99 FACULTY, STAFF MEMBERS WILL BE HONORED

Ninety-nine faculty and staff members will be recognized for their service to the University and 17 persons retiring this year will be honored April 30 at the annual retirement/service recognition awards program. Combined into one occasion since 1988, the event will begin with a 3 p.m. reception in the Student Center ballroom.

A total of 1,470 years of service will be noted during the ceremony, which will begin at 3:30 p.m. with Chancellor Bill Tucker presiding and making brief remarks of appreciation. Names of the honorees will be read by Dr. Tucker and Vice Chancellors Bill Koehler, Edd Bivin, William Wehner, Leigh Secrest and Peggy Barr. Assisting will be Raul Armendariz, personnel director.

To be honored for the longest service will be Harrison Moseley, physics professor who joined the faculty in 1950 and is retiring this year. David Graham, associate professor of music history, is the single person due 35-year recognition.

Thirty-year awards will be given to Frank Windegger, athletic director; Charles Deeter, professor of mathematics; Floyd Durham, professor of economics; Jack Cobb, superintendent of grounds; and Charles Peveler, assistant to the director of housing.

Ten persons will be honored for their 25-year service records. They include Carolyn Dixon, athletics; John Bohon, history; Patsy Cole, AddRan College; Fred Erisman, English; George Harris, physical education; Marjorie Lewis, English; Bob Olson, Brite Divinity School; Marjorie Stanley, finance/decision science; Betty Knox, News Service; and Day A. Ross, housing.

In recognition of 20 years at TCU, 10 persons will be honored. They are David Addis, mathematics; Steven Cole, psychology; Jan Fox, research and sponsored projects; Gerry Griggs, physical plant; J. N. Horsley, physical plant; Ed Kallenberg, development; Charles Beneze, Student Life; Robert Bundage, housekeeping; Don Mills, Student Affairs; and Otha Mae Thompson, housekeeping.

Designating 10 years' service, initial awards will be given to 57 persons. They are Lois Cook, athletics; Jennette Forrester, athletics; Richard Sybesma, swimming; Louis Adams, Pastoral Care Center; Brenda Barnes, library; Jean Burnham, Brite Divinity School; Claudia Camp, religion-studies; Dora Castillo, Miller Clinic; Toni Craven, Brite; David Finn, marketing; Cynthia Folio, music; Alice Gaul, nursing; Gerald Grotta, journalism; Armida Guzman, AddRan; Mary Howell, library; Paul King, speech; Mary Louise Long, education; Sheila Madden, library; Nancy McCauley, theatre; and Georgia Miller, financial aid.

Other 10-year honorees are David Minter, chemistry; Dolores Oelfke, financial aid; Elizabeth Redfield, psychology; James Richardson, library; Sue Scurlock, library; Danny Southard, physical education; Sandra Tobias, graduate studies and research; Anne Tomme, library; Nick Wilson, Ranch Management; Katherine Blair, physical plant; William Bohon, physical plant; Jessie De Russe, physical plant; James Keene, physical plant; Teresa Martinez, facility services; Carmen Oliva, facility services; Betty Darnall Owens, facility services; Walter Redding, physical plant, Jose Reyna, facility services; Ruth Tate, facility services, Thomas David Tate, physical plant; Clarice Walstad, University Store; Jane White, personnel office; Henri Etta Kilgore, University publications; Dorothy Morris, Development Information Services; Hal Roach, development; Beverly Griffith, controller; Melvyn Haywood, Management Information Services; Cathleen Jackson, user services; Bernice Arvin, Health Center; Doris Crow, Health Center; Virginia Garrett, housing, Isabel Gomez, housing; Tom McGaha, campus police; Myletha Tucker, Student Activities; Carol Van Houten, Health Center; Evelyn Walker, Health Center; and Mildred Williams, Health Center.

This year's retirees and their tenure with the University include Malcolm Arnault, professor of psychology, 31 years; June Clements, assistant professor of English, 30; Ambrose Edens, professor of religion-studies, 36; Noah Knepper, professor of woodwinds, 22; Peggy Mayfield, associate professor of nursing, 22; Eugene McCluney, TCU/Carswell education program director and part-time associate professor of anthropology, 13; Katy Nichols, associate professor of nursing, 28. Other retirees are Marylee Norris, assistant professor of communication pathology, 24; Allen Self, professor of management, 26; Mort Slater, associate professor of mathematics, 21; Wilma Jean Tade, instructor in communication pathology, 24; John Woldt, professor of music history and theory, 36; Virginia Holloman, facility services, 6; Helen Savoy, facility services, 5; Linelle Atkins, housing, 19; and Leora Maphis, housing, 14.

