TCU SETS UNITED WAY GOAL OF $75,248

A total of $75,248 is the goal for TCU's 1989 United Way campaign, which begins Sept. 25 and concludes Oct. 6. Fifty-six agencies and services at 322 sites in Tarrant County are beneficiaries of the annual campus effort that offers a single occasion for all University faculty and staff members to participate.

"Help Paint a Bright Future for Someone: Show You Care" is the theme for this year's Tarrant County drive, chaired by Charles Anderson, vice president and general manager of General Dynamics, Fort Worth division. With a goal of $22,457 million, the county-wide campaign opened Sept. 1 and continues through Oct. 20.

The University's 1989 goal represents a 5 percent increase over last year's total contribution of $71,665.

"The people who work for the agencies supported by our campaign do a magnificent job of handling tough situations with limited resources," said Chancellor Bill Tucker. "Thousands count on them, and they do their best to respond. Indeed, I am mindful that many TCU people are among those served each year.

"So we again call upon your generosity and ask you to give what you can," he added.

With 91.9 cents of each $1 contributed, United Way-funded agencies and services provide more than 700,000 services annually to residents of Metropolitan Tarrant County. Only 8.1 cents is used for campaign expenses and year-round administration, an economy possible only because of assistance from more than 15,000 volunteers.

More than 100 United Way allocations volunteers study community needs, distribute funds and monitor their use year-round through a quarterly review process. Of total Tarrant County gifts to United Way, 75.1 percent comes from employee contributions, while corporations provide 22.8 percent of the annual support.

A number of TCU-related persons fill roles of leadership on boards of organizations supported by United Way in addition to their participation as volunteers for the agencies.

Informational materials and pledge cards will be distributed to unit heads this week, and pledge cards and/or contributions will be due in the vice chancellors' offices Oct. 5. As in the past, gifts can be made by one of three ways: payroll deduction, cash or check returned with the pledge card or a pledge with a request that the donor be billed by the United Way. Instructions for payroll deduction, which can extend over several months' time, must be noted on the pledge cards.

The campus campaign is chaired by Associate Vice Chancellor Larry Lauer, and operations will be coordinated by Jackie Hodges in the University relations office.

Special sections in the Sept. 26 and Oct. 3 issues of the Weekly Bulletin will highlight United Way activities of some faculty and staff members.

NOV. 1 IS FULBRIGHT DEADLINE

Nov. 1 is the deadline for campus proposals for the Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence program, which offers opportunities for American colleges and universities to host a visiting scholar from abroad for all or part of the 1990-91 academic year.

Institutions are invited to submit proposals for visiting scholars in the humanities and social sciences or in scientific or professional specializations with a strong international focus. The scholar may take regular courses from a foreign area perspective, serve as a resource person in interdisciplinary courses, assist in developing new courses or participate in special seminars.

The program includes roundtrip travel for the grantee and, for full-year awards, one accompanying dependent, as well as a monthly maintenance allowance and funds for incidental expenses.

Program guidelines and proposal forms are available from the Council for International Exchange of Scholars, 3400 International Drive N.W., Suite M-500, Washington, DC 20008-3097.

MELLON COMPETITION NOW OPEN

The Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities competition for 1990 is open. Any member of the academic profession may nominate up to two seniors or recent graduates. Nominees must present evidence of outstanding academic promise and wish to begin graduate study toward the Ph.D. degree in preparation for a career of teaching and scholarship in higher education in a humanistic field of study. Priscilla Tate, AddRan College campus representative, can provide additional information. Nov. 6 is the deadline for nominations.

THEATRE SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

Actors and audience members alike will take the stage in Ed Landreth Auditorium Friday through Sept. 27 for the season-opening production of an early 1900s play, Rachel Crothers' "The Three of Us." Directed by TCU alumnus Jim Covault, associate director of Stage West, the play will be not quite theatre-in-the-round but theatre-in-three-quarters, with the audience seated on stage.

For that reason, audience size will be limited. Admission is free with TCU ID, but reservations should be made in advance at Ext. 7626 for performances at 8 p.m. Friday and Sept. 25-27 and at 2 p.m. Sunday.

"The Three of Us" struck an early blow for the feminist movement in telling the story of Rhy MacChesney (played by TCU junior Jennifer Sterling Jegers of Apple Valley, MN), a young woman with a marginal gold mine and two younger brothers to support. She faces all the prejudices against a single woman living in a Nevada mining camp in 1906, when women were mothers, daughters or sisters, not businesswomen or heads of households.

