FUNDING WILL LAUNCH DRUG ABUSE PROGRAMS

The Department of Education's Fund for the Improvement of Post Secondary Education has awarded a $63,294 grant to TCU's Alcohol and Drug Education Program, announced Don Mills, assistant vice chancellor for student affairs. Plans for the grant money, which will be supplemented by TCU funds, include a general assessment of attitudes and usage patterns among the student body, a resource library, educational programs and an innovative program of training natural helpers to assist students with abuse problems.

"Most students with abuse problems are not going to go to authority figures for help," explained program adviser Lori Weiss. "There are people, though, that others naturally gravitate to--other students, faculty and staff." These natural helpers, however, may not know how to recognize a drug or alcohol problem; even if they do, they may not know what advice to give.

With training, natural helpers can be effective in detecting problems and directing the student to appropriate help, Don said. "There are predictable patterns in drug abuse, and general training is appropriate for the early stage," he added. "We want to be sure there are people across campus who can get a student with a problem to the professional."

Based on a model developed by the Fort Worth Independent School District, the natural helper system has not been tried before on a college campus. To identify natural helpers, the program will go directly to students to find out to whom they would go if they had a problem.

Assessing attitudes and usage will give administrators their first scientific measure of drug and alcohol use on campus. "We're going to know a lot more in a relatively short period of time," Don said, adding that there is no reason to suspect TCU's statistics will vary significantly from those of most campuses. Of particular interest will be the attitudes of those who don't use drugs. "If students don't use drugs but their attitude toward those who do is laissez faire, then we'd like to assist them in seeing that drug use is harmful," he said. "Peer influence can be positive as well as negative; it can encourage responsibility."

ALCOHOL (continued)

A third aspect of the program is expansion of educational programming and creation of a resource center with current journal issues, videotapes, films and articles. Seminars in residence halls, classroom speakers and formal programs with national authorities are key elements of the education program, which extends beyond providing statistics and facts about the effects of drug abuse.

"Teaching students decision-making skills and coping skills is an important goal of what we offer students," Lori said. "Students often take drugs as a relief from stress or as an escape from not feeling good about themselves."

To accomplish these goals, the program will increase its staff. A program coordinator will be hired for the length of the two-year grant, and TCU will add a permanent part-time research assistant. Because the grant will cover start-up costs, Don said, he and Lori expect to continue much of the research, educational programming and the natural helper network on a permanent basis.

LETTERMEN HONOR FOUR RECORD MAKERS

Four former athletes whose names appear in Horned Frog records were installed in the TCU Lettermen's Hall of Fame last week and were introduced at the Saturday game with Arkansas. Joining the list of 91 others enshrined over the years are Charles "Sonny" Campbell, Charles "Buddy" Iles, Jeff Newman and John "Connie" Sparks.

As a 6-2, 196-pound end, Campbell led in pass receiving from 1964 through 1966 and was co-captain in 1966. Still third on the all-time career pass receiving list with 100 receptions, he has a 1,381 career pass receiving yardage record that still ranks fourth on the all-time Purple list.

Iles was in the national spotlight in 1961 when his catch of a 50-yard pass from Sonny Gibbs cost the Texas Longhorns a national title when the Frogs won 6-0 in Austin. Leader in pass receiving in 1960 and 1961 and now listed 10th for all-time receptions, he captained the team in 1961 and played on the Frogs' 1959 Bluebonnet Bowl team. He also lettered two years in baseball.

A standout third baseman and catcher for the Frog baseball team, Newman was all-Southwest Conference and third team all-America selection at third base in 1968 and an all-SWC catcher the following year. His 21 home runs rank fourth in TCU record books. He played with the Oakland Athletics in 1976-1982 and represented the A's in the 1982 Major League All-star Game. He played for the Boston Red Sox in 1983-84.

Sparks, a standout as fullback during his sophomore season on the undefeated 1938 national championship team, scored the first touchdown in the Frogs' 15-7 Sugar Bowl win over Carnegie Tech in 1939. Honored as an all-SWC performer in 1938, he lettered in football and basketball in 1939 and '40. His 11 touchdowns in 1938 hold seventh place in all-time single season scoring. The 30-year Air Force veteran saw extensive duty in World War II and later coached on championship service teams in the 1950s and '60s.

ORGANIZATIONAL SPECIALIST TO SPEAK OCT. 12

Dr. George Huber, an expert in organizational behavior, will be Visiting Green Professor next week; he will present a public program on "The Effect of Information Technology on Organization Design and Decision Making" Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. in Lecture Hall 1 of the Sid Richardson Building.

