TEN ACCEPT GREEN PROFESSOR APPOINTMENTS

Ten distinguished academicians and scientists from across the nation will hold the endowed position of Visiting Green Professor on campus during the 1990-91 academic year. An impressive array of approximately 125 writers, scientists, educators and other career persons have been campus guests for several-day schedules since the position was created by a gift from Dr. Cecil H. Green and his late wife, Dr. Ida Green.

No appointment for this year has been made for the Green Honors Chair, endowed by a gift from the Dallas couple in 1969 for one-semester visits by noted persons.

Two of this year's guests are scheduled for October, while dates for others are tentative. Appointments are pending for both the Honors Program and the physics department.

Due Oct. 5 as guest of the geology department, Dr. Kathryn Sullivan is a NASA astronaut stationed at the Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Dr. Aaron Wildavsky of the Georgetown University Law Center in Washington, DC, will be on campus Oct. 14-16. He will be hosted by the political science department as will Dr. Charles S. Maier of Harvard University's Center for European Studies.

The English department will host Dr. Jane Tompkins of the Department of English at Duke University. Dr. Forrest McDonald, who is Distinguished Research Professor at the University of Alabama, will be a guest of the history department.

The School of Education's visiting professor will be Dr. David L. Clark of the University of Virginia, where he is William Clay Parrish Professor of Education.

Joan Lyons of Rochester, NY, will be a guest of the art department. She is founder and coordinator of the Visual Studies Workshop Press. Joining the School of Business for three days will be Dr. James A. Ohlson, George O. May Professor of Accounting at Columbia University.

Coming to the journalism department from the University of Illinois at Urbana will be Dr. James A. Carey, dean of the College of Communications. Dr. Elizabeth Bates, who will be a guest of the speech communication department, is professor of psychology in the Center for Research in Language at the University of California at San Diego.

PEARCE HEADS AUGUST GRADUATES

Of 252 persons receiving degrees during summer commencement Aug. 10, Catherine Rose Page Pearce was the top-ranking person and the only one completing a bachelor's degree with a 4.0 (straight A) grade-point average. Formerly of Enid, OK, the psychology major plans to attend graduate school after a year's work experience.

A total of 15 persons received their degrees with honors for academic achievement. In addition to Catherine, others graduated summa cum laude were William Haraway Ryan, who completed the B.B.A. with a major in finance, and Lynn Marie Jugel, who earned the B.A. with a major in mathematics. Two students received their degrees with high honors. They were Kathryn Ann Bolinger in English and Glenda Sue Harvison in social work. Ten graduating with honors were Janet Kay Arnold, modern dance; Pamela Foster, religion; Sara Kemp, speech pathology; Andrew James Maxwell, biology; Joy Kathleen Munden, psychology; Lisa Ann Phillips, nursing; Bohumila Podvalova, medical technology; Michelle Reagan, ballet/modern dance; Lyndolyn Dawn Sheets, psychology; and Monica Lisa Williams, social work.

Of the 252 graduates, 175 received bachelor's degrees, 61 master's, eight through Brite Divinity School and eight Ph.D. degrees. The doctorates included one each in physics, English, history and chemistry along with four in psychology.

'BONANZA' SET FOR SEASON OPENER

The Horned Frogs' 1990 season opener with Washington State Sept. 1 has been billed as a "Labor Day Bonanza" with the offering of reserved seat tickets for $5 each. Tickets at this price, with no limit for number purchased, went on sale Aug. 13.

While reserved tickets usually are $17-$18 each, the opening game promotion was coordinated by Glen Stone, associate athletic director, at the suggestion of Athletic Director Frank Windegger to boost the crowd on a holiday weekend when many regular game attenders as well as students are enjoying the last long weekend of summer.

More than 300 tickets were sold during the first day and a half of the Labor Day Bonanza. The $5 ducats will be available in the ticket office in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum until game time Sept. 1.

WEHNER TO BE VICE PRESIDENT AT TECH

William Wehner, vice chancellor for development and University relations from 1988 until earlier this year, will join the administration of Texas Tech University as vice president for development Sept. 19. The appointment was announced Aug. 4 to the Lubbock institution's board of regents. Before coming to TCU, Wehner was vice president for development at Drew University and Mary Baldwin College.

