NEW PROJECT BOOSTS MODERN DANCE

The New Century Dance Project, a three-year plan to build a diversified audience for modern dance in the Fort Worth area, will begin in January. The program is made possible by a grant from the Bass Foundation with support from TCU and the New Works Project, Inc., in cooperation with The Arts Council of Fort Worth and Tarrant County.

In order to truly increase the audience base, pointed out New Works Project director Susan Douglas Roberts of the TCU faculty, modern dance must become available to a greater number of people both as a viewing experience and as a possible creative outlet.

Therefore, the New Century project is funded to bring quality modern dance performances to Fort Worth audiences, to increase support base and interest for area dance artists by providing interaction with guest artists and to take modern dance into public and private schools.

Major activities for the first half of 1989 will include a January residency in Fort Worth by New York choreographer/teacher Rodney Griffin, who studied at the Martha Graham School and has choreographed for Alvin Ailey and for Santa Fe Opera. Griffin will set two works to be presented by TCU and other area dancers in late spring at Caravan of Dreams.

Griffin's classes at TCU will be open to area dancers, and some rehearsal sessions will be conducted in Fort Worth shopping malls. In late January and early February, the dances will be performed in about a dozen Fort Worth public elementary and middle schools and at Fort Worth Country Day School.

Steven Walker of Houston, who works with Texas Institute for the Arts in Education, will teach Feb. 20-March 31 here and in Fort Worth Independent School District and will offer teaching methods classes at night for area dance teachers and for public school teachers. He also will organize a work for children to perform at the Caravan of Dreams concert.

Christy Sadler, also of Houston and like Walker a former dancer with Space/Dance Theatre there, will teach repertory classes on campus in April. During the summer of 1989, an enrichment program in modern dance will be staged here as a joint venture of the University, Fort Worth ISD and New Works Project.

JAN. 16 DATE FOR VISIT DAY

Some 1,500 high school students in the Fort Worth/Dallas area have been invited to take part in the "open campus" program planned by admissions for Jan. 16. Offering a close-up view of the University, the fourth annual Metroplex Visit Day will include campus tours and admissions presentations designed for the prospective students, their parents and counselors. Discussion topics will include the application process, financial aid, the Honors Program and other aspects of the University.

Announced to area high schools and junior colleges via posters, the program will be held in the Student Center. Admissions presentations will be given hourly from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Campus tours will leave from the Student Center lobby on the hour from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. No reservations are required.

FAX MACHINES ARE NOT SECURE

University Auditor Ted Rhodes reminds users of any FAX machine that there is no guarantee as to the type of security that is on the other end of the wire. "Do not send sensitive or secure data on a FAX machine," he warned. "A good rule of thumb is not to send anything over a FAX system that you would not want posted on a bulletin board--because it may be (waiting for someone to pick it up)," Ted added.

FOREIGN BROADCASTERS VISIT TCU

Broadcasters from Portugal, England, Turkey and the Soviet Union visited with radio-TV-film department faculty members Nov. 23. Sponsored by the Fulbright grants program and the State Department, the visit was part of an exchange program for the participants to learn more about broadcasting in America. The four representatives stopped in Fort Worth on their way to the Radio and Television News Directors Association meeting in Las Vegas.

"They were very interested in the type of broadcasting classes we taught and how the students learned broadcasting techniques," said chairperson Terry Ellmore of radio-TV-film. "Their three-day visit also included meetings with Fort Worth city leaders."

CAROLS BY CANDLELIGHT IS MONDAY

With bells ringing and luminarias lighting the way, the University will celebrate its annual Carols by Candlelight service at Robert Carr Chapel Monday evening. Hot cider will be served on the chapel porch after the service.

Carillon music performed by Emmet Smith will begin at 10:15 p.m., followed at 10:20 p.m. in front of the chapel by music from the University Brass Quintet, directed by Steven Moser. Beginning at 10:30 p.m., the musical service will include carols sung by the congregation and music by the TCU Chapel Choir, including "This Shall Be Our Dancing Day." The choir is conducted by Ron Shirey.

Betty Boles will lead the University Christian Church Bell Ringers in performing "Reverberations" by Lloyd, "Noel" by Price and "The Little Drummer Boy" by Rawlinsor. The ringers also will join the organ and congregation for "Joy to the World."

