NEW RANCH BUILDING IS ON THE WAY

A permanent building to house the Ranch Management Program probably will be ready for its Class of 1993 as a result of an ongoing endowment campaign. Tentative plans call for construction of the new building during the 1991-92 school year at a site to be announced soon.

The $3,150,000 campaign was kicked off by a challenge gift of $1,050,000 from the Winthrop Rockefeller Charitable Trust. The Rockefeller gift was contingent on TCU's raising $2,100,000 by the close of this year, the Ranch Management Program's 35th anniversary.

The amount to be used for the building will include not only construction cost but also a permanent endowment for maintenance. Gifts and pledges to date total $3,672,634, campaign leaders told more than 200 Ranch Management alumni at their recent annual roundup.

The total includes the original challenge gift, $1,600,000 raised for endowed professorships plus $1,022,634 in other gifts and pledges. Endowed teaching positions include a Burnett Ranches Professorship, given by the Anne Burnett and Charles Tandy Foundation.

Still being sought is additional scholarship endowment so no student with real potential will be denied the opportunity to take part in Ranch Management studies, said program director John Merrill. "The need for student financial aid seems to grow year by year," John said. "Despite having worked and saved all they could, approximately half the students in each class need scholarship assistance to take advantage of this unique preparation."

Chairing the campaign committee has been Winthrop P. Rockefeller, a 1974 Ranch Management graduate who heads Winrock Farms and other interests headquartered in Little Rock. Rockefeller is a TCU trustee and a past president of the Ranch Management Alumni Association.

"Ranch Management at TCU has been in a 'temporary' facility since its inception on campus in the mid-fifties," pointed out Chancellor Bill Tucker. "Now a permanent building is in sight together with significant funding designated for endowment. We are deeply grateful to Win Rockefeller for his uncommon leadership and to all those who have joined him in undergirding this unique and absolutely first-rate program."

Contributions have come from 14 foundations, two stock shows, three corporations and 396 individuals.

An impressive aspect of the campaign is that more than 350 of the Ranch Management alumni have made gifts. Other gifts have been from relatives of alumni, TCU alumni and friends of the program. In nearly every case, campaign leaders said, there is a link from the donor to the program through faculty, campaign committee members or alumni.

"Words cannot express how proud we are of the Ranch Management alumni support of the program," said John. "Their previous gifts have paid for all equipment in the current building, including computers and the instant commodity news screen via satellite."

Vice chairman of the campaign committee is evening Ranch Management graduate Vernon Smith of Dallas, who also is vice chairman of the TCU board of trustees and chairman of its building committee. Steering committee members are TCU trustees John Justin and Charles Moncrief of Fort Worth and Ranch Management graduates Crawford Edwards and Thomas Ryan of Fort Worth, Richard Bennett of San Antonio, immediate past president of Ranch Management Alumni Chris Scharbauer of Amarillo and current president Tom Reynolds of Fort Worth.

Approximately 850 men and women from 35 states and 22 other nations have earned Ranch Management certificates in the full-time program as well as more than 200 in the evening program.

PRESS RECEIVES 3RD CONSECUTIVE WRANGLER

TCU Press will receive its third consecutive Western Heritage Award from the National Cowboy Hall of Fame during March 16 ceremonies in Oklahoma City. "Interim in the Desert," Roland Sodowsky's collection of stories based in the Southwest, is the latest winner of TCU Press-issued volumes. Known as a Wrangler, his award is in the short story category.

Novels, motion pictures and poetry are included in the 12 categories judged by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame, and the Wrangler awards for works relating to the American West are presented annually. Sodowsky and TCU Press director Judy Alter will attend the awards ceremonies.

Earlier Wrangler winners were "Stay Put, Robbie McAmis" by Frances Tunbo in 1988 and "Letters to Oma" by Marj Gurasich in 1989. Honored in the juvenile book category, both are part of the TCU Press Chaparral series for young adult readers.

Winner of a 1988 Associated Writing Program award for a short story collection set in Africa, Sodowsky has taught at Sul Ross University and currently teaches creative writing at Southwest Missouri State University.

