TUCKER WILL BE CONVOCATION SPEAKER

Chancellor Bill Tucker, beginning his 11th year as the University's chief executive officer, will be the speaker for fall convocation Sept. 14. Marking the official opening of the University's 117th academic year, the public assembly will begin with an 11 a.m. academic procession into Ed Landreth Auditorium with faculty members in full regalia.

A highlight of the assembly will be announcement of the fourth recipient of the Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Research and Creative Activity. Endowed by an anonymous alumni couple, the honor includes a $12,000 check in recognition of outstanding ability and accomplishment to cover expenses the awardee feels will most enhance his/her contributions as a scholar.

The first research award was presented in 1983 to chemist Bill Watson. Historian Dave Edmunds was the 1985 recipient, followed by psychologist Dan Dansereau in 1987. The Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching is presented in alternate years.

Welcoming remarks at convocation will be made by Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler. Faculty Senate chairperson Bill Vanderhoof will introduce the speaker. Music will be provided by the Concert Chorale, under the direction of Ron Shirey. "Ave Marie" from Rachmaninoff's "Vespers" will be presented a cappella, and "From Sea to Shining Sea" will be accompanied by the TCU Wind Ensemble. The processional and recessional will be played by organist John Hutchinson. The invocation and benediction will be given by Minister to the University John Butler.

Dr. Tucker, speaker for the 1980 fall convocation, was named TCU's eighth chief executive officer in 1979 after serving as president of West Virginia's Bethany College for three years. The alumnus of Atlantic Christian College and TCU has spent his career as faculty member and administrator at three independent, church-related institutions -- ACC in North Carolina, TCU and Bethany. Dean of Brite Divinity School before going to Bethany, he earned two degrees at Yale University.

Under the leadership of Chancellor Tucker, TCU's endowment has grown from $53.6 million in 1979 to $251.5 million in 1989. Enrollment for the 1979 fall semester was 5,930 as compared to last fall's 6,993, a total which reflected the decision to limit total enrollment to 7,000. During the last decade, faculty salaries have more than doubled.

Total financial aid for students has almost doubled since 1979. Some $6.5 million, with $2.1 million coming from the University, was awarded for 1979-80. The 1989-90 total is approximately $11.3 million, with $3.9 million from the University.

The look of the campus has changed, too, with the addition of more than 280,000 square feet in a number of buildings and facilities. These include the Mary Potishman Lard Tennis Center, Moudy Building, Tandy Hall, Moncrief Hall, Pastoral Care Center, FM radio stations, Campus Police and alumni facilities and the housekeeping building.

Classes will be dismissed from 10:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. for convocation.

REESE CHOSEN FOR INSTITUTE

Terrence Reese, working toward the Ph.D. degree in physics, was among 20 participants in the 1989 Pittsburgh Supercomputer Summer Institute in July. Funded by the National Science Foundation, the program was organized three years ago to increase awareness among researchers of what supercomputers can do.

Holder of the B.S. degree from TCU, Terrence was chosen from among 458 applicants. Joining him for the program were three undergraduates, 11 graduate students, one postgraduate and four faculty members. They represented the universities of California at Los Angeles and San Diego, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Washington, Michigan, North Carolina and Pittsburgh as well as Yale, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Colorado State, Tulane and Louisiana State. Others were from Mayo Foundation, Harvard Joint Center for Radiation Therapy, City College of New York and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Participants were chosen on the basis of their applications, description of research projects they are involved in and explanations of why these require use of a supercomputer. Academic transcripts were required of graduate applicants.

According to Terrence, an East Texas native, "researchers don't want to conduct basic research on something that is going to take years to complete, then not get finished or discover that their ideas don't work." With a supercomputer, time for basic research and project design costs are reduced.

