MINISTERS WEEK OPENS FEB. 6

An Episcopal bishop and professors from Claremont School of Theology and Princeton Theological Seminary will be speakers for Ministers Week Monday through Feb. 9 at University Christian Church. Also on the TCU/Brite Ministers Week schedule is a Hymn Festival at 2:30 p.m. Feb. 7 in Robert Carr Chapel.

Dr. Jeffery William Rowthorn, bishop suffragan of Connecticut, is a native of Wales who came to this country in 1968 as dean of instruction and chaplain at Union Theological Seminary. He will deliver the McFadin Lectures at 9 a.m. Feb. 7-9 on contemporary hymnody. The festival complementing his talks is under the direction of W. Thomas Smith, executive director of the Hymn Society of America, housed on campus, and organ professor Emmet Smith.

Scholars on the agenda are Dr. James A. Sanders, professor of intertestamental and biblical studies at Claremont School of Theology as well as professor of religion at Claremont Graduate School, and Dr. Jane Dempsey Douglass, the Hazel Thompson McCord Professor of Historical Theology at Princeton. Sanders will deliver Wells Sermons at 8 p.m. Monday through Feb. 8 on "Sin and Grace," "Extravagant Love" and "Policy, Grace and Law," in that order. Douglass will present Scott Lectures at 11 a.m. Feb. 7-9 on the theme "In the Image of God: Issues in the History of the Interpretation of Genesis 1-2."

Holder of degrees from Cambridge and Oxford, Rowthorn joined the Yale faculty in 1973 as a founding member of the Institute of Sacred Music. He was the first holder of the Bishop Percy Goddard Chair in Pastoral Theology at Berkeley Divinity School, which conferred on him the Doctor of Divinity degree in 1987. He has edited hymnals, published a two-volume collection of litanies and written hymns. Currently he is general editor of "A New Hymnal for Colleges and Schools," to be published in the spring of 1991 by Yale University Press.

Sanders, president of the Ancient Biblical Manuscript Center for Preservation and Research, is a recognized authority on biblical research and interpretation who has taught at Colgate Rochester Divinity School, Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University. He has written numerous books, including "Discoveries in the Judaeian Desert IV: The Psalms Scroll of Qumran Cave 11," "The Dead Sea Psalms Scroll," "Torah and Canon" (published in 1972 and now in its sixth printing) and, most recently, "From Sacred Story to Sacred Text." An ordained Presbyterian minister, Sanders is a member of the Revised Standard Version Bible Committee.

A former faculty member at Claremont, Douglas was a teaching fellow in church history while earning her doctorate at Harvard Divinity School and has been a member of Harvard's advisory committee on women's studies in religion. She is a past president of the American Society of Church History. Books she has authored include "Women, Freedom, and Calvin," and she has written several articles on church history and historical interpretation, with an emphasis on the thought of Protestant reformers Luther and Calvin. She is an ordained ruling elder in the Presbyterian Church (USA).

SWIMMERS ARE FIRST-PLACE WINNERS

A week's training at the Air Force Academy and Colorado College apparently gave Frog swimmers just the right edge to bring home several first-place awards from the AF meet held early in January. The athletes also attended seminars presented by U.S. swimmers headquartered at the Olympic Training Center.

The women finished the dual meet with 133 points to 97 for the Air Force competition, while the TCU men finished 15 points behind Air Force.

First-place awardees among the Lady Frogs were:

- 400-medley relay of Amy Hardin, Paige Eaton, Sara Dennis and Cindy McClure;
- 500- and 1000-freestyle, Lori Elsener;
- 50- and 100-freestyle, Katie Tredennick;
- 200-free and 200-butterfly, Rachel Eason;
- 200-IM and 200-back, Hardin;
- 400-freestyle relay of Barb Schinzing, Tredennick, Eason and McClure.

