TANDY DEDICATION SET FRIDAY

Dedication ceremonies for Charles Tandy Hall will begin at 2 p.m. Friday in front of the new three-story structure that almost doubles space for the Neeley School of Business. Following the public event, an open house will be held in both Tandy and Dan Rogers halls from 2:30 to 4 p.m.

A highlight of the observance of TCU/Fort Worth Week that begins today with "Celebrating International Business" as its theme, the dedication event will feature flags from nations around the globe as well as refreshments reflecting the international nature of today's business world.

Chancellor Bill Tucker will preside, and the invocation will be given by Chancellor Emeritus J.M. Moudy. Participating in the program will be Bayard H. Friedman, chairperson of the board of trustees who will express appreciation to the donors; Ms. Anne W. Marion, president of the Anne Burnett and Charles Tandy Foundation who will represent the donors; Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler, who will focus on the multimillion dollar project; and Dean Kirk Downey of the Neeley School, who will note the importance of the facility to the business program. Music will be provided by the TCU Band under the direction of Bob Blanton.

Guest of honor will be Dr. M.J. Neeley, University trustee since 1947 and its chairperson in 1969-72 for whom the business school was named in 1967. The M.J. Neeley Professorship of Marketing and the Research Professorship of Management and Organizational Behavior reflect his indelible mark on the field of education. His generous gift funded establishment of a communication center within the school.

A special event of the formal ceremony will be the simultaneous cutting of ribbons at 27 rooms and specialized areas in Tandy and Rogers halls. Officiating at each will be donors for whom the areas are named.

The $8.2 million project for the construction of the 42,000-square-foot Tandy Hall and renovation of the adjoining Dan Rogers Hall was begun with ground breaking ceremonies March 27, 1987, with the Fort Worth firm of Kirk Voich Gist Inc. as architects. The new structure's first floor houses the Center for Productive Communication, a seminar room and executive board room. Specialized facilities on the second floor are dedicated to both the management information services program and the Educational Investment Fund. The Charles Tandy American Enterprise Center is the focal point of the third floor, which also includes administrative offices.

Tandy Hall's name honors the late alumnus-trustee who transformed a small business into a billion-dollar international corporation of some 7,000 stores and the foundation for a major electronics and computer manufacturer. Civic and educational programs as well as the world of business benefited from Tandy's leadership.

Rogers Hall was built in 1957 at a cost of $825,000 to house the School of Business, formerly located in a barracks-type structure. It was named for the late alumnus-trustee Dan D. Rogers, a Dallas business, civic and religious leader who had headed the TCU Alumni Association in 1923 and in 1943 became the second person presented an honorary degree by TCU. Rogers Hall has undergone complete renovation and updating, includes administrative offices as well as classrooms and features a new front entrance on Lubbock Street.

The cornerstone gift for Tandy Hall was made by the Anne Burnett and Charles Tandy Foundation. Leadership donors for the overall project included Mr. and Mrs. Denny Alexander, Robert D. and Catherine R. Alexander Foundation, Theodore and Beulah Beasley Foundation Inc., Brown-Lupton Foundation, William and Catherine Bryce Memorial Fund, Amon G. Carter Foundation, Davidson Family Charitable Trust, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gearhart, Greater Fort Worth Bankers Association, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Hays and Hoblitzelle Foundation. Others included Houston Endowment Inc., Mary Potishman Lard Trust, J.E. and L.E. Mabee Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Michero, Dr. M.J. Neeley, Leo Potishman Foundation, Southwestern Bell Foundation, Tandy Corporation, TU Electric and James L. and Eunice West Charitable Trust.

Prior to the dedication, donors to the project will be honored at a luncheon hosted by Dr. Tucker. The by-invitation event will be in the Student Center ballroom.

TONIGHT'S SYMPOSIUM OPENS WEEK

This evening's (Tuesday) public symposium on international business will be the opening event for the 19th observance of TCU/Fort Worth Week. Concentrating on conducting business in foreign cultures in keeping with the week's theme, the program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom under the co-sponsorship of the Tarrant Business section of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Panelists will be three leaders in international business. They are Charles Anderson, vice president and general manager of General Dynamics/Fort Worth; Clark A. Johnson, chairperson and chief executive officer of Pier 1 Imports Inc.; and John V. Roach, chairperson and chief executive officer of Tandy Corporation. Johnson and Roach are TCU graduates and members of the board of trustees.