EVENT WILL HONOR SCHOLARSHIP DONORS

The University will honor individuals who have played integral roles in establishing endowed scholarship funds at dinner Thursday evening in the Student Center ballroom. The 7 p.m. event will give the honorees and student scholarship recipients an opportunity to meet.

More than 230 donors and 400 student recipients have been invited. Master of ceremonies will be Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler.

Brief presentations on the importance of the awards will be made by three scholarship holders. They are senior psychology major Jim Werth, senior music education major Julie Buell and junior nursing major Linda Westrate. Chancellor Bill Tucker will speak about the importance of scholarship aid to TCU students.

The donor-student event was begun in 1988 with a spring reception, according to Bettye Boisselier, development officer who coordinates the program.

SYMPHONY CLOSES SEASON

TCU's 1989-90 music performances come to a close May 2 with a University Symphony concert at 8 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The program will include Fanfare for Brass by Wagner; Galliard and Fugue for Brass by Girolamo Frescobaldi, guest-conducted by senior music education major Eric Rettig of Midlothian; and Handel's Concerto Grosso in B flat major, featuring violinists Janet Bond and graduate student Patty Purcell and guest faculty conductor Harriet Risk Woldt.

The symphony also will perform Symphony No. 38 in D major ("Prague") by Mozart and Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso for Violin and Orchestra by Saint-Saens. Amy Sabin, Fort Worth senior, will be violin soloist.

QUINO CLUB PLANS APRIL REUNION

Members of TCU's Quinq Club will return to campus Friday for a two-day reunion that will begin with registration at 6:30 p.m. at Colonial Country Club. A reception and dinner will follow.

Initiated in the early 1970s, the Quinq Club includes persons who graduated 50 or more years ago. "For those of us who come every year, Quinq has a meaning other than 50," according to Ellsworth Chappell, Class of '31 member who is the organization's president. "It means friends, fun, fellowship and learning (not tests, though) about TCU."

Following Saturday's 9:30 a.m. continental breakfast at Starpoint School, "Highlights of TCU" will focus on the laboratory school's program and will be headed by Laura Lee Crane, Starpoint director. A campus tour is set for 11 a.m., and the Faculty Center in Reed Hall will be the setting for the 11:45 a.m. business luncheon.

SCHLANSKER RECEIVES MEDIA ETHICS AWARD

Jane Schlansker, president of PR/Texas, is recipient of the journalism department's 1990 Media Ethics Award. The honor was presented April 17 during the department banquet held annually during Honors Week. Speaker was Marty Haag, vice president for news of the broadcast division of A.H. Belo Corporation and executive news director of WFAA-TV.

Inaugurated in 1988, the award for media ethics is given annually to a professional in mass communication who exemplifies the highest ideals of integrity and fairness in the conduct of mass media. Initial recipient was Associated Press writer Mike Cochran, and the 1989 honoree was Bob Ray Sanders, producer-host-editor of PBS-Channel 13.

During her more than 20 years in public relations, advertising, marketing and broadcast production, Schlansker has helped direct successful marketing and image-building programs for diverse businesses, municipalities, organizations and individuals. Her firm's clients have included DFW International Airport, GTE Directories Corporation, the cities of Fort Worth, Grapevine and Denton as well as The Perot Group and its Alliance Airport project, Jeep Corporation and the Anne Burnett-Charles Tandy Foundation.

Schlansker, a trustee of Indiana's DePauw University, is a member of the Fort Worth and Dallas Chambers of Commerce and the North Texas Commission. She currently is on the boards of the Fort Worth Convention and Visitors Bureau, Association of Higher Education in North Texas, Health Care Foundation of Texas and Hip Pocket Theatre. Founding member and former president of the Fort Worth chapter of American Women in Radio and Television, she has served on the boards of Texas Heritage Inc., Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, Prevent Blindness Society and Youth Orchestra of Greater Fort Worth.