Among the men, first-place finishers were:

- 400-medley relay of Joey Weaver, Matt Walters, Steve Reed and Steve Kellam;
- 50- and 100-freestyle, Doug Ellis;
- 200-IM, Kevin Irion;
- 200-butterfly, Reed;
- 200-backstroke, Kellam;
- 400-free relay with Mark Graves, Kellam, Reed and Ellis.

"This was by far the best training trip we have ever had," said Coach Richard Sybesma. "It was an honor and privilege to stay at the Olympic Training Center, and we competed very well at that altitude. The women did a great job beating Air Force, and the men came very close."

In a dual meet with the SMU Mustangs Jan. 17, the Lady Frogs lost 54-40. The swimmers were competing in some different events in order to give Richard a chance to see how they looked in competition.

$225,000 IS GOAL OF ANNUAL PHONOTHON

More than 300 students representing a variety of campus organizations will join forces to raise Annual Fund dollars during the 1989 Student National Phonothon that begins Sunday. A goal of $225,000 has been set for budget-supporting needs earmarked for student financial aid, research, educational programs, intercollegiate athletics or other specific programs.

Senior Brian Hoesterey, accounting major from Dallas and president of the Student Foundation, is chairperson for this year's effort that will include 16 calling sessions to some 28,000 alumni and parents across the nation who have not yet had opportunity to make their contributions to TCU's Annual Fund. Pledges are payable through May 31, the close of TCU's fiscal year.

Enthusiasm for the Sunday-March 1 effort is running high among student groups, according to Brian, who has worked in the phonothon four years. "Everyone enjoys competing for the incentive prizes, but we all realize that taking part in the phonothon is a great way to serve TCU. The support of alumni helps me appreciate my opportunities here just a little more."

Expected to lead the charge in the 12th annual phonothon are members of the Army ROTC, whose $21,324 of the $200,340 raised last year was more than any other campus group. Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, which held top honors for several years before 1988, finished second and is expected to play a major role this year. Last year's top individual was John Rodenberg, who raised $11,305.

Thirty phones will be in use during each of the 5:30-9:30 p.m. sessions in the Faculty Center.

Kathryn O'Grady of Austin, who was photographer for McDonald Observatory from 1982 to 1987, will show her works at Brown-Lupton Student Center Gallery Monday through Feb. 25. Hours for the exhibition are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, 1-4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

O'Grady, who also has been artist/illustrator for Abrams Planetarium in East Lansing, MI, earned her bachelor's degree at Michigan State University and the Master of Fine Arts from the University of Texas at Austin, where she was a teaching assistant for two years.

She was one of the organizers of Light Fantastic Gallery in East Lansing, and in the last five years her works frequently have been displayed in Dallas and Austin art galleries. Her photographs also are in permanent collections of law firms, restaurants, banks and hospitals in Austin and Dallas.

DALLAS EVENT SET FOR FEB. 9

"Celebrate with TCU," a sharing of memories and traditions, will be held Feb. 9 for Dallas-area alumni and friends as well as parents of current students. The dessert reception will be at Prestonwood Country Club, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker will be John Mangieri, dean of graduate studies and research. In this position he provides leadership in coordination and support of research and represents the University and its units to agencies of government, foundations, corporations and private donors in seeking funding for graduate research. He also serves as chairperson of TCU's Graduate Council and as an adviser to the vice chancellor for academic affairs.

Set at $6 each, reservations are due by Friday. These can be made by check, payable to TCU, to the alumni office.

GENE BORING EARNS DISCIPLES AWARD

Gene Boring of religion-studies became the first recipient of the Disciples Theological Digest Award of Merit during a recent American Academy of Religion Disciples breakfast in Chicago. The award paid tribute to his article "The Language of Universal Salvation in Paul," which was published in the Journal of Biblical Literature, as the best article published by a Disciples author in 1986.

