HATTON W. SUMMERS GRANTS TOTAL $60,000

A total of $60,000 in grants for undergraduates will be funded by recent gifts from the Hatton W. Summers Foundation of Dallas. Of the amount, $50,000 will set up Hatton W. Summers Foundation Grants-in-Aid to be awarded primarily on the basis of need. The remaining $10,000 will be allocated to TCU's Washington Internship Program to help students in need of assistance defray the extra costs of living in Washington, DC, for a semester.

The Summers Foundation, designed to aid in the study and teaching of the science of self-government, was created in the 1950s after the death of long-time Texas Democratic legislator Hatton Summers. One of the foundation's trustees, Fort Worth attorney William C. Pannell, attended TCU.

Applicants for the partial tuition grants must be full-time students in good standing. Preference will be given to those majoring in political science or history, students in pre-law studies or those who intend to teach in the social sciences. The initial $50,000 is to be used over a three-year period, and individual grants will range from $1,000 to $3,000 per academic year. A grant holder may be considered for grants in succeeding years only by going through the same application and screening process each year.

Gordon R. Carpenter, executive director of the Summers Foundation, explained of the need-based assistance: "There are some fine young people from families not blessed with financial means. We hope these grants may help some of them get their education and become more productive citizens."

EVENTS CELEBRATE KING'S BIRTH

The University will celebrate the birth of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. with weeklong showings of a documentary on his life and two presentations by poet/educator b. f. maiz.

King's life is told through "Eyes on the Prize," a documentary in five parts that will be shown throughout this week at noon-1 p.m. in the Student Center lounge. On Friday, the 59th anniversary of King's birth, an intercultural celebration will be held in the Rickel Building from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Like all events in the birthday celebration, admission is free.

On Jan. 18, the third official observation of King's birthday as a public holiday, maiz will speak on "Two Saints of Dissent: Martin I and Martin II," a comparison of Protestant reformer Martin Luther and the slain social reformer named after him. The talk will begin at noon in the Student Center lounge.

Former special consultant to the vice president for academic affairs at North Texas State University, maiz established that university's compensatory programs for academically deficient students. He also has served artistic and humanistic residencies at several universities including Bucknell and the University of California at Davis. Author of five books of poetry, maiz describes the poet's purpose as helping others define themselves and, in doing so, giving them the feeling of definition as individuals, as a people and as members of humanity.

TCU will conclude its commemoration with a Racial Awareness Change Experience, led by maiz, on Jan. 19 at 7-9 p.m. in the Student Center's Woodson Room. The King birthday celebration is sponsored by Black Student Caucus, Cultures United, Alpha Phi Alpha, Alpha Phi Omega, House of Representatives, Office of Residential Living, political science department, University Ministries and Minority Affairs.

BOLLER ENHANCES HONORS FUND

A $3,000 gift from Paul Boller, emeritus professor of history, has been added to the TCU Honors Scholarship Award he inaugurated in 1984 with a $10,000 gift. In making the latest gift, he noted that he had been "extremely pleased by the splendid projects that TCU Honors students have undertaken with financial assistance from this scholarship."

"Paul Boller continues to have an enormous impact on the intellectual life of the Honors Program and the University," said former Honors director Jim Kelly when he announced the gift in mid-December. "His teaching, scholarship and support of the Honors Program has been a major influence in shaping the program as a model of academic excellence."

The initial holder of the Lyndon B. Johnson Chair of American History for seven years, Paul retired in 1983. In establishing the Honors scholarship fund, he noted: "My last years of teaching were made so pleasant by my association with the TCU Honors Program that I would like to have my gift used for a specific purpose within that program." The award recipient is chosen on the basis of academic performance and potential and on the merits of a proposal written to describe how the award would be used to support a particular program or project of study.

GREER WILL HEAD MANAGEMENT DEPARTMENT

Charles R. (Bob) Greer of Oklahoma State University will become professor and chairman of the management department in July. He has held a similar position at OSU since 1985.

A member of the Oklahoma State faculty since 1975, Dr. Greer earned the bachelor's degree from Emporia State in 1967 and completed the master's at Wichita State University in 1971. He received the M.B.A. degree in 1973 at the University of Kansas, where he completed the Ph.D. in 1975.

Dr. Greer is author of studies in such publications as Human Relations, Journal of Applied Behavioral Science and Academy of Management Review. He is active in the Academy of Management.

