RESEARCH PIONEER WILL HOLD WELCH CHAIR

Dr. C. David Gutsche of Washington University in St. Louis, widely recognized for his pioneering research in organic chemistry, will join the faculty in the fall as holder of the Robert A. Welch Chair in Chemistry.

"TCU is fortunate indeed to have Dr. Gutsche joining the faculty," said Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler in announcing the five-year appointment to the endowed position and as professor of chemistry. "The presence of such a preeminent scientist further enhances a department long recognized for its contributions to students, to research and to this University."

Gutsche, associated with Washington University since 1947 and former chairperson of its chemistry department, was honored in November at the Midwest regional meeting of the American Chemical Society in Iowa City, IA. He was presented its Midwest Award by the ACS St. Louis section "for his meritorious contributions to the field of chemistry." The award's citation noted that his research progressed from natural product synthetic chemistry to synthetic methodology and reaction mechanism to bio-organic "host-guest" chemistry. His current research deals exclusively with the bio-organic area, "particularly the study of a class of basket-shaped, macrocyclic compounds to which he gave the name 'calixarenes.'" Currently more than a dozen research groups are engaged in this field.

Of three books on calixarene chemistry scheduled for publication this year, Gutsche is sole author of one and contributing author to the others. He has written 86 papers on his research in addition to three books and chapters in numerous other works.

A participant in the American Chemical Society's traveling lecture tour in 1954 and 1961, he has given invited lectures throughout the world, including Zurich, Moscow, London, Bangkok and Hiroshima. He has been a guest of chemistry departments in Strasbourg, Bonn, Mainz, Amsterdam, Groningen, Entschecde, Paris and Stockholm.

Gutsche, a native of Illinois, was graduated with honors from Oberlin College in 1943 and spent a year working on a penicillin project of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office of Scientific Development. He earned the Ph.D. degree in 1947 at the University of Wisconsin, where he held a duPont pre-doctoral award and a Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation post-doctoral fellowship. Also honored in 1971 by the ACS's St. Louis section, he received a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1981 and was elected a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in 1985.

Active also in the Chemical Society of London, Sigma Xi, Phi Beta Kappa and the American Association of University Professors, Gutsche received the 1976 Founders Day Distinguished Faculty Award of Washington University.

He has served on the advisory board of the Petroleum Research Fund, editorial boards of the Journal of Organic Chemistry and Organic Preparations and Procedures and the ACS publications committee. He formerly headed the medicinal chemistry study section of the National Institutes of Health and since 1981 has been on the ACS professional training committee.

Gutsche formerly was a member of the Young Audiences board of the St. Louis Symphony Society and the St. Louis Conservatory of Music and the Arts. His interests also include woodworking, sailing, music and photography.

TCU's Welch Chair was endowed in 1973 with a $650,000 grant from the Houston-based Robert A. Welch Foundation. The following year Dr. Paul D. Bartlett, former chairperson of Harvard University's chemistry department and 1968 recipient of the National Medal of Science, became initial holder of the position. The internationally known scientist retired in 1985.

'TCU TODAY' SERIES BEGINS JAN. 24

The spring series of "TCU Today" programs will begin Jan. 24 on campus. The first of 21 events in 11 states, the 7:30 p.m. reception for Fort Worth area high school students and their parents will be held in the Student Center ballroom.

In anticipation of the largest attendance of any of this year's programs, the format for the evening will vary from that of previous years, according to Lesley Cook, assistant director of admissions who is coordinating the events. Students will take part in small group discussions that include TCU faculty members and current students, while parents will have opportunity to address questions to a panel composed of faculty and staff members, current students and parents of current students.

Associate Vice Chancellor Ned Boehm will be the master of ceremonies, and Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler will be the featured speaker.

Due by Jan. 23, reservations for the complimentary program can be made by calling Ext. 7490.

