponsoring organizations will offer tickets to his public lecture — scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Radisson Plaza Fort Worth — at a substantial discount to faculty and staff members and students. General-admission tickets will be sold for $25, while the student/faculty/staff tickets will be priced at $5.

During the program, Keneally will share what he experienced as he gathered actual testimonies from Holocaust survivors known as "Schindler's Jews." Afterwards he will sign copies of his book.

The Australian-born writer walked into a luggage store in Beverly Hills a decade ago and first heard the story of Oskar Schindler. His reaction set in motion a chain of events leading to the researching and writing of the book and to Steven Spielberg's acclaimed film interpretation.

For the morning portion of Keneally's Fort Worth visit, he will meet with Tarrant County Junior College students, fielding questions and engaging in dialogues. Later, he will meet with a local philanthropist and underwriters, patrons and sponsors of the event.

Ticket information for the evening lecture is available by calling Laura A. Kornegay, program director, Dan Danciger Jewish Community Center, at 292-3111.

HONOR SOCIETIES HOST MONCRIEF

Texas Sen. Mike Moncrief addressed the joint membership of three University honor societies April 26 at their annual initiation and dinner in the Student Center Woodson Room.

Newly inducted into Alpha Kappa Delta, the sociology honor society, were Robert Folzenlogen, Jennifer Beckerly-Greene, Leilana McKindra, Sarah Meyers, Mary Nelson, Christa Phipps, Amara Scull and Janie Thomas.

The social work honorary, Alpha Delta Mu, added nine new members. They are Jennifer Bryan, Courtney Clay, Cheryl Dunnington, Darcy Gritzmacher, Kellie Kahlbau, Kristen Little, Mary Nelson, Kristie Walker and Trisha Worlow.

Initiates into Alpha Phi Sigma, the criminal justice honor society, are Joseph Adcock, Amy Albach, Theresa Becker, Lorraine Braswell, Leane Els, Jennifer Beckerly-Greene, Tracey Lamb, Kall Loper, Robert McCleskey and Christopher Reecht.

Jim Henley of sociology presented the Austin L. Porterfield Award to social work senior Julie Martin, recognizing her for her paper, "Burnout Among Professionals Working with AIDS Victims." Other faculty members presiding over the initiations were Morri Wong of sociology, Linda Moore of social work and Carol Thompson of criminal justice.

CLOTHING DRIVE CONTINUES

The social justice committee of Uniting Campus Ministries will continue its used clothing drive through Friday. Contributors may turn in garments, shoes and household goods to attendants at a Goodwill Industries truck on the west side of the Frog Fountain quadrangle. Collection hours are 3-4 p.m. daily.

CADETS' COMMISSIONINGS SET

A congressman and a retired brigadier general will address commissioning ceremonies for Air Force and Army ROTC cadets in separate ceremonies Friday in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. Faculty and staff members and students are invited to attend.

U.S. Rep. Joe Barton, who will take part in the Air Force program at 4 p.m., has represented the 6th Congressional District of Texas since 1984. The deputy Republican whip, a Waco native who holds degrees from Texas A&M and Purdue universities, has been associated with support for the F-16 and V-22 Osprey programs. He serves on the Energy and Commerce and Science, Space and Technology committees.

Chancellor Bill Tucker will confer a Chancellor's Award during the afternoon ceremony. On April 21 he presented another Chancellor's Award during an Army ROTC awards ceremony.

Retired Brig. Gen. Paul Weyrauch, formerly chief of staff for the U.S. Army's III Corps, will speak to the Army ROTC cadets during their 6 p.m. commissioning event. His son, among the commissionees, will enter the service and receive specialized training in field artillery.

Air Force commissionees completing their undergraduate studies are Veronica Rodriguez, Rachel Scire and James Turner. Fellow cadets representing other participating area schools are Jason Jones, Thomas Kunkel, Baden Landrum, Robynn Rodman, Mark Stump, Thomas Walsh II and Steve Sprowls of the University of Texas at Arlington and Brett Schoephlin of Dallas Baptist University.

Each of the Army ROTC cadets scheduled to receive their commissions Friday is a TCU senior. They are James Alcock, Brian Axelsen, John Belew, Cynthia Bishop, Robert Clemmer, Christine Curran, Margie Economopoulos, Jennifer Hall, Lynnette Howington, Brian Johnson, Thomas Marrero, Lisa Martin, Eric Mayfield, Jason Stephens and Paul Weyrauch.

