TCU REOPENS INSTITUTE OF BEHAVIORAL RESEARCH

Dr. Dwayne Simpson, director of the Behavioral Research Program at Texas A&M and former professor in TCU's Institute of Behavioral Research (IBR), will be returning to TCU this summer as director of IBR and professor of psychology. The institute, which will be housed in the Special Programs Building (the barracks in front of Tandy Hall where IBR formerly was located), will conduct research in drug abuse and AIDS intervention efforts.

"The impetus for opening the institute came from Chancellor Bill Tucker's address last spring to the Faculty Assembly," said John Mangieri, dean of graduate studies and research. In presenting his agenda for the 1990s, Tucker noted the "massive drop in extramural funds for contract research" that occurred when IBR lost its multi-year, multi-million dollar contract from the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) in 1982. The chancellor's goals for the 1990s included an expansion in organized research and an increase in the graduate presence in the University.

Two projects that Simpson and his team will research in the institute concern drugs in the workplace and AIDS intervention programs. Both are funded by NIDA. In the first, which Simpson said is probably the first of its kind, about 2,000 municipal employees in San Antonio will be surveyed about drug use in the workplace. One objective is to learn about workers' perceptions of the frequency of drug use and its effects on job performance and safety.

The second study is a demonstration project studying intervention efforts with those who practice AIDS-risky behaviors, such as sharing needles. A related study, awaiting funding, would develop innovative plans for improving intervention efforts, he said.

"IBR will conduct socially important research while enhancing other programs in the University," Simpson said. The institute will train graduate students in methodological, quantitative research and provide assistance to other researchers. "We want to see research flourish around us; we want to build natural bridges to those in the University with mutual interests," he said.

ARTS/COMMUNICATION DEAN COMING JULY 1

Dr. Robert P. Garwell, dean of the College of the Arts at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, will join the administration July 1 as dean of the College of Fine Arts and Communication. He replaces the retiring George Tade, who has headed TCU's fine arts program since 1973.

As dean at Wisconsin since 1982, Garwell has initiated and guided several innovative arts programs, including the Arts Honorary Scholar/Artist-in-Residence program, currently held by the Montclair String Quartet, and the College of the Arts interdisciplinary video development committee, which integrates the video production unit, computer graphics lab and electronic studio.

The Ohio native earned both the Bachelor of Fine Arts in music theory and composition and the Master of Fine Arts in music theory from Ohio University and the Doctor of Musical Arts degree in composition from the University of Oklahoma. He has taught and chaired the music department at the University of Science and Arts of Oklahoma and was assistant dean of the College of Fine Arts at Drake University and chairperson of its music department before accepting the deanship at Wisconsin, where he also is professor of music.

His compositions include the Overture, incidental music and choral settings for "Oedipus Rex"; Overture and incidental music for Beth Henley's "Crimes of the Heart"; Overture and incidental orchestra music for Moliere's "The Miser"; "Requiem for Rosebud," a two-act musical; "Love Lost," a cycle of jazz settings to the poetry of John Graves; and "Prelude," a short opera collage. The versatile composer also has created works for dancers, for choruses, for orchestras and symphonic bands, for bell choirs, trumpet and brass quartets.

Currently Garwell chairs a university/community committee to construct a $9 million, 1,500-seat multi-purpose auditorium adjacent to the Whitewater campus' Center of the Arts. During his tenure as head of the College of the Arts, there has been a 24 percent increase in the number of majors as well as a 20 percent increase in arts minors. He has instituted arts management and arts marketing/retailing minors. Garwell also initiated a $1.2 million renovation of Wisconsin's Center of the Arts to take care of health and energy concerns.

He is on the board of the International Council of Fine Arts Deans and also is active in the American Council for the Arts, Continuing Educational Professionals in Art and Design, Council for Advancement and Support of Education, National University Continuing Education Association and a number of music societies.

FREE HEARING CHECK TO BE HELD MAY 25

Millions of Americans suffer from some form of hearing loss. As the population ages, even more people will need hearing assistance.