This spring's schedule includes programs in Amarillo and Houston on Feb. 5; Tulsa, Feb. 8; Oklahoma City and Austin, Feb. 9; Chicago, Feb. 12; Midland and Little Rock, Feb. 14; St. Louis, Feb. 15; Kansas City and Dallas, Feb. 16; Omaha, NE, and Phoenix, AZ, Feb. 19. Minneapolis and Denver are program sites for Feb. 20; San Antonio and Anaheim, CA, March 5; El Paso, March 6; Tyler, March 7; and New Orleans, March 13.

BOYNTON EXHIBIT OPENS SUNDAY

Paintings, posters, drawings and assemblages by 1949 graduate Jack Boynton, well known as a member of Texas' first generation of contemporary artists, will be shown Sunday through Feb. 24 in Moody Building Exhibition Hall. Hours will be 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1-4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Boynton, a Fort Worth native, works in a wide range of media and styles, from large oil and acrylic paintings to bright, often humorous, works on paper to watercolors, multi-dimensional art and assemblages of found objects and throw-aways. The show is made possible by grants from the Amon G. Carter Foundation and the Fifth Avenue Foundation. The Boynton retrospective is the second of three such shows supported by the Carter grant. The 1988 show featured work of the late Dickson Reeder.

A West Coast art critic has written: "Art in Texas has evolved dramatically in the past three to four decades, and during those years Jack Boynton has created a body of work that is as distinguished and significant as any. With a handful of colleagues...he has helped to define the meaning of contemporary art in Texas, has added to our pleasure and understanding and has encouraged a generation of younger artists who give promise to Texas' future."

After earning his master's degree here in 1955, Boynton taught at the University of Houston for two years and later at the San Francisco Art Institute, University of New Mexico, Houston Museum of Fine Arts, Northwood Institute in Dallas and Houston's University of St. Thomas.

His first solo exhibition was at the Fort Worth Art Center, forerunner of the Modern Art Museum. Others have included Barone Gallery, Inc., and Staempfli Gallery in New York, Dallas Museum of Contemporary Art, Galerie Simone Stern and Delgado Museum in New Orleans, Gallery One (now William Campbell Gallery) in Fort Worth and in Houston at David, DuBose, Louisiana and Moody galleries.

His works are in such permanent collections as the Museum of Modern Art, Whitney Museum of American Art and Guggenheim Museum, all in New York; Dallas Museum of Art; Museum of Fine Arts in Houston; Philadelphia Museum; Delgado; Los Angeles County, UCLA, La Jolla and Pasadena museums in California; Witte Museum in San Antonio; and Amon Carter Museum here.

Approximately 140 of Boynton's works have been loaned for the retrospective.

PHOTOGRAPHY GETS KODAK GRANT

For the second consecutive year, the art photography program has received a grant in materials from the Professional Photography Division of Eastman Kodak Company. The grant, worth in excess of $2,500, was made because "Kodak values the work of this program and wants to stay in touch with its participants," explained Luther Smith of art and art history.

HOLIDAY GIFTS ADD $585 TO FUND

Thanks to pre-holiday contributions by faculty and staff members, a total of $585 has been added to scholarship funds. The tradition of in lieu of greeting gifts, initiated in 1972, has brought a total of nearly $7,000 to financial aid.

Funds benefiting from 1988 gifts and donors are:

COUNSELING CENTER OFFERS TWO COURSES

Two programs will be offered this semester by the Counseling Center for faculty and staff members. "Improving Eating Behavior and Body Image: A Structured Group Program for Repeat Dieters" is scheduled for eight consecutive weeks, while "Adult Children of Alcoholics" will meet weekly throughout the semester.

Offered at no cost, each group will meet weekly for 90 minutes. Meeting times will be determined later in an attempt to accommodate participants' schedules, according to Hap Klinefelter.

Friday is the deadline for joining. Group size is limited, and openings will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Persons interested in more details or a pre-group interview should contact Hap at Ext. 7863. Confidentiality will be maintained strictly during the programs, he said.