SUMMER MLA CLASSES START MAY 16

A new course examining the history and current state of politics in Cuba and Central America is among offerings on the Master of Liberal Arts program's summer schedule.

The course, "War to Peace: Political Change in Cuba and Central America," will be taught by Mike Dodson of political science and will probably include case studies of Cuba, El Salvador, Nicaragua and Guatemala. It will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:10 p.m. from May 18 to July 8.

To be taught by Charles Becker of economics and finance, another summer course will examine the basic structure of the American economy as it relates to the financial markets. That course, titled "Current Issues in Economics: The Financial Markets," will be offered June 6-July 8 on Mondays and Wednesdays from 5:30 to 9:15 p.m.

Other MLA courses to be offered this summer include "The Rise and Fall of Positivistic Philosophy," to be taught by Spencer Wertz of philosophy Tuesdays and Thursdays May 16-June 30, and "Modern American Society: Global Power Since World War II," to be taught by Clayton Brown of history Mondays and Thursdays July 14-Aug. 11. Both courses will be taught in the evening beginning at 5:30 p.m.

The course fee and general University fee for a three-credit-hour course will total $700 for a part-time MLA student. Tuition increases have been "pretty much cancelled out" by a recent University MLA grant increase that gave MLA students an across-the-board tuition waiver of about $215, said program director Don Coerver. Although MLA tuition waivers are not new, the 25 percent discount that goes into effect with the first summer term is "about the highest reduction there has ever been," Don added.

EMERITUS PROFESSOR MORGAN DIES

Emeritus professor of physics Joseph Morgan died April 30 at his home in Oakton, Va.

Born in Kiev, Russia, on March 4, 1909, he came to the United States before the age of three. He completed high school in Philadelphia and received the A.B. and M.A. degrees in physics, mathematics and chemistry from Temple University, where he also held a teaching fellowship. In 1937 he received his Ph.D. in physics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he also was a teaching fellow and supervised a wave length research project. Prior to joining the TCU faculty in 1941, he taught at Texas A&M University for three years.

He wrote six textbooks, including Introduction to Geometrical and Physical Optics and the two-volume Introduction to University Physics. His numerous journal articles ranged from "X-Ray Analysis of Structure of Water" to "Studies of Laser Light Scattered by a Moving Surface."

At TCU, Dr. Morgan held several research and administrative posts, directed the engineering program and research coordination, chaired the natural science division and physics department and served as vice president of the TCU Research Foundation.

Survivors include his wife, Edith Morgan of Oakton; two daughters, Marilynn Morgan Estep of Annandale, Va., and Janet Morgan Caraway of Kona, Hawaii; and two grandchildren, Joseph and Kathryn Van Vaorhees. A memorial service was held May 6 at the Estep home in Annandale. The family suggests that memorial contributions be made to the charity of one's choice.

SERVICES HELD FOR DR. CLARK

Funeral services were held last week for Dr. R. Lee Clark, grandson of one of TCU's founding brothers who was the longtime chief administrator of M.D. Anderson Cancer Center before his retirement in 1978. He died May 2 of complications from colon cancer.

Publicly recognized among some 80 Clark descendants at the dedication of the Clark brothers statue on campus last October, Dr. Clark was named the first full-time director and surgeon-in-chief of Houston's M.D. Anderson in 1946. Under his direction, the original 234-bed facility in the Texas medical center was opened in 1954. Three major expansions were completed during his presidency.

Dr. Clark, presented the honorary Doctor of Science degree by TCU in 1970, was praised by former President George Bush. "The nation will long remember Dr. Clark as one of the truly great pioneers in the war against cancer. Because of his great commitment as a researcher and physician, many people are alive today who in earlier times would have succumbed to cancer."

The late President Richard Nixon named Dr. Clark as one of three members and the senior scientist of the President's Cancer Panel, which was created to oversee implementations of the National Cancer Act. He served in that post five years.

