CITY JOINS CHAMBER, TCU AS WEEK'S SPONSOR

The City of Fort Worth is joining TCU and the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce for the first time in sponsoring the annual observance of TCU/Fort Worth Week, which begins Oct. 26. Inaugurated in 1968, the week is designed to call attention to the partnership of TCU and the city that has been its home since 1910. This year's series of events coincides with National Higher Education Week.

"Discover What We Share" is the theme for the activities that will begin with a downtown concert by the renowned Jazz Ensemble at noon Monday and concludes with a Nov. 1 performance by the widely acclaimed Concert Chorale in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Included within the week are Homecoming events, which will be detailed in next week's issue of the Bulletin.

During Oct. 26-30, speech pathology faculty and graduate students will answer questions on speech, language and hearing disorders over a speech/hearing hotline. The 921-7692 line will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

De Groote Recital Is Formal Opener

A recital by artist-in-residence Steven De Groote at 8 p.m. Oct. 26 in Ed Landreth Auditorium will formally open TCU/Fort Worth Week. Chancellor Bill Tucker will welcome the audience to the initial event.

Steven will open the concert with Haydn's Sonata in E-flat major, Hob. XVI/49, followed by Images, Vol. 2, by Debussy; Novellette in A major, Op. 21 No. 6 by Schumann; and Sonata in A minor, D. 845 by Schubert.

Gold medalist in the 1977 Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, Steven won the 1977 Young Concert Artists International Auditions in New York just before his Cliburn victory. He also made his acclaimed New York recital debut that same year.

He moved here as professor of music in the fall of 1986 and was named artist-in-residence early in 1987. In addition to teaching and his numerous recital and orchestral engagements in this country, Steven continues to tour Europe each year, appears in his South African homeland and also has performed in the Far East.

Jazz, Dance Go Downtown

TCU will take jazz and dance downtown for outdoor concerts during TCU/Fort Worth Week. The Jazz Ensemble, conducted by Curt Wilson, will perform the week's opening concert at noon Monday in General Worth Plaza, 9th and Main. The hour-long program is based on salutes to jazz greats Duke Ellington, Stan Kenton and Count Basie, including such favorites as "It Don't Mean A Thing (If It Ain't Got That Swing)," "One O'Clock Jump," "Intermission Riff," "April in Paris" and "Mood Indigo."

At noon Oct. 29, also in General Worth Plaza, ballet and modern dancers will present sections from their fall dance concert. Ranging from a jazz dance choreographed by Dian Clough West to the Louis Prima-Benny Goodman classic "Sing, Sing, Sing" to a classical ballet, "Con Brio," set by Thomas Enckell, the performance also will last an hour.

Dancers also will present a Victorian ballet, created by department chair Stephanie Woods, and "The Harper's Vision," choreographed by Susan Douglas Roberts to the Celtic music of a solo harp played by music faculty member Sydney Payne Wilson.

By-Invitation Events Set

Two by-invitation events are on the week's schedule. At 4:30 p.m. Monday, an initiation ceremony will be conducted for TCU's chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, the national honor society in education. A reception will follow.

Dr. Don Roberts, superintendent of the Fort Worth Independent School District, will be honored at an Oct. 28 reception hosted by TCU's Alumni Association and School of Education. Earlier this year Roberts was named superintendent-in-residence in education, a first-of-its-kind in the nation project established by the FWISD board and funded by the Sid Richardson Foundation.

Photographic Exhibit Opens Oct. 27

Large, haunting works by Dallas photographer Susan kae Grant will make up an extensive one-person exhibit Oct. 27-Nov. 24 in Student Center Gallery. Opening reception will be from 4 to 6 p.m. Oct. 27, with subsequent hours set for 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, 1-4 p.m. weekends.

Ms. Grant, an assistant professor of photography at Texas Woman's University, is one of Dallas' most prolific exhibitors and also is known nationally for her lectures and workshops on the art of homemade books. She creates the books from satin, cowhide and rabbit fur and fills them with her own photographs and with stream-of-consciousness prose. Her photographs are unconventional. Their inhabitants are zombie-like and often are posed against some of Dallas' least attractive backgrounds--junk yards, dump sites, broken-down houses, crumbling cement walls. She photographs just before dusk with powerful pink, blue and red-hued stage lights to achieve a theatrical effect.

Also on view during TCU/Fort Worth Week and through Nov. 6 are etchings and paintings by Houston artist Malinda Beeman in Moudy Building Exhibition Hall. Ms. Beeman will discuss the works, "Gardens and Sacred Sites," at 4 p.m. today (Tuesday) in Moudy Building Room 132 North; a reception with the artist will follow from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Exhibition Hall.