In November Gene presented a paper, "The Voice of Jesus in the Apocalypse of John," at the Southwest Regional Biblical Studies Seminar at Southern Methodist University. In Chicago that same month he reviewed E.P. Sanders' "Jesus and Judaism" and also gave a paper on "A Proposed Reconstruction of Q 10:23-24" at the Society of Biblical Literature's annual meeting.

As recipient of a $2,000 Lilly Grant, Gene attended a Participants in Disciples Study writers' conference Dec. 3-5 in Indianapolis. He was in Kentucky Dec. 10-16 for the 11th meeting of the Disciples of Christ-Roman Catholic International Commission for Dialogue at the Abbey of Gethsemani. In early January Gene conducted a three-day seminar on Interpreting the Gospel of Luke during the Kansas area Seminar on Professional Ministry in Hutchinson.

Gene's recent publications have included two articles, "The Bible Belongs to the People: The New Testament Scholarship of Alexander Campbell" in the November issue of The Disciple and "The Historical-Critical Method's 'Criteria of Authenticity': The Beatitudes in Q and Thomas as a Test Case" in Semeia 32, 1989, as well as reviews of James G. Williams' "Gospel Against Parable: Mark's Language of Mystery" in the June issue of the Journal of Biblical Literature and of Richard A. Horsley's "Jesus and the Spiral of Violence: Popular Jewish Resistance in Roman Palestine" in the autumn issue of Encounter.

STUDENT COMEDIANS TO COMPETE

Campus clowns will compete for laughs Friday in a comedy competition sponsored by Programming Council. A professional comedian will be master of ceremonies for the laugh-off, which will begin at 7 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. All contestants will be videotaped, and the tapes will be judged later this spring in a regional competition.

GRAHAM DANCER TO JOIN FACULTY

David Hochoy, a member of the famed Martha Graham Dance Company since 1980 and its rehearsal director for three years, will join the faculty next fall as assistant professor of modern dance.

A native of Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, Hochoy originally aimed at a career in medicine and earned his bachelor's degree in chemistry and mathematics from McGill University in Montreal. There his interest in theatre grew, and in his senior year he produced three major student productions. Hochoy was invited to Pennsylvania State University to work on the master's degree in directing. There he began the study of dance and later choreographed and directed student productions as well as performing with the Jazz Dance Theatre.

Hochoy joined the Martha Graham company in 1980 and two years later was made a soloist. In 1986 Miss Graham asked Hochoy to become rehearsal director for her company. He also is a faculty member at the Martha Graham School, where he teaches the advanced class as well as the company class on tour. During this decade he also has taught at Oslo State Ballet School, National Ballet of Spain, American Dance Festival at Duke and International Dance Festival in Rio de Janeiro.

WIND ENSEMBLE TO PLAY FRIDAY

The Wind Ensemble will preview on campus Friday the concert it has been invited to perform a week later for the Texas Music Educators Association convention/clinic in San Antonio. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The ensemble, conducted by Bob Blanton, will be one of only two university bands playing for the convention, which annually attracts more than 5,000 Texas public school music teachers. Its program will include a contemporary overture, Fantasia in G, by Timothy Mahr; the first Southwestern performance of "Piece of Mind" by Dana Wilson; "Sounds from the Hudson," a virtuoso trumpet solo featuring TCU trumpet instructor Steve Weger and conducted by his father, Floyd Weger, a retired Texas high school band director; and "Handel in the Strand" by Percy Grainger.

1978 GRADUATE WILL PERFORM

John Salmon, who earned piano performance and philosophy degrees here in 1978, will play a guest piano recital at 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Son of Ted and TCU graduate Nancy Shulkey Salmon of Fort Worth, John is a 1973 graduate of Paschal High School. After graduation from TCU, he studied two years on scholarship at Freiburg Hochschule in Germany, then earned the master's degree from Juilliard.

He recently has been selected by Texas Association of Music Schools as an outstanding Texas music school graduate and will be honored at a March 31 ceremony. John taught at Central Washington University and at Scripps College before joining the Florida State faculty two years ago. His concert program here includes Beethoven's Sonata No. 31 in A flat major and Sonata (1926) by Bela Bartok. The concluding work will be Robert Schumann's Fantasy, Op. 17.