In an effort to bring attention to this growing concern, TCU's Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic will offer a free hearing screening as part of its observance of Better Speech and Hearing Month.

The public screening is scheduled May 25 from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. The clinic is located at the corner of Stadium Drive and W. Cantey Street. Additional information is available by calling Ext. 7620.

AUTOGRAPH PARTY WILL BE MAY 24

Ernestine Sewell Linck and Joyce Gibson Roach will sign copies of their new book "Eats: A Folk History of Texas Foods" at an autograph party May 24 from 4 to 6 p.m. Jointly sponsored by TCU Press and the Black-eyed Pea Restaurant, the party will be at the restaurant at 4700 Camp Bowie Boulevard. The public is invited.

Linck says that for her writing "Eats" may be in part a guilt trip because she never learned to cook in the French manner. Her grandfather was the head chef at the Palace of Versailles, a man well past his prime when he came to Texas seeking adventure and settling on a ranch near Henrietta, where he was a cook for many years. Later he opened a restaurant in Dallas. His legacy to his granddaughter was a trunkful of French cookbooks. Linck herself is a former professor at the University of Texas at Arlington and has published widely on topics ranging from education to linguistics and from modern literature to Southwest life, literature and lore.

Roach's family food connections include a grandmother who was a Harvey Girl for the Fred Harvey restaurants, connected to the Santa Fe Railroad and known for fine food and incomparable coffee. Her mother, Ann, was renowned for her cakes and pies and was asked during the 1950s to supply them to a local Jacksboro cafe. In spite of a long line of family excellence in foods, the TCU alumna loves the gourmet quality of 7-11 stores--but she loves her mother's Texas foods best, if she had to choose.

"Eats," a folk history enlivened by illustrations, recipes, wise old sayings, verses from poems and songs and quotations from the famous and not-so-famous, was illustrated by Barbara Whitehead of Austin, who will also be available to sign copies of the book at the party.

BALLROOM TO BE SITE OF FORUM

The Student Center ballroom will be the site of tomorrow's (Wednesday) public forum on "National Welfare Reform: Implications for Texans." The noon to 1:30 p.m. luncheon event is sponsored by the Tarrant County United Way.

Featured on the program will be Robert A. Mosbacher Jr., president of the Mosbacher Energy Company of Houston. He also is chairperson of the Texas Board of Human Services and is a member of the United Way of America Government Relations Committee.

Information about after-deadline reservations, priced at $10 each, is available from the United Way office, 878-0000.

JUST A REMINDER...

...that the bulletin is now on its bi-weekly schedule for the summer. The next issue will be May 30, and material for that date is due in the News Service office, Sadler 321, by noon May 24.

SERVICES HELD FOR BONNE ENLOW

Funeral services were conducted May 10 in San Antonio for Bonne Enlow, emeritus professor who died May 7 at her home there. She had lived there since retiring in 1963 after 39 years as chairperson of the home economics department. She would have observed her 94th birthday May 9.

The Austin native joined the TCU faculty as instructor and department director in 1924 after earning the B.S. degree at College of Industrial Arts, now Texas Woman's University. She held the title of department head from 1943 to 1950 and then chairperson. She formerly had taught in high schools in Brady, San Angelo and Austin Junior High. She completed the master's degree at Columbia University in 1931.

Miss Enlow, active in University Christian Church while a Fort Worth resident and more recently in San Antonio's Central Christian Church, worked in the American Home Economics Association, Texas Home Economics Association and Texas State Nutrition Council.

On the occasion of her retirement, she was cited "for her quiet effectiveness and selfless service that inspired both students and colleagues...for her consecration to the task of making young hands skillful, young hearts mature, young lives meaningful...for her unswerving loyalty to a great cause."

There are no immediate survivors. Memorials are being made to TCU's Bonne Enlow Scholarship Fund.

TWO FROM TCU JOIN SPORTS HALL

Two former Horned Frog sports figures are among five persons inducted into the Fort Worth Sports Hall of Honor May 9. This year's inductees, the second group to be honored, include Lon Evans and Jim Swink.