BRITISH MONKS TOPIC OF LECTURE

The colonization of the British Isles eight centuries ago by the White Monks will be the topic of a lecture Thursday titled "The Monks, the Sheep and the Sweet Green Grass." Nowell Donovan, holder of the Moncrief Chair in Geology, will give the public lecture at 7 p.m. in Lecture Hall 3 of the Sid Richardson Building.

The so-called White Monks of the Cistercian Order established their monasteries in territories that had never known the imprint of man. From these remote and desolate sites the monks changed forever the anatomy of the landscape and played a major role in the development of the medieval economy, exploiting the land to an unprecedented degree.

Today the monks' principal legacy is a series of exquisite and romantic ruins ranging from Fountains Abbey in northern England to Corcomroe in western Ireland. Nowell, a native of Scotland, will participate in the summer travel/study program, which will include a visit to Fountains Abbey.

HEALTH INSURANCE ENROLLMENTS DUE

The University's new health insurance plan will go into effect Jan. 1. All current health plan participants must submit completed medical and dental enrollment forms for the new plan in order for their coverage to continue beyond Dec. 31.

Faculty or staff members who fail to provide enrollment forms to the Personnel Office by Dec. 31 will be required to submit evidence of insurability to Prudential Insurance Company in order to be reinstated in the plan. Approval to reinstate coverage will be based on the participant's medical history and is not automatic.

Persons needing enrollment forms or assistance in completing them should contact the Personnel Office, Ext. 7792.

FROGS RECEIVE SWC HONORS

Three seniors and one sophomore on the Horned Frog football team have garnered honors from the 1988 season. Defensive linemen Tracy Simien and Mitchell Benson along with safety Falanda Newton are included on the first-team listing of the Associated Press 1988 All-Southwest Conference team, and Mike Sullivan was one of eight chosen as "unsung heroes" by the Dallas Morning News.

All three seniors consistently made big plays during their collegiate careers. Tracy ran his number of career tackles-behind-the-line to 32 with 15 such stops in his final season. He also had a TCU high of 20 quarterback pressures in 1988. In three seasons as a college defender after starting as a center and offensive guard during his freshman year, he recorded 203 tackles. Thirty-two were traps behind the line of scrimmage and 12 1/2 were sacks.

To join teammate Chris Becker in the Blue-Gray senior game late this month, Mitchell had 10 1/2 sacks behind the line of scrimmage, including 5 1/2 quarterback sacks, 70 total tackles and 17 quarterback pressures and four knockdowns during 1988. His career numbers include 278 tackles with 162 of them unassisted, 21 1/2 tackles for losses and 31 quarterback pressures. Known as "Herc," he is thought to be among only a very small number of college defensive tackles ever to have two career pass interceptions.

Falanda, who will play in the Hula Bowl classic, had a dozen interceptions in his last two seasons, adding five thefts to his career total in 1988 after a seven-interception junior campaign. His tackles of ball carriers was 95 for this fall, and he is credited with causing five fumbles and a team high of eight passes broken up. Falanda, who finished with 377 career tackles and 15 interceptions, set a TCU career mark with his 274 yards of interception returns.

Eight players from conference-leading University of Arkansas are on this year's AP team. Their coach, Ken Hatfield, was named Coach of the Year with Jack Pardee of Houston in the second-place spot.

In picking Mike for its SWC's Unsung Hero list, the Dallas Morning News described him as "one of the few bright spots on the Frogs' offensive line...grading out 91 percent of the season." The sophomore from New Braunfels, one of the Frogs' married players, was a 1987 starter as a freshman and was named by Sporting News to its freshman All-American team. The Dallas News also noted that he "has become adept at the difficult blocking required in the Veer offense."

TCU/FORT WORTH WEEK SET FOR MARCH

TCU/Fort Worth Week, inaugurated in 1968 to call attention to the partnership of TCU and the city that has been its home since 1910, will be celebrated late next March. For the second year, the City of Fort Worth will join the University and the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce as sponsors of the weeklong observance.

Formal dedication for the newly occupied Tandy Hall and renovated Dan Rogers Hall March 31 will be a highlight of the week, for which a series of public events is being planned under the leadership of Associate Vice Chancellor Larry Lauer.

'XMAS GIFTS' BEING MADE TO SCHOLARSHIPS

Checks are being received by the financial aid office for scholarship gifts in lieu of Christmas greetings for on-campus colleagues. This year's effort is being coordinated by Sondra Harris, who noted that last year's contributions of $840 brought the fund's balance to $6,727.50.