LUNCHEON WILL MARK YEAR'S OPENING

The annual luncheon for faculty and University staff members Thursday will mark the opening of TCU's 118th year. To begin at 11:30 a.m. in the Student Center ballroom, the event will be presided over by Chancellor Bill Tucker.

Taking part in the complimentary buffet luncheon will be John Roach, chairman of the board of trustees; Matt Hood, president of the House of Student Representatives; and Ted Klein, chairman of the Faculty Senate. New faculty and staff members will be introduced by Vice Chancellors Bill Koehler, Edd Bivin, Leigh Secrest and Peggy Barr as well as Associate Vice Chancellors Ann Gee and Larry Lauer. The invocation will be given by John Butler, minister to the University.

WOMAN'S CLUB OPENS SEASON

TCU alumna/part-time faculty member/good friend Joyce Roach will interweave the histories of TCU and Texas when she addresses the opening meeting of TCU Woman's Club Saturday. The 10:30 a.m. program in the Faculty Center isn't just for newcomers. All members are invited, stressed Helen Goldbeck, club president.

Mary Lu Hall, third vice president, is chairwoman for the opening get-together of the club, which is observing its 70th birthday this year.

Other officers for 1990-91 are Carol Jane Lawrence, first vice president; Mary Alice Oatman, second vice president; Becky Roach, secretary; Anna Byrd Wallace, corresponding secretary; Sanoa Hensley, treasurer; Lois Banta, parliamentarian; and Mary Beth Wortham, historian.

Newcomers to the faculty and staff this academic year are guests of the club and pay no dues during the first year.

TENNIS PROGRAM RECEIVES GRANT

TCU's tennis program has been awarded a special tennis grant by Volvo Tennis and the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association. The award is given in recognition for community service contributions as well as the promotion of the Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Series.

"We certainly are delighted to have been recognized by Volvo and the ITCA," said Coach Tut Bartzan. "Volvo has been involved with tennis on both the professional and collegiate scene for years. We have been sponsoring coaching clinics and youth tennis camps as part of our community service and tennis awareness program for some time now, and we are fortunate to have Volvo and their involvement in tennis to reward us for our efforts."

The Horned Frog tennis program finished the 1989-90 season at the top of Region IV Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Rankings.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

LI-CHOU CHENG, principal teacher for the Boston Ballet and former soloist with the Beijing Central Ballet, will join the dance department this fall as ballet master in residence. A native of Shanghai, Li-Chou attended the Beijing Ballet Academy and studied under Pyoter Guschev, former artistic director of the Kirov Ballet. He also received a full scholarship for study at the Nikolais/Louis Dance Theatre in New York in 1981-82. He taught at the University of Utah and Arizona State University before joining the Boston Ballet in 1988.

Joining the Harris College faculty this year as assistant professor, MARSHA COX of Arlington has been vice president for nursing services at Osteopathic Medical Center of Texas since 1980. She holds master's degrees in nursing and business administration from the University of Alabama and Auburn University, respectively. In 1987 she was presented the Nurse of the Year award by TCU's chapter of Sigma Theta Tau.

Geologist-biologist LEO NEWLAND has accepted reappointment as director of the Environmental Science Program. The new three-year term begins with the fall semester's opening. Member of the faculty since 1969, the Texas A&M graduate holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin.

JOHN THOMPSON, management and marketing faculty member since 1979, has accepted an extension of his appointment as lecturer in management and marketing for 1990-91. The TCU alumnus served as assistant city manager for Fort Worth in 1974-79.

This fall's new offerings in Japanese will be taught by CAROLE SHERMAN, former consultant for numerous businesses who is on the board of directors of Tokyo International College. She studied at the Inter-University Center for Japanese Language Studies in Tokyo and Tokyo University after completing a bachelor's degree in history and Japanese at Stanford. In addition to graduate work at Stanford and the University of Chicago, she has been a translator and interpreter for Japanese film director Akira Kurosawa, who won an Oscar from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in 1989.

MELISSA ALLEN, a May M.B.A. graduate, joined the staff Aug. 13 as assistant director of alumni relations. The Fort Worth native was associated with The Putnam Companies in Boston for two years after completing the B.B.A. degree at TCU in 1986. Currently president of the Fort Worth Young Alumni Association, she headed the Student Phonathon and was senior giving group captain in 1986 and Homecoming chairwoman in 1985. Melissa, who received the Outstanding Student Leadership Award, is active in the Fort Worth Arts Council and Junior League of Fort Worth.