Currently TCU researchers must connect with the Pittsburgh supercomputer via a mainframe computer at the University of Texas at Arlington. When TCU's mainframe is linked with the national supercomputer network, University researchers will be able to connect directly to the Pittsburgh unit, according to Terrence, who is working with Bruce Miller on a project titled "Localization of Elementary Particles in Dense Fluids." A supercomputer can chart interactions they are studying "in about four hours, while the same job would take about 300 hours on the mainframe we're now using," Terrence said.

METROPLEX ART SHOW OPENS SATURDAY

Ten Fort Worth residents were among two dozen North Texas artists whose works have been selected for showing in Art in the Metroplex 1989, which runs from Saturday through Oct. 6 in Moudy Building Exhibition Space.

The 30 art works were chosen by juror David Ross, director of the Institute of Contemporary Art in Boston, from 523 pieces submitted by 184 artists. The annual juried show is produced by TCU and The Committee for an Artists' Center. Ross will be here Saturday for the show's opening reception from 2 to 6 p.m. in the Moudy Building. Awards, to be presented at 3:30 p.m., include $1,000 from The Fifth Avenue Foundation, the $500 Mr. and Mrs. F. Howard Walsh Award, the $300 John L. Clardy Award, $200 Robert E. Fiesler Award, $100 Mrs. Robert M. Bass Award and $100 Claud M. Vance Memorial Award.

Fort Worth artists in the show are Rosalyn Bodycomb, represented by "Jackson's Bird," oil, sand and grass on paper; John R. Fulton Jr., three photographs, "Train to Rome," "Parked Car--Rome" and "Janet in Rome"; Randy Hall, "The Priest and the God," artist book/mixed media; Jeff Bowen Hardy, "Rianimarsi Series No. 2," bronze, stone and wood; Susan Harrington, "Transfiguration Four Clare," oil, encaustic/canvas; Geoff Holle, "Caribou," oil on linoleum with tire, and "Balinese Dancer," oil on wood bowl; Robert Rodrigues, "Protect Your Major Appliances" and "Real Life," both acrylic spray paint/plaster; Don Sweetland, "A Toy that Never Worked," sculpture; Kathy Webster, "Six Gestures," bronze; and Judy Williams, "Dream Beds," ceramic.

From Dallas are Mitchell Byers, showing two silver prints, "Palm Trees at Night" and "Fountain, Park Central"; V. Tracy Hicks, "Table of Contents," mixed media; Jimmie Hudson, sand-blasted steel, "Why the Indians Painted Their Pots So Pretty"; John Pomara, "Leader of the Pack," oil on canvas; Susan M. Smythe, "Artist's Statement," hand-made book; and Francis Merritt Thompson, Cibachrome photo, "Intersection."

Denton artists include Helen Altman, "Last Stand," hand-printed fabric; Meg Langhorne, "Eye of God, Eye of My Father," mixed; George Moseley, "South Africa: Is It Tomorrow or the End of Time," mixed media; Dolan Smith, two mixed works, "Prison Pistol" and "Bronze Ball Buster"; and Vance Wingate, "When Young I Received Gifts: Lessons Better Unlearned," black and white prisma-color and object. Others are Rose Lee Broyles, Arlington, "Snake," wood, rope and stone; Jeff Burch, Lewisville, "Fish," oil; and Rodney Harrington, Joshua, "Irish Girl," oil.

Bodycomb, Hardy, Webster and Langhorne are TCU graduates. Hall and Holle are current graduate students, and Susan Harrington is an art faculty member.

Exhibition hours will be from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesdays through Fridays and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesdays.

CAREER CENTER EXTENDS HOURS

The Career Center, under the new direction of Carolyn Ulrickson, is now open through the lunch hour and until 7 p.m. on Tuesdays. The Career Center is located in the Student Center, Room 220.

SPOUSE ABUSE TO BE FORUM THEME

"The Terror of Spouse Abuse: Causes and Solutions" is the theme for Friday's public forum at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas. Open free to faculty, staff members and students from area institutions, the 1 to 5 p.m. program is sponsored by the medical school's psychiatry department.