A Fort Worth native, Lon was twice all-Southwest Conference as a guard for the Frogs in the 1930s. He played for the Green Bay Packers for five years and was chosen all-pro twice. An NFL referee for 10 years as well as an official for SWC and high school games, he later served as Tarrant County sheriff 23 years before retiring. He has been named to the TCU Hall of Fame, Packers Hall of Fame and Texas Football Hall of Fame.

Before earning his B.A. degree in 1957, Jim was named all-American as a running back in 1955-56 and academic all-American in 1954-55. He was runner-up for the Heisman Trophy in 1955 and was named Texas Amateur Athlete of the Year in 1955. Presented the SWC sportmanship award in 1956, he set season and career records for points scored and total yards gained that stood for 30 years. The orthopedic surgeon was the NCAA's Silver Anniversary honoree in 1982 and has been inducted into the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, Texas Sports Hall of Fame and TCU Sports Hall of Fame. He recently was presented the Frog o' Fame award by the TCU Alumni Association.

FOOTBALL TICKET DEADLINE IS MAY 31

May 31 is the deadline for faculty and staff members to pick up their football tickets for the 1989 season. Ticket order cards, included with recent pay checks, must be taken to the ticket office by individual faculty and staff members, according to ticket manager Tommy Love.

Price of tickets for the 1989 season is unchanged--$25 for one or $50 for two. Purchase price for one season ticket for a non-TCU person is $96 and for two persons $192 for the coming fall's six-game home schedule that opens Sept. 16 with Texas A&M. With their season ticket purchase, faculty and staff members receive an athletic card for free admission to at-home basketball and baseball games.

Other home games will be Southern Mississippi Sept. 27, Southern Methodist University on Sept. 30 for Parents Weekend, Arkansas Oct. 7, Air Force Academy on Oct. 21 for Homecoming and University of Houston on Nov. 4.

The ticket office in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

SPECIAL EVENTS SCHEDULE GETS BUSIER

Always a busy month with end-of-school activities, May also brings a growing number of non-TCU events on campus. Groups ranging in number from 15 to 1,000 have made reservations for activities this month, according to Use of Facilities director Debbie Jones.

Of international importance is the eighth Cliburn International Piano Competition May 27-June 11, of which TCU is a sponsor. All preliminary and semifinal concerts will be held in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Preliminary day and evening concerts will be performed May 27-31, with eight semifinal concerts June 2-6. Finals and the awards ceremony are at Tarrant County Convention Center Theatre.

The third TCU/Cliburn Competition Piano Institute will coincide with the competition. Twelve performers selected from around the world to take part in the institute include two with TCU connections--Jai Jeffryes, a post-graduate student of Steven De Groote, and Yanghee Kim of Australia, a student of Tamas Ungar who has taken a performance course here this spring. Alternates include Linda Banfy, who also studies here with Steven. The institute, which includes seminars and symposia on the business aspects of music and recording and perspectives on competition as well as piano master classes, is open for auditing. Information may be obtained by calling Extended Education at Ext. 7130.

Other activities beginning this week are advanced placement exams for Fort Worth Independent School District running through tomorrow (Wednesday), defensive driving classes May 20 and 27, Shakespeare in the Park rehearsals May 15-June 15, pre-conference meeting May 17 for National Resource Center for Youth, All Saints Episcopal Booster Club May 17-18, Texas Tech architectural review May 26-28 plus a large number of high school banquets. Stadium parking lots will be crowded this week with cars of sports fans attending the Southwestern Bell Colonial Golf Tournament through Sunday.

LYSIAK ACCEPTS REAPPOINTMENT

Richard Lysiak, member of the physics faculty since 1963, has accepted reappointment as chairperson of that department for a three-year term beginning in late August. Holder of three degrees from TCU and a bachelor's from the Aeronautics University of Chicago, he also was chairperson in 1969-78.

A senior aerosystems engineer before joining the faculty, Richard is active in the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, Quantum Electronics, Applications Society and a number of other professional organizations.