13 INITIATED INTO PHI UPSILON OMICRON

Thirteen persons were initiated into TCU's Beta Zeta chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, the national honor society in home economics, during an April 16 event in the Bass Building.

Limited to home economics majors or those in its specialized areas, selection for membership is based on academic accomplishment, spirit of service, potential for professional and community leadership as well as personal integrity and professional attitude. Faculty advisers are Nell Robinson of home economics and Margaret McWhorter of design and fashion.

The new initiates are nutrition/dietetics majors Kathy Wallace and Beth Zuber Wilson. Majoring in interior design or fashion merchandising are Mary Allen, Karen Brosnan, Kathryn Eubank, Allison Kay Feese, Suzanne Giles, Lisa Marie Lagonegro, Kristine Lau, Amy Moore, Joann Morris, Nicole Musholt and Carrie Seltzer.

COACH, PLAYERS RECEIVE SWC HONORS

Accomplishments as mentor of the men's golf team have earned Southwest Conference "Coach of the Year" honors for Bill Montigel; and two of his players, Chad Magee and Mark Massengale, have been selected to the 12-member all-SWC team marking the first time TCU golfers have been included on the select team.

Currently in his third season as golf coach, Bill led the Frogs to a third place in the SWC regular-season points race and a No. 2 spot in the recent SWC tournament in Austin. In both categories, the Frogs were in ninth place last year.

Bill, assistant basketball coach under Jim Killingsworth for eight years, was a graduate assistant basketball coach at Oklahoma State before coming to TCU.

"Obviously, I'm very excited about the honor," according to a quote by Bill in the Star-Telegram. "This is more a team honor than an individual thing. It's great that Mark and Chad were named all-conference. Both were deserving."

The Frogs are now ranked No. 13 nationally in the Golf Coaches Association Poll, the first top 20 ranking since 1986.

The team will be in action again May 17-18 at the Ping/Oaktree Collegiate and the NCAA regional tournament May 24-26.

GOLFERS TAKE SWC SECOND PLACE

The Frogs' men's golf team placed second in the recent Southwest Conference Post-Season Tournament in Austin. Their finish in the runner-up position with a 903 total was the highest TCU finish since the Frogs won their only SWC title in 1986.

TCU's final-day effort was led by junior Chad Magee with a 1-under-par 71 for a 54-hole total of 223. Ben Tinning finished with a 227, and the freshman from Denmark was described as "a key in TCU's success with rounds of 74-77-76." Other TCU player totals included Ren Budde with 229, Mark Massengale with 230 and Bo Cooper with 236.

Ranked No. 13 in the nation in a poll issued the week of the tournament and No. 2 behind Texas in District VI, the Frogs solidified their standing with the strong SWC finish and qualified for the NCAA regional competition in May.

COMIC WILL PERFORM FRIDAY

Those who miss the antics of their high school "class clown" can catch stand-up comic Joe Marlotti at Friday's TGIF performance at 11:30 a.m. in the Student Center lounge. Marlotti has appeared on "Star Search" and recently was master of ceremonies for a national "Showtime" taping. He has performed with Chicago, The Fabulous Thunderbirds, Leon Russell and Miami Sound Machine.

'TAR-TUFF' IS A GRABBER

Theatre TCU's "Tar-Tuff" production, opening today and running through Sunday, is attracting attention from coast to coast.

Glen Young of New York, publisher of Applause Books, including anthologies of the best plays and short plays each year, was in town last week to catch "Tar-Tuff" rehearsals before leaving for London to produce "Other People's Money."

Coming to the play this week will be John Lion, founding director of the Magic Theatre of San Francisco, and Los Angeles screenwriter Joan Torres, who co-authored the book "Men Who Hate Women and the Women Who Love Them." Torres, incidentally, is the sister of theatre chair Andrew Harris, who turned Moliere's "Tartuffe" into a tale of Texas televangelism.

EROLES EARNS WORCESTER AWARD

Maricarmen Eroles, senior journalism major from Mexico City, received the first Outstanding Student in Latin American Studies Award. The new award, presented at a dinner meeting of the Latin American Studies Workshop last week, honors Don Worcester, a Latin American specialist who serves as Ida and Cecil Green Emeritus Tutor in history.

