TCU AIMS FOR $69,916 UNITED WAY GOAL

A total of $69,916 is the University's goal for the 1987 United Way campaign, which begins this week and continues until Oct. 1. All faculty and staff members have opportunity to join together in assisting 56 non-profit human service organizations in their operation of 280 Tarrant County centers.

With a goal of $19,473,389 and a theme of "Love Makes the Difference," this year's Tarrant County fund drive is under the general chairmanship of alumnus/trustee John Roach, board chairman and chief executive officer of Tandy Corporation. Chancellor Bill Tucker is heading the five-part Public-Professional Group that includes more than 500 accounts in the areas of professional, educational, city/county/state, federal and health facilities as one of four major division leaders.

TCU's 1987 goal represents a 6 percent increase over the $65,016 contributed on campus last year.

Of every dollar given to United Way, more than 92 cents is used for services. The efforts of 15,000 volunteers keep operating costs low, to only 7.8 percent for fund-raising and year-round administrative costs. The need for services continues to grow. The number of Tarrant County residents has increased 22 percent in the last five years, and United Way agencies provided 69 percent more services last year than five years earlier.

Persons from TCU's faculty and staff play important roles as both volunteers and leaders on boards of organizations supported by United Way. For persons throughout Tarrant County and Burleson, a total 717,116 services were provided by UW-funded agencies last year. "When you, members of your family or friends are aided by these services, the meaning of United Way efforts becomes much more important to you," said Associate Vice Chancellor Larry Lauer, who coordinates the campus campaign.

Information materials and pledge cards will be distributed to unit heads this week. Pledge cards and/or contributions will be due in the vice chancellor's offices Oct. 1. As in the past, gifts can be made in one of three ways: payroll deduction, cash or check returned with the pledge card and a pledge with a request that the donor billed by the United Way.

Campaign operations will be coordinated by Ruth Hubler in the University relations office, Sadler Hall 312.

Special sections detailing United Way ties with on-campus persons will be featured in Sept. 22 and 29 issues of the Weekly Bulletin.

TCU AMONG UPS FOUNDATION RECIPIENTS

TCU is one of the 29 independent colleges and universities in Texas receiving grants totaling $55,100 from a $21 million education endowment fund established in 1979 by The UPS Foundation. Used primarily for scholarships and student aid, the grants were distributed through the Texas Independent College Fund, one of the 39 state and regional associations affiliated with the Independent College Funds of America, which administers the fund.

The UPS Foundation, primary charitable arm of United Parcel Service, has provided more than $6 million in scholarships and student aid since it was organized eight years ago. The more than $1 million generated by the fund this year will be distributed to 600 independent colleges and universities across the nation.

TCU, as well as Fort Worth neighbor institution Texas Wesleyan College, have received UPS awards for a number of years.

EXTENDED EDUCATION OFFERS WIDE VARIETY

Topics vary widely in the total 83 non-credit classes to be offered this fall by the Division of Extended Education. A number of the courses begin next week.

Classes offered in the arts and cultural area include calligraphy, graphic arts production, ceramics and a study of major world religions. Business and professional classes will cover employee interviewing, estate planning and probate, investing in the stock market and the power of active listening.

Computer courses to be offered this fall include maintaining a personal computer, the basics of Word Perfect and beginning, intermediate and advanced classes in dBase III/III+, Lotus 1-2-3 and MS-DOS for IBM and compatibles.

New skills and hobbies will be introduced through classes in bridge, herbs, needlepoint, chess, sailing and Ukrainian egg decorating. Personal development classes include drug awareness for adults, adult children of alcoholics and assertiveness training. Physical education classes include ballet, ballroom dancing, body conditioning, racquetball, self-defense and swimming. Five youth programs also are being offered.

Additional information on these and other classes is available from the extended education office, Ext. 7130.

ALUMNI TRUSTEES OFFER $500,000 CHALLENGE

A $500,000 challenge to TCU alumni was announced at fall convocation Sept. 8 by Dee J. Kelly, Fort Worth attorney.

University alumni who serve on their alma mater's board of trustees have pledged to contribute a half million dollars for student financial aid if former students meet the challenge through new and increased gifts to the Annual Fund for TCU.