Carol Saunders currently is serving as interim chair of the department, which was headed by Kirk Downey from 1983 until last year, when he was named Neeley School dean.

SATURDAY IS ART CAREER DAY

High school and prospective college students seeking careers in the visual arts can find out more about opportunities in the field when the Department of Art and Art History hosts a career day/open house Saturday.

Speakers will be four TCU-related professionals: three alumni--Tom Dawson, museum designer, Kimbell Art Museum; Vicki Vinson, assistant curator, Dallas Museum of Art; and Robert Lewis, practicing artist and instructor of art at Arlington High School--and nationally known illustrator and designer Don Punctatz, a member of the adjunct art faculty.

The 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. sessions will be held in Room 141 of Moudy Building North, beginning with coffee and doughnuts at 9, speakers at 10, building tour at 11:30, a complimentary luncheon at noon and informal visits with faculty, students and speakers from 1 to 2 p.m.

FACULTY, STAFF ADD $465 TO FUNDS

A total of $465 was added to the scholarship funds by faculty and staff members who chose to make gifts to financial aid in lieu of holiday greetings to friends. The tradition of these gifts was initiated in 1972, and scholarship awards have been made the last two years.

Funds benefiting from 1987 gifts and donors are:

Logan and Sue Ware Scholarship --	Donna Kirkpatrick

WRITING ENTRIES DUE THIS MONTH

TCU students, graduates and former students may need reminding that Creative Writing Contest submissions are due in the English office by Jan. 28. The contests cover a wide range of genres: poetry, fiction, drama and non-fiction prose. The oldest of the prizes, the Bryson Club's poetry award, has been offered since 1921.

Four contests for freshmen include fiction and essays. Categories open to all undergraduates range from general poetry and fiction to Southwest literature, Christian literature, humorous prose and feminist criticism. There also are special awards for graduate students, several portfolio awards and the Margie B. Boswell Poetry Prize for a graduate or former student of TCU.

Contest results will be announced at the Creative Writing Awards ceremony in early March, when the featured speaker will be physician/writer Richard Selzer, who practiced and taught general surgery at Yale for 25 years and draws on that experience for his novels and magazine stories. Contest rules are available in the English office, Reed Hall Room 314.

NORTH TEXAS STATE WILL HONOR PROFFER

This spring North Texas State University will honor Dean of Students Libby Proffer as one of four recipients of Distinguished Alumni Awards for 1988. The announcement was made in mid-December.

Sharing the spotlight with her at the April 8 black-tie event in Denton will be William W. Collins Jr., retired regional administrator for the Department of Housing and Urban Development; Mike Cochran, Fort Worth correspondent for The Associated Press; and Jerry Farrington of Dallas, chairman of the board and chief executive of Texas Utilities. The awards ceremony and banquet will be held in the University Union Building.

Libby, reporter for the Denton Record Chronicle while attending North Texas, earned the B.A. degree in government with honors in 1947. Associated with the journalism department there for a year, she was public relations director for San Marcos Academy for three years before being named assistant in research and statistics with the Texas Employment Commission. She was assistant managing editor of Texas Outlook in 1951-54 before coming to TCU as journalism instructor and director of student social activities.

Past president of the Texas Association of College and University Personnel Administrators and the Fort Worth chapter of Altrusa International, Libby was appointed student activities director in 1966 and later served a year as director of University programs and services before becoming dean of students in 1973. Active in state and national professional organizations, she has been a director of the YMCA of Fort Worth and formerly was its vice president as well as a member of the boards of Tarrant County Day Care Center, Suicide Prevention Center of Fort Worth and Bethlehem Community Center.

Libby, who has spearheaded TCU's travel programs throughout the world, received the outstanding leader-teacher award from the journalism department last year and the Thomas F. Richardson Award for Outstanding Contributions to TCU Student Affairs in 1985-86. She also has been honored on campus by Mortar Board and the International Student Association and the intramural staff. Among other honors is listing in Outstanding Educators of America.

KTCU BFGINS 'PROFILE TCU' JAN. 17

TCU faculty members and administrators will be the focus of a new interview program that begins airing Jan. 17. The half-hour, weekly program titled "Profile TCU" will air Sundays at 12:30 p.m. on KTCU-FM, 88.7. KTCU station manager and interview host Constantino Bernardez described the program as one that will allow listeners to see the University and what it does through the eyes of the individuals involved. The first guest will be Neil Daniel of English. He will discuss TCU's writing across the curriculum program, which he will oversee during the spring semester. Future guests will include TCU Press director Judy Alter and Dean of Students Libby Proffer.