A 1986 graduate of the Mexican American School in Mexico City, Maricarmen received a plaque. Her name also will be engraved on a plaque in Reed Hall.

FOUR DANCERS HONORED

Four TCU dance majors have been awarded scholarships or alternate positions in prestigious summer dance programs on the basis of national competition. All four performed at the American College Dance Festival in Wichita, KS.

Daryl Fowkes, sophomore from Houston, earned two full-tuition scholarships — one to Des Moines Ballet June 4-16, the other to Hartford Ballet June 25-Aug. 3.

Janet Arnold, also from Houston, a senior modern dance major, will attend the Nikolais summer program in New York City on a work study scholarship to study technique and improvisation. Heather Coder of Fort Worth, also a senior majoring in modern dance, will attend Repertory Dance Theatre in Salt Lake City June 18-30 on a full-tuition scholarship.

Named as alternate for a scholarship to Des Moines Ballet was Sherry Jerome, junior ballet major from Tempe, AZ.

THOMAS NAMED HONORS PROF

Roger Thomas, assistant professor of psychology, received the 1990 Faculty Recognition Award from students in the TCU Honors Program. The award was presented at Honors Convocation Thursday by Andrew Wright, junior philosophy major from Fort Worth who chairs the Student Honors Cabinet.

Roger, a native of Kansas City, KS, joined the faculty in 1984 after earning bachelor's and master's degrees from Emporia State University and the Ph.D. in experimental psychology from the University of New Mexico.

At New Mexico, he served as a graduate teaching and research assistant in the areas of human learning, memory and cognition. His specific academic interests include human memory, attention, emotional mood states and comprehension. He is a member of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology, Southwestern Comparative Psychology Association and Phi Kappa Phi and is an associate member of the Psychonomic Society.

Presented at the Honors banquet Thursday night were the Phi Beta Kappa Award to the outstanding senior in liberal studies, Brenda Welchlin, journalism/sociology major from Columbia, MD, and the Sigma Xi Award to the top senior in science, David Lawrence of Albuquerque, NM, a physics major. Brenda also won the Boller Award for the outstanding senior honors presentation.

Senior scholars, also honored at the banquet in Student Center ballroom, are Frances Orphee, art; Mark Henderson, art history; Michelle Reagan, ballet and modern dance; Elina Xanos, biology; Scott Thresher, accounting; Patrick Hurley, finance; Bill Steele, management; Byron Simpson, marketing; Amy Woodward, chemistry; Christina Miller, computer science; Debra Brewer, design and fashion; Dennis Scheetz, economics; Jill Shepperd, curriculum and instruction; Jody Elkin, physical education; Wendy Underwood, English; Lance Borden, family studies-home economics; Matthew Gallagher, geology.

Others are Kellee Kramer, history; Welchlin and Shelley VanDall, journalism; Lynn Jugel, mathematics; Sandra Schlafge, French; Margaret Burgess, Spanish; Jennifer Drinane, music; Amy Drake, nursing; Melanie Boyd, nutrition and dietetics; Karl Hillstrom, philosophy; Lawrence, physics; James Head, astronomy; Alison Juban, Cheryl Mann and Eleanor Sanborn, political science; James Werth, psychology; Joseph Pyke, religion-studies; Lawrence LeBarge, radio-TV-film; Linda Rome, social work; Welchlin, sociology; Debra Brown, speech-language pathology; and Samantha Sloan, communication in human relations.

New Phi Beta Kappa members are juniors Sarah Bigger and Darren Carlton, graduate student Roy Shannon and seniors Ona Barry, Terrance Bierle, Sherry Bingham, Suzanne Boland, Kelly Cox, Tammy Jo Geers, Head, Stanley Hubbard, Bryant Hunt, Juban, Russell Juelg, Jugel, Kramer, Lawrence, Ellen Lyda, Leslie Mahan, Mann, Robert Price, Charles Quinn, Marc Quinn, Sanborn, Schlafge, Kelly Trujillo, Underwood, VanDall and Xanos.

NOTES ON FOLKS

"The Theatre of Andrzej Wajda," a Cambridge University Press book by Maciej Karpinski, was reviewed by ANDREW HARRIS (theatre) for Theatre Journal of March 1990. Theatre Journal is published by The Johns Hopkins University Press.