Clinic Hosts Health Fair Oct. 28

Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic will be the site for the Health Fair scheduled from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Oct. 28. Free and open to the public, the event is sponsored by Harris College of Nursing, Miller Clinic and the Department of Nutrition and Dietetics.

Areas for screenings, testings and consultations will include hypertension, blood pressure checkup and counseling, health risk inventory via computer, dental health care, height and weight measurements, hearing testing, cancer information. Important, too, will be advice and information on nutrition.

Human Development Specialist to Speak

Dr. Brent C. Miller, professor of family and human development at Utah State University, will give a public presentation Oct. 29. Nationally recognized for his expertise in the field of adolescent development, he will discuss "Teen-age Sexual Activity and Pregnancy" at a 5:30 p.m. program in Room 218 of the Student Center.

Sponsored by the Department of Family Studies and Home Economics, his visit is funded by a TCU Research Fund grant. Widely regarded as an authority on issues related to adolescent pregnancy, he is author of a number of published studies.

Prior to the 5:30 p.m. program, Dr. Miller will be honored at a reception in the living room of the Bass Building. The fete is set for 4 to 5 p.m.

Alumnus/Biomedical Engineer Will Be Guest

Dr. Joel L. Moake, Class of '63 member who is professor of medicine at Baylor College of Medicine, will present a public lecture Oct. 29 under sponsorship of Harris College of Nursing. "Czars, Bolsheviks and Blood-Clotting" will be his topic for the 7:30 p.m. event in the Student Center ballroom. A reception will follow.

Dr. Moake also serves as associate director of the Biomedical Engineering Laboratory at Rice University. The 1967 graduate of Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine formerly was associated with the National Cancer Institutes and in 1973-80 directed the hematology division of the University of Texas Medical School in Houston. He spent four years as chief of the hematology-hemostasis section of Boston Veterans Medical Center. During the last two years of that assignment, he also was professor of medicine and research professor of biochemistry at Boston University School of Medicine.

In his current position since 1984, Dr. Moake is author of 80 published studies in addition to more than 50 abstracts. He is recipient of major research grants from the American Heart Association, National Institutes of Health, Veterans Administration and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In 1980, he was selected as Eleanor Roosevelt International Cancer Fellow of the American Cancer Society and was named a Senior International Fellow by the National Institutes of Health. He has been honored for both his clinical and basic science teaching at the University of Texas Medical School in Houston.

Dr. Moake (continued)

Dr. Moake, a native of Gorman, is active in the American Society of Hematology, American Federation for Clinical Research and the Southern and American societies for clinical investigations.

A member of the Horned Frog baseball team in the early 1960s, Dr. Moake will speak Oct. 30 at the Century Club luncheon, the annual Homecoming gathering of members of the University's four gift clubs. The noon event will be in the Student Center ballroom.

Week Will Include Special Days

Three special days will be part of this year's TCU/Fort Worth Week observance. Two of these--Career Day and Christian Youth Fellowship Day--will be Oct. 31.

From 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. that day, art department alumni will talk with high school students, teachers and other interested persons about career opportunities in the field. The session will be in the Moudy Building.

Some 2,000 high school students and their sponsors representing Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico are expected for the annual Christian Youth Fellowship Day on campus. The participants will meet at the Rickel Building between noon and 2 p.m. and will be seated in a special section at the afternoon football game. A dance is scheduled that evening at University Christian Church.

For the first time in recent years, the week's activities include participation by Christian Churches in Fort Worth. Nov. 1 has been designated as Higher Education Sunday in Tarrant County, and a number of TCU-related persons will be filling pulpits. A special insert for that day's worship programs features a color photo of the University Drive sign with Sadler Hall in the background.

Chorale Performance to Close Week

A performance by the nationally acclaimed Concert Chorale, directed by Ron Shirey, on Nov. 1 will be the final event of this year's "town and gown" celebration. The free, public program by the 45-voice ensemble, heard at regional and national conventions of the American Choral Directors Association and Texas Music Educators' Association, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landret Auditorium.

UNIVERSITY COUNCIL TO MEET OCT. 26

Oct. 26 is the date for the next meeting of the University Council, beginning at 3:30 p.m. in Room 109 of Reed Hall. The agenda will include the proposed academic calendar and proposed revision of the student-initiated withdrawal policy.