EVENTS CELEBRATE KING BIRTHDAY

Campus events marking the birth of Martin Luther King Jr. include daily noon showings of the documentary "Eyes on the Prize," a Wednesday (tomorrow) chapel service featuring the Rev. W.G. Richard and a dance Thursday night.

The PBS documentary "Eyes on the Prize" is a biographical account of King's life and his civil rights activities. It will be shown through Friday in the Student Center lounge.

Richard, pastor of Fort Worth's Greater Harvest Church of God in Christ, will speak at the semester's first weekly chapel service tomorrow at noon. The new student gospel choir Word of Truth will perform at the service in Robert Carr Chapel.

Thursday evening the band Innovation will play for a combination welcome back/King birthday celebration dance beginning at 8 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom.

King birthday events began yesterday when 231st District Court Judge Maryellen Hicks addressed an audience in the Student Center's Woodson Room.

SPRING OPENS WITH GUEST RECITALS

Guest recitals by musicians from the University of North Texas and the University of Texas at Austin on Sunday and Monday will open the spring semester music schedule.

Sunday afternoon's 3 o'clock recital in Ed Landreth Auditorium will be by flutist Mary Karen Clardy of North Texas, assisted by pianist Pamela Paul and cellist Carter Enyeart. The program will include Berceuse, Op. 16, by Gabriel Faure; En Bateau by Claude Debussy, Madrigal by Philippe Gaubert, A Chloris by Renaldo Hahn, Bela Bartok's Suite Paysanne Hongroise, Cindy McTee's Circle Music II for Flute and Piano and Trio for Flute, Violoncello and Piano by Ned Rorem. The recital is the second part of an exchange between TCU and UNT. Cynthia Folio already has performed a solo recital at the Denton campus.

At 8 p.m. Monday, also in Ed Landreth, North Texas violinist Philip Lewis and pianist Gregory Allen of UT-Austin will present a program made up of sonatas by Jean-Marie Leclair, Cesar Franck and Serge Prokofieff, as well as Nigun by Ernest Bloch and Polonaise Brillante in D, Op. 4, by Henri Wieniawski.

TUCKER TO ADDRESS OFFICE STAFF

Chancellor Bill Tucker will be the speaker for the Jan. 25 meeting of the Office Staff Personnel Council. The event is one of the programs planned in the "Meet the ..." Brown Bag Seminar Series sponsored by OSP.

The Student Center's Woodson Room will be the site of the noon luncheon.

BARTZEN RECEIVES COACH OF THE YEAR HONOR

Tut Bartzen, presently in his 16th season at the helm of the men's tennis program, was named Coach of the Year by the Texas Tennis Coaches Association at its annual coaches meeting held at the John Newcomb Tennis Ranch in New Braunfels in December.

Tut led last year's Horned Frog squad to a 20-5 record and a Southwest Conference tournament championship, which earned TCU a berth in the NCAA team championships and a final ranking of 14th in the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association polls. He also was named the Southwest Conference Coach of the Year as his team claimed a fourth straight top-20 finish. Among last season's accomplishments for the Horned Frogs was a first-place finish at the HEB 24-team tournament held in Corpus Christi, which features some of the nation's finest collegiate tennis squads.

The coach currently has a string of 15 consecutive winning seasons, including six campaigns which saw the Frogs surpass the 20-victory plateau. Such team accomplishments along with his influence on TCU's 1981 NCAA doubles champions David Pate and Karl Richter have earned the Frog mentor numerous coaching honors, including the 1982 NCAA Tennis Coach of the Year award.

Tut's current edition of the Purple and White entered the season ranked 17th in the preseason ITCA polls. The 1988-89 roster includes one all-American, four letter winners and eight promising freshmen.