Primary goal of the $500,000 challenge is to assure adequate funding for student financial assistance programs. With more than 60 percent of TCU students requiring some amount of financial aid, the concern for much-needed scholarship help has been heightened by cutbacks in federal funds and in Texas' Tuition Equalization Grants to non-tax-supported institutions, according to Kelly, alumnus/trustee who held a scholarship while completing his baccalaureate degree at TCU.

This year the University will spend some $6.5 million from its own resources to assist undergraduate and graduate students. Only $3.2 million is available from endowment income, according to Kelly, head of the board of trustees' development committee who made the initial commitment to the new program.

"The remainder must come from undesignated income and gifts, particularly those made to TCU's Annual Fund," he said.

Terms of the new program also will encourage wide support of the University by its alumni. These include:

- Matching $2 for every $1 donated by an alumnus who has never contributed before;
- Matching $1 for every $1 from an alumnus who has contributed occasionally but not last year;
- Matching $1 for every $1 of increase from last year's donors;
- Matching $2 for every $1 if the alumnus moves to a higher donor recognition level in one of TCU's four donor organizations.

The Alumni Trustee Challenge also is designed to encourage gifts by classes planning reunion celebrations or anniversaries of their graduation this year. A gift of $10,000 will be made to the University's scholarship fund for each percentage point of increase in class members' giving.

To inaugurate the challenge fund, participating alumni trustees doubled their contributions to TCU's budget-supporting Annual Fund and made additional gifts, payable over the next three years, for endowment of scholarships and grants. Annual Fund gifts, according to Kelly, are due by the end of the current fiscal year on May 31, 1988.

PSYCHOLOGIST RECEIVES CHANCELLOR'S AWARD

Don Dansereau, director of the Institute for the Study of Cognitive Systems, was presented the 1987 Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Research and Creative Activity during fall convocation Sept. 8.

Endowed by a TCU couple who wish to remain anonymous, the $12,000 cash award in recognition of notable achievement in research or other creative work is intended to cover the variety of expenses the awardee feels will most enhance his/her contributions as a scholar. Given this year for the third time for research and creative activity, the honor is bestowed in alternate years for distinguished teaching.

Don, member of the psychology faculty since 1968, was selected by Chancellor Bill Tucker for the honor from among six faculty members recommended by nominating committees of their colleges. The other distinguished nominees were Grady McWhiney, AddRan College of Arts and Sciences; Larry Peters, Neeley School of Business; Cathy Collins, School of Education; Ralph Behnke, College of Fine Arts and Communication; and Carolyn Cagle, Harris College of Nursing.

Head of TCU's cognitive systems institute since 1974, Don has focused much of his research on cooperative learning strategies. One study, supported by a major grant from the Basic Research Division of the U.S. Army, sought to teach people to operate independently through better learning strategies and to improve their understanding of textbooks and manuals. An additional grant funded a project designed to help technical trainees acquire and use information more effectively. More recently he received a grant from the Army Research Institute to employ steps or substrategies he has used to enhance understanding and to recall information for a study of learning strategies geared to technical training. Extramural funding to support Don's research has totaled in excess of $1.6 million since he came to TCU.

Evaluations by colleagues across the nation were cited by Dr. Tucker in his announcement. "Don's research productivity is awesome," wrote one. "I am less impressed with the number of publications than with the fact that he has established an important and original line of inquiry which virtually did not exist before."

Studies based on Don's research have been widely detailed in such publications as Journal of Reading, Engineering Education, Frontiers in Education and Written Communication. He has more than 70 refereed publications to his credit.

A research assistant at Cornell Aeronautical Labs before coming to TCU, Don completed the bachelor's degree in industrial engineering at State University of New York at Buffalo, where he was honored as engineering student of the year in 1963. He held a fellowship while earning master's and Ph.D. degrees at Carnegie-Mellon University. Named an NCAA Scholar for accomplishments in academics and athletics as an undergraduate, he is active in the scientific honor society Sigma Xi as well as the Psychonomics Society and American Educational Research Association.