She has two suitors. Louis Berresford (Jim Hopkins, junior from Aurora, NE) is a well-heeled (with an accent on "heel") businessman chasing Rhy and her mine. Stephen Townley (Barry Doss of Pollok) is a young miner who has just found a marginal claim of his own. Rhy's brother Clem (Jeffrey Bateman of Omaha, NE), a dissatisfied 19-year-old, wants her to divide the mine, named The Three of Us. When she refuses, he brings the plot to a crisis by entering a shady business deal with Berresford.

Covault, who directed Stage West's current show, "Broadway Bound," adds that hit to a long list of accomplishments since he earned the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree here 20 years ago. His directing credits at both Stage West and Shakespeare in the Park total 34, including "Waiting for Godot," "The Seagull," "Arms and the Man," "The Lion in Winter," "Doctor Faustus" and "Cabaret" as well as "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Merchant of Venice," "Hamlet" and "Much Ado About Nothing."

Also an actor and designer, he has performed in "The Importance of Being Earnest," "You Can't Take It with You," "The Madwoman of Chaillot," "Major Barbara," "Canterbury Tales" and others. He also served as designer for three Neil Simon plays, "Brighton Beach Memoirs," "Biloxi Blues" and "Broadway Bound" plus "On the Verge," "The Seagull," "Holiday," "Waiting for Godot," "Perfectly Frank," "Fool for Love," "Relatively Speaking," "A Day in Hollywood/A Night in the Ukraine," "Little Lulu in a Bright Orange Dress," "Heroes Left Behind" and "Greater Tuna."

PICNIC WILL HONOR HOST FAMILIES

A picnic for families hosting international students will be Sept. 24 from 1 to 5 p.m. at Eagle Mountain Lake. Those attending will meet at the Student Center at 1 p.m. Staff or faculty members who wish to attend should call Al Mladenka, director of International Student Affairs, at Ext. 7871.

HERMAN EARNS NEW SCHOLARSHIP

It's fitting that graduate music student Ray Herman is the first winner of the John W. Large Memorial Scholarship. He helped to raise the money for the fund.

A student of John's for six years at the University of North Texas and at TCU, Ray was in charge of planning and organizing the John W. Large Memorial Scholarship fund-raising recital in the spring of 1988, the initial fund-raiser for the scholarship. Subsequent contributions have come from the Journal of Research in Singing and Applied Vocal Pedagogy, formerly edited by John, from colleagues, friends and family members.

Ray, who is singing with the Dallas Opera chorus this fall, earned his bachelor's degree here in 1987 and enrolled that fall to work on the master's degree in voice performance pedagogy. John taught in August and September of that semester, then died in October. Ray's studies maintained continuity, however, as he joined the studio of faculty member Vince Russo, who had studied with John for 20 years.

Ray did not enroll for the spring semester of 1988, when he was busy with the scholarship recital. Returning to school in the fall of 1988, he was named one of the first two apprentice artists with Fort Worth Opera in its program with TCU. He also has sung with Shreveport Opera, Lyric Opera of Dallas and TCU Opera Theatre.

In the fall of 1988, Ray received the Grady Harlan Award as the vocalist with the greatest professional potential in the competition of Texoma region, National Association of Teachers of Singing.

COMMITTEE SEEKS SUGGESTIONS

The permanent improvements committee of the House of Representatives is seeking input from students as well as faculty and staff members regarding physical additions to the campus. Committee chairperson Jim Werth recently asked students for their input.

"Now I am making the same request of you," he said in an open letter to the campus community. "What projects would you like to see my committee undertake this semester?" The committee has been allocated $19,800 for this academic year, according to Jim.

"I know some of you have images of what you think this campus should have added and/or changed to its grounds and buildings," he said. "If you will share them with me, I will have my committee investigate them and let you know what we find out. If your concept is out of my jurisdiction, I will do my best to put it in the proper hands."

Responses can be sent to Jim through the Student Activities office, Box 32919.

SMITH RECEIVES CHANCELLOR'S RESEARCH AWARD

Chemist Bill Smith who has been a member of the faculty since 1961, was presented the 1989 Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Research and Creative Activity during fall convocation. Making the presentation was Chancellor Bill Tucker, who addressed the formal assembly on "Especially for Students: Ruminations of the Chancellor."

Endowed by an anonymous alumni couple, the honor includes a $12,000 check in recognition of outstanding ability and accomplishment and to cover the variety of expenses which the awardee feels will most enhance his contributions as a scholar. Bill was selected by Dr. Tucker for the honor from among five faculty names recommended by nominating committees of their colleagues. The distinguished nominees included Howard Stone of Brite Divinity School; Charles Lamb, Neeley School of Business; Jennifer Watson, College of Fine Arts and Communication; and Gail Davis, Harris College of Nursing.