"Asking for a Text and Trying to Learn It" is the title of an article by JIM CORDER (English) in the new book, "Encountering Student Texts: Interpretive Issues in Reading Student Writing," just issued by the National Council of Teachers of English. The volume seeks to encourage teachers to reconsider practices in interpreting student writing and to encourage further research and discussion.

Jim's been on the speaking circuit lately. In February he spoke on "Academic Jargon and Soul-Searching Drive" at the University of Arizona and appeared on a panel discussing "Professing the New Rhetoric" at the annual Conference of College Composition and Communication in Chicago. On April 7 he read a paper, "The Other Post Named Chadbourne," at the West Texas Historical Association meeting.

BEN PROCTER organized the 19 sessions that made up the Southwestern Social Science meeting in Fort Worth March 29-31, and TCU history professors and graduate students contributed heavily to its success. JIM CHAMBERS, MAGDALENA SANCHEZ, SPENCER TUCKER and GRADY McWHINEY chaired and/or served as commentators at individual sessions. Ben also served on the association's nominating committee.

Graduate students JULIET DEES, DON FRAZIER, TOM OZMER, ROBERT PACE, MARVIN SCHULTZ, CAROL SEWELL and LAURA WOOD presented papers. Laura's paper, "Military History and Criticism—J.F.C. Fuller," was selected as the second best of 62 papers presented during the meeting.

Republicans and Democrats aren't the only ones big on elections this spring. In March CHUCK BECKER (economics) was elected president of the Southwestern Economics Association and vice president of the Southwest Society of Economists, the economic component of the Southwest Federation of Administrative Disciplines.

They weren't playing "A Waltz Across Texas" on April 21, but KEN MORGAN (remote sensing) and 11 friends from the Army Corps of Engineers performed Texas music that would make Willie proud. As part of Earth Week festivities, Ken and his friends featured songs about the environment. The performance was held at the Fort Worth Nature Center.

Those who missed Ken's performance can read about how he teaches students to use basic Geographic Information Systems (GIS) technologies and about using GIS to analyze satellite images and aerial photography in the spring issue of Texas Water Resources or about "Determination of Critical Erosion Areas with an Urban Watershed Using Landsat TM and the Universal Soil Loss Equation" in Proceedings of the Sixth Remote Sensing Symposium.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

The Geological Information Library of Dallas will display the poster session "New Exploration Targets in the Northern Midland Basin: Depositional and Diagenetic History of West Smyer Field, Hockley County, Texas" by ANDREE GRIFFIN (M.S., 1988) and JOHN BREYER (geology) in the lobby of the library May 14-18.

KEITH ODOM, first vice president of the College English Association for 1989-90, chaired the program for the association's April 5-7 annual convention in Buffalo, NY, and was named president of CEA for 1990-91. Keith also presided over several sessions and introduced George Dennis O'Brien, president of the University of Rochester and featured speaker at the all-conference luncheon.

BOB FRYE, in a presentation entitled "Generative Tensions in Nathaniel Hawthorne, Thomas Wolfe, Garrison Keillor, and Selected American Short Stories," was respondent for the American Literature II session of the convention, and LINDA HUGHES spoke on "Textual Studies and Installment Poetry" at a session on Literary Theory and Classroom Material. For a session on Teaching Modern American Drama, ROBERT DONAHOO discussed "The Play of Literary Language in Sam Shepard's Family Trilogy."

Former TCU English students also were active on the program. LINDA KARCH, Ph.D. candidate who is teaching at Norwich University, spoke on "House as Symbol" for an American Literature I session and chaired a program on teaching literature. CHUCK ETHRIDGE, who earned his Ph.D. here and is teaching at McMurry College, delivered a paper on "Patterns of Grotesques in Guare's 'The House of Blue Leaves'." A lecture on "Inside a Yugoslav University: A Fulbrighter's Tale" was presented by GERALD SIEGEL of the York College of Pennsylvania, who received the M.A. in English from TCU.

Campus Police Sgt. KERRY ADCOCK has been awarded the Fort Worth Police Department's Medal of Valor in recognition of heroic and exceptional bravery above and beyond the call of duty, performed at imminent risk of life or serious bodily injury and exemplifying the traditions of police service.