Hosted by the business school, Dr. Huber also will share his first-hand knowledge of business organizations with management classes during the week. The Fondren Foundation Chaired Professor of Business at the University of Texas in Austin, he is author or co-author of three books, including "Human Behavior in Organizations" and "Managerial Decision Making."

Dr. Huber also has been involved with articles published in more than 60 refereed journals and other professional publications and has served as full-time consultant for the U.S. Department of Labor in Washington, DC, and for Execucom Systems Corporation in Austin. He currently is on the editorial boards of Communication Review and Academy of Management Review.

An alumnus of the University of Missouri, Dr. Huber earned his doctoral degree from Purdue University in 1966. He taught at University of Wisconsin in 1965-83 and was a visiting professor at University of California-Irvine and University of British Columbia.

ADAPTED PHYSICAL EDUCATION PROGRAM OFFERED

Improving the motor skill development and sport skills of children with special learning needs is the purpose of a six-week clinic offered by the physical education department. Open to children ages 4-12, the program will meet Saturday mornings Oct. 10-Nov. 14.

Participants will receive individualized instruction in physical fitness, fundamental motor skills, games and aquatics. Each participant will have a program developed to meet individual needs, said Jeff McCubbin of physical education. He will direct the clinic's instructors, who will be graduate and undergraduate students.

Cost of the program is $30; registration is limited and can be made by calling Ext. 7665.

AREA CAMPAIGNS NOW IN PROGRESS

Dallas, the Permian Basin and Houston are areas in which Annual Fund campaigns have early October beginnings. Gift requests will be made for student financial aid, instructional assistance, athletics, research and graduate education in each drive toward the $3.3 million budget-supporting total for this year.

Headed by civic leader Deedie Potter Rose of the Class of 1963, the Dallas campaign began Oct. 1 with a goal of $195,000. Major divisions for the month-long effort are headed by alumni Nancy Doherty, Nick Encke, Roy and Cynthia Chappell Ferguson, Maurice Price Jr., Jay Barlow, Ken Kellam, Judy Abington and John Jackson. A committee of Judy Berry, Linda Robinson Berry and John Berry is heading the phonathon set for Oct. 29.

The annual Permian Basin campaign began Oct. 5 under the leadership of Jerry D. Collins, Class of '58 member who is employee relations supervisor with Shell Pipeline Corporation. Some 35 volunteers are seeking a goal of $108,187. Division managers are Keich Jung, Robert and Marion Frazier, all of Midland, and Richard Owens of Odessa. Chancellor Bill Tucker will be speaking tonight (Tuesday) for a gathering of alumni, parents of current students and friends of the University in Midland.

The Oct. 7-Nov. 7 drive in Houston will be headed by Rob Johnson, Class of '69 member who is president of Rob Johnson Interests. This year's goal is $180,000. Heading the divisions will be Jim Lindsey, Steve Schueler, Bill Swanson, Jim Monroe, Bob Walker and A. Lee McLain. The Parents' Club division will be headed by Mr. and Mrs. Jon Kirk and Mr. and Mrs. John Rascoe.

WORTH HILLS TO ACCEPT FILL DIRT

The contractors for Moncrief Hall, Tandy Hall and the channel improvements west of Amon Carter Stadium have been allowed to dump the excavated dirt on Worth Hills campus with the understanding that they will level the fill on completion. The contractor for the channel improvements also has agreed to cover the area with eight inches of top soil, according to Bob Haubold, physical plant director.

While no definite plans have been made for the future use of this land, it should be level enough to support recreational sports activities, Bob said.

TENNIS CENTER HOSTS PLAYDAY

Mary Potishman Lard Tennis Center is sponsoring a student-faculty tennis playday Oct. 11, rain or shine. Those interested in participating can sign up by calling the center at Ext. 7960. Players may indicate partners, and opponents will be matched according to skill level.

'GARDENS AND SACRED SITES' OPENS OCT. 13

Etchings and paintings based on English formal gardens will be on display Oct. 13 through Nov. 6 in Moudy Building Exhibition Hall. Titled "Gardens and Sacred Sites," the works are by Malinda Beeman of Houston, recipient of a 1987 $15,000 National Endowment for the Arts painting fellowship.

A member of the University of Houston faculty, Ms. Beeman will give an informal talk about her new etchings and paintings at 4 p.m. Oct. 20 in Moudy Building Room 132 North, followed by a reception from 5 to 7 p.m. in the exhibition hall. Hours of the show are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1-4 p.m. weekends.