Holder of the bachelor's degree from Kalamazoo College and the Ph.D. from Brown University, Bill was on the Ohio University faculty for five years before coming to TCU. Formerly a research associate at the University of Chicago, he spent the 1981 fall semester at the University of Sussex, England, in collaboration with Sir John Conforth at the School of Molecular Sciences. The former chemistry department chair person's work there involved efforts to synthesize organic molecules which behave like enzymes.

Currently holding his fourth multi-year research grant for the Robert A. Welch Foundation, he has been a speaker for a number of the Houston-based foundation's meetings on chemistry. He also has presented papers at international symposia in England sponsored by the Royal Society of Chemistry at Exeter, Edinburgh, Cambridge, Oxford and Bath as well as in North Wales.

Bill, a research participant in the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, is author of some 100 works. These have been in such leading publications as the journals of American Chemical Society, Polymer Science, Physical Chemistry, Tetrahedron, Heterocyclic Chemistry and Magnetic Resonance.

A Nobel Prize recipient with whom Bill has collaborated noted that "in his work on free radical chemistry, he has probed some most interesting reaction types with ingenuity, skill and insight. His interest in chemical reactions and reactivity shines through all his work, and he has made major contributions."

Bill was cited by a nationally known research colleague as one of "very, very few scientists who can even begin to approach his versatility, breadth of interest and competence in so many fields."

A member of Sigma Xi and American Men of Science, Bill is active in the Royal Society of Chemistry, American Chemical Society and American Association for the Advancement of Science. He has served on the advisory editorial board of Organic Magnetic Resonance. A member of the Fort Worth Boat Club's auxiliary fleet, he was nominated last year by the Dallas/Fort Worth section of the American Chemical Society for the prestigious W.T. Doherty Award.

EMPLOYEE FITNESS PROGRAM BEGINS

Physical education and recreational sports departments have begun their fall schedule of Employee Fitness Program classes. Including walking, low-impact aerobics, water exercise and weightlifting, the program is open to all University employees and their spouses.

A $15 fee per semester or $20 per year entitles participants to unlimited attendance at any classes and a fitness assessment. University employees and their spouses may enroll by attending any class.

Classes, which began Sept. 11 and are still open, include:

Low-impact Aerobics	MWF	12:10 - 12:45 p.m.	Rickel 318
	MWF	5:10 - 6 p.m.	Rickel 318
Walk and Talk	MWF	12:10 - 12:45 p.m.	Rickel 139
Water Aerobics	TR	12:10 - 12:45 p.m.	Rickel Pool
Shape Up	TR	12:10 - 12:45 p.m.	Rickel 139
Weightlifting	TR	5:15 - 6 p.m.	Rickel 139

A fitness assessment is available by appointment. It includes evaluation of cardiorespiratory function using a graded exercise test on a stationary bicycle, body composition assessment and tests to evaluate abdominal muscular strength and endurance and low back function. Computer-assisted dietary analysis and recommendations are also available. A written report of test results will include an individualized exercise program.

Additional information is available from Wendy Bubb, Ext. 6868 or 921-7665.

USA TODAY SEEKS BEST STUDENTS

USA Today, the Gannett-published national newspaper, is searching for the nation's best college students. These persons will be recognized for their outstanding academic talent by being named to an All-USA Academic team.

Three teams of 20 persons each will be chosen, and members will be featured in a special section of the newspaper in mid-January. The 20 first-team persons will receive their awards at a ceremony in Washington, DC.

Full-time undergraduate students are eligible for nomination, which must be signed by a faculty member familiar with the student's work and an administrator. Outstanding original academic or intellectual productivity will be a key element in the selection.

Winners will be chosen by a panel of educators. These will be named in cooperation with the competition co-sponsors, the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education and Council for the Advancement and Support of Education.

Completed nominations are due by Nov. 6. Forms are available from academic deans and Dean of Students Libby Proffer.

HARRINGTON WINS ART AWARD

Art faculty member Susan Harrington earned first prize, the $1,000 Fifth Avenue Foundation Award, in the juried Art in the Metroplex show on view in Moudy Building Exhibition Space through Oct. 6. Her winning work is "Transfiguration Four Clare," created of oil, encaustic and canvas.

Awards were announced during the opening reception Sept. 9 with the show's juror, David Ross, director of the Boston Institute of Contemporary Art. The annual juried art show is sponsored by TCU and The Committee for an Artists' Center.