Nationally known professionals will take part in a panel discussion that will include historical perspectives as well as current community resources and challenges in the area of spouse abuse. A scientifically oriented morning session, also open to the public from 9 a.m. to noon, will focus on awareness of health care professionals to the problem of spouse abuse. Both sessions will be in the medical center's Gooch Auditorium, 5323 Harry Hines Blvd.

"Terrifying Love" will be the topic discussed at 1:15 p.m. by Dr. Lenore E. A. Walker, clinical and forensic psychologist from Denver. Executive director of the Domestic Violence Institute, she is author of two essential works on spouse abuse, "The Battered Woman" and "The Battered Woman Syndrome." She is a Fellow of the American Psychological Association and recently received that organization's award for Distinguished Professional Contributions in Psychology in the Public Interest. She is on the boards of three journals — Professional Psychology, Violence and Victims and Victimology: An International Journal.

Dr. K. Daniel O'Leary, distinguished professor of psychology and former department chair at State University of New York at Stony Brook, will discuss "Causes of Spouse Abuse" at 1:45 p.m. Former editor of the Journal of Applied Behavior Analysis, he currently is associate editor of the Journal of Abnormal Psychology. He is among 100 top psychologists in the English-speaking world cited in the American Psychologist. He is a Fellow of the American Psychological Association and past president of the American Association for the Advancement of Behavior Therapy.

Joining Walker and O'Leary for the panel discussion will be Donna Pope, executive director of Genesis Women's Shelter; Dr. Abbie M. Meyering, clinical instructor of psychiatry; Lt. Bill Walsh, commander of the youth and adult crime division of Dallas Police Department; Gail Griswold, former executive director of The Family Place; and Dr. Lynn Kirk, associate professor of internal medicine.

Additional information is available from Lida Muncy, (214)688-3393.

GROUP TO STUDY ALCOHOLIC PARENTS

Adult Children of Alcoholics is the title for an educational/support group which will address negative consequences of being raised by one or more alcoholic parents. The group will be designed to help participants develop a more positive self-image, control negative emotions, overcome depression and develop more satisfying interpersonal relationships.

To be held at the Counseling Center, the study will begin later this month. Interested persons should contact Larry Withers at Ext. 7863.

'SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS' SET SEPT. 15

"Spotlight on Sports, TCU Style" is the theme for the Sept. 15 gathering of alumni and friends to hail the start of the Horned Frogs' 1989-90 athletic year.

To be held at Round Up Inn in the Amon Carter Jr. Exhibit Building, the evening's program is sponsored by the TCU Alumni Association, headed by L. Brent Watson of Midland, and the TCU Lettermen's Association, headed by P. D. Shabay of Bedford.

The public event, beginning with a 6:30 p.m. reception followed by a fajita dinner at 7:30 p.m., will feature a program of alumni skits, live entertainment and dancing. Head coaches in TCU's major sports will be introduced, and the band and cheerleaders will take part.

A highlight of the event will be a silent auction, beginning at 6:30 p.m., and a live auction later in the evening. Benefiting the TCU Lettermen's Association, these will include such prizes as a sky box for a Texas Ranger ball game, travel packages, catered barbecue with football coach Jim Wacker as special guest and seats in the TCU chancellor's box for a football game.

Set at $15 per person, reservations are due by Sept. 12. These can be made by check, payable to TCU, sent to the alumni office, Box 32921.

ASSOCIATION HONORS TWO

Bill Ray and Fred Erisman have been cited for their work with the Western Social Science Association, which has 29 sections including the traditional social science disciplines. Resolutions honoring them were passed at the 31st annual meeting of the organization, according to association president Marilyn Stember's letter to Chancellor Bill Tucker.

Member of the sociology faculty since 1971 and director of the urban studies program, Bill served as executive director of WSSA for a number of years and was recognized for maintaining and extending "his high commitment and dedication to the association as evidenced by expanded marketing strategies, informative data bases, conference program and abstract production and generous gifts of time and talent." The resolution also cited him "as an invaluable mentor to countless leaders of the Association and as a protective steward of the association's resources" and noted that "his respect for the history and traditions of the association is surpassed only by his vision for the future."