Additional information concerning "Profile TCU" is available from Constantino at Ext. 7634.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD FOR MORGAN

A memorial service was held Jan. 4 at University Christian Church for Thurman Morgan, former religion department faculty member who also served as director of field work for Brite Divinity School. The Pendleton native died Jan. 2.

Ordained as a Disciples of Christ minister in 1925, Morgan earned the B.A. degree here in 1924 and completed the Bachelor of Divinity degree through then Brite College of the Bible in 1935. The World War I veteran did additional graduate study at the University of Chicago Divinity School.

Morgan was minister of Christian churches in Hereford, Hillsboro, Houston and Jacksonville, FL. Retired in 1966 after 17 years on the faculty and as administrative assistant at Brite, he was interim minister for churches in Ruidoso, NM, New Orleans and several in Texas. Among these was Arlington Heights Christian in Fort Worth, where he was named minister emeritus in 1977. A trustee of Brite Divinity School for 13 years, he formerly headed the Texas Convention of Christian Churches and served on a number of state boards.

Survivors include his wife, Sarah Williams Morgan, secretary and then director of the TCU president's office in the 1940s; a son, Paul Morgan, and a daughter, Martha Sue Scott; a brother, Cecil Morgan; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. All are local residents.

NEW PERSONAL GROWTH GROUP TO MEET

The Counseling Center is offering a personal growth group for faculty and staff members who are "adult children of alcoholics." The group, tentatively scheduled to begin the week of Jan. 25, will meet for 90-minute weekly sessions until the end of May. The exact meeting time will be determined later in an effort to meet the scheduling demands of prospective participants.

Staff psychologist Hap Klinefelter will lead the group (six-nine people). Those interested in joining or wanting to learn more about what the group involves should call the Counseling Center, Ext. 7863, for a pre-group interview. No cost is involved, and confidentiality will be protected.

SMITH PHOTOS ARE IN GALLERY

A showing of 50 photographs celebrating the "myth of rodeo" will open today (Tuesday) in Brown-Lupton Student Center Gallery with a 4 to 6 p.m. reception. Subsequent hours will be 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1-4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays through Feb. 7.

The work of Luther Smith, associate professor of art, the photographs were made at North Texas High School Rodeo Association performances and previously have been exhibited at the Waco Art Center. The series includes action photos, Luther said, but is made up largely of portraits of individuals interacting with one another. The pictures were made between 1984 and 1987.

Luther joined the faculty in 1983 after serving four years as chairman of the photography program at the University of Illinois in Urbana. A graduate of Illinois, he holds the Master of Fine Arts degree from Rhode Island School of Design.

His works have won top prizes in Mademoiselle magazine's photo competition, Northeast Photography Exhibition, Illinois Photographers '82, Tarrant County Works on Paper, Great Lakes Regional and at a number of museums. Luther's photos are included in permanent public collections at the Portland (ME) Museum of Art, Seattle First National Bank, the Arkansas Arts Center, Illinois State Museum, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a number of colleges.

BARR NAMED SEXUAL HARASSMENT OFFICER

Vice Chancellor Peggy Barr has been named sexual harassment officer for the University. Effective immediately, the appointment was made by Chancellor Bill Tucker.

Complaints about alleged sexual harassment of students, faculty and/or staff members should be referred immediately to Dr. Barr. Following an interview with the complainant, she will assess the validity of the problem. A confidential report on cases determined to be valid will be prepared and presented to the appropriate vice chancellor for determining further action. Dr. Barr will inform the complainant of the outcome.

The new provision for complaint procedures, which will be distributed campus-wide later, "brings consistency and fairness to investigations, reports and actions in cases of sexual harassment," Dr. Barr explained. "Critical to the success of this process is the immediate referral of problems."

FACULTY COLLOQUIUM WILL MEET MONDAY

Richard Galvin of philosophy will present a paper on "Moral Pluralism" for the first spring session of the Faculty Colloquium on Values and Public Policy at 3:15 p.m. Monday in Student Center Room 218.