Other winners were Robert Rodriguez of Fort Worth, second prize of $500, the Mr. and Mrs. F. Howard Walsh Award, for "Protect Your Major Appliances," acrylic spray paint and plaster; TCU graduate Meg Langhorne, Denton, third, $300 John L. Clardy Award, "Eye of God, Eye of My Father," mixed media; Helen Altman of Denton, fourth, $200 Robert E. Fiesler Award, "Last Stand," hand-printed fabric; and honorable mentions Dolan Smith of Denton, $100 Mrs. Robert M. Bass Award for "Prison Pistol," mixed; Jimmie Hudson of Dallas, $100 Jo Ann Durham Award, "Why the Indians Painted Their Pots So Pretty," sand-blasted steel; Susan M. Smythe of Dallas, $100 Claud M. Vance Memorial Award, "Artist's Statement," hand-made book; and graduate student Geoff Holle, $100 Ron Watson Award for "Caribou," oil on linoleum with tire.

The juror also cited five other works, an oil painting, "Fish," by Jeff Burch of Lewisville; "Fountain, Park Central," silver print by Mitchell Byers of Dallas; "South Africa: Is It Tomorrow or the End of Time," mixed media by George Moseley, Denton; "Leader of the Pack," oil on canvas, John Pomara of Dallas; and "Six Gestures," bronze by TCU graduate Kathy Webster of Fort Worth.

Exhibition hours will be from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesdays through Fridays and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesdays.

CADET CORPS COMMANDER WINS AFROTC HONORS

Air Force ROTC Cadet Corps Commander Lendrick Robinson won the $1,000 Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association scholarship this summer. Lendrick, a University of Texas at Arlington math major who carries a 3.8 GPA, also was selected the Air Force Association (Texas) AFROTC Cadet of the Year.

COMPUTER PAPER NOW AVAILABLE

Narrow paper for personal computers is available now for $20 per case at the distribution desk in Room 152 of Sid W. Richardson Building. A departmental requisition is required for the purchase. Additional information is available from Wanda Sherman at Ext. 6850.

NOTES ON FOLKS

The University of Alabama Press has just published "Border Diplomacy: The Caroline and McLeod Affairs in Anglo-American-Canadian Relations" by KEN STEVENS (history).

NEIL DANIEL (English) and CHRISTINA MURPHY (Writing Center) presented papers at the Young Rhetoricians' Conference recently in Monterey, CA. Neil spoke on "Writing Across the Curriculum: Making Changes from Within," and Christina discussed "Redefining the Basic Writer: An Editor's Perspective."

"Self-trapping of a Light Particle in a Dense Fluid: A Mesoscopic Model," an article co-authored by BRUCE MILLER (physics) and graduate student TERRENCE REESE, appeared in a recent issue of The Physical Review, Part A. The work develops a path-integral formulation of the interaction between a particle with small mass, such as an electron, positron, or positronium atom, and the atoms or molecules comprising a fluid. A number of popular approximations can be derived from the model. In the paper Bruce and Terrence developed a precise numerical algorithm for describing the localized states of the light particle.

Music adjunct BETTE DYER was a Suzuki clinician at University of Georgia in Athens and University of Wisconsin in Stevens Point during the summer.

LEO NEWLAND (biology/geology) and KEN MORGAN (geology) recently were informed that their papers entitled "Geographic Information Systems (GIS) for Environmental Data Base Management and Analysis" and "Septic Tank and Agricultural Non-Point Source Pollution Within a Rural Watershed" were accepted for publication in the journal Toxicological and Environmental Chemistry.

The GIS paper will be published in a special symposium volume of the ECO-INFORMA Conference that Leo and Ken attended in May at the University of Bayreuth in West Germany. The watershed paper, the result of research funded by the City of Weatherford, is co-authored with two former students, SHARON HAYES, currently with the utilities department in Weatherford, and KIRK DEAN, graduate student in water chemistry at the University of Wisconsin.

Honorary trustee Dr. CECIL GREEN of Dallas and his late wife, Dr. Ida Green, are subjects of a new book by Robert R. Schrock published by the MIT Press. Reviewed in the Dallas Morning News on Sept. 10, the biography of the widely known philanthropists was described by the reviewer as "the best I know for defending the proposition that how one gives is as important as what one gives."

Sympathy is expressed to SYDNEY WILSON (music), whose husband, William Paul Wilson, died at home Sept. 10. If friends desire, memorials may be made to the Second Church of Christ Scientist, 2112 Forest Park Blvd.