NOTED RESEARCHER TO BE ACCOUNTING GUEST

Dr. James A. Ohlson of Columbia University, a leading researcher in the relationship between information in firms' financial statements and values of their securities, will be a guest of the accounting department Feb. 20-22 as a Visting Green Professor.

"The Role and Relevance of Accounting Information in Security Valuation" will be his topic for a two-part presentation. Programs will be Thursday from 2:30 to 5 p.m. and Friday from 1:30 to 4 p.m., both in the Tandy American Enterprise Center, Tandy Hall 325.

Research by Ohlson, who has been George O. May Professor of Accounting at Columbia since 1987, is considered "distinctive in that it combines rigorous theory drawn from information economics and capital market theory as well as very carefully constructed empirical tests."

Former accounting group chairman at the University of California-Berkeley, Ohlson currently is on the editorial boards for Journal of Accounting Research, Contemporary Accounting Research and Journal of Accounting, Auditing and Finance. He has been a member of the visiting faculty for the American Accounting Association's Doctoral Consortium. In 1984 he was a lecturer at the First International Accounting Conference in Kuwait City, Kuwait.

Ohlson, who earned master's and doctoral degrees from the University of California at Berkeley, has held faculty positions at the University of British Columbia, Stanford University, University of Chicago and University of California-Los Angeles.

Author of the book "The Theory of Financial Markets and Information," Ohlson is well known for his consulting work involving statistical sampling and auditing within a context of litigation for the State of California as well as security valuation in litigation and other kinds of litigation support.

WRITING WILL BE TELECONFERENCE TOPIC

"Issues and Conflicts in Writing Across the Curriculum" will be the focus of the Feb. 27 satellite teleconference hosted by the Writing Emphasis Program. Attention will be given to directions for the 1990s and beyond during the noon to 2 p.m. program in the TAGER-TV studio.

Lunch will be served at 11:30 a.m.; participants can attend the lunch and the teleconference or just the two-hour program. Reservations for either must be made by contacting the Writing Center, Box 32875, by Feb. 25.

Pre-taped segments of the program will include specific facets of programs at Spelman College, the University of Massachusetts, Robert Morris College, Clemson University, Prince Georges Community College and University of California at Los Angeles. Purposes and approaches to writing across the curriculum, major issues in the program and areas for future research will be included in the teleconference.

ADDIES AWARDED TO TCU FOLKS

TCU students garnered all the prizes in the recent Addy Award presentation by American Advertising Federation's 10th district, and art's Margie Adkins and Lewis Glaser and publications' Judy Smith also won awards.

Margie won a gold medal in the category of brochures, four-color or more, with her booklet for Typography: Medium and Message, a showing last spring in Moudy Building Exhibition Hall. Lewis' gold medal in miscellaneous print material honored his TCU summer art camp brochure.

In student design, the best of show award and the student/campaign award went to Steve Dowdy, senior from Crowley, for an Ultra Slim Fast series. Other gold medals were awarded Khristopher Kesling, Bedford, for a corporate logo symbol for Hong Kong; Lezlie Barnson, Las Vegas, collateral material, Big Brothers and Big Sisters; and Kira Boyd, Midland, out-of-home media.

Silver and bronze medal Addy Awards were not given this year, so competitors could only count on gold medals or merit awards. The merit awards were won by Judy for the Chancellor's Report and by Lewis for the TCU/Fort Worth Week poster.

Margie and Lewis have been hauling in awards all season. In the Fort Worth Society of Creative Communications Portfolio 8 Competition, Margie earned the best of show award and Lewis received five merit awards. Each of them garnered a merit award in the very competitive Art Directors Club of Houston annual regional competition.

10 INITIATED INTO HONOR SOCIETY

Ten persons, including two faculty members, were initiated into the Beta Zeta chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron during Feb. 7 ceremonies that also observed Founder's Day for the honor society for home economics and home economics specialized areas.

Guest speaker for the event, held in the Bass Building, was Penny Chappell, District VIII counselor from Houston. Guests included students from the University of North Texas' Alpha Iota chapter. Dinner was provided by Beta Zeta alumni chapter members.