Donors who wish their gifts to go to a specific scholarship fund must make that designation on their check and/or attached note. Contributions can be made in the Financial Aid Office, Sadler Hall 108, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

A complete list of donors will be carried in the next Weekly Bulletin, due out Jan. 17.

ALUMNI TO TOUR WEST INDIES, EUROPE

A week-long cruise to the West Indies and the Panama Canal as a 13-day trip to the French Normandy Coast, London and Paris are on the alumni travel schedule for spring. Reservations are being taken now by the alumni office.

Planned for Feb. 12-19, the cruise aboard the Regent Sun from Montego Bay, Jamaica will include stops in Limon and Costa Rica's capital of San Jose before passage through the Gatun Locks of the Panama Canal. Panama's San Blas Archipelago Islands, home of the Cuna Indians, and the walled city of Cartagena, Columbia, complete the itinerary. A three-night pre-cruise option in Jamaica is available.

Climax of the May 25-June 6 trip will be a visit to the beaches of Normandy, where the Allied Invasion Forces landed on June 6, 1944, after sailing past the White Cliffs of Dover across the English Channel. Another highlight will be sailing on the Seine River during the 200th anniversary of the French Revolution. Beginning with a flight to London, the trip will include five-night cruise from Dover to Portsmouth, Isle of Wight and Jersey in the English Channel Island as well as St.-Malo/Mont-St.-Michel, Caen/Normandy and Honfleur before the Seine River cruise to Caudebec-en-Caux and Rouen. The trip will end with a three-night stay in Paris.

Deposits of $400 per person are required for reservations for each trip.

8 M.L.A. COURSES SET FOR SPRING

The effect of technology on public affairs issues and the impact of human ecology on the environment are just two of the topics to be covered in eight Master of Liberal Arts classes during the spring.

Classes will include:

- "American English: Past, Present, Future," meeting Saturdays from 9 to 11:40 a.m. Gary Tate will lead the study of the English language in America from colonial times to the present.
- "Philosophy and Public Affairs," taught by Ted Klein on Mondays from 6 to 8:40 p.m. The impact of world technology will be examined along with specific investigations of public policy issues concerning the environment, the marketplace and health.
- "Detective and Suspense Fiction in its Social Context," an examination of selected British and American detective and suspense novels. To be taught by Fred Erisman, the class will meet Thursdays from 7 to 9:40 p.m.
- "Contemporary Life and the Environment," to be taught on Tuesdays from 7 to 9:40 p.m. by Leo Newland. The class will study how technology has reversed the roles so that man profoundly impacts the environment more than the environment shapes mankind.
- "Modern Astronomy: From the Origin of the Universe to Black Holes," be an introduction to selected topics on recent developments in astronomy and astrophysics. The course will be taught by Bill Graham on Mondays from 7 to 9:40 p.m.
- "Psychoanalytic Perspectives on Society," set for Tuesdays from 7 to 9:40 p.m., taught by Art Berliner. This course will present Freud's social thought as reflected in his later writings and an assessment of both his contributions and limitations as a social thinker.

Two M.L.A. classes will be offered at Carswell Air Force Base. They are:

- "Religious Faith and Human Tragedy," meeting Wednesdays from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. This inquiry into the religious dimension and response to the experience of tragedy will be taught by Glenn Routt.
- "The U.S. Economy: Analysis and Outlook," examining the impact of economic policy from several theoretical perspectives including the use of a computer simulation model. The April 17-July 7 class will be taught by Ed McNertney.

All other M.L.A. classes will begin meeting the week of Jan. 16. Registration for M.L.A. classes will be Jan. 12 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the Rickel Building. Additional information is available from the graduate studies office, Ext. 7515.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Sympathy is extended to Trustee CARL ANDERSON of Wichita Falls, whose wife died Nov. 29. The former May Anna Duncan, she earned a B.S. degree in history at TCU in 1941. The couple, active in the Clark Society and other University related organizations, have been generous donors to funds for scholarships, the library and various programs. Chancellor Bill Tucker was among those taking part in the funeral service Dec. 1 in the First Christian Church in Wichita Falls.

DON JACKSON (political science) has been appointed as the Southwest liaison member of the national Law School Admissions Council Prelaw Advisors Subcommittee. The subcommittee advises the Law School Admissions Council on questions involving the relationship between undergraduate prelegal education and law school admissions.