HENRY GARNERS TOURNAMENT AWARD

Lady Frog Michelle Henry, former basketball standout at Fort Worth's Southwest high, was named to the all-tournament team at the Taco Bell Classic held in early December in Fresno, CA. The senior forward finished the four-team tournament with 32 points, 17 rebounds and 11 assists. She also dominated on the defensive end, collecting seven steals. Her efforts helped the Lady Frogs capture the consolation championship of the classic.

Michelle had 19 points and 11 boards in TCU's 80-76 first-round loss to Howard University. The Frogs led by eight points, 43-35, at halftime but were outscored 22-13 in the final 7:47 of the game.

The 5-10 player, one of two returning starters for Coach Fran Garmon, scored 13 points and grabbed six rebounds in leading the Lady Frogs over Portland State, 81-70, in TCU's first victory of the season against two defeats. She averaged 6.2 points and 5.6 rebounds per game last season after transferring from Cisco Junior College.

TCU finished last season with a 12-15 record, just missing the Southwest Conference Post Season Tournament by one game. The return of eight letterwinners along with Michelle's improved play has the Lady Frogs looking toward a first-ever berth in the SWC tournament.

BROWN BAG LECTURE SERIES SET

Contemporary fiction will be the theme of a brown bag luncheon lecture series planned by the Office of Extended Education. Set for Feb. 9 to April 20, the programs will be on alternate Thursdays from noon to 1 p.m. The sessions will be in Student Center Room 214.

The lectures will be given by Dana Mead who currently is working on the Ph.D degree in English here.

Registrations for the series, set at $24 per person, are being taken in the extended education office, Ext. 7130. Participants are to provide their own brown bags.

Photographs by Chester Danett, a research chemist by profession and teacher-photographer by choice, will be exhibited today (Tuesday) through Feb. 4 in Brown-Lupton Gallery. Opening reception will be from 4 to 6 p.m. today, and subsequent hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

A Russian native, Danett and his family settled in Poland after the Communist Revolution. His father, a judge, was slain at the time of the occupation of Poland in 1939. During World War II Danett was interned in a German labor camp until freed by the American army, then worked at General Eisenhower's German headquarters.

Danett, his wife and mother came to this country in 1948 and settled in St. Louis, where he worked for the Monsanto Company 34 years. Interested in photography since childhood, Danett was the first photographer whose works were shown at the St. Louis Art Museum. He also has participated in the State Department's Art in the U.S. Embassies Program. Danett photographs are included in collections at the Chicago Art Institute, UNESCO, Smithsonian Institution and Monsanto Company.

ART CAREER DAY IS SATURDAY

A career day program geared to high school students, teachers, counselors and parents will be conducted by the Department of Art and Art History from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Moudy Building. David Conn is in charge of the program, which will include a special preview of the Jack Boynton exhibition.

Speakers will include Boynton and three other TCU graduates, Kathie Robinson, who teaches at Fort Worth Country Day School and also is an art education instructor here; Brenda Frye, art director of Graphic Concepts in Bryan; and Philip Lamb, free-lance designer/artist who formerly directed the Allen Street Gallery in Dallas.

Activities also will include a tour of the art department, lunch served in the drawing room, informal visits with TCU faculty and students and the guest speakers and an optional campus tour with TCU student guides.

SERVICES HELD FOR TRUSTEE FUQUA

Funeral services for H.B. Fuqua, trustee from 1952 until named to the honorary board in 1971, were held Jan. 3 at First Presbyterian Church with burial in Greenwood Memorial Park. The prominent Fort Worth business and civic leader, who was among special guests at the Moncrief Hall dedication last fall, died Dec. 30 in a Duncan, OK, hospital.

Former board chairman of Fort Worth National Bank and former chairman/chief executive officer of Texas and Pacific Coal & Oil Co., the Oklahoma native was considered one of the most powerful figures in Fort Worth politics, business and banking. He headed the Citizens Committee, an organization that set the pace for the area in the 1950s and 1960s. He served on a three-member team representing Fort Worth in negotiation with Dallas in the development of the regional airport and was on the airport board in 1965-68. He and other members of the team—Bayard Friedman and J. Lee Johnson III—were honored by the Exchange Club of Fort Worth in 1966 with its Golden Deeds Award.