Ms. Beeman is a graduate of California State University at San Diego with a master's degree from San Francisco Art Institute. She also has studied in Florence and London. Her works are a part of a number of Southwestern collections, including Texas American Bank/Fort Worth, and in recent years her paintings and etchings have been selected for the Houston Women's Art Caucus Exhibition in Los Angeles, Houston Drawing Show at the Museum of Fine Arts there, one-person shows at Houston galleries, the Miriam Perlman Gallery in Chicago and an invitational showing of Houston art in Norway.

SCHIZOPHRENIA TO BE PROGRAM TOPIC

"Victory over Schizophrenia...by One Who Has Been There" will be the topic Thursday evening for a lecture by Lionel Aldridge, former Green Bay Packer player who participated in Super Bowl I. The 7:30 p.m. program will be held in Lecture Hall 2 of the Sid Richardson Building.

The free presentation is sponsored by Harris College of Nursing, the Tarrant Alliance for the Mentally Ill and the Tarrant chapter of the Texas Society of Psychiatric Physicians as part of Mental Illness Awareness Week. Now in progress, the observance is designed to provide information, services and research for families attempting to cope with mental illness.

Aldridge, a defensive end during the Vince Lombardi era, will share his story of illness, loss of family, homelessness and his victory road to recovery. After nine seasons with the Packers and two in San Diego, he was a Milwaukee sports announcer before NBC asked him to do the NFL games and sportscast the 1977 Super Bowl. While his career was at its peak, his personal life began to spiral downward with voices, visions and paranoia. He sought therapy but avoided medication.

After he lost his job and his wife left him, Aldridge became one of the homeless street people. He spent time in Milwaukee County's Mental Health Complex. After a doctor explained that he got "short-changed" on brain chemicals, he was able to receive a treatment that led to his gradual recovery. Aldridge re-entered the job market sorting mail at a post office, moved to account supervisor and then returned to broadcasting sports at WIMJ, his former radio station. A feature last March in Parade Magazine brought his story to millions, and since then he has become a widely traveled speaker.

GERMAN ACCOUNTING PROFESSOR TO LECTURE

Faculty, staff and students are invited to attend a 3:45 p.m. accounting lecture today in Dan Rogers Hall 107. Dr. Adolf Coenenberg, a professor of business administration at the University of Augsburg in the Federal Republic of Germany, will discuss "Inflation Accounting."

Dr. Coenenberg, the American Accounting Association's Distinguished International Visiting Lecturer, will speak at various schools including University of Illinois, Carnegie-Mellon University and University of Pittsburg.

DRUG AWARENESS TOUTED IN BROAD PERSPECTIVE

Promoting drug awareness in the wider perspective of overall good health, the Alcohol and Drug Education Program, along with Responsibility of Alcohol and Drugs (ROAD) workers, is holding Health Enrichment Week Oct. 12-16.

The week will begin with a Kick Off Happy Hour with Chancellor Bill Tucker at 3:30-5 p.m. Oct. 12 in the Student Center lounge. TCU Food Service is co-sponsoring the gathering, and Chancellor Tucker will make remarks at 4 p.m.

A Health Enrichment Fair featuring visiting organizations with information on alcohol and other drugs, AIDS, nutrition and exercise will be held Oct. 13 in the Student Center lounge from noon to 3 p.m. Several VCRs and TV monitors will show videotapes on topics including cocaine and AIDS. Later that afternoon the first round of a volleyball tournament will be held; information on time and place for each round and the finals is available from the Recreational Sports Office.

Larry Ansley, a member of the Fort Worth Police Department's special operations squad, will present an abridged version of his drug training program to the Student Center Oct. 14 from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Ansley, who teaches his program at the police academy, will bring drug samples and paraphernalia as demonstration materials for his talk. That evening at 7, Jarvis Hall will stage the Wheel of Wellness Game, a question-and-answer session in game show format. Following the game in Jarvis' lobby, alcohol and drug education program adviser Lori Weiss will speak.

Watch out the morning of Oct. 15 as Fabjance, Comic Prince of Magic, uses his sleight-of-hand talent to subtly demonstrate the effects of alcohol--such as an inability to keep track of your wristwatch, jewelry, perhaps even your wallet. Fabjance will be roaming the Student Center and Reed-Sadler Mall area from 10:30 a.m. to noon, when he will give a stage performance in the Snack Bar.