NEW ALUMNI GROUP PLANS EVENT

The initial event of the newly formed TCU Collin County Alumni Association is scheduled May 27 in Plano. Heritage Farmstead Museum will be the site of the informal party that will include entertainment by the Will Barnes Band. Collin County alumni and friends of TCU as well as parents of current students are on the invitation list.

The new organization is headed by Bill Harrell, Class of '69 member. Reservations, set at $14 per person, are due by May 24 in the alumni office.

FOUR SWIMMING, DIVING CAMPS SET

Four summer sessions of swimming and diving camps, each scheduled for two weeks, begin June 5. Registrations, $60 per session for the public and $55 for faculty and staff members, are being accepted now in the swimming and diving office, Ext. 7963.

Supervised by Coach Richard Sybesma, recently honored as the 1989 Southwest Conference Coach of the Year, "Learn to Swim the Olympic Way" will offer instruction from beginning lessons through advanced for persons age 4 and older. Groupings will be by ability, and an instructor will work with groups of no more than six swimmers.

Diving coach Scott Anderson, named 1989 SWC diving coach of the year, will head "Learn to Dive the Olympic Way." Lessons will emphasize correct fundamentals and techniques as well as springboard safety. The classes are open to persons age 6 and above.

Including eight 40-minute lessons, the Monday through Thursday sessions are planned for June 5-15, June 19-29, July 3-13 and July 17-27. Thursday classes will be open to parent observers.

WAREHOUSE, PUMPS CLOSE MAY 25-26

The physical plant warehouse and gasoline pumps will be closed all day May 25-26, due to annual inventory.

890 COMPLETE EARNED DEGREES

Eight hundred and 90 persons completed requirements for degrees this spring, and 161 of that total finished their baccalaureate degrees with academic honors. Three of 20 graduated summa cum laude--Judy Ellen Sherman Brodigan in elementary education, Andrea Kara Heitz in English/news-editorial and Leslie Kay Zodin in finance--maintained 4.0 grade-point averages throughout their collegiate careers.

Honors also included 59 magna cum laude and 82 cum laude.

Of the Class of '89 total, 750 were bachelor's degrees. The breakdown includes 198 in business, 24 in nursing, 61 in education, 299 in arts and sciences and 169 in fine arts and communication. Master's degrees totaled 108, and four Ph.D. degrees were awarded. Brite Divinity School awarded 28 degrees.

PROGRAM PRESENTS OPTIONS FOR ADULT STUDENTS

Adults who are at least 22 years old and would like to learn about educational opportunities at TCU are invited to a special College Night for Adults May 25 and again July 12. College Night will be from 6 to 7 p.m. in Student Center Room 202.

Opportunities that TCU offers adult students include academic credit for life experiences, a 45 percent tuition grant for part-time undergraduates and enrollment for up to 12 hours before seeking a degree.

Nationally more than six million adults study for college credit every year, according to a College Board survey. Adults now make up 45 percent of total enrollment nationwide, and that is expected to grow to 50 percent by the 1990s. At TCU, 13.7 percent of the undergraduate student body is 25 years of age or older.

Those unable to attend the sessions can schedule an appointment by calling Ext. 7130.

DUO PLAYING IN NATIONAL MEET

The Lady Frogs' doubles team of Tory Plunkett and Margot van Overloop received a bid to play in the doubles division of the NCAA Tournament being held this week at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

The pair posted a 14-3 record playing in the top position in Coach Roland Ingram's lineup. They recently were named to the SWC all-conference squad and currently are ranked 18th in the Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Rankings.

Tory is a product of the local prep ranks, graduating from Arlington's Lamar High School, while Margot hails from Leiderdorp, Netherlands.

RIDDLESBERGER IS NEW CHAIR

New chairperson of political science is associate professor Jim Riddlesberger, a TCU faculty member since 1982. Jim also serves as associate pre-law advisor.

A native of Denton, he received B.A. and M.A. degrees from North Texas State University before earning his Ph.D. from the University of Missouri. Jim is frequently called on by Metroplex media to comment on presidential politics.