A director of the American Cancer Society in 1976-77, he was an alumnus of the University of South Carolina and Medical College of Virginia and received the M.S. degree in surgery at the University of Minnesota Graduate School of Medicine. The Hereford native, recipient of the 1969 Distinguished Service Award of the American College of Surgeons and a Diplomate of the American Board of Surgery, received the American Cancer Society's highest award in 1964.

Dr. Clark, a prolific writer in scientific and educational fields, created the M.D. Anderson Office of Education to answer a need for a complete educational program. This led to Anderson's fully accredited programs in medical technology, exfoliative cytology, histology, inhalations therapy, X-ray technology and several affiliate programs. It also emphasized continuing education and sponsored annual forums for Texas physicians and scientific investigators.

CHANGES MADE IN STUDENT AFFAIRS

A restructuring of the Division of Student Affairs, which will become effective June 1, is described as "enabling us to more creatively and more quickly respond to changing needs of students in an environment conducive to student growth and development" by Don Mills, vice chancellor for student affairs.

Directors of five divisions – health services, campus life, student development services, career services and University Ministry – were announced April 29 by the vice chancellor. In order, they are Jack Terrell, Susan Batchelor, Barbara Herman, Carolyn Ulrickson and John Butler. Leadership for the sixth area of residential services has yet to be announced.

"I am delighted that these people have agreed to assume additional leadership responsibilities in this structure," Mills said. "The combination of professional experience and a genuine commitment to our students by the staff in Student Affairs assures a quality program."

Included in health services will be the Health Center, Counseling Center, psychiatric services and health education. An alumnus of Stanford University, the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and Harvard Medical School, Jack has been health services director since 1973. A specialist in adolescent medicine, he formerly was in private practice.

The Division of Campus Life will include judicial affairs, campus police, students program and activities, International Student Association, Greek affairs, graduate students, student government and the Student Center. Susan, holder of a master's from TCU and a member of the staff since 1975, has been director of student activities since 1978. Currently working toward a doctorate at the University of North Texas, she has been promoted to assistant vice chancellor and dean of campus life.

Programs within the framework of student development are new or have been expanded, according to Mills. These are the Wellness Program, which includes recreational sports and the alcohol and drug education program; minority program; mentoring program; leadership development; women's programs and publications. Heading this division will be Barbara Brown Herman, alumna of the University of Texas-Austin and Austin College and holder of the Ph.D. from TCU. She joined the staff in 1988 as coordinator of alcohol and drug education and led it to international prominence.

Campus services will be headed by Carolyn, who earned degrees from the University of North Texas and the University of Houston at Clear Lake. At the latter she was career services director for 11 years before coming to TCU in 1989. In the restructuring, her responsibilities will include the Career Center, senior programs, divisional staffing oversight and student employee training.

Included in University Ministry will be religious programs as well as volunteer and cultural programs. These will be under John's leadership. Holder of degrees from the University of Tulsa, TCU and Washington State University, he was named minister to the University in 1979.

SUMMER REGISTRATION SCHEDULED

Monday is registration day for the three-week mini-term and eight-week evening term. With the exception of Brite students, who will register at Brite Divinity School from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., processing will be conducted in the registrar's office in Sadler Hall 19.

A detailed agenda for undergraduates with TCU hours appears in the TCU•Summer Sessions•1994, a booklet available from the registrar and elsewhere on campus. People with the largest accumulations of credit hours will be admitted at 9 a.m., and those with 1-14 hours will begin registering at 3 p.m.

New students may register from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Registration will remain open until 6 p.m. to accommodate those who cannot register during normal business hours. Graduate students may register at any time between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

END-OF-TERM SCHEDULES CHANGE

During the final examination period and commencement weekend, hours for several campus facilities will be adjusted.

The vestibule of the Mary Coats Burnett Library will remain open from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday for book returns only.

Marriott Food Services will continue service in the main dining room during commencement. Eden's Green has closed for the summer; other Marriott summer hours will be announced at a later date.

Beginning May 16, the Student Center will be closed on Saturdays and Sundays.

Other schedule changes include:

RANCH PROGRAM TO GRADUATE 34 + 8

The Ranch Management Program will add another 34 individuals to graduation rolls that already number 945 at its 38th graduation banquet May 13 in the Student Center ballroom.