After commentary from Jeffrey Pulis of Brite and Charles Lockhart of political science, the session will be open for general discussion. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

12 PROFESSORS HONORED BY STUDENT BODY

Twelve professors selected by the student body will receive 1987 Teacher Excellence Awards at the Jan. 19 meeting of the House of Student Representatives. Those honored are Jim Atwood, religion-studies; Anantha Babbili, journalism; Charles Becker, economics; Ralph Carter, political science; Robert Doran, mathematics; Dave Edmunds, history; Andrew Fort, religion-studies; Gail Gear, art; Sanoa Hensley, accounting; Ken Lawrence, religion-studies; Bill Moncrief, marketing; and Pat Paulus, biology.

Students voted for professors while electing House of Student Representatives officers Nov. 10. Student body members wrote in names of professors who best exemplify excellence in teaching based on their teaching ability, availability to students and knowledge in their field. The House elections committee tabulated the votes to determine the 12 with the highest totals.

TUCKER RECEIVES UNITED WAY HONOR

Chancellor Bill Tucker was honored in December by United Way of Metropolitan Tarrant County for serving on the 1987 United Way Campaign Cabinet. The cabinet consisted of 34 top campaign volunteers responsible for organizing the fund drive and leading some 15,000 volunteers in raising $19,875,956 for human care services in Tarrant County.

Dr. Tucker was chairman of Public-Professional Group D, one of four major segments into which United Way campaign solicitation efforts are divided. He was honored at the Dec. 2 United Way campaign awards luncheon held at the Worthington Hotel in Fort Worth.

United Way serves 56 local non-profit human care agencies that operate 280 service centers throughout Tarrant County.

HAILEY RECEIVES NCAA AWARD

Horned Frog center Clint Hailey, a business major who has compiled a 3.53 overall grade-point average during his undergraduate studies, is one of 18 major college football players to be awarded $4,000 NCAA Postgraduate Scholarships in 1987-88. Named as an at-large recipient by the NCAA committee, he is joined by A&M's Kip Corrington as award winners among Southwest Conference gridgers this year.

The Longview native was honored earlier by being named to the Academic All-America Team--District 6. He also was chosen in several second-team all-SWC selections for outstanding play during the fall season. He was a member of the South team in the 50th annual Blue-Gray All-Star Football Classic played Dec. 25 in Montgomery, AL.

Joining Clint on that team was senior David Spradlin of Seminole, a leader in 1987's outstanding defense. The South team was coached by TCU's Jim Wacker, assisted by Frog defensive coordinator Rick Johnson and Steve Spurrier of Duke University.

TCU/TC TOTAL LARGEST IN HISTORY

A total of $1,446,326 was raised during the 1987 TCU/Tarrant County campaign. The figure, which exceeded the larger-than-ever goal of $1,445,255, was celebrated at a Dec. 9 gathering of fund-raising volunteers.

Announced by campaign chairman Dr. Don L. Smith, the amount was hailed as "the largest amount ever raised in the history of the TCU/Tarrant County campaign" by Chancellor Bill Tucker during his informal remarks.

The 10th annual countywide fund-raising drive began Oct. 30 with a task force of some 500 volunteers making gift requests for financial aid for students, instructional assistance, research and graduate education, athletics and general University support. Monies raised during the six-week effort are part of the University's overall budget-supporting total of $3.3 million sought for TCU's Annual Fund.

"Once again friends of TCU have affirmed their confidence in the University, the direction it is moving and the many programs--academic, cultural and athletic--it provides citizens of this county," said Dr. Smith, Class of '64 member and former football letterman now in private medical practice in Fort Worth.

"With the largest goal in the campaign's 10-year history, volunteers could have found ample excuses in headlines and newscasts during the bleak days of October to have shrugged off their responsibilities," the chairman added. "Instead they successfully honored their commitment to the campaign and to the University. Now we celebrate the success of their dedication."

Special appreciation was expressed to the TCU alumni trustees who jointly offered a $500,000 challenge to match gifts of the University's alumni. Dr. Smith cited this as one of two major factors in the 1988 campaign's record-setting results.

"Critical, too, is the fact that volunteers for TCU are not quitters--even in the face of distressing economic conditions," Dr. Smith said. "They are the heroes of this campaign."

A response to the chairman's victory report was given by Chancellor Tucker, who assisted Dr. Smith in presenting plaques to group and division managers.