AUTHOR TO SHARE STORY OF OVERCOMING BULIMIA

Cynthia Rowland, author of "The Monster Within" that chronicles her bout with the eating disorder bulimia, will present her story Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. Admission is free to the event, sponsored by Forums Committee, TCU Panhellenic and the Counseling Center.

Bulimia is characterized by compulsive overeating followed by self-induced vomiting. Ms. Rowland suffered from the disease secretly for 12 years and describes herself as having been addicted to dieting. She took diet pills, diuretics and laxatives. Near death in 1984, she decided to fight to overcome her problem. An award-winning television news reporter/anchorperson, Ms. Rowland now lectures across the country, primarily to teen-agers. Her inspirational talk encourages young people to overcome any problems they face.

WORD PROCESSING DEMONSTRATION SET

Representatives of WordPerfect Corporation will be on campus Oct. 30 to demonstrate their word processing software, WordPerfect. The sessions will be geared to those currently looking for a word processing package or those who are new users of WordPerfect. A question/answer session will follow for experienced users.

The sessions will be held in the Computer Center from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. Space limitations make reservations necessary. These can be made by calling Betty at Ext. 6830.

CROP WALK IS SUNDAY

The annual CROP Walk, sponsored by Tarrant Area Community of Churches, will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday at Amon Carter Stadium. The 10-kilometer (roughly six miles) walk winds through the scenic wooded area west of the campus and ends back at the stadium.

Sign-up blanks are available in the University Ministries office in the Student Center. Faculty, staff and students may sign up pledges on the basis of a certain amount donated per kilometer walked or an over-all amount for completing the walk. Proceeds donated to all walkers signed up on TCU registration blanks will go to TCU Hunger Week.

Naomi Klapow, junior from Fort Lauderdale, FL, is student chair for the CROP Walk, and Bill Hall, emeritus associate professor at Brite, chairs the annual event for the Tarrant Area Community of Churches.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Emeritus professor GENTRY SHELTON (Brite) was presented a life membership in the Association of Christian Church Educators at the ACCE luncheon Oct. 17 during the General Assembly of the Christian Church in Louisville, KY. On Oct. 4 Gentry and his wife, Mary Ingle, were honored at a reception celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

MICHAEL PELLECCIA (adjunct, journalism) presented a paper to the Public Relations Division, Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communications, at its national convention in August. The paper, "Test Market Media Relations as a Pilot Test Component in a Nationwide Class Action Settlement Distribution," won the Frederick H. "Chris" Teahan Outstanding Paper Award, which includes a cash prize. Part of the prize is being donated to the Mary Coats Burnett Library for the purchase of two new books, "Bioethics: Readings and Cases" and "Public Opinion Polling: A Handbook for Public Interest and Citizen Advocacy Groups."

Three members of the art faculty, chairman RON WATSON, BETH THOMAS and KATHIE WALKER ROBINSON, both of the adjunct faculty, will have works on display in downtown Fort Worth Nov. 9-13 as part of Camp Fire's An Artists' Christmas 1987. The art works, donated by 97 artists from throughout the nation, will be shown at Continental Plaza before being auctioned at a black-tie dinner Nov. 14 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel. Proceeds go to the First Texas Council of Camp Fire.

Gannett Center for Media Studies has nominated MARK WITHERSPOON (journalism) for participation in the Technology Studies Seminar Oct. 25-29 in New York City. The seminar will focus on new technology in the newsroom and how to use it in the classroom.

JULIAN HABER (adjunct, Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic) was elected chairman of the advisory board to the Early Childhood Intervention Interagency Council of the State of Texas for 1987-88. The group's first meeting was held in Austin in conjunction with the September ECI gathering. When not busy on campus or in his private practice, Julian finds time for writing poetry. A new volume of his work entitled "Word Pictures" is now in the bookstore.

CHARLES BLOUNT (physics) has received word from NASA Langley Research Center that his research on solar-powered alkali metal vapor laser will be supported for another year.

Sympathy is expressed to GERRY DOMINIAC (accounting), whose father died in early October.

At the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Council on Latin American Studies Oct. 8-11 at Arizona State University, ARTURO FLORES (modern languages) chaired a session on Crisis and Renovation in the Latin American Theatre. Arturo also presented a paper entitled "The Theatrical Discourse and its Referent in Chicano Theatre." DONALD FRISCHMANN (modern languages) presented a paper entitled "Myth, Carnival, and Ethnic Identity: The Social and Political Functionality of New Indigenous Theatre in Mexico."