JUDITH SOLOMON (music) was invited recently by the Houston Music Teachers Association to adjudicate its Piano Concerto Competition.

LINDA HUGHES (English) attended the South Atlantic Modern Language Association meeting in Washington, DC, Nov. 11-13. With Michael Lund of Longwood College she discussed "The Project on Victorian Serial Texts" in a special session of "Successful Grant Applications," sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

"Manuel Payno's 'Amor Secreto'—Mexican Romanticism or the Persisting Tradition of Courtly Love," an article by LEE DANIEL (modern languages), has been published in the latest issue of Discurso Literario.

ANANTHA BABILI (journalism) was luncheon speaker at the Texas APME Minority Journalists' Job Fair in San Antonio Nov. 18. It attracted 100 students from journalism programs in Texas and Oklahoma universities and 40 recruiters from newspapers from across the nation. Five students represented TCU at the event.

Alumnus VINOD MIRCHANDANI of India, who earned the MBA in 1981 and currently is employed by Price Waterhouse in London, has been appointed as a TCU "ambassador abroad," according to KEN BUS (international student affairs). In October Vinnie helped recruit new international students at College Day fairs in London and Brussels, where students had access to TCU materials as well as a video about the University. He's eager to participate in upcoming college events.

Last month the philosophy department faculty attended the Southwestern Philosophical Society meeting in New Orleans. TED KLEIN read a commentary, "Dilthey, Husserl and the Question of Interpretive Argument," on Tom Noonan's essay entitled "Dilthey's Inductive Method and the Nature of Philosophy." GREGG FRANZWA presented "The Paradoxes of Equality in the Works of Hobbes and Locke," and RICHARD GALVIN chaired the session on moral philosophy. SPENCER WERTZ discussed "Hume and the Historiography of Science" with the Mellon Workshop on the History and Philosophy of Science, which met in conjunction with the Southwestern Philosophical Society.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

Sympathy is extended to PEGGY WYRICK CONWAY (business) whose grandfather, Henry Goodgame, died last week at his Cleburne home. Burial services were held Nov. 22 in Cleburne.

JENNIFER WATSON (speech communication) and husband Thomas had thoughts on more than just the holidays after the arrival of son Jeffrey Thomas Nov. 17. He weighed 5 pounds, 9 ounces.

GAIL DAVIS (nursing) developed a manuscript, "Nursing Values and Health Care Policy," based on a paper presented earlier to the TCU Colloquium on Values and Public Policy. It has been published in the November-December issue of Nursing Outlook.

SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) has learned that the editorial board of SMU Press has officially approved publication of "Talking a Good Game: Inquiries into the Principles of Sport." It is scheduled for a late 1989 release and will appear in both hardback and paperback.

Sympathy is extended to SUSAN HIGGINS (marketing) on the death of her brother-in-law, who died recently at his home in Ohio. Funeral and burial services were held in Ohio.

Economists DICK WAITS and EDWARD MCNERINEY presented a paper at the Fifth International Conference on Cultural Economics Sept. 28-30 in Ottawa, Canada.

At the annual American Speech Language Hearing Association meeting Nov. 21-24 in Boston, papers prepared by ANN LIEBERTH, JENNIFER WATSON, KENYA TAYLOR and HORTENCIA KAYSER (Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic) were presented. Also attending was JOE HELMICK.

DON A. PITMAN (Brite) delivered a paper entitled "The Chinese Monk T'ai-hsu (1890-1947) and His Vision for a Modern Buddhism" in a session sponsored by the Society for the Study of Chinese Religions during the annual meeting of the American Academy of Religion Nov. 19-22 in Chicago. Don also attended the annual meeting of the Society for Buddhist-Christian Studies prior to the AAR meeting.

Sympathy is extended to SHARON MERVIS (business) on the loss of her brother, 35-year-old Rolla Allen Garrison, who died in an automobile accident Nov. 28 outside Fort Worth.

DEBORAH POYNER, a senior vocal performance major and student of SHEILA ALLEN, won the regional auditions of the Music Teachers' National Association-Wurlitzer Collegiate Artist Competitions held at SMU Nov. 26. She will now compete in district auditions in Conway, AR, Jan. 29. She also will perform a recital at the state MTA convention in Galveston next June.

Sympathy is extended to KAYE THORNTON (Tandy Scholar Program), whose father, J.M. Dysart, died Nov. 22. Funeral services were held at Greenwood Memorial Park.