Fred, who came to TCU in 1965 and holds the endowed position of Lorraine Sherley Professor of Literature, was a member of the association's executive council for three years. Calling attention to his "fine reputation for scholarship, collegueship and service," the resolution in his honor noted that he "has demonstrated his wisdom and fairness, enthusiasm and insight, and art for endless debate." It noted, too, that his "past endowments to the association are expected only to be surpassed by his future contributions."

TCU PLAYERS WIN GOLF TOURNEY

TCU faculty and staff members took top honors at the recent N.U.T.S. Golf Tournament at Lost Creek Country Club. Participants represented the University of North Texas, University of Texas at Arlington, Southern Methodist and TCU. The annual event is organized by the recreational sports departments of these institutions.

Representing the Purple and White were Rich Fenker, Ken Crider, Moe Iba, Alan Lacy, Ross Bailey, Mel Thomas, Bob Haubold, Doug Hastad, Tom McGaha, Brian Gray, Oscar Stewart and Frank Windegger.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Part-time coach for the last two years, GARRY MENDENHALL has been named assistant basketball coach. Former head coach at Amos Alonzo Stagg High in Stockton, CA, he succeeds CHARLIE FENSKE, now head coach at Kentucky's Union College.

MICHAEL ROBINSON, currently completing the Ph.D. here in psychology, has been named lecturer in that department for 1989-90. Holder of two degrees in zoology from Texas A&M, the Dallas native formerly was owner/president of Metro Diagnostic Laboratories Inc. in Bedford prior to serving as executive director of Laboratory Management Systems Inc. His study entitled "The Evolution of Deception" was issued in the Journal of Nonverbal Behavior last year.

CAIO PAGANO, a Metroplex area concert favorite during his visiting professorship at TCU in 1984-85, has begun another term as visiting artist here in 1989-90. He will teach master classes and will perform public recitals during the school year. Caio, a native of Brazil, is professor of piano at Arizona State University and a frequent concert performer in Europe, Central and South America and throughout the United States.

MARY NELL KIVIKKO of Fort Worth has joined the English department and Writing Center as an instructional staff member. She earned the B.A. and M.A. degrees in English from Texas Woman's University and has taken postgraduate work at the University of Minnesota. She has taught at the University of Texas at Arlington (then Arlington State College) and for the last eight years at Tarrant County Junior College South Campus. She also taught English at TCU in 1959-60 and part-time in 1983-84.

TICKET VOUCHERS AVAILABLE

Coupon voucher books for discounted tickets to Circle Theatre productions are available for students, faculty and staff members at the Student Center information desk. These will be good for productions during 1989-90.

The season's first play, "Woman in Mind," will run through Sept. 23 at the theatre, located at 1227 W. Magnolia.

SEPT. 21 SET FOR PHOTO SESSION

That once-a-year occasion when new faculty and staff members can have photos made for their University files and others can have those out-dated ones replaced will be on Sept. 21. Photographer Linda Kaye will make individual pictures of full-time faculty and professional staff members to be used for TCU-related purposes.

The photos are made at no cost to the individuals, who will be able to select the pose of their preference. These pictures are not to be confused with those for TCU identification cards.

The session will be held in Room 205 of the Student Center from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. This is the only session scheduled for this academic year, according to New Service director Betty Knox.

*** **

FIRST COLLOQUIUM IS MONDAY

First Colloquium on Values and Public Policy for the fall semester will begin at 3:15 p.m. Monday in Room 206 of Beasley Hall. Claudia Camp and Andy Fort of religion-studies will speak on "Teaching from a Committed Stance."

