SCIENCE, MATH, COMPUTER LAB DUE FOR SUMMER

A surprise gift at a 50-year class reunion is making possible a laboratory in which young children can learn to operate robots and computers, and professors can work to improve the quality of classroom learning environments. The Laboratory for Pedagogical Studies in Mathematics, Science and Computer Education is being constructed in adjoining rooms in the Rickel Building with a gift of $42,000 in first-year startup costs in honor of Mrs. Helen Stubbs Potter of Fort Worth, a 1937 TCU graduate.

Donors were her daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Rose III (Deedie Potter, TCU Class of 1963); Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Kendall III (Libits Potter), both 1965 graduates of TCU; and Mr. and Mrs. Scott W. Mooring III (Sally Potter), both of the Class of 1969. The gift was made as Mrs. Potter celebrated with her TCU Class of 1937 late last fall, and the laboratory is expected to be ready for summer classes.

The lab will house resources to conduct classes and workshops for graduate and undergraduate students, in-service teachers and pre-college students; the rooms also will function as a research laboratory for faculty members in the School of Education. By the 1988 fall semester, a number of TCU classes will be set in the new laboratory.

Kathleen Martin, coordinator of graduate programs in education, said the lab will house a MAC II Microcomputer, a Hero 2000 Robot and computer software with external sensors that will tie into the microcomputer for collecting data. Equipment also will include an extensive collection of mathematics manipulatives, such as cuisenaire rods, pattern blocks, geoboards and fraction sets, and other materials that children use to explore mathematical concepts. Children's math and science books and journals will provide an alternative approach to textbooks for students. For science classes, equipment will include a mobile laboratory, mobile biorack, microprojector and Lego-Logo, a geared Lego that can be tied to the computer for instruction.

TCU already has a contract with the Fort Worth Independent School District for a summer class in which 20 elementary teachers will come for two weeks of instruction, then will be joined in the third week by 40 fourth- and fifth-graders selected from the school district's gifted and talented program. The pupils will work with teachers as mentor models, one teacher for two children. The teachers will help the students select mathematical questions and pursue the answers during the week.

TCU also has applied for an Educational Economic Security Act grant to conduct a summer graduate course with middle school teachers in probability and statistics. Again, teachers would spend two weeks working with the concepts and then a week working as mentor models with sixth- through ninth-graders. The projects would be computer-based, and the students would collect and analyze data for their projects through interviews and library research.

The laboratory is easily accessible to the handicapped. Kathleen, a member of the board of the Arlington-based Center for Computer Assistance to the Disabled, hopes also to use the center for research in helping handicapped children have greater access to learning through computer instruction.

MORE GRADS SEEKING JOBS, SURVEY SHOWS

More TCU graduates are looking for jobs now than in the 1985/86 school year. Those who have found employment, however, are receiving higher pay.

For the third year, the Career Planning and Placement Center conducted a follow-up study of recent graduates. Responses came from 75 percent of the 1,368 students graduated in December 1986, May 1987 and August 1987.

Of the 1,027 former students who completed the survey, 55 percent were employed within 12 weeks of graduation, and some 28 percent were still looking for a job at that time. This compares to 63 percent having jobs and 18 percent still seeking employment after 12 weeks in the 1985/86 graduating classes.

Average starting salaries for all TCU graduates finding jobs increased from the previous year with the exception of Master of Education graduates, who saw nearly a 5 percent decline. Starting salary for all 1986/87 undergraduates was up an average of 15 percent.

Following is a breakdown of those average salaries and the percentage increase over last year:

- Arts and sciences up 24 percent with a starting salary of $20,289;
- Business up 7 percent for a starting salary of $22,289;
- Education up 1.4 percent with a starting salary of $18,565;
- Fine arts up 27 percent for a starting salary of $20,623;
- Nursing up 5 percent with a starting salary of $23,322.

Those receiving master's degrees in business and the fine arts also saw a hefty increase in starting salaries over last year. Business graduates' salaries rose 22 percent for a starting salary of $34,161, and fine arts was up more than 28 percent for a salary average of $21,220.

The survey also showed that nearly 65 percent of TCU's recent graduates are employed in the Metroplex. Those graduates deciding to continue their education remained constant for the last two years with 145 or 14 percent deciding to stay in school.

WEEK PROMOTES CULTURAL AWARENESS

Cultural awareness and world issues will be at the center of International Students Week, which begins Monday with a noon proclamation ceremony and ends March 5 with a banquet and student program.

Monday's proclamation in the Student Center lounge will be accompanied from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. with music, refreshments and exhibits of some of the 61 countries that are home to TCU's 195 international students. On March 1, a 3-4:30 p.m. reception will be held by Study Abroad participants in the Woodson Room. Discussions about the program will be held, said Leena Daniels, senior nursing major and president of International Students Organization.