TELEPHONES AT CARSWELL GET NEW PREFIX

The three-digit prefix for all telephone numbers at Carswell Air Force Base was changed over the holidays. The new prefix is 7-8-2. All suffixes will remain the same. TCU's contact number at Carswell is now 782-7126.

NOTES ON FOLKS

AL MLADENKA and KEN BUS (international student affairs) attended the Region III National Association for Foreign Student Affairs annual conference in Little Rock Nov. 11-14. Al made a presentation on Immigration Service regulations for non-immigrant students applying for enrollment in the United States. Al also was honored by the Air Force Recruiting Service Nov. 19 for his assistance in evaluating foreign academic credentials. Two Air Force representatives presented him a certificate and an Air Force cap and mug.

Office of Instructional Services director LARRY KITCHENS has been appointed to the Texas Association for Educational Technology's blue ribbon committee for telecommunications services. The organization will focus on possible plans and support for a state-empowered authority to create, develop and operate a telecommunications network for Texas.

MARILYN OLSEN, organ and harpsichord instructor in 1969-71, died Nov. 28 in a Liberty, MO, hospital of Alzheimer's disease. The Kansas City native, founder of TCU's harpsichord program, formerly was organist and choirmaster for St. Paul Lutheran and Hemphill Presbyterian churches in Fort Worth. The family, which includes sons Paul and Jonathan and daughter Beth, suggests memorials be made to the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association of Fort Worth.

C.A. QUARLES (physics) presented an invited paper to the national meeting of the American Nuclear Society in Los Angeles Nov. 15-19. The paper was a review of the current status of atomic-field bremsstrahlung and pair production data available for use in atomic, nuclear, geophysical and medical applications of radiation.

JUDITH SOLOMON (music) spent Nov. 21 in Commerce judging East Texas State University's Solo Piano Performance contest.

Two TCU folks, RON SHIREY of music and teaching fellow CARL O. JOHNSON, conducted the Advent concert of University Christian Church choirs Dec. 13. Ron conducted Respighi's Laud to the Nativity, and Carl directed John Rutter's Gloria.

The staff of Starpoint School recently attended the Texas Association for Children with Learning Disabilities meeting in Austin. Staff members MADGE KING, KATHY HARRIS, KELLEY DOBBINS and PATRICIA STENGER attended sessions for two days. ROBIN DAVIS and LAURA LEE CRANE presented a paper, "The CODE 78 Reading Program: Using It To Your Advantage." Laura Lee also attended the Texas Association of Supervision and Curriculum Development session in San Antonio, where she presented a paper, "A Model for the Development of an After-School Program."

"The Teacher as a Writing Coach" was the topic for journalist TOMMY THOMASON Nov. 21 when he spoke at a staff development seminar for the bilingual education department of the Dallas Independent School District.

Funeral services were conducted Dec. 4 at Owens Brumley Funeral Home for the father of RAY HANEY (facility services). Condolences are extended to the family.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

The 1987 meeting of the National Collegiate Honors Council in Dallas was attended by JIM KELLY, SALLY BOHON (honors) and students TRACY WILSON, LORETTA HOLLAND, TANYA SMITH, DAVID LAWRENCE, ROBERT WILLIAMS, HEATHER WHITE, STAN HUBBARD and KARL HILLSTROM. Sally presented a poster session emphasizing the TCU Honors Collegium program at the "Idea Market," which has become an annual feature of NCHC programming devoted to the exploration and sharing of new ideas in honors education.

Ballet major TAMERA ANDERSON and fashion design major JULIE JAEGER performed at the World Travel Market in London Dec. 1-5 as ambassadors from the State of Oklahoma. The Discoveryland production of Rodgers' and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma" received a special award from the World Travel Market as "best entertainment." Tamera and Julie, selected from the summer 1987 cast, appeared in a 15-minute promotional version of the show. Other performing groups in the tourism promotion included Yugoslavian folk dancers, Hawaiian hula dancers, Russian singers, Italian folk dancers and Virginia cloggers.

JOHN MERRILL (Ranch Management) was one of seven U.S. cattlemen called to a meeting in Denver to advise the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service on research priorities in beef cattle. John's article, "The Range Livestock in Texas," was published in the most recent issue of The Rangelands, journal of the International Society for Range Management, which John serves as past president and fellow.