Claudia and Andy will make brief presentations drawing on their experiences in dealing with feminism and hunger, respectively, in the classroom. They are interested in the reactions of other faculty, said Charles Lockhart of political science. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

*** **

STUDENT LEADERS FOCUS ON ETHICS ISSUES

"Ethics of Leadership" will be the theme when 130 officers of student organizations gather Sept. 9 and 10 at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport Hilton Conference Center for the University Leadership Retreat.

Participants will develop specific leadership skills through experiential learning activities including games and group interaction. Ethics-oriented topics such as divestment, academic cheating, date rape and hazing will be the focus of small group discussions.

Dr. Lee Upcraft of Pennsylvania State University will be the event's facilitator. Brooke Rose is student chair for the retreat, sponsored by the House of Student Representatives.

RESEARCH APPLICATIONS DUE

New and renewal applications for Faculty Research Rooms are available now in the Mary Coats Burnett Library administrative office. Completed applications are due in the office by Sept. 19.

NOTES ON FOLKS

ARDEN HOPKIN (music) spent the first two weeks of July at American University in Washington, DC, teaching operatic acting and audition techniques seminars for the Richard Chriddenden Opera Workshop.

Physicist C.A. QUARLES has received a $10,000 grant from the Chevron Oil Field Research Co. for a research project entitled "Positronium Lifetime Studies of Well-Characterized Rock Samples." HALIM LEHTIHET (physics) also will be working on this project.

In July, C.A. attended the 16th International Conference on the Physics of Electron and Atomic Collisions in New York City. Both DARREN KAHLER and Halim were awarded partial travel grants by the Conference Executive Committee to attend also. They presented three papers: "Investigation of the effect of target thickness on the x-ray yield of Al, Ag, and Au," co-authored with Darren; "Double K-shell ionization of silver by electron bombardment of thick targets"; and "Electron-induced two-photon processes in thick targets," both coauthored with Halim.

Recently published in Nuclear Instruments and Methods was their paper entitled "Double Atomic-field Bremsstrahlung from thick targets," coauthored with Halim.

MARGE STANLEY (finance) has received word that her paper, "Ethical Perspectives on the Foreign Direct Investment Decision," has been accepted for publication in the Journal of Business Ethics. Her paper, "Capital Budgeting in Countries with Less Developed Capital Markets: Financial and Ethical Issues," has been selected for publication in Finance in Less Developed Capital Markets, K.P. Fischer and G.J. Papaioannou, Editors, New York: Greenwood Press.

"Ethics and Public Relations" was the topic Aug. 24 for the presentation by DOUG NEWSOM (journalism) for the North Louisiana chapter of the Public Relations Society of America in Shreveport. In mid-August Doug and two other former TCU journalism chairpersons, WARREN AGEE and BOB CARRELL, were panelists for a workshop on teaching public relations writing at the national meeting of the Association of Educators of Journalism and Mass Communication in Washington, DC. Current chair ANANTHA BABBILI spoke or was panelist in four sessions, and PHYLLIS MILLER (journalism) was recognized as runner-up in the referred paper category for her work entitled "The Burning of the Banner: The Press and Government in Conflict."

JULIAN HABER (Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic) presented a paper on a four-stage approach to child development at the International Conference on Child Education and Development in Hong Kong Aug. 3. The meeting was co-sponsored by UNICEF and the government of Hong Kong. An article on learning disabilities by Julian is in the September issue of Good Housekeeping.

Sympathy is extended to JACK TERRELL (Health Center), whose brother Dr. Charles Terrell died Aug. 27. Memorial services for the fourth-generation physician were held Aug. 28.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

Sympathy is extended to CHARLOTTE CARROLL (housing), whose husband Billy Wayne Carroll died Aug. 25. Funeral services were held Aug. 28 at Harveson and Cole Funeral Home. He was a retired master machine builder and plant superintendent for AAA Plastics Equipment.