Bus service will be provided from the stadium parking lot. Admission will be by tickets available at no charge from the University Relations office.

Other events of the week, described in the March 14 Weekly Bulletin, are listed in this week's calendar.

UNIVERSITY CHANGES BAD WEATHER POLICY

An evaluation of the University's procedures concerning bad weather by the chancellor and vice chancellors has resulted in a change of policy. The new policy reads as follows:

"When the University is officially closed, all students and faculty and staff will be excused from reporting, except for those employees providing essential services related to (1) health and safety, (2) the presence of a residential community and (3) agreements with the public for the use of University facilities."

The decision to close the University will be made by 6 a.m. on the day in question and will be communicated promptly to local news media. Members of the University community are encouraged to get their information from that source.

Procedures will be developed for communication with employees in the event the University is closed on a Saturday or Sunday.

LIBRARY FRIENDS TO MEET APRIL 6

Lawrence Budner of Dallas, an authority on the life and times of Theodore Roosevelt, will address the 17th annual meeting of Friends of the TCU Library April 6 at Colonial Country Club.

A 6:30 p.m. reception will be followed by dinner at 7 p.m., and guests are welcome. Reservations at $20 per person may be made by check to TCU Library, Box 32904. Checks must be received by April 4.

A retired banker, Budner has assembled what is considered the most important private collection of Roosevelt memorabilia. The Theodore Roosevelt Society of Oyster Bay, NY, recently held its annual meeting at Southern Methodist University, where the Budner collection was displayed. It was the society's first meeting outside the eastern United States. Title of Budner's talk will be "Teddy Roosevelt: Our Incredible 26th President." The annual meeting will be under the direction of Dr. George Sumner, president of Friends of the TCU Library.

CONN WILL CHAIR ART

David Conn, award-winning artist and a member of the art faculty since 1969, has been named to chair art and art history for a three-year term beginning in the fall.

A graduate of Maryland Institute, College of Art who holds the Master of Fine Arts degree from the University of Oklahoma, David earned a $15,000 Individual Fellowship Grant from the National Endowment for the Arts in 1986 for a series of black and white etchings of hobo signs. He also earned first prize in the wall relief category at the International Art Competition in Los Angeles in conjunction with the 1984 Olympics.

WRITERS' WORKSHOP FOCUSES ON TRAIL DRIVE

The trail drive as portrayed in music, movies and literature will be the focus of the 12th annual TCU/Chisholm Trail Writers' Workshop June 9-10. Participants will be novelist Elmer Kelton, whose Texas-based novels have won four Spur Awards; author and University of Texas literature professor Don Graham; Sara Ann Freed, senior editor at Mysterious Press and editor of the western line for M. Evans; English chairperson Fred Erisman, a specialist in popular American literature and culture; and Don Edwards, cowboy and professional singer who has researched the origin of cowboy music.

Edwards will present the workshop's opening program, "Music of the Trail Drives," June 9 at 7 p.m. at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine. The classic trail drive movie "Red River," starring John Wayne, will be shown at 8 p.m., followed by a reception and autograph party with the participating authors and faculty. Cost for attending these events only is $15; cost for all events is $45.

Fred will begin the daylong session June 10 at 9 a.m. in Moudy Building Room 141N; Kelton will give two talks--"Images of the Trail Drive in Literature" and "Stereotypes in the Western Novel." Graham will talk about "The Myth of the Trail Drive" and "Plot and Structure in the Novel," and Freed will answer the question "Would a Trail Drive Novel Sell in New York Today?" A panel discussion with Kelton, Graham and Freed will conclude the program, which is sponsored by Chisholm Trail Round-Up Association, TCU Press, TCU and the Office of Extended Education. Pre-registration is required. More information is available from the extended education office, Box 32972, Ext. 7130.