Diplomas and belt buckles will be awarded, and students will present a slide show illustrating the many field trips that they made to ranches, farms and other agricultural businesses during their nine-month school term. The 1993-94 Ranch Management class is made up of students from Mexico, Peru, Venezuela and Brazil as well as Texas, Montana, New York, Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Eight others who participated in the evening Ranch Management program will be recognized at a May 21 field day and reunion/graduation barbecue at Caroline Rose Hunt's Rosewood Ranches in Ennis. Including four who completed their studies in December as well as an honorary graduate who audited courses, the 1994 class brings the number of evening program graduates to more than 230.

TICKETS ARE NOW AVAILABLE

Tickets for the 1994 football season are available now, and May 31 is the deadline for faculty and staff members as well as retirees to get seating in the same location as the 1993 season. Order forms were included with last month's paycheck.

Purchases must be made in person at the coliseum ticket office, which is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Prices for the five-game home season are still $25 for one and $50 for two. The ticket price includes free admission to home basketball and baseball games. Prices for non-TCU ticket-buyers will be $90 for one season ticket and $180 for two in the lower stands and $52 for one or $104 for two in the upper deck, according to Tommy Love, ticket manager.

The 1994 home season opens with three 7 p.m. games, beginning Sept. 17 with one against the University of Kansas. Following will be the University of Texas on Sept. 24 and Baylor for Parents Weekend on Oct. 1. Other games will be Oct. 29 with Rice University for Homecoming and Nov. 25 with Texas Tech. The last game will be on Friday after Thanksgiving Day.

Dates and times are subject to change, Tommy said.

EDUCATION SCHOOL RECOGNIZES EXCELLENCE

TCU business school namesake M.J. Neeley was given the first Excellence in Education Award at School of Education Alumni's first recognition and awards reception April 27. Nearly 90 invited guests attended the event, which also recognized outstanding education students and 1994 cooperating teachers.

The vision of Dr. Neeley and his wife, the late Dr. Alice Neeley, resulted in the founding of the Starpoint School, which has served the Fort Worth-Dallas area for more than 20 years. The Neeleys, who both received honorary degrees from TCU, ensured that the building was placed on campus and provided an endowment for it and the program. The Neeley trust also defrays costs for four education graduates to teach at Starpoint while they pursue master's degrees.

In 1967, the business school was named for the respected entrepreneur. Dr. Neeley's generosity has provided for the business school's Center for Productive Communication as well as the M.J. Neeley Professorship of Marketing and the Research Professorship of Management and Organizational Behavior.

Education students honored at the event included those listed in the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges and Kappa Delta Phi honor society members as well as those who made the Dean's List and students who have had 4.0 grade-point averages throughout their TCU careers.

FROGS WIN TITLE AFTER LONG WAIT

Coach Lance Brown's 1994 Horned Frogs clinched the Southwest Conference baseball championship in the first of a three-game series against Texas A&M in College Station on April 29. First baseman Adam Robson provided the late-inning heroics in a 13-7 victory.

The title is the first for TCU since a tie for the championship in 1972 when Frank Windegger, now director of athletics, was at the helm. This is the Frogs' first outright crown since 1956.

Trailing by one run in the top of the ninth inning with one out, the Frogs began a rally that culminated in a go-ahead, grand slam by Adam.

With two games left in the regular season at Oklahoma State, TCU's record stands at 36-17, 14-4 SWC. Included in the 14 conference wins is a three-game sweep of Texas, breaking a 16-game losing streak to the Longhorns. The domination over Texas was TCU's first ever since the current three-game series.

With success has come national recognition. TCU was ranked 14th in both Baseball America and Collegiate Baseball and 19th by USA Today Baseball Weekly.

Several long-standing marks in the Frogs' record books are set to be topped by the 1994 squad. One more win would tie the 1994 Frogs for the most ever at 37, a record set in 1989. The Horned Frogs have already tied the record for most home runs with 59, and, with the way the Frogs have swung the bats thus far, that record will be broken as well.

Individuals who have excelled are Male Athlete of the Year Tim Grieve, who claimed the TCU record for saves in a single season with 10. Tim had a save in all three games of the sweep of Texas. Shortstop Shannon Coulter was voted the team's most valuable player by his teammates and received defensive player honors. Catcher Darren Tawwater leads the conference in home runs and took home the Ben Dyess leading hitter award.