An officer with the Fort Worth Police Department, Kerry also works with the Campus Police one day each week. He received the award for an attempt to rescue an elderly woman from a burning house while on duty as a Fort Worth policeman. Though the woman died in the fire, he apprehended a man seen leaving the scene carrying a television set. Fort Worth Chief of Police Thomas R. Windham commended Kerry for his rescue attempt and for getting information which permitted solving of an "almost impossible homicide."

SPENCER WERTZ and GREGG FRANZWA (philosophy) and CHARLES LOCKHART (political science) attended the New Mexico and West Texas Philosophical Society in early April at the La Fonda Hotel in Santa Fe, NM. Vice president of the society, Gregg served as program chair and presided over the presidential address. Spencer read a paper, "On Russell's Argument Concerning Philosophic Contemplation," and chaired the session on post-analytic philosophy. Charles gave a presentation on multicultural perspectives at the plenary session.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

CHRISTINA MURPHY (Writing Center) has been named regional coordinator for the South Central Writing Centers Association, an affiliate of the National Writing Centers Association.

The Southwest Commission on Religious Studies, blanket organization for the American Academy of Religion, Society of Biblical Literature, Association for the Scientific Study of Religion and American Schools of Oriental Research, drew heavily on TCU religion-studies talent in its March meeting in Dallas. GENE BORING presided over the SBL New Testament session, and DAVID TRIPP headed the AAR Art, Literature and Religion meeting. RON FLOWERS was respondent for an AAR Ethics session, addressed an ASSR meeting on "Update on U.S. Supreme Court Decisions Regarding Church/State" and talked to the AAR History of Christianity session on "In Praise of Conscience: Marie Averil Bland."

After presiding over an AAR joint session dealing with Female Identity in Christianity and Religion, DAVID GRANT addressed an AAR Philosophy of Religion and Theology section on the topic "On Public Theology: Thoughts of a Confessionalist" and also presided over an AAR Philosophy of Religion and Theology session on Hermeneutics.

CLAUDIA CAMP was presider for an SBL Old Testament session and EDWARD McMAHON for an SBL New Testament section, where panelists included DAVID BALCH of Brite and DARYL SCHMIDT. NADIA LAHUTSKY presided over both an AAR History of Christianity session and a Caucus on Women's Studies dealing with teaching women's studies in religion. ANDY FORT was respondent for an AAR joint session, presided over a Comparative and Asian Studies in Religion section and spoke on "What Kind of Liberation Is 'Liberation While Living'?" An AAR section heard KEN LAWRENCE discuss "Changing Images of Christ in Renaissance Art."

The spring issue of Freshman English News contains book reviews by MARGARET-ROSE MAREK and JOE LAW, both of English and the Writing Center. Margaret-Rose reviewed "Critical Perspectives on Computers and Composition Instruction," edited by Gail Hawisher and Cynthia Selfe, and Joe reviewed "Rhetorical Thought in John Henry Newman" by Walter Jost.

Margaret-Rose will present the paper "Connections: A Systems Approach for Learners" in Austin at the Sixth Conference on Computers and Writing: Writing the Future. The conference is sponsored by the University of Texas and Texas Tech.

BETTE DYER (violin) and JANET PUMMILL (piano) performed for the Euterpean Club March 14. On March 24 Bette and SYDNEY WILSON (harp) gave a lecture demonstration on the Suzuki Method to the TCU Fine Arts Guild with a few of their students. On April 1 the TCU Suzuki program hosted a teacher from Nagaoka, Japan, the sister city of Fort Worth. He worked for the day with TCU as well as area students.

On April 8 the TCU SUZUKI STRINGS, in collaboration with the Suzuki Institute of Dallas, presented a program at the Dallas Public Library sponsored by the Mu Phi Epsilon Alumni Sunday Concert Series.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

"Nicaragua's Other Revolution: Religious Faith and Political Struggle" is the title of the recently released book by political scientist MIKE DODSON and Laura Nuzzi O'Shaughnessy of St. Lawrence University, co-author of "The Church and Revolution in Nicaragua." The volume was published by the University of North Carolina Press.