JIM LINK (Ranch Management), current president of the Fort Worth Farm and Ranch Club, also has been asked to serve as a director of the Tarrant County Junior Livestock Show.

DAVE EDMUNDS (history) has just received copies of his book, "Kinsmen Through Time: An Annotated Bibliography of Potawatomi History," which was released earlier this month by the Scarecrow Press. The volume contains almost 1,100 annotated entries focusing upon Potawatomi history in the Great Lakes region, Iowa, Kansas and Oklahoma. Dave serves as the honorary tribal historian for the Citizen Band Potawatomi tribe in Oklahoma. The Scarecrow Press is the largest publisher of bibliographies in the world.

Two titles from TCU PRESS have been chosen for the National Development Exhibit by the United States Information Agency. The books are "Sport Inside Out" by DAVID VANDERWERKEN (English) and SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) and "Studies in the Sociology of Sport," edited by Aidan Dunleavy, sociologist ANDY MIRACLE and Roger Rees. The exhibit will travel to Cairo, New Delhi, Manila, Buenos Aires and Karachi.

Former associate director of Ranch Management JAKE SCHRUM, now a resident of Big Sandy, has been named chairman of the Build East Texas program, organized in 1963 to enhance agriculture and agribusiness in 37 East Texas counties.

Instructional services director LARRY KITCHENS has been named president-elect of the Division of Educational Media Management (DEMM), one of nine divisions of the Association for Educational Communications and Technology. DEMM is meeting later this week in New Orleans.

TCU IN THE NEWS

"Award-winning Miami reporter covers crimes with a passion" was the sub-heading for the Nov. 3 Dallas Morning News story about the daylong seminar conducted by Pulitzer Prize-winner Edna Buchanan. The Nov. 19 program, sponsored by the JOURNALISM DEPARTMENT, drew more than 100 persons from some 15 media outlets and students from SMU, East Texas, UTA, North Texas, Texas Woman's University, Baylor and East Central in Oklahoma.

Fashion design major KAY WALKER and her company known as Willa Kay Mannequins, which makes children mannequins ranging from sizes of a 12-month-old to a 12-year-old, were the subject of a feature story Nov. 18 in the Mineral Wells Index. Her products are contracted to J.C. Penney Inc., this country's largest retail store, to be shipped to South Africa and Canada.

Alumnus WILLIAM BENNETT '71 was the subject of a recent Associated Press story related to his work on research that helped develop a major drug against the effects of heart disease. The senior scientist with Genentech Inc. of South San Francisco said he studied cardiovascular medicine because his father died of a heart attack. The new drug, known as TPA and approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, "is expected to save lives of thousands of heart-attack victims by dissolving life-threatening blood clots," the article said.

Alumnus PHILIP LAMB and his works with carved words on marble were the subject of a Dec. 6 Portfolio feature in Dallas Life magazine. The B.F.A. '74 graduate "has created everything from T-shirts to a mega-budget industrial show for Coca-Cola's 100th birthday," according to the story, and he also was art director on the television show "Benji, Zax and the Allen Prince" in 1984.

The Oct. 14 issue of Asahi Shimbun, the largest circulation newspaper in Japan, included a story about representatives of 24 U.S. universities visiting that country. TCU and Boston University were the only two institutions named according to international affairs director AL MIADENKA.

"Hooping it up" was the title of the story in the December issue of FORT WORTH magazine that featured basketball coach MOE IBA. Entitled "Step by Step," another article included descriptions and photos of football coach JIM WACKER's TCU veer.

Rewritten nursery rhymes by BARRY PERLMUTTER (family studies) were featured in the December issue of FORT WORTH. Three original rhymes, which proved to scare some children, along with Barry's "happier" versions were included.

The use of food additives for increased cattle growth was the subject discussed by Ranch Management director JOHN MERRILL for a WFAA-TV interview that aired Dec. 12.

"TCU searches for new music chairman" was the headline on the Dec. 13 column by Star-Telegram music critic Wayne Lee Gay. Head of the search committee CURT WILSON (music) noted that a final choice will be announced about March 1.

Traveling around the world "has become commonplace," according to ROBERTA CORDER (English), who was quoted in a Dec. 13 Star-Telegram story about the first anniversary of the Rutan-Yeager Voyager flight around the globe. The feature centered on how soon heroes are forgotten. "The public's attention span is not very long and it wants to be entertained," Roberta said.