BIOLOGY CONFERENCE ATTRACTS NATIONAL SPEAKERS

National figures in developmental biology, including Pere Alberch, Gary Freeman, William Jeffery, Stuart Kauffman, Elizabeth Lord and Rudolf Raff, discussed the role embryology plays in evolution at the Southwestern Developmental Biology Conference last weekend at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

The meeting, titled "Embryology and Evolution," was sponsored by TCU, the National Science Foundation and the Society for Developmental Biology. Rudy Brun organized the event, and Dean John Mangieri gave the welcoming address. Topics included mechanisms of radical evolutionary change in early development, evolution of genetic regulatory networks and plant organogenesis. Twenty-one presentations were made by researchers from Harvard, University of Texas at Austin, University of California-Riverside, M.D. Anderson Cancer Center, Texas A&M and University of Oklahoma, among others.

JUST A REMINDER...

...that among important spring activities on campus will be the service recognition award/retirement program, combined for the second year, April 26. Details will be announced later.

Other events of the week, described in the International and National categories, will be listed in this week's calendar.

NEELEY SCHOOL'S VISITORS BOARD TO MEET

Reviewing programs and goals of the M.J. Neeley School of Business and then making recommendations for improvement will be major responsibilities of the National Board of Visitors during its first annual spring meeting on campus Friday and Saturday.

The involvement and input of business community leaders is considered an integral part of business education at TCU, according to Dean Kirk Downey. The 13-member board was organized in late 1988 in an effort to keep the lines of communication open between the business school and leaders in the field. Members of the board represent both local and national leaders recognized for their exceptional stature in fields relevant to the mission of the business school.

Serving as board chairperson is TCU alumnus and Fort Worth native Roger King, a senior vice president of PepsiCo in New York.

Other members of the National Board of Visitors include:

- R. Denny Alexander, CEO of R.D. Alexander and Company, an investment management organization in Fort Worth.
- L. William Alter, CEO of Alter Associates in New York City.
- Marco Bianci, executive vice president of Amerada Hess oil company in New York City.
- Darius W. Gaskins Jr., president and CEO of Burlington Northern Railroad in Fort Worth.
- Spencer Hays, executive chairperson of The Southwestern Company in Nashville, TN. Spencer is a TCU graduate and member of TCU's board of trustees.
- Lee W. Jennings, former managing partner and senior member of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Company's operating committee in Chicago. The TCU alumnus now is in charge of Jennings and Associates in Chicago, a specialized consulting firm.
- William H. Michero, chairperson of the board of TandyCrafts, Inc. in Fort Worth and a TCU alumnus.
- John V. Roach, chairperson and CEO of Tandy Corporation in Fort Worth. The TCU graduate also serves on the University's board of trustees.
- Frank Rossi, managing partner of Arthur Andersen & Company in Chicago.
- C.R. (Dick) Williams Jr., president and CEO of Navajo Life Insurance Agency in Houston and TCU alumnus.
- William Biggs (ex-officio member of board), audit manager of Coopers & Lybrand in Fort Worth and an alumnus of TCU.
- M.J. Neeley (honorary member of board), a major supporter of TCU and TCU trustee for whom the business school is named.

The board will meet twice a year, once in the spring and again in the fall.

GLASER WINS AWARD FOR INSTITUTE DESIGN

The National University Continuing Education Association has awarded Lewis Glaser the silver prize for his letterhead design for the TCU/Cliburn Competition Piano Institute.

Lewis based his design on the musical staff; the lines are a light purple, and a stylized grand piano anchors the right edge of the staff. Accompanying envelopes use the same design on the bottom edge.

NUCEA's marketing and promotion division will honor Lewis and other award winners at an April 16 breakfast in Salt Lake City.

HERE'S A CHANCE TO HELP

Students, faculty and staff--regardless of their construction abilities--will have a chance Saturday to make a lasting impact on at least one family's need.

That's the day a mission trip will be made to Waco to help build a home for an impoverished family. The trip is sponsored by University Ministries and the steering committee for Ministry with Greeks and is under the direction of University Ministries intern Bruce Fowlkes. The TCU contingent will be working with the Baylor chapter of the nonprofit Habitat for Humanity, an international organization, as well as with local and regional staff members of Habitat. Bruce said it is possible a Habitat for Humanity chapter will be organized at TCU.

To sign up for the trip, prospective builders should call University Ministries at Ext. 7830 or 7831 by tomorrow (Wednesday). Building skills are not a requirement, Bruce said. "There will be plenty of need for folks who can sweep and clean up, too."