NOTES ON FOLKS

RUTH WHITLOCK (music) has received word that her "Choral Insights" series has been adapted for use in secondary schools by the State of Oklahoma.

CHARLES BECKER (economics) and SHANNON SHIPP (marketing) presented a paper entitled "Environmental Influences on Bank Performance" at the North American Economics and Finance Association conference in New York City Dec. 30.

SPENCER TUCKER (history) has had five multi-page entries on naval subjects accepted for an encyclopedia of the War of 1812. He also completed a 1,000-word essay on Grand Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz for the new International Defense Encyclopedia and has been asked to do 12 entries on naval subjects and French diplomacy for a new encyclopedia of the American Revolution.

Currently working on a master's degree in speech communication, SARAH ELIZABETH PAXTON took the Miss Fort Worth title in the pageant held Jan. 15. The Fort Worth resident, one of 13 competing in this year's event, will represent the city in the Miss Texas pageant in July. She earned the B.F.A. degree in speech communication in 1988.

Sympathy is extended to ROBIN NEELEY DAVIS (Starpoint School), whose grandmother, CATHERINE BALL, died Jan. 14. Services were conducted Jan. 16 at University Christian Church for Mrs. Ball, who was a house mother in TCU women's residence halls from 1944 until she retired in 1963.

BOB FRYE (English) presented a program entitled "Some Values of Language: 'Grandpa Isaac's Farm'" for the DL Chapter of PEO in Fort Worth Jan. 11.

RON FLOWERS (religion-studies) is author of an article entitled "They Got Our Attention, Didn't They?: The Tennessee and Alabama School Book Cases" in the most recent issue of Religion and Public Education. It is an analysis of legal attacks by fundamentalist Christians on the content of textbooks and the alleged teaching of "secular humanism" in the public schools. The issue also includes a response by Ron to a response to his longer article.

DONALD FRISCHMANN (modern languages) attended the "V Festival Nacional de Teatro Comunidad" Nov. 25-28 in Zitlala, Guerrero, Mexico. As part of the program he addressed festival participants on the theme "El Nuevo Teatro Latinoamericano." In early January Don traveled to the Yucatan Peninsula to carry out research on traditional Mayan theatre in the towns of Dzitnup and Oxkutzcab, where the mayor and city council proclaimed him a "Distinguished Guest" for his work in promoting Mayan culture at TCU. Afterwards at a luncheon at city hall, Don was presented a commemorative plaque naming him and TCU for promoting and "ennobling" the state's indigenous values.

An article by ARTURO FLORES (modern languages) entitled "El teatro de Flores Magon: Una estetica anarquista" appeared in the September/December issue of Mundo, an international journal widely circulated in Europe and Latin America that publishes scholarly articles and focuses on topics of philosophy, political science and literature.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

LINDA CURRY (nursing), psychiatric clinical specialist Linda Calvin and Jeanette Lancaster, dean of Wright State University College of Nursing, are authors of an article, "Breaking the Cycle of Family Abuse," in the American Journal of Nursing.

Linda and Patricia Okimi of the University of Texas at Arlington presented a paper, "The Relationship of Satisfaction, Goal Commitment and Academic Achievement to Student Retention of Generic Nursing Students in Public and Private Baccalaureate Nursing Schools," at the seventh annual Conference on Research in Nursing Education sponsored by the National League for Nursing Jan. 11-14 in San Francisco.

CHRISTINE BRINKERHOFF (recreational sports) completed the application and examination process and has been certified by the National Intramural-Recreational Sports Association as a Recreational Sports Specialist.

PAUL KING and RALPH BEHNKE (speech communication) have been notified that their paper entitled "Simulating Public Speaking Audiences" has been accepted for publication in the Southern Speech Communication Journal.