On March 2 several Student Center rooms will be used to stage a program of cultural experience, which will be conducted in a game format and will pair people to enable them to learn about each other's culture. On March 3 a forum of journalists from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the Dallas Morning News will discuss world issues at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center. The topic will be American intervention in Third World countries. Anantha Babbili of journalism will moderate.

A pool party featuring a disk jockey and water games will be held in the Rickel Building the evening of March 4, and the week concludes March 5 with the annual banquet, featuring foods from the students' homelands prepared from their recipes by Marriott Food Service. A parade of costumes and other entertainment by the students will conclude the evening. Tickets at $8 each are available in the International Student Affairs office, Room 16 of Sadler Hall.

HARP RECITAL WILL BE MONDAY

TCU Music Series' final performance of February will be a harp recital by faculty member Sydney Payne Wilson, assisted by harpists Carolyn Lott and Rebecca Scherschell and violinist Bette Dyer. The free recital will be at 8 p.m. Feb. 29 in Robert Carr Chapel.

Opening with Handel's Arioso, arranged for three harps, the program also will include Sonatine No. 4 by F. Naderman, Carlos Salzedo's Suite of Eight Dances, Song of the Black Swan by H. Villa-Lobos, Anthony Collins' Raisins and Almonds for violin and harp, Petite Suite for Harp by David Watkins and M. Tournier's Concert Etude.

DRAWINGS ON WOOD TO SHOW AT MOUDY

Drawings on panels and specially constructed boxes will be shown by graduate student David Cook of Michigan City, IN, in a Master of Fine Arts thesis exhibition Monday through March 5 in Moudy Building Exhibition Hall. Opening reception will be from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Monday, and subsequent hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday.

"Sections of our waking hours, roads, buildings, clouds and animals which command our vision are lifted from their contexts in order to uncover their personal significances to us," Cook said of his drawings. "Served to the viewer on the surface of constructed boxlike shapes of raw wood, they are presented for a re-investigation of the significance commonly assigned to them. These works challenge what viewers choose to see, what they choose to ignore and what results from these choices."

FOUR TO SING JOHN LARGE MEMORIAL RECITAL

Four successful vocalists with Metroplex ties will perform Saturday in memory of performer/teacher John Large. The John W. Large Memorial Scholarship Fund Recital will begin at 8 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Admission is free with TCU ID and a $10 donation for all others, with proceeds going to the John W. Large Memorial Scholarship Fund.

The program brings together bass baritone Charles Nelson, who grew up in Fort Worth and Denton and has sung with symphonies throughout the South and Southwest; Sue Buratto of Fort Worth, whose credits include Bronx Opera, Fort Worth Opera and Dallas Chamber Opera roles; baritone Tim Seelig, a Fort Worth native who has sung with Mozarteum Opera in Salzburg as well as Fort Worth Opera and Dallas Bach Society; and Marsha Henderson of Dallas, who has been Fort Worth Opera artist-in-residence the last two seasons.

Nelson, artist-in-residence at Abilene Christian University, has performed with the Atlanta, Nashville, Memphis, Dallas, San Antonio, Houston and New Orleans symphonies and sang the role of Christus in Bach's St. John Passion in Los Angeles. As a recitalist, he has performed at Carnegie Hall in New York and Kennedy Center in Washington.

One of the few Metroplex area singers in recent history to be featured in major roles with the Fort Worth Opera, Ms. Buratto took the part of the Countess in Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" and in March will sing the First Lady in "The Magic Flute." She has taught at TWC and TCU and has been soloist with the Texas Little Symphony, the Texas Boys Choir and the Shreveport Summer Festival.

Dr. Seelig, assistant professor at Houston Baptist University, made his European opera debut as lead baritone at the Stadttheater, St. Gallen, Switzerland. He has sung a full recital on Austrian National Radio and has made television appearances in New York, Houston and Nashville. He performed four seasons with Fort Worth Opera.

Ms. Henderson, who has been resident artist for opera studies with the Dallas Opera, also has performed with the Chattanooga Symphony and Opera Association, the Summer Opera Theatre of Washington, DC, and Southwest Opera Theatre.

John Large, who until his death in October taught studio voice and vocal pedagogy at TCU, had concertized extensively, making both Carnegie Recital Hall and Town Hall debuts in New York. In the forefront of vocal research, he was secretary of the International Association for Research in Singing and founder-editor of the Journal of Research in Singing and Applied Vocal Pedagogy.

Persons unable to attend the memorial recital but desiring to send contributions may make checks payable to TCU--John Large Memorial Scholarship Fund and mail them to Ray Herman, Box 32887.