An All-Campus Mixer, co-sponsored by TCU Food Service and Recreational Sports, will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Oct. 15 in the Rickel Building. In keeping with the week's theme, the refreshments will include fresh fruit, mocktails, mineral waters and other healthy treats. A deejay will spin records, and, as with all of the week's events, the entire campus is invited and admission is free. Since more events may be added to the week's schedule, additional information is available from the alcohol and drug education office, Ext. 7100, and posters will be displayed across campus.

GORE TO LECTURE ON ROCK LYRICS

Mary "Tipper" Gore, wife of presidential candidate Sen. Albert Gore, will speak on "Explicit Lyrics in Rock 'n' Roll Music" Oct. 13 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m.; admission is $1 with TCU ID. Tickets are available at the door and in advance beginning today (Tuesday) at the Student Center information desk.

Gore is a founder of Parents' Music Resource Center, which in 1985 initiated a system of warning labels to alert consumers to sexually explicit or violent lyrics in rock albums. While 22 recording companies agreed to comply with the guidelines, others saw the labeling campaign as a crusade against rock 'n' roll music.

The parent of four children, Gore has been an advocate of quality children's television programming through the Congressional Wives Task Force, of which she was chairperson in 1978-79. She also serves on the board of the Capitol Children's Museum and is a member of the American Academy of Pediatrics' Task Force on Children and TV.

During her husband's Senate race in 1984, Gore traveled throughout Tennessee to campaign for him. A free-lance photographer in the Washington, DC, area, she holds a master's degree in psychology from George Peabody College. Her frequent lectures on explicit lyrics have drawn national attention over the last several years.

JUST A REMINDER...

...of "Coffee with the Coaches" tomorrow (Wednesday) from 7:30 to 8:15 a.m. in the coliseum. The second of three such events planned for this fall, the gathering offers good fellowship in addition to coffee and doughnuts.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Two books reviews by ARTURO FLORES (modern languages and literatures) will appear in a forthcoming issue of Chasqui, Revista de Literatura Latinoamericana. Arturo reviews Nudos: Desnudos by Patricio Rios and El libro mayor de Violeta Parra.

Planned giving director BOB GARTMAN has been awarded a certificate in recognition of his completion of an 18-month program conducted by the National Planned Giving Institute. The comprehensive program of seminars on financial development for charitable institutions is under the auspices of Robert F. Shape and Company Inc. of Memphis. The week-long sessions were conducted both in Memphis and Colorado Springs.

DAVID BARKER (radio-TV-film) has been informed that his article, "'It's Been Real': Realism, Verisimilitude, and Forms of Television Representation," has been accepted for publication in the March 1988 issue of Critical Studies in Mass Communication.

Alumnus DAVID PATE, who was an all-American player as a Horned Frog, scored a victory for American tennis Sept. 27 when he defeated the No. 2 player in the world, Stefan Edberg of Sweden, to take the $315,000 Volvo Tennis-Los Angeles tourney. Ranked 19th in the world, David defeated the top seed in the tournament 6-4, 6-4.

SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) has a short analytical paper entitled "Quine's Revisionism: Re-entry into Immunity" published in the latest issue of Southwest Philosophical Studies.

Geologists NOWELL DONOVAN and JOHN BREYER led a field trip to the Slick Hills area north of Lawton, OK, Sept. 25-27. Taking part were 28 geology students ranging from freshmen to second-year graduate students and three other faculty, ART BUSBEY, DAVE LAMBERT and ART EHLMANN. The "popular" name for the hike is "Death March II."

GAIL DAVIS (nursing) recently completed a 14-month postdoctoral fellowship in clinical nursing research instrumentation at the University of Arizona. She returned to Tucson Sept. 17-18 to present a paper, "Development and Testing of an Instrument for Measuring the Chronic Pain Experience," at the university's 15th annual Nursing Research Conference.

BILL GRAHAM (physics) attended the 18th International Symposium on Free Radicals at Oxford University Sept. 7-11. He presented a paper entitled "Fourier Transform Infrared Spectroscopy of the C₂H₃ Vinyl Radical in Solid Argon." Co-authors were former Welch postdoctoral fellow RICHARD SHEPHERD and graduate student TIM DOYLE.

TCU JAZZ ENSEMBLES had a busy week last week. On Wednesday CURT WILSON (band) and the group performed an outdoor concert at the Old Spaghetti Warehouse. Friday they opened Parents' Weekend with their traditional noon session in the Student Center lounge, and Sunday afternoon they were featured at Oktoberfest.