MANAGEMENT SPECIALIST TO SPEAK

"A Woman's Place: Management" is the title of a Sept. 22 seminar to be presented by Connie Sitterly, author and head of Fort Worth/Dallas-based Management Training Specialists. The three-hour program is designed to develop attitudes, skills and strategies to help ensure promotability and success; Sitterly also will address unique situations that women confront entering management.

The seminar will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. and costs $35. Details are available from extended education, Ext. 7130.

CADETS PLAN POW/MIA AWARENESS WEEK

Concern for the more than 2,000 Americans still missing from the Vietnam war has prompted Air Force ROTC cadets to hold POW/MIA Awareness Week, culminating in a 24-hour vigil Sept. 17-18 beside the flag pole. National POW/MIA Day is Sept. 19.

Throughout this week cadets will be selling POW bracelets and distributing information from a POW/MIA display in the Student Center lobby. A videotape on POW/MIAs also will be shown.

The vigil, to be held in front of Sadler Hall, will begin at 3 p.m. Thursday with formal ceremony. The entire corps will turn out for a raising of the U.S. and POW/MIA flags, and the cadets will present the City of Fort Worth a POW/MIA flag. Receiving the flag will be city councilman Estil Vance. Former POW Lt. Col. John Yuill will be a special guest at the ceremony and will talk briefly, said cadet Dan Hunt. Yuill was a member of the only B-52 crew returned intact after being shot down in Vietnam.

The cadets will end the vigil with retreat at 5 p.m. Friday. The vigil was extended by two hours so the flags would be lowered at the accustomed time. All faculty and staff are invited to attend both ceremonies.

BENEFIT MEETINGS NOW IN PROGRESS

Meetings to explain the expanded medical plan called "Benefit Bank" began yesterday (Monday) and will continue through Sept. 29. The sessions will provide details on the program that allows persons to pay for medical and child care expenses on a before-tax basis. Enrollment forms and worksheets will be provided at each meeting.

The schedule includes the following:

- Sept. 16: 10:30 a.m. and noon, Student Center #222
- Sept. 23: 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m., Student Center #222
- Sept. 24: 12:30 p.m. and 2 p.m., Student Center #205
- Sept. 29: 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m., Student Center #222

FORMER CHAIRMAN, DEAN RECEIVES HONOR

Warren Agee, former journalism department chairman and a Fort Worth resident for 40 years, has won the 1987 Distinguished Teaching Award of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi. Dean emeritus of the University of Georgia School of Journalism and Mass Communication, he will receive the award at the society's national convention in Chicago Nov. 11-14.

Warren will return to Fort Worth to speak at the TCU Journalism Exes breakfast Oct. 31 and participate in the 50th-year reunion of his TCU graduating class that weekend.

The native Texan retired June 30, exactly 50 years from the month when he graduated and began 11 years of service as a reporter for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. After heading the TCU department from 1950-58, Warren was journalism dean at West Virginia University, the University of Kansas and the University of Georgia; national executive officer of the journalism society; and TCU Evening College dean.

Since his 1969-75 tenure as Georgia dean, Warren has taught more than 4,000 students in international communication, news writing and editing and introductory mass communications. He also has lectured and conducted research during two Fulbright assignments to Portugal, written or revised eight textbook editions and a monograph and written a monthly press review column for The Quill magazine for five years.

Warren is past president of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication and the American Society of Journalism School Administrators. He served two terms on the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications and was chairman of its accrediting committee.

NEW RENT CAR AGREEMENT ANNOUNCED

TCU has negotiated a new auto rental agreement with Budget Rent A Car that will allow employees to rent vehicles, economy through full size, at a standard daily rate of $38.

Weekly rates will be computed at six times the daily rate, said Controller Larry Calloway. Gasoline is not included, and vehicles must be returned to the renting location. Budget credentials necessary to present to the rental agency can be picked up in the controller's office, Sadler Hall Room 103.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

An alumnus of Colby College and holder of three degrees from Texas A&M, JOSEPH PATRICK McCORMACK has joined the finance department as visiting assistant professor. He has been on the faculty at UT-Arlington since 1983. Such publications as Journal of Retailing and Journal of Futures Markets have included his studies.

VICKI SCEARSE of the School of Business has been promoted to associate director for graduate admissions and financial aid.