NANCY SAYNER (Harris College) has received word that her latest article, "Observation and the Literature Review: The Key and Lock of Research Endeavors," is scheduled for April publication in the Journal of Neuroscience Nursing. She also has been asked to speak at a special educational session of the annual meeting of the American Association of Neuroscience Nurses in Washington, DC, in April. The topic of her presentation will be "Utilization of Research Findings by the Practicing Professional Neuroscience Nurse."

DAVID VANDERWERKEN (English) has a chapter entitled "Running to Disaster: Shaw's 'The Eighty-Yard Run'" in a new San Diego University Press book, "Coroebus Triumphs: The Alliance of Sport and the Arts." David also edited and wrote the introduction to a section of the book on Knowing Sport--Analysis or Experience.

Honorary trustee CARLOS ASHLEY of Llano, well-known attorney, rancher and writer, was a guest of the Johnny Carson Show Jan. 19. His use of Texas sayings, such as "frog strangler" in reference to a heavy rain, held the attention of the show's host. A TCU baseball letterman in 1923, Ashley was poet laureate of Texas in 1949-50.

LISA ROLLINS-GARCIA, who joined the Counseling Center last fall following an internship at the Psychological Counseling Center at the University of Florida, received the Ph.D. degree in December from Auburn University. Eating disorders is an area of special interest to her, and she is beginning a therapy group this semester for bulimia and related eating disorders.

A critical thinking skills workbook by CHRISTINA MURPHY (Writing Center) has been published by Prentice Hall. The workbook is designed to accompany The Prentice Hall Guide for College Writers by Stephen Reid of Colorado State University.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

"A Lesson in Jazz Flute: Eddie Daniels' Solo on Emily" by CYNTHIA FOLIO (music) is the title of an article in the winter 1989 issue of The Flutist Quarterly, official magazine of the National Flute Association.

A study of national data on ethical misconduct in social work practice by ART BERLINER (emeritus, social work) has been published in the January issue of Social Work, Journal of the National Association of Social Workers. Also recently in print in Social Work With Groups is his review of "Group Therapy with Alcoholics: Outpatient and Inpatient Approaches." In February Art, who is clinical consultant at Oak Bend Psychiatric Hospital, will be addressing the fourth annual Southwest Conference on Teen-age Alcohol and Drug Abuse on "The American Drug Experience."

MARK THISTLETHWAITE (art and art history) recently participated in the Prairie Visions symposium for the Nebraska consortium for discipline-based art education. The only participant invited from out of state, Mark served as the discipline specialist for art criticism. The symposium was held at the Joslyn Art Museum in Omaha.

VIDEOTAPES AVAILABLE FOR VIEWING

Three videotapes will be available for viewing Feb. 13-15 in the Center for Instructional Services. They are "Patterns of Evolution," "Genetics of Cancer" and "Jumping Genes."

Persons interested in any of the three should contact the center at Ext. 7121 or Ext. 6124 to arrange a viewing time in one of the preview rooms, according to Susan Holland.

TCU RECEIVES EMPLOYER AWARD

The Employer of the Year Award was presented to TCU by Goodwill Industries during ceremonies at a banquet Jan. 24 at River Crest Country Club. Presentations were made by J. B. Moates, outgoing president of the Goodwill board, and Chancellor Bill Tucker accepted on behalf of the University. Shari Barnes, employment and training manager, represented the personnel office.

Recognized for its strong belief in the affirmative action concept of hiring handicapped and disabled persons in its proactive approach, the University hired 13 disabled persons in a variety of positions in 1988. Disabilities include blindness, closed head injuries, amputations, epilepsy, strokes, deafness and mobility impairment. These persons as well as those hired earlier have been integrated successfully into TCU's work force at all levels, including professional, general staff and faculty members, according to Shari.