Fuqua, holder of a degree in geology from the University of Oklahoma who was awarded an honorary doctorate by TCU in 1973, began a 27-year career with Gulf Oil Co. After serving in the Army in World War I, he moved to Fort Worth as Gulf's chief geologist in 1926, to Houston in 1944 as assistant to the vice president for production operations and returned here in 1948 and headed Texas and Pacific Coal & Oil until it was sold in 1963. He then turned his interests to banking and civic activities.

On the advisory council of the University of Oklahoma and the University of Texas at Arlington, Fuqua was a director of the development foundation of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary and a trustee of Southwestern Medical Foundation in Dallas. While he was president of the land development committee of the Chamber Development Corporation, plans for creating the 1,000-acre Mark IV Industrial District were completed with the Great Southwest Corporation. He also was president of Fort Worth's Progress Inc.

Fuqua was president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists in 1937 and received its honorary membership award the following year. He was a director of the American Petroleum Institute and held membership in the Air Force Association, Exchange Club, Petroleum Club, River Crest and Shady Oaks country clubs.

Survivors include a brother, Nolan Fuqua of Duncan; and a grandnephew and grandniece, James and Stacy Fuqua, respectively, of Vernon.

SHARE YOUR CALENDAR EVENTS

Gene Alpert, new director of the Master of Liberal Arts program, will be distributing a calendar of campus events to MLA students this spring and has put out a call for information.

He is particularly interested in presentations by guest lecturers and other enrichment activities that would fit into the schedules of part-time students. Deadline for calendar submissions is Feb. 1, and Gene asks that they be sent to him at Box 32873.

SUMNERS FOUNDATION ADDS TO GRANT

Hatton W. Sumners Foundation of Dallas has given TCU $22,000 in grant money. The gift brings to $82,000 the amount contributed by the foundation in 1987 and 1988 to make need-based grants to students.

Of the total, $62,000 is earmarked for Hatton W. Sumners Foundation Partial Tuition Grants for students majoring in political science or history, those enrolled in pre-law studies or those who plan to teach in the social sciences. The remaining $20,000 is being allocated to TCU's Washington Internship Program to help students defray the extra costs of living in Washington, DC, for a semester.

The Sumners Foundation, designed to aid in the study and teaching of the science of self-government, was created in the 1950s after the death of long-time Texas Democratic legislator Hatton Sumners.

BURLINGTON NORTHERN RENEWS GRANT

Burlington Northern Foundation has made a second three-year grant to TCU to provide $2,500 Faculty Achievement awards for significant and meritorious teaching. The awards will be made to three professors annually during August commencements in 1989, 1990 and 1991.

Nominated by their colleagues and recommended to Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler by their deans, the awardees are those who combine unusually successful teaching with research or creative activity, service to the University and professional organizations, academic advising and continuing professional development.

Previous awards have been made to Bob Doran of math; Carol Stephenson, nursing; Ben Strickland, education; Stan Block, finance; Toni Craven, Brite; Bill Jurma, speech communication; Anantha Babbili, journalism; Nowell Donovan, geology; and Ron Flowers, religion-studies.

The Burlington Northern Foundation represents Burlington Northern Railroad Company, El Paso Natural Gas Company, Plum Creek Timber Company Inc., Meridian Minerals Company, Meridian Oil Inc. and Glacier Park Company.

CATTLE CLASS BEGINS TONIGHT

The evening Ranch Management class will deal with beef cattle production during the spring semester beginning tonight (Tuesday). Taught by Gary L. Wilson, the study will focus on economics of beef production, selection and evaluation of cattle, beef cattle genetics, cattle measurements for selection, breeds and breeding systems, cow-calf operations, stocker cattle operations and feedlot cattle operations.