COACH, PLAYER RECEIVE REGIONAL HONORS

Coach Tut Bartzen and senior Clinton Banducci have been honored by the Region (6) ITCA awards committee as the "Region (6) Wilson/Coach-of-the-Year" and the "Region (6) Volvo Tennis/Senior Player-of-the-Year." Each will be included in a select group of seven other regional award recipients to be considered for selection as the national honoree in their respective categories.

Tut was earlier commended for his 1989 coaching effort by being named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Year. His Horned Frog squad posted a 24-6 record, finishing as the conference regular season co-champions and winning the SWC tournament to end the regular season. The team will participate in the NCAA Team Championships beginning Friday in Athens, GA.

A native of South Africa, Clinton was named to the SWC all-conference team for his play at the No. 1 position in the Horned Frog lineup. He currently is ranked 36th in the Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Rankings after posting a 17-12 ledger in singles competition. He has combined with fellow senior Eric Lingg for a 19-7 doubles record and a number nine ranking in the national poll.

NOTES ON FOLKS

MAGDALENA SANCHEZ (history) presented a paper entitled "A Divided House: Spain, Austria, and the Bohemian and Hungarian Succession" at the annual meeting of the Society for Spanish and Portuguese Historical Studies. The April 21-23 meeting was held in St. Louis.

BILL WATSON (chemistry) had two articles in the latest issue of Acta Crystallographica; both were co-authored by postdoctoral fellow ANTE NAGL of Yugoslavia. One article describes a natural product (sesquiterpene lactone) isolated from plant material collected in Chile. The other describes a highly strained molecule that may have potential as fuel in a ram jet engine.

PEGGY MAYFIELD (nursing) gave a presentation to area registered nurses on "The Role of the Nurse in Teaching Prevention and Early Detection of Skin Cancers" at an American Cancer Society workshop April 21. She has a request for a repeat performance June 7. The month of May has been designated as Skin Cancer Awareness Month for the State of Texas.

In March Peggy attended a three-week course for professional nurses at M.D. Anderson Cancer Hospital in Houston. The focus of the classes and clinical practicum was on cancer prevention and detection.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

BILL BAIRD (Brite) recently presented the Parkhurst Lectures at Southwestern College in Winfield, KS. He also has been named a Senior Fellow of the Institute for the Advanced Study of Religion at the University of Chicago, where he will be on research leave during the next academic year.

DAVID W. CRAVENS' (marketing) article "Developing Marketing Strategies for Competitive Advantage" has been published in the Handbook of Business Strategy (1988/89 Yearbook) edited by Harold E. Glass.

Sympathy is extended to BOB HAUBOLD, former physical plant director whose mother, Myrtle Haubold, died May 7. Graveside services were conducted at Greenwood Memorial Park May 9.

DOUG HASTAD, ALAN LACY and JOEL MITCHELL (physical education) have had numerous publications this spring. Doug and Alan co-authored a book, "Measurement and Evaluation in Contemporary Physical Education," as well as two journal articles, "Measurement and Evaluation" and "Health-related Fitness: An Emerging Learning Domain in Physical Education," both of which appeared in Strategies: A Journal for Physical and Sport Educators.

Doug also is co-author of "Instructional Resource Materials Package for Ninth Edition of Dynamic Physical Education for Elementary School Children," and he has published a second edition of his book "Fitness in the Elementary Schools: A Teacher's Manual," which he co-wrote with Robert Pangrazi. Alan also is co-author of a chapter in "Analyzing Physical Education and Sport Instruction."

Joel is co-author of three articles appearing in Medicine and Science in Sports and Exercise, International Journal of Sports Medicine and Journal of Applied Physiology. The respective titles are "Influence of Sodium Bicarbonate Ingestion on Sprint Performance: Relationship to Dosage," "Effects of Reduced Training on Submaximal and Maximal Running Responses" and "Carbohydrate Balance in Competitive Runners During Successive Days of Training."