The carpool caravan will leave from Old South Pancake House parking lot on University Drive at 7:30 a.m. April 1. Those interested in breakfast will meet at Old South an hour earlier. All travelers will share in the gasoline expenses, and everyone will be responsible for his/her meals. Return time will be 8:30 p.m. that day.

VAX TO PLAY WITH TCU JAZZ BANDS FRIDAY

Mike Vax, who played lead trumpet with the Stan Kenton Band and led the famed Dukes of Dixieland, will be guest star with TCU Jazz Ensembles for the Jazz and Concert Band Festival concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Admission is free with TCU ID, $3 for all others. Master of ceremonies for the evening will be Hugh Lampman, program director for Dallas Radio Station KJZY, 99.1 FM.

Vax, whose credentials also include tenures with Clark Terry's Big Band and the Glenn Miller and Jimmy Dorsey orchestras, will be featured on "Home to Emily," the theme from the old Bob Newhart Show, and on the love theme from "Superman." His solos also will include "Three Foxes" from the Maynard Ferguson Library and a new Hank Levy work, "Latin Intensity."

The TCU jazz groups, under the direction of Curt Wilson, also will perform Count Basie-style arrangements, Cole Porter's "Anything Goes," "Stella by Starlight" and "Julian," written for Julian (Cannonball) Adderly and featuring saxophonist Alan Burton, senior music education major from Fort Worth. Burton also will front a combo named "Two Much Sax."

Vax, now a San Francisco teacher/clinician whose TCU appearance was arranged through the Schilke Company, will join three other musicians in judging the 24 bands entered in festival competition Friday and Saturday. Other adjudicators will be Bill McFarland of Manhattan, KS, executive director of the National Association of Jazz Educators; Sam Trimble, director of jazz studies at the University of Texas-El Paso; and Bill Snodgrass, director of jazz studies at the University of Texas-Arlington.

Jazz bands taking part in the competition will be from Alto High School, Carroll High School of Southlake, A&M Consolidated High School in College Station, Anderson high of Austin, Brewer of White Settlement, Jefferson of Dallas, Marcus high of Flower Mound, Richardson high, Wylie high, Eastern Hills of Fort Worth, R.L. Turner of Carrollton, Coppell high and Sam Houston, Lamar and Martin high schools of Arlington. Jesuit College Prep of Dallas will send two jazz bands. Northwest High School of Justin, Brewer Middle School and South Grand Prairie high each will send concert and jazz bands, and Cushing High School will be represented by a concert band.

ECONOMIST TO VISIT TCU TOMORROW

Faculty and staff are invited to a reception tomorrow (Wednesday) for economist John Rutledge, chairperson of the board of Claremont Institute in California.

Rutledge will be the keynote speaker at the Tandy American Enterprise Center Luncheon to be held downtown. He will then be brought to campus for a 2:30 p.m. reception followed by a brief presentation in room 325 of Tandy Hall.

From 1977 to 1981 Rutledge worked in the Treasury Department under William Simon and was a member of President Reagan's transition team in 1981.

PHONOTHON SETS NEW FUND-RAISING RECORD

More than 4,800 TCU alumni, parents and friends responded to calls from more than 300 students to add up to a record-setting 1989 TCU Student National Phonothon.

Pledges totaling $237,928 were received during the 18 nights of the phonothon, which ended March 9. The total represents the most dollars pledged in the 13-year history of efforts and surpasses the old mark set in 1987 by more than $9,300, according to David Boggan, development officer who coordinated the effort.

"We are extremely pleased with the results and with the participation level by both donors and student callers," said phonothon chairperson Brian Hoesterey, senior accounting major from Dallas. "The excitement and the competition among groups during the evening calling sessions was tremendous. I think that is reflected in the final totals."

For the second consecutive year, Army ROTC was the leader among 20 campus groups participating in phonothon. The ROTC callers raised $29,620 in pledges. Delta Sigma Pi, business honor organization, finished second with $24,910.