Because of numerous requests for photos and biographical information on faculty and staff members, the News Service endeavors to keep up-to-date photographs on hand. Sept. 23 has been set for the picture session, and photographer Linda Kaye will be available in Room 206 of the Student Center from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The photos are made at no cost to the individuals, who will be able to select the pose of their preference. The pictures are to be used for University-related purposes.

A number of persons, particularly new faculty and staff members, have no photos in their files. Many others need updating. "If we could run a page of some of the photos with out-of-date clothing styles as well as hair styles, we would have the largest turnout ever for this session," said News Service director Betty Knox.

SEPT. 20 SET FOR FIRST TENNIS EVENT

Sept. 20 is the date for the first tennis event involving faculty and staff members as well as students. Tennis coach Tut Bartzan initiated the idea for a monthly faculty/staff tennis gathering.

"With the finest tennis facility in the country located on our campus," Tut said, "why not use it to get better acquainted, play some good tennis and acquire some new friends with whom you may want to play at other times?"

The first event will begin at 4 p.m. at the Potishman Lard Tennis Center. A faculty/staff member will be teamed with a student player, who may be male or female. Participants may include varsity team members when they are in town. Though the monthly events will be informal, they will include a prize for high scorer and a drawing for a door prize for those who play half of the events scheduled this fall.

Reservations to take part are due Wednesday (tomorrow) and can be made by calling the tennis office, Ext. 7960. Cost of the challenge will be $2.50 per person to cover cost of court fees and balls.

FACULTY COLLOQUIUM SET MONDAY

The opening 1987-88 session of the Colloquium on Values and Public Policy will be at 3:30 p.m. Monday in Student Center Room 204. Mark Toulouse of Brite will present a paper on the religious contributions to American imperialism. Frank Reuter of history and Ralph Carter of political science will comment on the paper before the floor is opened for general discussion. All interested persons are welcome.

NOTES ON FOLKS

A 7-pound, 12-ounce daughter was born Sept. 7 to SUSAN EARLY, development information services director, and her husband, Dominick Ciccarelli. She has been named Catherine Anne.

LEE DANIEL (modern languages) was invited to New York City by Chicano dramatist Carlos Morton to review a production of Morton's new musical comedy, "Pancho Villa," and to continue his research of the dramatist's work. The Aug. 5-9 production was produced by the New York Shakespeare Festival Latino under the auspices of Joseph Papp. In October Lee will present a paper on Morton's play "Johnny Tenorio: Don Juan a la Chicana" for the South Central Modern Language Association, and the results of an earlier interview with Morton will appear in Latin American Theatre Review. Lee also has been asked by Morton to edit a volume of his plays.

TCU JAZZ ENSEMBLE played for the grand opening of Town Center at 2 p.m. Saturday. The ensemble's newest album, "Zanzibar," is on sale in the bookstore for $6.

MARY ANNE GORMAN (nutrition and dietetics) has received notification that her paper, "Effects of Animal and Plant Protein Containing Diets on Gallstone Formation and Serum and Biliary Constituents in Male and Female Mice," presented at the 78th annual meeting of the American Oil Chemists' Society in New Orleans, has been selected as an Outstanding Technical Paper by the society.

Paintings by RON WATSON (art) and James Kuiper, director of the San Antonio Art Institute, are on view through Sept. 17 at Harris Gallery in Houston. Ron attended the opening reception for the show on Aug. 29.

The French Ministry of Culture will include a French language version of a paper by DICK WAITS and ED McNERTNEY under the title "Evaluer l'heritage artistique." The volume is entitled "Les outils de l'economiste a l'epreuve" and includes other works on the subject of the economies of cultural activities.

HARRELL BOSARGE (M.M.Ed. '83), late of Red and the Red Hots, opens on a new bandstand in September--playing drums for the Woody Herman band. He will join Herman's U.S.A. tour in Portland, OR. Harrell, a graduate of Kansas State, has been a graduate assistant in band here and was a percussion instructor last year.

RUTH WHITLOCK (music) presented an in-service workshop for secondary school choral directors in the Irving Independent School District on the subject "Pitch, Rhythm and Audiation." On July 30, Ruth and LOIS LAND (adjunct, music) were honored at a large reception hosted by Hinshaw Publishing Company, publishers of their new choral textbook "Sing!", which is to be released in January. The reception was held in San Antonio during the Texas Choral Directors Association convention.