Coordinator of the Tarrant County Junior College dietetics program since 1988, MARY HOLLEN is joining the faculty as assistant professor of nutrition and dietetics. The Texas Woman's University graduate earned the master's degree at Case Western Reserve University. Formerly clinical dietitian at Harris Methodist Hospital, she is the author of the TCJC Student Resource Manual and the Dallas/Fort Worth Hospital Council's diet manual.

BREYER, DODSON, JONES RECEIVE AWARDS

Professors John Breyer of geology, Mike Dodson of political science and Jack Jones of management are recipients of 1990 Burlington Northern Faculty Achievement Awards. Including checks of $2,500 each, the awards were presented by Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler during summer commencement.

Nominated by their colleagues and recommended to the academic vice chancellor by their deans, the awardees "are among those who incorporate unusually successful teaching with the other professional expectations of the University's faculty members," Dr. Koehler said.

A grant to TCU from the Burlington Northern Foundation, which represents the Burlington Northern Railroad Company in its charitable program, provides for three awards annually in recognition of faculty members whose teaching in the immediately preceding academic year has been both significant and meritorious. Other major considerations are research or creative activity, service to the institution and professional organizations, academic advising and continuing professional development.

John was associated with Exxon Production Research Company as senior geologist and research specialist before coming to TCU in 1975. He earned the bachelor's degree at the University of Cincinnati and completed the Ph.D. degree in 1974 at the University of Nebraska, where he was a visiting assistant professor in 1974-75. A member of Sigma Xi, John is active in the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists, International Association of Sedimentologists, Geological Society of America and American Association of Petroleum Geologists. He is the author of more than 25 articles in such scientific publications as Journal of Sedimentary Petrology, Bulletin of the Geological Society of America, Journal of Geological Society of London, Sedimentology and Sedimentary Geology.

Mike, whose book entitled "Nicaragua's Other Revolution" was issued recently by the University of North Carolina Press, joined the TCU faculty in 1973. The University of South Dakota alumnus holds a master's degree from the University of New Mexico and the Ph.D. from Indiana University. He has held fellowships from the Ford Foundation, Institute of Latin American Studies, Danforth Foundation and National Endowment for Humanities. A Fulbright Senior Lecturer in 1985 at England's University of Nottingham, Mike was one of six scholars who spent 1986-87 at a Michigan research center gathering and organizing material for a book on Central America entitled "Let My People Live." His study, "The Politics of Religion in Revolutionary Nicaragua," appeared in 1986 in a special issue of Annals of the American Academy of Political Science. He is active in the American and Southwestern political science associations and Latin American Studies Association.

Jack was senior aerosystems engineer with General Dynamics for 10 years before joining TCU's faculty in 1973. Holder of bachelor's and master's degrees in engineering from the University of Florida and SMU, respectively, he earned a master's degree here and the Ph.D. at North Texas State University. Author of studies of executive information systems published in Business Horizons and Decision Sciences, Jack is active in the Academy of Management, Association of Computing Machinery, Institute of Management Science, Institute of Decision Sciences and Operations Research Society of America. The New Hampshire native is a Registered Professional Engineer.

NOTES ON FOLKS

On Aug. 2 FRED ERISMAN (English) gave an invited paper, "Boys' Books, Boys' Dreams, and the Mystique of Flight," before the University of Minnesota Children's Literature Forum in Minneapolis. The paper explored how boys' series books dealing with aviation worked to stimulate "air-mindedness" among American youth. Interest stimulated by the talk led to a 10-minute interview aired over KUOM, the university radio station, as part of its series of interviews with visiting specialists.

From July 5-10 DON FRISCHMANN (modern languages) participated in the 15th Chicano-Latino Theatre Festival in New York. Co-sponsored by the Asociación de Trabajadores e Investigadores del Nuevo Teatro for which he is a board member, the festival consisted of a symposium on Latino theatre and film in the U.S., workshops and daily performances followed by critique panels. As part of the symposium, Don presented a paper entitled "The Chicano-Latino Theatre Festivals: Bridge Between the U.S. and Mexico."

This fall Don will be a Resident Research Fellow at the University of California Humanities Research Institute at Irvine. He will participate in a collaborative project with experts from the U.S. and Latin America on the theme of "Transculturization in Contemporary Latin American Theatre."