TCU is involved in Goodwill's business advisory council, Projects with Industry, in addition to hiring clients from Goodwill and other social service agencies. University personnel offers assistance in a variety of ways. These include providing informational interviews to Goodwill trainees and offering feedback to job-readiness counselors as well as conducting information sessions at the Goodwill site to assist clerical trainees prior to their active job searches.

TWO WILL INTERN AT LOS ANGELES TIMES

Two journalism students will spend the summer as interns on the Los Angeles Times. They are MariCarmen Eroles, junior from Mexico City, and Regina Anderson, Fort Worth senior.

Considered one of the most competitive, the Times' internship program had "several hundred" applicants this year, according to Julie Wilson, assistant director of editorial hiring and development at the Times. Twenty-five paid reporting interns were selected after completing a screening process that included an English proficiency and current affairs exam in addition to telephone and personal interviews with the newspaper's representatives.

"It is extremely rare that two students from one school are chosen for this prestigious program in the same year," said Anantha Babbili, journalism department chairperson.

Noting that only TCU and Harvard University had more than one student in the top 25, Wilson said, "This speaks very well of your program at TCU."

MariCarmen currently is editor of IMAGE. Majoring in both journalism and Latin American studies, she is a graduate of Mexico City's Escuela Mexicana Americana. Anderson, majoring in the news/editorial sequence of journalism, is sports editor of the Daily Skiff and is a graduate of Fort Worth's Paschal high.

SATELLITE DISH INSTALLED ON CAMPUS

A satellite dish was installed last week at the TAGER TV/Telecommunications facility on east campus. Operated by the Center for Instructional Services, the 12-foot mesh dish receives both C and Ku bands. Director Larry Kitchens says the dish will greatly enhance the University's programming, teleconferencing and off-air taping opportunities.

Initial use of the satellite system will occur Friday with the Star Schools Teleconference at 1 p.m. This live national teleconference will bring together directors of the Star Schools Program as a panel to discuss their projects and the role of educational technology in public education.

Faculty and staff members are invited to attend a teleconference on "Myths, Models and Realities: Creating a Campus of the Future," Feb. 7 from 10:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the TAGER-TV building. The program should be of interest to individuals looking for an affordable way to improve their learning and work and environments and to realize more of the promise of the information age.

Additional information on this and other programs is available by contacting Deana Muirheid, Ext. 7632.

TCU IN THE NEWS

In November an extensive newspaper interview with anthropologist/writer Carlos Villanueva appeared in Novedades de Yucatan. Villanueva, who has lectured twice at TCU, described his research into Texas and Yucatan history and his experiences here during the 1988 TCU YUCATAN-MAYAN CULTURE WEEK. The newspaper also reproduced photographs taken at TCU as well as Mayor Bob Bolen's related Spanish-language proclamation.

"'Professor of the Year' named at TCU" was the title of the Star-Telegram's feature on MARK THISTLETHWAITE (art/art history) that appeared in the Jan. 18-19 issue of Star-Telegram Southwest Extra. In the story, prompted by his recognition by Honors students, he compliments Fort Worth's museums and notes his other favorites, including the Tate in London and the Louvre and Picasso in Paris.

"Business didn't profit from tax cuts" was the headline for the article by STAN BLOCK (finance) that appeared on the Viewpoints page of the Dallas Morning News Jan. 19. Four tax bills passed since 1981 have not accomplished more after-tax funds for corporations as had been their purpose, according to Stan.

TCU was among those mentioned in the Marginalia column in the Jan. 25 issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education. The column quoted from a recent issue of Writing Newsletter from the WRITING CENTER regarding the large number of consultations during its first few weeks of operation, comparing TCU's 196 sessions during six weeks with 175 sessions for an entire semester at Duke University. The line that got the national attention was: "...the TCU Writing Center has already exceeded this total in its first sex weeks." Typos will get you noticed every time!

Freshman JENNIFER MINK caught the photographer's eye last week as she washed her boy friend's car behind Jarvis Hall. The picture appeared in the Star-Telegram's morning issue Jan. 25.