Initiated as honorary members were Mary Anne Gorman, associate professor of nutrition and dietetics, and Jane Kolar Kucko, associate professor of design and fashion. Students initiated were Tracey Bush, Lynette Laing, Brenda Leaf, Kelly Mohn, Stacey McCain, Lori Reffert, Rhonda Todaro and Lisa Topolski.

Phi Upsilon Omicron was founded Feb. 10, 1909, on the University of Minnesota campus. TCU's Beta Zeta chapter was organized Feb. 9, 1968. Its advisers are Nell Robinson and Margaret McWhorter. Current officers are president Michele Simpson, vice president Allison Feese, secretary Linda Jenkins and treasurer Delores Key.

GANDHI TO SPEAK ON COLLEGE RACISM

Arun Gandhi, grandson of Mohandas K. Gandhi, will speak Feb. 26 on "Racism on Campus." Recent racial incidents have occurred at colleges and universities throughout the nation, including some Texas campuses. Gandhi sees this as a "dangerous trend" which should be stopped by mutual understanding and education.

Born in Durban, South Africa, Gandhi was the victim of apartheid because of his Eurasian descent. So shaken was he by the racial violence which he observed that his parents sent him to India to spend a year with his grandfather, the mahatma. Before returning to South Africa, he studied the old man's teachings and non-violent philosophies, which instilled in him a sense of mission that would guide his life's work.

At 22 Arun Gandhi returned to India and took up the cause of the "untouchables," the lowest caste in that culture's class system. He served as the Times of India's chief information officer and in 1970 founded the Society for National Integration to help the poor of the countryside develop commerce and industry for economic independence.

Currently a researcher and consultant at the University of Mississippi's Center for Southern Culture, Gandhi is working on a book about racism in the U.S. South. According to Gandhi, "... In terms of human relationships, it (the United States) is as backward as a Third World country."

The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. Tickets, which can be purchased at the door, are $2 with TCU ID and $5 for others.

SYSTAT WORKSHOP SET

David Cross of psychology will present a two-day SYSTAT workshop from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Feb. 26 and 28 in Winton-Scott Hall 215. He will cover basic topics (using DATA, EDIT, STATS, GRAPH and CORR) on the first day and more advanced topics on the second day (using MGLH and SYGRAPH). Persons planning to attend should notify Sue Faulkner at Ext. 7410.

NOTES ON FOLKS

JUDITH GANS (music) has been elected to the executive board of the Dallas-Fort Worth chapter of National Association of Teachers of Singing. The large chapter includes more than 100 members from TCU, SMU, Baylor, the University of North Texas and other institutions as well as private voice teachers in the area.

Judith and music department colleagues SHELLA ALLEN and GARY WHITMAN presented a faculty recital of solo and ensemble music for the Texas Music Educators Association state convention in early February in San Antonio. The concert, accompanied by TCU staff accompanist JANET PUMMILL, was performed at the invitation of the college division of TMEA.

Duke University Press has published an edition and translation by JOHN LOUD (modern languages) of Ivo Andrić's historical dissertation, "The Development of Spiritual Life in Bosnia Under the Influence of Turkish Rule." Andrić was the Nobel Laureate in literature for 1961, and his thesis, upon which much of his future work was based, was written in German for the University of Graz in 1924. This is the first English translation of the work by an otherwise much translated author. John's co-author is Professor Zelimir Juricić of the University of Victoria, Canada, who wrote the introduction to the book. John contributed an analyzed bibliography based on Andrić's Latin, Italian, Serbo-Croatian and Russian sources.

Sociologist MORRISON WONG presented a workshop on "The Interaction Between Chinese Culture and Chinese American Educational Achievements and Problems" for principals and administrators of the Crowley Independent School District. The session was part of the World of Difference Educational Training Program.

BABETTE BOHN (art and art history) will give a talk in the Kimbell Museum's Connoisseur Series Friday at 12:15 p.m. Her talk, entitled "Artistic Allegory or Dead Meat? Butcher Shops by the Carracci," will focus on the Kimbell's painting of "The Butcher's Shop" by Annibale Carracci. The lecture will be given in the gallery; admission is free.

LUCILLE CARDENAS, who teaches English as a foreign language to international students in addition to her responsibilities in the Dean of Students Office, presented a program on "Exploring Diversity in a Multicultural Classroom" at the winter meeting of Texas Association of College and University Student Personnel Administrators in San Antonio Feb. 8.