TCU's first game in the conference tournament is against Texas on the Horns' home turf at Disch-Falk Field in Austin. The game will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday.

NEW BOOK HAS TIMELY THEME

Violent uprisings in fascist Guatemala are the starting point for Donley Watt's powerful novel, The Journey of Hector Rabinal, just released by TCU Press. To be published in both Spanish and English, Hector Rabinal reflects the current concern with the senseless bloodshed and destruction in southern Mexico and Guatemala.

After killing soldiers who had been attacking his home and family, Hector Rabinal began a journey that took him far from the threat of the brown-shirted soldiers of his Guatemalan village to Texas. Here he experienced the best and worst of life with the gringos. But when he learned that Leticia, his wife, was missing, he was drawn back to Guatemala. As he searched for Leticia, Hector brought hope and belief to his village, now largely destroyed by the brownshirts — his house was rebuilt, crops were planted, people laughed and talked once more. But then the brownshirts came again.

This book is the spare, strong story of one man as he struggled to remain proud and honorable in the midst of oppression and hopelessness. Tragic in events, Watt's novel affirms the strength of the human spirit. Watt is a native Texan whose award-winning short stories have been published in various magazines and anthologies. He has worked in the oil business, taught at the college level and owned an herb farm. He and his wife, Lynn, an artist, live in Tucson.

TCU Press believes strongly enough in this novel to publish it bilingually, an innovative and multicultural step for a university press. The Spanish edition will be issued in 1995. The Spanish edition, published in cooperation with the Universidad de las Américas, Puebla, Mexico, is being translated by Pedro Angel Palou. The new volume will be available in the University bookstore.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Edward Kolesar (engineering) presented a paper titled "Method of Depositing a Uniform Solid Stationary-Phase in a Silicon Micromachined Gas Chromatography System and Its Resulting Performance" at the 1994 International Conference on Metallurgical Coatings and Thin Films in San Diego April 25. The extended abstract, published in the conference's proceedings, was co-authored with Rocky R. Reston. The full-length manuscript will be published in a bound book and the Journal of Surface Coatings in late 1994 or early 1995.

Gregory Clemons (music) was guest conductor, clinician and judge for the Albuquerque public schools on April 19-21, evaluating more than 40 school band programs in the Albuquerque area. He also conducted the TCU Wind Symphony in the April 26 world premiere performance of a major new work for wind ensemble by award-winning composer Lawrence Weiner and recently served as guest conductor and clinician for the Grapevine-Colleyville Independent School District band program. The Texas University Interscholastic League has invited Gregory to be a judge at the Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest in Austin and San Marcos the end of this month. During the summer, Gregory will serve as resident conductor for the Midwestern Music Camp at the University of Kansas and will host the Band Director's Workshop and Middle School Band Camp as part of TCU's Summer Music Institute.

Judy Alter (TCU Press) spoke at the annual spring luncheon of the Friends of the Bowie Library on April 30 and to the Friends of the Arlington Library on May 2.

An essay by Steve Sherwod (English/William L. Adams Writing Center) titled "Discovering Order in Chaos: Fostering Meaning Without Crushing Creativity" has appeared in the May issue of The Writing Lab Newsletter. The essay explores the implications of chaos theory on the teaching and tutoring of writing.

Linda Moore (social work) successfully defended her dissertation, "The Emergence of the NAACP: An Analysis of Interorganizational Linkage Using Social Movement Theory" on April 7. Her work examined the historical ties between African-American leaders and settlement workers (among others) that contributed to the development of the NAACP. Linda will be awarded the Ph.D. in sociology from Texas Woman's University on May 14.

Six representatives from the Honors Program attended the Great Plains Regional Meeting of the National Collegiate Honors Council on April 22-23 at Texas A&M University. David Grant, director and Sally Bohon, assistant to the director, were accompanied by Honors Cabinet members Matt Flaherty, Akum Norder, Fiona Barriac and Elaine Willey. Matt holds the office of student representative on the executive committee of the Great Plains Council. Akum presented an excerpt from her senior honors project, Going Down Again: Revisiting Oxford.