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

LEE DANIEL (modern languages) will have one of his essays, "Manuel Payno's 'Amor secreto'--Mexican Romanticism or the Persisting Tradition of Courtly Love?," published this fall in Ediciones Discurso Literario.

"Songs for Sight Singing," a seven-volume issue designed to help junior high and high school singers learn to read music, was released in September by Southern Music Company. RUTH WHITLOCK (music) was the educational consultant for the project. Southern sent complimentary copies of all seven volumes to all TCU choral music education students.

FRESHMAN RESIDENTS LARGEST NUMBER ON RECORD

The 1,199 freshman students housed on campus this fall make up the largest total ever for this classification. The number represents a sizable percentage of the total 2,983 students residing in University facilities, according to Assistant Vice Chancellor Don Mills' fall occupancy report issued Sept. 21.

At the time of the report, all students living in residence hall lounges had been moved to permanent assignments, excepting one group in Colby who asked to remain together in the lounge. In men's housing, 38 overassigned situations still existed. Three undergraduate women and four undergraduate men housed in Brite Divinity School residences were not included in the report totals, Don noted.

Other highlights of the report were as follows:

- The number of freshman and sophomore women housed on campus is highest ever;
- The number of juniors living on campus has increased by 14.1 percent from 1986, while the number of seniors living on campus has decreased 11.5 percent;
- Transfer students living on campus remain virtually the same as a year ago: 89 students in 1986 and 88 this year;
- Men's residence halls, not including fraternity housing, are occupied at a rate of 105.7 percent of optimal capacity;
- Women's residence halls, not including sorority units, are occupied at a rate of 102.1 percent of optimal capacity;
- Fraternity halls are occupied at a rate of 84.2 percent capacity and sorority halls at a rate of 95.9 percent capacity;
- Of all full-time undergraduate students, 56.9 percent live on campus.

Cancellations for the current semester represented 15 percent of all reservations. This is compared to 18 percent in 1986 and 16.3 percent in 1985.

RECEPTION WILL HONOR KISSINGER

A reception Friday will honor Pauline Kissinger, recently retired after 30 years' service in the Student Center. She served as housekeeping supervisor for many years and later was weekend supervisor.

The retirement event will be held in the Student Center lounge at 2-3:30 p.m.

THREE STATES REPRESENTED AT COACHES CLINIC

Swimming coach Richard Sybesma hosted the first TCU Coaches Clinic for high school and club coaches across the state Oct. 2-3. The clinic consisted of talks by TCU coaches, trainers and sports psychologists; participants also attended the team training sessions in the pool for both swimming and diving. Clinic speakers from TCU included Richard; Scott Anderson, diving coach; Lance Cansdale, assistant swimming coach; Robbie Robinson, strength coach; and trainer Chris Hall. Others were Cindy Cox, sports psychologist, and Todd ZumMallen, swimmer and Olympic trials qualifier. The 10 coaches from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma who attended "were impressed with the program and facilities at TCU," according to Richard.

TCU IN THE NEWS

"Wanderer Springs," the Robert Flynn book recently issued by TCU PRESS, was reviewed in the Oct. 11 issue of the New York Times. Much of the book review section was devoted to university presses.

"The '86 market was...Froggish?" was the title of the story on the EDUCATIONAL INVESTMENT FUND that appeared in the October issue of FORT WORTH Magazine. The story noted that "the hands-on approach offers lessons that can't be learned in ordinary school rooms."

The time to start planning for retirement is as soon as someone can speak and crawl and walk, according to FORT WORTH Magazine's story on healthy retirement that quoted BETTY BENISON (physical education). The story is in the October issue.

"Business Is His Business" is the title of Ebony magazine's October feature on alumnus JAMES CASH, the first black full professor at Harvard Business School. The Fort Worth native, recently in town for speaking engagements, rarely misses an opportunity to remind folks that TCU is his alma mater.

EVELYN ROBERTS and JANICE BOYCE of nutrition and dietetics were included in those quoted in the Star-Telegram's Oct. 7 feature on the variety of uses of microwave ovens, written by alumnus CAROL NUCKOLS.

"Taylor's medical research brings recognition to USA" was the headline in the Sept. 16 issue of the Mobile, AL, Press Register for the feature story on Dr. AUBREY TAYLOR, chairman of the physiology department in the College of Medicine and Basic Medical Sciences at the University of South Alabama. Incoming president of the American Physiological Society for 1988-89, Aubrey has received this year's Wigger's Award for outstanding research in cardiovascular physiology. The Class of '60 member is associate editor for the Journal of Applied Physiology and Critical Care Medicine.