TCU'S FUNNIEST COMPETE IN NATIONAL CONTEST

The search for TCU's funniest student will culminate in a campus comedy show-down Friday. Aspiring comedians and gagsters have the opportunity to prove themselves at noon in the Student Center lounge.

The competition is part of a national talent search sponsored by Stickletts chewing gum and Doritos tortilla chips. All contestants have three minutes to perform a stand-up routine, impersonation, sketch or other comic routine.

All acts will be videotaped, and those tapes will be submitted for official judging by Larry "Bud" Melman, a regular on Late Night with David Letterman, and stand-up comic Gilbert Gottfried. The student comedians are competing for a chance to perform in Daytona Beach, FL, during spring break.

SYMPHONIC BAND TO PLAY FRIDAY

Soul-stirring tunes by John Philip Sousa, Richard Wagner and others will make up the Symphonic Band concert at 8 p.m. Feb. 26 in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Conducted by assistant band director Steven Moser, the band will open with Sousa's The Freelance March on to Victory. Also on the program will be Siegfried's Funeral Music from "Gotterdammerung" by Wagner, Farandole by Bizet/Bob James and The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise by Harry Alford.

GRAPHIC DESIGNER SPEAKS HERE TOMORROW

Philip Meggs, author of the award-winning book "A History of Graphic Design," will lecture on American graphic design at 7 p.m. Feb. 24 in Room 141 of Moudy Building North. Audience members are welcome to come early for coffee.

Meggs, a member of the art faculty at Virginia Commonwealth University, is co-author of "Typographic Design: Form and Communication" and is preparing a book on the history of American graphic design. His TCU lecture is sponsored by art and art history.

BLOOD DRIVE TRIES NEW LOCATION

In the hope of stimulating spontaneous donations, the spring blood drive will be held in the Student Center lounge rather than the ballroom, which has been the site of blood drives for many years. "We hope that as people walk by they will see their friends giving blood and decide to roll up their sleeves and donate," said Tami Potter, blood drive coordinator and Jarvis Hall director.

The drive began yesterday (Monday) and will continue through Thursday between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. each day. The goal is 500 pints, an increase of 125 pints over the fall goal. Carter Blood Center staffs the drive.

DAR WILL HONOR EDMUNDS FEB. 25

The history award medal of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be presented by the Mary Isham Keith Chapter to historian Dave Edmunds Friday. The event will be held at The Woman's Club of Fort Worth.

The award of the NSDAR is in recognition of outstanding contributions to the community through study, promotion and preservation of American history. The medal is approved by the society's historian general based on the recipient's qualifications.

Making the presentation at the local chapter's George Washington birthday luncheon will be Lesbia Roberts, TCU alumna who is honorary regent of the Mary Isham Keith Chapter.

Dave, Pulitzer Prize nominee for his book entitled "The Shawnee Prophet" and recipient of the Francis Parkman Award for "The Potawatomis: Keepers of the Fire," is recognized for "in-depth and scholarly studies of Indian tribes--their history, movement and religions--which has given a new insight into Indian culture," according to Mrs. Roberts.

Previous Fort Worth recipients of the DAR award are Mack Williams, former owner-editor of the Fort Worth News-Tribune, and former TCU history professor Malcolm McLean.

SPRING HOUSING INCREASES OVER 1987

A total 67 more students are residing in campus housing this spring than a year ago. According to an occupancy report issued Feb. 11 by Assistant Vice Chancellor Don Mills, the total number is 2,756. Thirty-eight men and 29 women account for the 1988 increase.

Compared with the 1987 spring semester, current occupancy includes a larger number of freshman men, sophomore women and junior men and women. The number of both men and women in the senior class shows a decrease.

Other highlights of the report include:

- Men's housing is at 92.2 percent optimal capacity, although Tom Brown Hall remains at 100.9 percent optimal capacity;
- Women's housing is at 93.8 percent optimal capacity, although Colby Hall is at 99.7 percent optimal capacity;
- Greek housing is at 92.6 percent capacity for men and 93.2 percent capacity for women;
- 56.2 percent of full-time undergraduate students are housed on campus. This includes 89.3 percent of freshmen, 70.5 percent of sophomores, 47.5 percent of juniors and 26.5 percent of seniors.

TWO ALUMNI TRIPS SET FOR JULY

Two alumni association trips--one to Europe and the other to the French and Italian Rivas--are on the calendar for July. Complete information and reservation forms are available from the alumni office, Ext. 7803.

Departing July 12, Europe--East and West includes visits to six cities which have shaped Europe's destiny and personality for centuries. The first stop will be Berlin for three nights. By motorcoach the group will go to Leipzig and on to Dresden for two nights. Two nights are on the schedule for Prague before a flight to Budapest for a three-night stay. By hydrofoil the travelers will go up the Blue Danube to Vienna for three nights. Optional tours include an excursion to East Berlin and Potsdam as well as a Danube River Bend excursion. The return will be on July 26.