John Rodenberg, senior religion major from Fairfax Station, VA, was the leading individual caller, raising $15,470. Rodenberg represented the University Ministries Scholarship Committee, the organization that finished third in group calling. Other top individual callers were Joel Fox of Delta Sigma Pi; Karen Metscher, Army ROTC; Dirk Plante, Army ROTC; and Tim Edmonds, Lambda Chi Alpha.

Included in the grand total was more than $74,000 from individuals who did not make gifts to TCU last year. All gifts pledged during the phonothon will benefit the Annual Fund for TCU, budget-supporting dollars designated for specific University programs and for unrestricted general use.

"I want to thank everyone who participated on both ends of the more than 16,000 conversations that took place during phonothon," said Brian. "The results of those conversations will be of great benefit to our University."

BEHNKE LISTED IN TOP AUTHORS

Ralph Behnke of speech communication is among persons listed in Top Published Authors in Communication Studies 1915-1985, according to the January issue of the Association for Communication Administration bulletin. Primary journals in the communication studies field were the target publications for the scholars' rankings, and the total number of published articles during the 71-year span was 17,825.

The survey included the top 99 authors, representing less than 1 percent of all those cited in the Index to Journals in Communication Studies Through 1985. Their total of 2,414 articles was almost 14 percent of the Index listing.

Ralph, who earned the Ph.D. degree in 1966 at the University of Kansas, ranked 51st with 21 articles to his credit.

BODYCOMB M.F.A. SHOW STARTS MONDAY

Paintings reminiscent of prehistoric scrolling will make up the April 3-8 graduate thesis exhibition of Master of Fine Arts candidate Rosalyn Dias Bodycomb of Fort Worth. Her recent works will be on view from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1-4 p.m. Saturday in Moudy Building Exhibition Hall. Opening reception for the artist will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday.

The paintings combine sand, gesso, dried grass and sticks with multiple layers of transparent paint to create imagery which harks back to prehistoric scrolling on a bronze-like surface. Her work has been shown in juried exhibitions around the nation and is included in the collections of Fort Worth's Overton Park Bank buildings on Hulen and in Ridglea, corporate offices of Pier 1 Imports, Angelius Advertising and Conly Color.

Originally from California, Rosalyn received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in printmaking as a Nordan Scholar here in 1985. In 1987 she was awarded a departmental assistantship for graduate study in painting, and last year she received both a Fort Worth Business Women's Association scholarship and a Liquitex Materials award sponsored by Binney and Smith, Inc.

GANS VOICE RECITAL IS MONDAY

Soprano Judith Gans will present a vocal recital, accompanied by pianist Judy Martyn Boehm, at 8 p.m. April 3 in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

She will open her program with Vade, ma dove? by Mozart, followed by Handel's E pur cosi in un giorno and the aria Plangero la sorte mia from Handel's opera "Giulio Cesare." She also will perform "Frauenliebe und Leben," Op. 42, written by Schumann in his "song year," 1840, when he wrote a profusion of songs in his joy at finally being married to his beloved Clara Wieck.

After intermission Judith will sing three songs by Hahn and will be joined in Arthur Shepherd's Triptych for High Voice and String Quartet by violinists Jeff Cox and Patty Purcell, violist Tom Demer and cellist Harriet Risk Woldt.

WALL STREET WEEK PANELIST TO VISIT

The business school will host stock market analyst Bernadette B. Murphy as its executive-in-residence Thursday and Friday. Murphy works for M. Kimelman & Company, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and is a regular panelist on Louis Rukeyser's weekly Wall Street Week program.

Murphy's visit will include meetings with various business classes and professors and a luncheon with securities and investment executives in the Fort Worth area.

The executive-in-residence program is funded by the David L. Tandy Foundation in an effort to bring business leaders nationwide to TCU to interact with students, faculty and members of the local business community.

BIOLOGIST'S COAST ECOLOGY BOOK PUBLISHED

"Shore Ecology of the Gulf of Mexico," an extensive examination of the Gulf coast's many habitats written by biologist Joseph Britton and University of Hong Kong zoologist Brian Morton, will be published this June by University of Texas Press.

"This is a landmark publication in the marine biology of the Gulf of Mexico," said Robert McMahon, professor of biology at the University of Texas at Arlington. He noted that the oceanography, biology and ecology of the western Gulf of Mexico shores had not been examined before in a single treatment.