Shawnee Press of Pennsylvania has notified CURT WILSON (music) that a movement of his "Ukranian Dances" for orchestra has been accepted for publication next spring. Curt's "Commencement" for concert band is being released by William Allen Music of Washington, DC, and he has been commissioned by the Fort Worth Chamber Orchestra to compose a trumpet concerto for STEVE WEGER, principal trumpet for Fort Worth Symphony and a new music faculty member. The concerto is scheduled to premier in the fall of 1990.

CYNTHIA FOLIO (music) was in Baton Rouge in mid-August to record a solo jazz flute compact disc, "Portfolio," for Centaur Records. Backing her on the album are pianist Steve Larson of Temple University, Toronto bassist Ed Wise and Fort Worth drummer HARRELL BOSARGE, TCU graduate and former part-time instructor. The CD, due to be released in six to nine months, consists of nine tunes, five of which ("Naropa," "Kokopelli," "That Feeling," "Papa Pulido" and "Portfolio") are Cynthia's original compositions. The album cover will be designed by MARGIE ADKINS (art), with photography by LUTHER SMITH (art).

During her trip to Louisiana, Cynthia also attended the National Flute Association convention in New Orleans Aug. 17-20.

During July and August, physicist BRUCE MILLER participated in the summer institute of the Aspen Center for Physics and in STATPHYS 17, the tri-annual international meeting on Statistical Physics sponsored by the International Union of Pure and Applied Physics, in Rio de Janeiro. In Aspen he presented a paper describing work carried out with graduate student CHARLES REIDL concerning the numerical simulation of self-gravitating systems. In Rio Bruce presented the results of research carried out with Welch Foundation post doctoral student YIZHONG FAN and graduate student TERRENCE REESE concerning the localization of positronium in fluids in addition to new theoretical results he obtained concerning diffusion in gravitational systems. Following STATPHYS, Bruce travelled to Puerto Iguazu, Argentina, where he described the evolution of gravitational systems at a satellite meeting on Nonequilibrium Statistical Physics.

"Lost in the Whorehouse: The Comic Chapters in 'Sanctuary,'" an award-winning paper by DAVID VANDERWERKEN (English), has been published in the 1989 edition of CCTE Studies.

The Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) has appointed accounting professor DONALD NICHOLS to a task force on asset impairment. Donald is one of two Texans on the 18-member task force. The group was appointed by FASB, an organization responsible for accounting standards in the United States. The study is expected to last two years and will likely lead to establishment of generally accepted accounting principles for impaired assets.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

GERALDINE DOMINIAK (accounting) has been appointed to the education executive committee of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA). Geraldine is one of 14 members of this senior education committee, which recommends education policy to the AICPA Council. The AICPA is the most active and prominent national association for the accounting profession.

There may have been extra copies of the Aug. 29 Star-Telegram at the home of ROBERT SULAK (physical plant) since his son, first-grader Justin, was included in a page 1 color photo about the start of school.

BOB DORAN (mathematics) was appointed Aug. 15 to a four-year term as a visiting lecturer of the Mathematical Association of America (MAA). The purpose is to provide mathematicians from major universities to present lectures on mathematics at community colleges, four-year colleges and other universities. The MAA lecturers also meet with students and faculty at these institutions to discuss mathematics or the teaching of mathematics at the college level. Bob's biography and lecture topics will appear in the MAA Visiting Lecturers' Program booklet to be published later this year.

MARY ANNE GORMAN (nutrition and dietetics) has received word that her article entitled "Effect of aspartame on amino acid profiles of diabetic patients with chronic renal failure" appeared in the June issue of the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition.

DAVE CRAVENS (marketing) has been appointed to the editorial review board of the Singapore Marketing Review, published by the Marketing Institute of Singapore.

SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) recently participated in the XVIth Hume Conference held in association with the British Society for the History of Philosophy and hosted by the University of Lancaster. His presentation on Hume and the historiography of science opened the conference. The meeting was part of the celebration of the silver jubilee anniversary of the university and had special meaning for Spencer because he attended another "red brick" university -- the University of Kent at Canterbury -- 25 years ago.