LEE DANIEL (modern languages and literatures) has been notified that his "An Evening with Don Juan" is scheduled for publication in the Spring 1991 issue of the Latin American Theatre Review.

TERRY DIELMAN and ROGER PFAFFENBERGER (business) have been notified that two of their papers have been accepted for publication. "Testing Normality of Regression Disturbances: A Monte Carlo Study of the Filliben Test" will appear in Computational Statistics and Data Analysis and "Tests of Linear Hypotheses and LAV Estimation: A Monte Carlo Comparison" will be published in Communications in Statistics - Simulation and Computation.

EVENTS HIGHLIGHT INTERNATIONAL EFFORTS

The University's international focus will be reflected when the International Students Association launches "Salute the World with Total Cultural Unity" Feb. 25 with a ceremony at noon on the Student Center steps. International Students Week this year will take on added significance as the University begins two new efforts to enhance the international flavor of TCU.

An intensive English language and cultural center will allow students from other countries to come to the University for cultural experience and study of the English language. The International Student Affairs office is implementing the non-credit program, which will begin in fall. With an already strong demand for admittance, 20 students and two teachers for the center will be recruited.

Promoting international programs and scholarships for study abroad will be goals of the University's newest organization, Phi Beta Delta. The honor society for recognition of international experience will soon form a charter group of faculty and staff members, with initiation to take place in April. Those with international experience who are interested in the program can contact Don Frischmann of modern languages at Ext. 6358.

International Students Week will bring Arun Gandhi, grandson of Mohandas K. Gandhi, to campus Feb. 26 to lecture on "Racism on Campus" at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. Preceding the lecture will be the showing of the film "Gandhi" at 7 p.m. Feb. 25 in the Student Center ballroom. Admission will be $1.50.

Clark Hall will sponsor a program on Czechoslovakia at 6 p.m. Feb. 25, while Foster Hall will highlight Botswana at 6 p.m. Feb. 26. Also Feb. 26, a display of handicrafts from the Eastern Hemisphere will be on display from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Student Center. International events will continue through March 2 and will be featured in subsequent bulletins.

RESERVATIONS DUE FOR SEMINAR

Tomorrow (Wednesday) is the deadline for reservations for Thursday's seminar on "Teleconferencing and Video for Educational Services." The one-hour session, designed for those who use or want to know more about these technologies as related to the academic world, is being presented by the Center for Instructional Services and sponsored by Southwestern Bell Telephone and Ford Audio-Video.

Two sessions -- one from 11 a.m. to noon and the other from 1 to 2 p.m. -- will be held in the Tandy American Enterprise Center, Room 320 of Tandy Hall. Reservations can be made by calling instructional services, Ext. 7121.

SAFE WORKING CERTIFICATES AWARDED

Fifty-eight members of the facility services department received safe working certificates for 1990. Presentations were made during a brief ceremony Feb. 1 in Dan Rogers Hall auditorium.

The recipients represent 78 percent of the department's staff.

TCU safety director Randy Cobb extended congratulations to the honorees and added encouragement for trying to work through 1991 without an accident.

TCU IN THE NEWS

Fort Worth members of last fall's fashion design internship program — TIFFANY LEE EDWARDS, SUSAN LYNN TRACY and LISA MICHELLE RIEBE — were shown with Assistant Professor SALLY FORTENBERRY in the Feb. 7 Star-Telegram Tarrant Southwest. Hometown stories on the 36 class members with photos have been used in a number of publications, including the Wichita, KS, paper.

Political scientist MANOCHEHR DORRAJ and IMTIYAZ YUSEF (religion studies) were interviewed for the Star-Telegram's Feb. 9 story titled "Combat in holy season may inspire backlash." Because Muslim troops for both sides must observe dawn-to-dusk fasting during the Islamic holy month of Ramadan, which begins about March 18, Imtiyaz expects the war to be over by then. Manochehr fears that if it becomes a lengthy ground campaign "with hand-to-hand combat we would definitely see the sort of backlash we're already seeing in Morocco, Libya, Tunisia, Jordan, Lebanon, Syria and Egypt."