Designed for the interested layman, the book is more extensive than a field guide in its exploration of nine major habitats along the coast, from west of the Mississippi delta in Louisiana to Mexico's Yucatan peninsula. "People go down to the coast and see a lot of sand and think there's not much there, but there's actually a large variety of habitats," Joe said. While sandy beaches are the dominant habitat of the entire Gulf of Mexico coast region, the Texas coast also contains hypersaline lagoons, whose salt content is greater than the Gulf's; rock jetties, an artificial habitat that didn't exist 100 years ago; mangrove stands; and bays.

The authors also discuss changes in flora and fauna that result from differences in climate, shore geology and precipitation patterns. More than 1,000 plant and animal species are discussed to give a virtually complete picture of western Gulf coast ecosystems. Line drawings and photographs of 800 species accompany the text.

AIDS PROGRAM TO FEATURE VICTIMS, HELPERS

A nurse involved in treatment of AIDS, an organizer of support services for AIDS patients and four people with AIDS will speak at an April 5 presentation on AIDS. Sponsored by 34 student groups, the free program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom.

"We want to educate TCU students about one of the most controversial and pressing issues of the '80s and to dispel the myth that the disease does not affect us," said student Jim Werth, a junior psychology major who helped organize the event.

The evening's participants include Pete Rodriguez, nurse in charge of outpatient services for the Infectious Disease Clinic at John Peter Smith Hospital. He will talk about current trends in treatment for AIDS and about his philosophies in working with AIDS patients.

Tina Martin, coordinator of volunteer services for the Community Outreach Center, will give an overview of AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) and discuss international aspects and implications of the disease. She will comment on recent statistics and attempt to dispel some of the myths about AIDS. The Community Outreach Center is Tarrant County's primary organization providing services to people affected by AIDS.

In addition four people who have AIDS will talk about their experiences and how AIDS has affected them socially, physically and emotionally. A question-and-answer session will follow the program.

NOTES ON FOLKS

MARK THISTLETHWAITE (art and art history) recently presented the Robert Wright Lecture in visual arts at Austin College. His topic was "The Objective Eye?: Critical Dimensions in Art History."

A review of Susan C. Cook's Opera for a New Republic: The "Zeitopern" of Krenek, Weill, and Hindemith by JOE LAW (English/Writing Center) appeared in the winter issue of Opera Quarterly.

Sympathy is extended to MARGARET McWHORTER (fashion and interior design) on the death of her mother in Kansas earlier this month.

CHRISTINA MURPHY (Writing Center) presented the paper, "Freud in the Writing Center: The Psychoanalytics of Tutoring Well," to the Texas Writing Centers Association that met recently in Austin.

STEVE SHERWOOD (English/Writing Center) read his short story, "Advice," to the Creative Writing Section of the Conference of College Teachers of English (CCTE) in Austin.

Sympathy is extended to BITA HALL COMPTON (emeritus, modern languages), whose sister-in-law Sarah Hall died March 8 in Tulsa, OK.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

During the last week in February, LARRY MARKLEY (Student Center) and LAURA PUCKETT (Student Activities) attended the National Association for Campus Activities (NACA) national convention in Nashville. Larry's role as the Commission for Student Development chairperson required numerous meetings involving the new structure of the NACA. He also moderated an educational session, "Career Transitions Into, Out of and Around Campus Activities." Laura presented a session, "Basics of Lecture Programming," coordinated the lecture showcase and coordinated the professional membership luncheon. They were accompanied by three students, JASON RIDDLE, JANET TREPKA and LAURIE TRAUTMAN.

BEN PROCTER (history) attended the annual meeting of the Texas State Historical Association at Lubbock March 2-4. He was a member of the nominating committee as well as the Fellow's Committee, which recognizes outstanding writers and historians.

In a winter visit to El Paso, EMMET SMITH (music) taught a day-long organ master class Feb. 18 for the El Paso chapter of the American Guild of Organists. Students came from universities in New Mexico and Texas. The next day he played the organ for morning worship services at El Paso's First Christian Church and performed an afternoon organ recital for a full house there.

Emmet took senior organ major JOHN HUTCHINSON of Odessa to New York March 12 to play a recital at Park Avenue Christian Church, where Emmet had a chance to renew friendships with several former TCU students, including some with sons or daughters now in school here.