Classes will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesdays in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 2. Late registration may be completed from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. through Thursday.

Ranch Management evening classes are taught by the program's regular faculty members, using course outlines from the full-time day program. One evening course is offered each semester, and students may complete the full cycle of courses in seven semesters.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

MERCEDES OLIVERA, staff writer and columnist for the Dallas Morning News since 1975, joined the faculty Dec. 1 as instructor in mass communication and KTCU-FM news supervisor. The Dallas native earned the B.A. degree at the University of Dallas in 1972 and completed the master's in 1975 at New York University.

KAREN MONCRIEF, who joined the information services staff as user consultant in 1987, assumed the position of senior user services consultant on Nov. 1.

A native of Midland, RANDAL COBB joined the staff Dec. 5 as safety director. The former field engineer for Schlumberger Offshore Services and Employers Casualty Co. earned the B.S. in electrical engineering at the University of Texas at El Paso in 1978. A Certified Safety and Security Professional, he is active in the American Society of Safety Engineers and World Safety Organization.

On Nov. 7 LUCILLE KEITH assumed her duties as part-time librarian. Holder of the B.S. in Education degree from TCU and a certificate in library and information services from the University of North Texas, she formerly was secretary in the Faculty Center and later in the home economics department.

TWO RECEIVE HONORABLE MENTIONS

Two additional honors were added for defensive tackle Mitchell Benson and safety Falanda Newton when the Associated Press All-America college football team for 1988 was announced in early December. Earlier they were chosen for the AP's All-Southwest Conference team.

Selections for the All-American team are made by the AP sports editor, college football editor and regional sports editors.

BABBILI BECOMES CHIEF MARSHAL

Journalism chairperson Anantha Babbili assumed the position as TCU's chief marshal this month. He follows historian Dave Edmunds, who "served faithfully and admirably throughout the 1980s," said Chancellor Bill Tucker in announcing the new appointment.

A member of the faculty since 1981, Anantha was one of three winners of Burlington Northern Foundation Faculty Achievement Awards last year, given in recognition of teaching "both significant and meritorious" as well as research or creative activity, service to the institution and continuing professional development. Last year he also received the teaching excellence award from the Student House of Representatives and was given the Brachman Hall teaching award for 1987-88.

Anantha, assistant editor of American Journalism, was selected in 1986 to head the international communication division of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication. He has been honored by the Florida-based Poynter Institute for Media Studies as one of the 10 best journalism professors in the country.

NOTES ON FOLKS

TCU faculty and students took a big role in Denton Civic Ballet performances Dec. 9-11 in the main auditorium at the University of North Texas. Graduate student PERRY BROWN and undergraduates STEPHANIE BROOKS, CATHY MUELLER, LISA DRASKOVIC and DEVI BEAR repeated their performance of "Some Things Never Change," choreographed by visiting artist THOMAS ENCKELL, who also is the Denton company's artistic director.

Brown was joined by student CARRIE HANSEN in JAMES CLOUSER's "Ear to Stone." In addition, JONNA LEE GARRETT danced the leading role in another Enckell ballet, "Clowns." Enckell also has choreographed two other works for the concerts, "Bits and Pieces" and "Christmas Sweet." Performance times are 8 p.m. Dec. 9-10 and 2:30 p.m. Dec. 11.

GAIL DAVIS (nursing) has been awarded two major research grants. The first, "Measurement of the Chronic Pain Experience," was funded by the National Center for Nursing Research, National Institutes of Health. It was announced in the Nov. 16 issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education. The second, "Satisfaction with Professional Nursing Practice," funded by the American Nurses' Foundation, was announced in the November/December issue of The American Nurse.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

MILDRED HOGSTEL (nursing) and NELL ROBINSON (nutrition and dietetics) have been informed that their paper, "Safety Factors in Feeding the Frail Elderly," has been accepted for publication in the Journal of Gerontological Nursing. Mildred also has been elected a member of the board of directors of Senior Citizen Services of Greater Tarrant County Inc. Nell will serve as a continuing member of the board, and she has been re-elected vice president of nutrition services for another year.