For the second quarter of 1990, the Physical Plant Employee-of-the-Quarter Award has been given to JOHN CORONADO, a craft technician Supervisor I in the general maintenance department. The recognition carries with it a $150 cash award, a commemorative coffee mug and an engraved entry on the physical plant's performance board.

Sympathy is expressed to EUGENE BORING (religion-studies), whose father, Maynard Boring, died Aug. 11. Funeral services were held Aug. 12 in Maryville, TN.

"Looking for a Temporary Solution," an article by SHARI BARNES (personnel) on developing an in-house temporary staff, appeared in the August issue of Human Resources Forum, publication of the American Management Association.

Sympathy is extended to retired economics chairman JOHN WORTHAM on the recent death of his brother, Dr. A. W. "Bill" Wortham, who was a professor at Texas A&M.

Two-time graduate DONALD BOWEN, a Fort Worth native, assumed his duties as the fifth president of Stephen F. Austin State University July 16. He earned the B.A. degree in physics and math in 1961 and the master's in 1963. Holder of the Ph.D. in physics from the University of Texas at Austin, he formerly was vice president for academic affairs at Southwest Missouri State University in Springfield.

Timothy Ryan, son of Cheri and JOHN MADDOX (publications), made his appearance on Aug. 3, just two days after sister Melissa's second birthday. The happy father reports that his son weighed eight pounds and three ounces at birth.

SADLER HALL RENOVATION PROJECTS UNDER WAY

Several renovation projects currently are under way in Sadler Hall. While they may be causing some inconvenience, much-needed improvements will soon result.

As announced by Vice Chancellor Edd Bivin, an enlarged employee lounge area should be ready for use by Sept. 1. The women's rest room on the ground floor is being converted to a non-smoking area. This room is adjacent to the one used for smoking. The entire new lounge area will be for the use of both men and women. The existing men's rest room is being converted to a women's rest room. "While this change means that men's rest rooms will be located only on floors 1, 2 and 3, the overall result will be a comfortably furnished meeting area for employees which we have not had in Sadler Hall," Bivin explained.

The admissions office is scheduled to be renovated between the fall and spring semesters. Staff members and other persons have thought for some time that this space should be more inviting to prospective students, parents and guests. Planning is under way to design an area that is both attractive and functional.

A recent anonymous gift has made it possible to improve the lobby area of the building. One important goal is to heighten awareness of the University's proud traditions and history. Since the Sadler lobby is a high traffic area, it now will become an informative gallery of historic photographs of interest to members of the TCU community as well as a space appropriate for welcoming visitors and guests.

"These improvements have been the result of the suggestions, encouragement and support of many TCU staff members and friends. We appreciate your interest in improving the facility and your patience while the work is being done," Bivin said.

CONWAY, IVERSON ACCEPT NEW ROLES

Peggy Conway of the School of Business and Sharon Iverson of Brite Divinity School have accepted appointments as assistant deans in their respective schools.

Member of the staff since 1987, Peggy is assistant dean for administration. She earned bachelor's and master's degrees here and was a marketing research intern with Pier I Imports while completing the M.B.A. Formerly associated with the National Electronics Sales/Service Dealer Association, she has served as coordinator of undergraduate academic services in the Neeley School.

Sharon, named assistant dean for student services, has been assistant director of the seminary's admissions for the last five years. To continue as an instructor of religious education, she served as associate minister of Community Christian Church in Richardson in 1978-81 and Christian education minister for 1st Community Church in Dallas in 1981-84. She earned the B.A. and M.Div. degrees at TCU and a master's from Boston University.

'PATIENCE' MAY BE KEY WORD

As classes begin Aug. 27, hallways in Sadler Hall's basement will be unusually congested with students conducting business at the Post Office windows. "Package deliveries are particularly heavy this time of year," according to Debbie Jones, director of printing, postal and conference services.

Package pick up lines are expected to be long at the west door of the Post Office, near the ramp entrance, from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4:30 p.m. and at the east door, near the north stairs, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

HISPANIC APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE

Applications for the National Hispanic Scholarship Fund are available now in the office of AddRan College of Arts and Sciences. These must be returned by Sept. 15. "We encourage faculty and staff members to send any outstanding Hispanic students they would recommend to Reed Hall 111 as soon as possible," Associate Dean Priscilla Tate said.
