Mr. Oscar E. Monnig.

My dear sir,

Sometime ago I received a letter and questionnaire from you concerning a fragment of meteorite I had previously sent you.

The letter was answered and the questionnaire accurately filled out according to instructions. Both were returned to you in the enclosed envelope.

This has been sometime ago, and I'm just wondering why I have not heard from you. I believe I am justified in jogging your memory, having allowed a decent interval of time to elapse before doing so.

Do not get the idea that I doubt your integrity. I do not. How do I know that you have not written? It would not be the first time mail has been lost.

If, however, you have not written me I would appreciate your doing so at your earliest convenience.

Assuring you of my continued friendliness,
I am

Very truly yours,

Edgar L. Bryson

P.S.

In the event you have written me while this letter is enroute, please wait for an answer.