For The School of Theology for the Laity, to be held Feb. 4 at First Christian Church in Arlington, RON FLOWERS (religion-studies) will conduct a class on "Religion in Strange Times." Ron will analyze major events/trends in contemporary American religion and will give special attention to the role of conservative Christians in the political arena and other timely issues.

HAP KLINEFELTER (Counseling Center) spoke to the clients and staff at the Easter Seal Society on "Managing Anger." The talk was part of Women's Health Month.

"Exploring for Subtle Traps with High Resolution Paleogeographic Maps: The Reklaw 1 Interval in South Texas" by TOM BULLING (M.S., 1987) and JOHN BREYER (geology) appears in the January issue of the Bulletin of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

A copy of the TCU Press title "A Literary History of the American West" was presented to President Ronald Reagan in December by Lynne Cheney, chairperson of the National Endowment for the Humanities. NEH funded the book's writing and chose to present it to the President because "the volume is one of which the Endowment is especially proud." Cheney reported that the President was warmly appreciative.

DALE YOUNG (education) was busy during December. He presented a six-hour workshop titled "Parent-Teacher Conferencing" at the Texas State Teachers Association Critical Issues Conference in Austin during the first weekend in December. The next weekend he attended the TASCUS/TASPA Conference (University School of Education Placement Officers and Texas School District Personnel Directors) and was appointed to the constitution and by-laws committee. During finals' week, he taped a 30-minute talk show for the City of Fort Worth Cable Station on the Citizen Bee Contest to be held on campus March 4. Dale is the coordinator and moderator for the regional contest co-sponsored by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the School of Education.

"Maggie and a Horse Named Devildust" by JUDY ALTER (TCU Press) is the No. 1 volume in the new series entitled Maggie Books co-published by Ellen Temple Publishing and E-Heart Press. The series for young readers is distributed by Texas Monthly Press. The initial Maggie volume follows the West Texas heroine's adventures in pursuing her goal of becoming a cowgirl at the turn of the century.

CAROL STEPHENSON (nursing) is the author of "Respiratory Changes," Chapter 10 in a recently released book, "Nursing Care of the Aged." The new text is edited by Karen Esberger and Samuel T. Hughes Jr. and is an Appleton and Lange publication.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

BILL BAIRD (Brite) presented a response paper in the Pauline Theology Group at the annual meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature Nov. 19-22 in Chicago.

During fall semester study days, SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) journeyed to Abilene in rain, sleet and snow to address a philosophy class at McMurray College on metaphysics and its attempted elimination. He also delivered a public lecture entitled "The Argument Against Televised Sport" at Hardin-Simmons University.

Sympathy is extended to PATT HAYS (library), whose husband, TCU graduate Herb C. Hays, died Dec. 10. Funeral services were held here Dec. 13. A lifelong Fort Worth resident, he graduated here in 1957 and was a member of the TCU Ex-Lettermen's Association.

TRACY ROW, TCU Press editor, has been named book review editor for Roundup Quarterly, the official publication of Western Writers of America.

The Center for Texas Studies at the University of North Texas hosted "An Evening with Judy Alter and Elmer Kelton" Dec. 8 for friends of the center. A private reception was followed by a program in which both Judy and Kelton spoke. Judy's study of Kelton's work, "Elmer Kelton and West Texas: A Literary Relationship," will be published this spring as Volume 1 in the Texas Writers Series from the University of North Texas Press.

Dean JOHN MANGIERI of graduate studies and research has been elected to a three-year term on Harvard University's Institute for Educational Management Alumni Council. John represents the IEM Class of 1984. The institute, a four-week professional development program at Harvard, will celebrate its 20th anniversary this year.