ART BERLINER (social work) presented an Aug. 31 workshop to nutritionists of the Fort Worth and Tarrant County health departments. The topic concerned developing "Interviewing Skills with Hard-to-Reach Clients."

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

HARRIET RISK WOLDT (music) completed a summer of activity in early music by teaching at an Aug. 16-23 workshop for the Viola da Gamba Society-West at the Cate School near Santa Barbara, CA. In addition to coaching and teaching a variety of classes, she participated in a faculty recital. On Aug. 26 Harriet presented an inservice clinic on teaching cello for string teachers of the Fort Worth Independent School District at Eastern Hills High School.

An article by DAVID VANDERWERKEN (English) entitled "On the Teaching of American Sport Literature" is included in the annual CCTE Studies.

"Basic Conversational Spanish," a book by LEE DANIEL (modern languages), was published in July by Kendall/Hunt Publishing Co. of Dubuque, IA.

It's been a busy summer for DAVID POLK (Brite), who started in May by participating in an International Conference on Process, Peace and Human Rights in Kyoto, Japan, reading a paper on "Christology: Empowering Victims of Sexual Abuse." In June he served as Bible lecturer for the Ecumenical Missions Conference at Mount Sequoyah in Fayetteville, AR, delivering four lectures on the topic "The Rainbow of Shalom." From July 8 to 16 he delivered lectures on "A Process Theology of Stewardship" for the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. at its Commission on Stewardship's back-to-back events, Colloquy for Theological Educators and Educational Event for Stewardship Leaders, at Stony Point, NY.

JAMES LINK (ranch management) became president of Fort Worth Farm and Ranch Club in August.

ARDEN HOPKIN (music) spent the summer in northern Michigan as the director of opera at the Bay View Music Festival. During the eight-week festival, which was his fifth season as opera director, he produced and directed "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart and a chamber opera by Mozart, "The Impresario." Two TCU students, senior PATRICIA HELVEY and sophomore JIMMY TAYLOR, attended and took principal roles in the operas. Arden also performed the role of Harold Hill in the festival's production of "The Music Man."

RHONDA KEEN PAYNE (nursing) traveled to Edinburgh this summer to present a paper with Mary Lou Bond of the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences. They presented findings of a replication study entitled "Nurse-Patient Relationships in a Hospital Maternity Service: 1956-1987." The two were recently awarded a grant from the Edna Gladney Foundation to expand the study to an alternate population of pregnant women in a maternity home.

Two articles by DONALD FRISCHMANN (modern languages) have been accepted for publication. "Towards a Theoretical Model for the Study of Popular Theatre in Mexico" will be included in a special issue of Revista Iberoamericana (University of Pittsburgh) dedicated entirely to selected essays on recent Latin American theatre. Don's essay "Mexico 1986: Dramaturgia Nacional, Tandas y Festival Chicano" will appear as the section on Mexico in Latin American Theatre Critical Yearbook: 1986, to be published this fall by Girol Books of Canada.

BALLET MASTER TO TEACH HERE

Michael Gleason, former dancer with San Francisco Opera Ballet, Metropolitan Opera Ballet and Cleveland Ballet, is beginning a month-long series of ballet master classes on campus this week. He also will set an Oriental dance on students here for inclusion in the fall dance concert Oct. 23-25.

Gleason, who is associated with Dallas Ballet and is married to its principal dancer, Tauna Hunter, will teach intermediate master classes from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Mondays and advanced classes from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Thursdays through Oct. 8 in the Ballet Building. Observers are welcome, said ballet and modern dance chair Stephanie Woods, and intermediate and advanced dancers may call the dance department and make reservations to take classes with the instructor's approval.

A former ballet student of Eugene Loring of Los Angeles, William Griffith of New York and Anatole Vilzak of San Francisco, Gleason has been ballet master for the Oakland Metro Ballet and Pacific Ballet Theatre. He also served as stage manager for Los Angeles Dance Theatre and has handled lighting and costume design for several theatre/dance productions nationwide.