"Popular Perceptions of Artists: Images of Artists in Contemporary Advertising" was the title of a lecture recently presented by MARK THISTLETHWAITE (art and art history) at Midwestern University.

GRAPHICS SHOW OPENS MONDAY

Communication graphics majors know how to get the most out of their class projects.

First they gather those on hand and create new ones for the portfolio-marketing and senior exhibition classes they must take in their final undergraduate semester. Next they submit them to Lewis Glaser to select the ones that will go up in the Moudy Building Exhibition Space Monday for the closing show of the semester, running through May 4. Finally they carefully re-insert those projects into their portfolios to show to prospective employers.

While those works are on the wall in the Moudy Building, other folks besides prospective employers may see them at the opening reception from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, then from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

The artists in question are Craig Bailey, Courtney Cook, Tracy German, Stephanie Haumueller, Allison Hunter, James Kruse, Pham Nhan and Jennifer Washburn.

CHORAL UNION SINGS MAY 1

The "Lord Nelson Mass," one of the last and most significant of Franz Joseph Haydn's 12 masses, will be performed by the Choral Union at 8 p.m. May 1 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The performance will be conducted by Ronald Shirey and accompanied by organist Janet Pummill.

Among the most dramatic of the Haydn church compositions, the "Lord Nelson Mass" was written on the model of Handel after Haydn attended the great Handel Festival in London in the early 1790s.

DANCERS FACE BUSY SCHEDULES

Ballet and modern dance majors will perform three more times in what little is left of the spring semester, yet some of them won't be dancing at all.

At 7 p.m. Friday in Ballet Building Studio I, members of David Hochoy's modern dance repertory class will perform Martha Graham's "Seraphic Dialogue," and his ensemble and performance class members will present an original piece of choreography created in class. Student choreographers from Jim Clouser's class also will dance their own works.

TCU's traditional Senior Studio concerts at 8 p.m. May 1 and 2, also in Studio I, are less than traditional this year. While 10 graduating seniors present their choreography — five each evening — three others will stage different kinds of projects.

Tamera Anderson of Deer Park, a ballet major who also works with the hearing-impaired, was distressed to learn there were no signs for plie and other ballet terms. She created those signs and will present a videotape of herself teaching by use of the signs. Michelle Reagan of Delmar, NY, will show a tape of a workshop she conducted in dance administration, and journalist Lisa Petit of Lafayette, IN, will display her newspaper article on the place of dance in a liberal arts environment.

Choreographers May 1 will be Ri Warren, Kathleen Sommer, Lynnette Brewer, Edna Braxton and Devera Bear, and the May 2 choreographers are Janet Arnold, Yvette Anzaldua, Elizabeth Cruger, Carrie Hanson and Heather Coder.

TCU IN THE NEWS

"TCU makes a point of increasing the amount set aside for financial aid at the same rate that it increases tuition," according to an April 13 Star-Telegram story about tuition rises during the 1980s that quoted Vice Chancellor LEIGH SECREST. Based on a College Board report, the story noted that tuition and fees at American colleges rose at nearly twice the rate of inflation during the 1980s.

Artist LUTHER SMITH was among those photographed at the recent "Beyond Our Borders" exhibition reception at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine. The photo was included in the April 18 issue of the paper's CLICK section.

"GIS rides to the data-management rescue" was the title of geologist KEN MORGAN's article in the April/May issue of MidContinent OIL WORLD. The article focussed on the new sophistication in managing information with high-tech equipment such as is used by a Geographic Information System (GIS).

"Curbing Waste" was the headline for the Star-Telegram's April 18 story about recycling in the TCU neighborhood. A color photo complementing the lengthy story included JOHN WORTHAM (emeritus, economics) and FRED OBERKIRCHER (interior design), both of whom are members of the taskforce known as Citizens for Curbside Recycling. Also on the committee is JOHN ANDRES, president of TCU's TERRA Club.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF MEMBERS

On the faculty of St. Olaf College since 1987, GEORGE GILBERT will join the mathematics department in August as assistant professor. The Virginia native, graduate of Washington University and holder of the Ph.D. from Harvard, was on the University of Texas at Austin faculty for three years. Named to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, he is author of two works published by the American Mathematical Society.

Also joining the math department in August as assistant professor will be RHONDA HATCHER, also on the St. Olaf faculty since 1987.