CHARLES LORD (psychology) has had an article accepted for publication relating to his research on attitudes. "Developmental Differences in Decoding the Meanings of the Appraisal Actions of Teachers" will appear in the journal Child Development.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

At Mississippi College in late August NEIL DANIEL (English) conducted a faculty workshop for the Writing Enhancement Program and addressed the opening fall meeting of faculty members on writing across the curriculum. On Sept. 14-15, Neil led a series of workshops for the Oklahoma State Department of Education at Encyclo-Media IX, a state conference of school teachers, and gave a luncheon address to the Oklahoma Association for Gifted/Creative and Talented.

DAVID POLK (Brite) was elected to a second term as president of the Association of Practical Theology at its annual meeting Sept. 8-10 at the University of Dallas. In addition to presiding over the meeting, he delivered one of the plenary addresses on "Mapping the American Terrain in Practical Theology."

Earlier in the summer, David was selected to serve as theological education representative on the Commission on Stewardship of the National Council of Churches, USA. He will address the commission in New York later this month.

In May David was one of 600 delegates and observers from six continents who took part in the Conference on World Mission and Evangelism of the World Council of Churches in San Antonio. He was responsible for generating the presence of 139 seminary students from around the nation at a parallel learning conference called "Encuentro" and taught a Brite travel seminar for 15 of them.

Newly appointed music faculty members GARY WHITMAN (woodwinds) and JANET PUMMILL (piano) presented a recital Sept. 12 at the Chrysalis Foundation of Granbury, founded by Dora Lee Langdon, in Granbury, Texas. Gary performed on clarinet, saxophone and oboe, accompanied by Janet on piano. Featured were works by Marcello, Debussy and Bernhard Heiden.

BOB DORAN (mathematics) has been informed by the editors of the Journal of Undergraduate Mathematics that his article entitled "Weak and Strong Continuity in Topological Spaces" has been accepted for publication.

JOHN BOHON (history) spoke on "Update on China" for a Great Decisions meeting at Dan Danciger Jewish Community Center Sept. 10.

EDUCATIONAL SUPPORT GROUP OPEN

Openings remain for those interested in Adult Children of Alcoholics, the educational support group for children of alcoholic parents that will begin later this month. Sessions will be held in the Counseling Center, where additional information is available from Larry Withers at Ext. 7863.

NEW PRESS VOLUME IS REPRINT

The latest book from the TCU Press is a reprint of Robert Flynn's 1970 novel entitled "The Sound of Hope, the Signs of Rescue." The World War II story tells of Greg Wallace, a Texas pilot stranded when his plane went down on a Pacific Island.

The new edition contains a foreword by Flynn which calls this "the trunk of the body of my work to this point" and an afterword by Fred Erisman of the English department.

A paperback, "The Sounds of Rescue, the Signs of Hope" is No. 12 in the Press' Texas Tradition Series.

TCU IN THE NEWS

Black Student Caucus secretary TISHA COLEMAN and minority affairs coordinator LOGAN HAMPTON were quoted and student DERRICK RODGERS photographed in the Star-Telegram's Aug. 21 story on symbolic African necklaces, known as nubies.

"Welcome waggin'" was the headline Aug. 26 for the Star-Telegram feature on before-and-after notions about Fort Worth by newcomers to the city. Quoted in the story were new deans, LEO PERDUE of Brite and BOB GARWELL of fine arts and communication, along with STEVEN SHERWOOD of academic services. The city's friendliness and its cultural advantages were noted by all three.

"Ethical behavior should begin in the front office" was the headline for the Op Ed piece written by BILL CAMPBELL (Tandy American Enterprise Center) that appeared in the Aug. 28 issue of Business Press. His closing comment was that "ethical policies must begin with the top person and tumble down through the organization."

"The rush is over!" was the headline for the Star-Telegram's feature on rush activities on campus. Complemented by a color photo of coeds en route to Worth Hills on a bus, the lengthy story included quotes by a number of students as well as CAROL ANN LANE (program adviser) and Vice Chancellor PEGGY BARR.

"Campus Investment Funds Offer Hands-On Trading Experience" was the title of an article appearing in the August 10 American Banker mentioning TCU's EDUCATIONAL INVESTMENT FUND. The fund's faculty advisor DAN FRENCH said, "The fund is investing a substantial amount of money, and it's not like they're playing with funny money. It's the real thing." The fund, started in 1973, is now valued at more than $1 million.

Holder of the Bradford Chair in religion-studies, GENE BORING was quoted in the Star-Telegram's Aug. 30 feature on Fort Worth native Grace Halsell. He currently is using one of her 12 books, "Prophecy and Politics," in a class he is teaching. He described it as a "good exposé of how Biblical materials are misused by sensationalist preachers."