DICK LANE, photo lab coordinator/teacher for art and journalism, was a visiting artist at Idaho State University in conjunction with a recent exhibition of his paintings.

Sympathy is extended to BARBARA BARNES (resource management), whose father Tom Shaw died March 18. Funeral services were conducted March 20 at Greenwood.

During February BETTE DYER (adjunct, music) taught at week-long international Suzuki festivals at the American Roosevelt Colegio in Lima, Peru, and at the International School, Nido de Aguilas, Santiago, Chile. She also taught at Wheaton College's mid-winter Suzuki workshop earlier this month.

Sympathy is extended to RON FLOWERS (religion studies), whose father, Paul Flowers, died in Tulsa, OK, following a lengthy illness. Funeral services were held March 18 in Tulsa.

Religion-studies faculty members took active roles in the Southwest Commission on Religious Studies meeting March 10-11 in Dallas. The commission is made up of area members of the Society of Biblical Literature, the American Academy of Religion, the Association for the Scientific Study of Religion and the American Schools of Oriental Research.

Sympathy is extended to GENE McCLUNEY (extended education); his mother died earlier this month.

TCU IN THE NEWS

"Peacemaker and warrior, Ramses legendary in his time and ours" was the Star-Telegram headline for the March 5 feature story that quoted GENE McCLUNEY (anthropology). In describing Ramses' list of contributions as "so numerous and so total," Gene called the stabilizing of Egypt the most important. "He brought back order from the rather chaotic end of the 18th dynasty...I think that Ramses II as a leader was probably what we could consider the total pharaoh," Gene added.

"Mayor takes his message to school" was the headline in the Star-Telegram EXTRA on March 8-9 for the feature about Lily B. Clayton Elementary School students conducting an interview with Mayor Bob Bolen. The second graders' news conference was part of their activities in publishing a newspaper in a project coordinated through TCU's chapter of Society of Professional Journalists, which is headed by senior LUCY CALVERT.

"What starts with an 'S' and ends with an 'E'?" was the Star-Telegram headline March 9 for a feature on the non-credit course in Scrabble offered through extended education. A doctoral student in English, instructor MAHALA YATES STRIPLING noted that the 1988 roster of Scrabble Players Clubs includes eight in Texas with clubs in Bedford and Dallas. The new non-credit course begins March 29.

Director BILL HEAD of criminal justice was a featured participant in a discussion of over-crowded jails and the use of boot-camp-like programs for prisoners for the March 11 "Spectrum" program on KXAS-TV.

Speedster RAYMOND STEWART won the 55-meter event in the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships in Indianapolis with a 6.07 time, which is the fastest time in the world this year. For the third time this season he won over second-place Leroy Burrell of Houston.

Journalism chairperson ANANTHA BABBILI was the subject of a page-long Conversations feature in the March 15 Star-Telegram. The story focused on his and his family's dedication to education from his early childhood in India.

The recent discussion of televangelism and the media by members of both groups was the subject of part of alumnus BUD KENNEDY's March 16 Star-Telegram column. The public event was sponsored by the TCU chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists and was moderated by TOMMY THOMASON, chapter adviser. The March 19 editorial column by Thomas Denton of the Star-Telegram also focused on the discussion. One of the four panelists, he noted that "with fair and proper reporting, the public will be able to determine whether their brothers and sisters in the electronic pulpit are equally forthcoming in adhering to their own professed standards of conduct."

Junior BECKY RODRIGUEZ of Uvalde was featured at work in the News Service as well as on campus in the KXAS-TV story on tuition increases at several independent institutions in Texas. The story aired March 14.

Marketing chairperson BILL MONCRIEF raised the question of the beer commercial "We're having a party" outrunning its usefulness in the Star-Telegram's March 19 business feature on the increased sales as a result of the Miller Lite campaign.

"Head of the class" was the headline for the feature story on historian BEN PROCTER in the March issue of FORT WORTH Magazine. Written by Cissy Stewart, the story offers proof via Ben--Phi Beta Kappa and former UT football record holder--that academics and athletics can mix. Ben was among those interviewed for the NBC Sunday News regarding the current investigation of Speaker Jim Wright.