JEFF BOUTELLE, senior marketing major, earned a spot on Southern Magazine's 1989 Academic All-South Basketball second team with his 3.00 grade-point average. The only Southwest Conference player named to the first or second teams, Jeff is a resident of Lawrenceville, GA.

Physicist RICHARD LYSIAK participated in the International Conference on Lasers held Dec. 4-9 in Lake Tahoe. He was on the organizing committee, chaired one of the sessions and presented a paper entitled "Saturation of SBS Due to Non-Linear Compressibility."

Sympathy is extended to Vice Chancellor BILL KOEHLER and his wife, Connie, on the Dec. 17 death of her mother, Mardell Faye Furman of Fort Worth. Services were conducted Dec. 20 at First United Methodist Church.

"State Commissioners and the Critical Issues" is the title of the article by Dean JOHN MANGIERI (graduate studies) and Assistant Vice Chancellor LARRY ADAMS that is in the summer/fall 1988 issue of Educational Record.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

ALEXANDRA KUREPA (mathematics) and A. Castro of the University of North Texas are authors of a published article entitled "Energy analysis of a nonlinear singular differential equation and applications" in the Revista Colombiana de Mathematicas.

"Morality in the Making of Foreign Policy" by RALPH CARTER (political science) has been published in Ethics, Government, and Public Policy: A Reference Work (James S. Bowman and Frederick A. Elliston, editors, Greenwood Press, 1988).

STEPHANIE WOODS (ballet) adjudicated and taught a master class for dancers auditioning for the Creative Arts Theatre School Dance Company (CATS) in Arlington. Dancers are selected for their fall and spring season.

"'North Dallas Forty' at Fifteen," an article by DAVID VANDERWERKEN (English), appears in the most recent issue of Aethlon: The Journal of Sport Literature. The magazine also includes a poem, "Dynasty," by TCU Ph.D. DALE HASKELL, who teaches at Southeast Missouri State University.

ANGELA WESTER, senior ballet major from Taylors, SC, literally jumped at the chance to practice her art and realize her dream of becoming a professional dancer. Answering an urgent call from Kurt Hathaway, director of the Lexington, KY, ballet, she left school at Thanksgiving to start rehearsals and perform in the company's annual production of "The Nutcracker." She will return to campus this month to complete the tests she missed.

BOB BLANTON (music) has a busy January schedule that includes conducting high school honor bands in Amarillo, Dallas and Longview, WA. Bob also conducted the Fort Worth All-City Band, made up of the most talented Fort Worth Independent School District band students, in concerts Dec. 9-10.

The MUSIC DEPARTMENT was well represented in musical presentations by the Texas Composers Forum at Fort Worth's First Night celebration New Year's Eve. Six 15-minute concerts were organized by TCF co-chairs GERALD GABEL and Jeri Kotani. The first concert included "Statics" for bass clarinet, written by Gerald and performed by LARRY THOMPSON; an improvisation by CYNTHIA FOLIO, flute, and pianist Doug Balentine, Hip Pocket Theatre composer; and "Flute Fantasy," written and performed by Cynthia. Included in the second program were "Songs About Eating," written by retired music professor FRITZ BERENS and sung by soprano SHEILA ALLEN.

Several music faculty members were reunited with former faculty member WILLIAM TINKER, harpsichordist, in an early music concert Nov. 30 at St. Luke's in the Meadow Episcopal Church. HARRIET WOLDT and KAREN HALL, a former student of Harriet, played viola da gamba. Cynthia performed for the first time on baroque flute.

LINDA HUGHES (English) and Michael Lund of Longwood College are among the contributors to the newly published "Victorian Britain: An Encyclopedia." The title of their entry is "Serial Literature." The encyclopedia, edited by Sally Mitchell of Temple University, is published by Garland Press (1988).