Terri Cummings (art and art history) just completed an artist's residency sponsored by the Texas Commission on the Arts, the National Endowment for the Arts and the Children's Museum of Houston. The residency was in March and April and included an outreach component with the Houston Independent School District. The outreach was coordinated with the National Urban Coalition and involved inner-city schools, pinhole photography and book arts with children. An exhibit of Cummings' artwork was shown at the Children's Museum of Houston during the spring Fotofest. Terri's photographic work was published in the spring volume of the international photography periodical, Pinhole Journal. An interview with Terri by Editor Eric Renner accompanied the work. Five pieces from her "Illumination" installation were featured in the journal.

Zhiyong Zhao (postdoctoral researcher in physics) and C.A. Quarles (physics) presented a paper, "Characteristic X-rays and Bremsstrahlung produced by 25 keV electron bombardment of Argon, Krypton and Xenon," at the joint national meeting of the American Physical Society and the APS Division of Molecular and Optical Physics held April 17-22 in Washington, D.C.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Diana Shaffer (English, graduate student) presented her paper "'Out Flew the Web and Floated Wide/The Mirror Cracked From Side to Side': Frame and Framed in 'The Lady of Shalott'" April 22 at the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood and their Circle conference at Baylor University.

The Dallas-Fort Worth chapter of the Network of Hispanic Communicators presented Mercedes Olivera (journalism) with its president's award April 29 during the organization's annual banquet, held at Dallas' CityPlace Center. In his recognition remarks, chapter president Gary Piña noted that Mercedes has just begun her 20th year as a Dallas Morning News columnist.

Brenda Barnes, Sara Dillard, Janet Douglass, Dennis Gibbons, June Koelker, Sally Sorensen and Audie Vanderhoof attended the Texas Library Association conference in Corpus Christi April 12-16. Sara served as secretary/treasurer of the Catalogers Roundtable, and Janet completed her term as secretary/treasurer of the Serials Roundtable and was elected to the post of vice-chair/chair-elect. Dennis became chair of the Acquisitions and Collection Development Roundtable, June co-chaired the conference, and Audie served as treasurer of the District 7 Caucus. Former library director Fred Heath delivered a presentation to the conference titled "Libraries, information technology and the future."

Harriet Harral (Center for Productive Communication) spoke on the topic "Effective Communication: The Impact of Perception" April 12 for the Fort Worth Chapter of the Institute of Internal Auditors Conference. Harriet also has been named to the board of the Womens' Policy Forum, an organization of female leaders in Tarrant County.

Chris Barry (finance) visited Texas A&M University recently to serve as a speaker in the Finance Workshop series and to meet with A&M doctoral students regarding research topics. Chris presented "The Structure of Mortgage Markets in Mexico and Prospects for their Securitization," a paper jointly-authored with Joe Lipscomb (finance) and Gonzalo Castañeda at Universidad de las Américas-Puebla (UDLA) in Cholula, Puebla, Mexico. Chris also discussed "Research Opportunities with the Emerging Markets Data Base."

Efton Park (mathematics) and his wife Molly celebrated the April 28 birth of Connor Michael Park, who weighed 8 pounds, 1 ounce.

Doctoral student Matt Esposito (history) has been offered a six-week internship with The Americas, a quarterly review of inter-American cultural history published by the Academy of Franciscan History in Washington, D.C. Matt's adviser, William Beezley, also has secured an exchange for him at the Universidad de las Américas-Puebla (UDLA) in Cholula, Puebla, Mexico, for the fall semester. Matt will attend classes and conduct dissertation research at that university's Porfirio Diaz collection. His dissertation topic involves the rise of Mexican nationalism and cultural development during the Porfirian era, 1876-1911.

Don Frischmann's (modern languages and literatures) review of Introducción a las teorías latinoamericanas del teatro (de 1930 al presente) by Gerardo Luzuriaga (UCLA) has appeared in Hispanic Culture on the Pacific Coast of the Americas: From Chilenos to Chicanos. California State University Press has published the 1994 book, edited by Grinor Rojo.

Janet Tyson (M.F.A. candidate, art and art history) was honored by her editorial colleagues at the Fort Worth Star-Telegram as employee of the month for April. In addition to her ongoing work as an art critic, graduate studies and her recent M.F.A. exhibition, she was instrumental in producing the newspaper's 52-page magazine for the Kimbell Art Museum's Barnes Collection exhibition.