The 12-day Sea Goddess trip will include four nights in Paris, a ride on the French bullet train to Lyon and on to Monte Carlo for two nights before boarding the Sea Goddess II for a four-night luxury cruise. From Monte Carlo, the ship will carry travelers to St. Tropez, Livorno (Pisa/Florence), Santa Margherita and Portofino. The trip is set for July 17-28.

WOMEN SWIMMERS HEAD FOR SWC MEET

Trying to improve on last year's fifth-place finish, the Lady Frogs swim team will compete in the Southwest Conference meet Thursday through Saturday in Fayetteville, AR. "I am excited about our women's team in the SWC race," said coach Richard Sybesma, who anticipates a close fight for fourth place among TCU, Arkansas and Houston.

The swimmers also made a strong academic showing last semester with a team grade-point average of 3.04, second only to the women's golf team at 3.09, while the women's basketball team averaged 3.02. The men's swimming and diving team averaged 2.72, the highest average GPA posted by a men's team.

MATH COMPETITION HELD ON CAMPUS

Junior high students from 25 schools were on campus Saturday to compete for trophies, honors and trips in MATHCOUNTS, a nationwide program designed to improve math skills of seventh- and eighth-grade students. The program is sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers, the CNA Insurance companies, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the National Science Foundation.

The Texas Society of Professional Engineers is joined by other private business and industry leaders as well as foundations in sponsoring and producing the three-month program. The Sid Richardson Building was the site of the session that included a written test, individual and team rounds and oral presentations.

Students, teachers and schools, both public and private, who scored high enough Saturday to go to the next level of competition in Austin in April will be honored tomorrow night (Wednesday) at an awards dinner in the Student Center's Woodson Room. One of the major events of the local observance of Engineers Week, the event will feature Mayor Bob Bolen.

NOTES ON FOLKS

DOUG NEWSOM and ANANTHA BABBILI (journalism) participated on the panel "Enhancing North-South Dialogue: Relevance of U.S. International Communication Studies to Latin America and the Caribbean" at the Fifth Annual Intercultural Communication Conference organized by the University of Miami, FL, Feb. 3-5. Doug presented a paper titled "Global Images of Crises--A Reality Constructed by Open or Closed Communication Systems." Anantha was the moderator of the panel session and presented a paper on "Comparative Studies in Journalistic Professionalism: The Need to Transcend Ethnocentricity." The annual conference attracts journalism and mass communication scholars from the United States, Latin American nations and the Caribbean region.

Funeral services were conducted Feb. 10 at Moore Funeral Home Chapel for MARY SUE MAPLES WILSON, former swimming teacher who died Feb. 7 following a heart attack at her home. Survivors include her mother, Grace Maples, a daughter and a son, all of Fort Worth.

DAVE CRAVENS (business) has been notified that his article "Strategic Forces Affecting Marketing Strategy," originally published in Business Horizons, will be reprinted in MARKETING 88/89, published by Dushkin Publishing Group Inc.

JANET GEORGE HERALD (admissions) and Nan Massingill, associate director of admissions at Trinity University, conducted a one-day workshop with high school guidance counselors in the FWISD. Janet presented excerpts from the 1986 National College Counseling Project, "Frontiers of Possibility," that stressed four areas of emphasis to produce an exemplary college counseling program: the guidance curriculum; collaboration with the students, parents and teachers; relationships with colleges and universities; and financial aid and scholarships.

CHRIS ELLERTSON (admissions) delivered a presentation on "The Admissions Role in College Athletics in the 1990s" Feb. 3 at The College Board Regional Conference in Albuquerque. He also was the featured speaker on "What Colleges Look For in Prospective Applicants" at two workshops presented by Albuquerque independent counselors Feb. 3-4.

PENG FAN (mathematics) has a paper entitled "A Function-Theoretic Proof of a Theorem of Stampfli" accepted by Colloquium Mathematicum.

Condolences are expressed to EVA WALL SINGLETON (education, emeritus), whose husband, Cecil Singleton, died Feb. 11. Singleton, a retired Fort Worth principal, also had taught summer school classes here.

"Speech Assessment and Training of the Hearing Impaired Child" was the subject of the presentation made by ANN LIEBERTH (speech/hearing clinic) on Jan. 16 for the El Paso Speech-Language-Hearing Association. She has been notified that her article "ALDS for SLPS" has been accepted for publication in TEJAS, the Journal of Texas Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

JOHN WORTHAM (economics) had a book review of Harriss' State and Market: "State Intervention in Agricultural Exchange in Dry Region of Tamil Nadu, South India" published in the April issue of the Journal of Developing Areas.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS
