INDIAN RESEARCH BRINGS FORD GRANT

There is, perhaps, no occurrence in American history that conjures up more pathetic visions than the "Trail of Tears," when 70,000 eastern American Indians were uprooted from their homes in the 1830s and forced to move west to reservations.

However, what was a tragedy for many Indians was a success story for the Cherokees, and doctoral candidate Devon Abbott is unfolding more and more of that story as she does research for a dissertation on the Cherokee Female Academy in Tahlequah, OK.

Devon, who is part Choctaw on her father's side, is one of 15 graduate students in the United States selected from among 165 applicants to receive an $18,000 Ford Foundation Dissertation Fellowship for her last year of graduate school beginning Sept. 1. She will continue to pursue her research at Tahlequah and at Mount Holyoke as she writes her dissertation.

The Indians were paid by the federal government to move, explains the Fort Worth woman, and the Cherokees used that money wisely, building not only the very proper girls' school but also a boys' school; an orphanage; an asylum for the deaf, dumb, blind and insane; and a seminary for their black slaves.

The Cherokee Female Academy, which existed from 1851 to 1909 and became the nucleus of Northeastern Oklahoma State University, drew most of its principal teachers from among graduates of Mount Holyoke. Young women of the academy received a New England-style education. Each student had to sing and play an instrument, attend daily chapel and walk three miles each day. Daily room inspection was conducted with white gloves. One-third of the 160 graduates became teachers and school administrators; most married white men; and all were active in Democratic politics.

In the course of her research, Devon has turned up excellent photographs of seminary classes, showing elegant young ladies with stylish bouffant hairdos, wearing bustles and carrying frilly parasols.

Both the University of Oklahoma Press and Nebraska Press have indicated an interest in publishing her dissertation after its completion next year.

SPRING GRADES SLIP FROM 1987 LEVEL

Grade-point averages for the spring semester in seven categories show decreases from spring terms in both 1987 and 1986. Figures for fall and spring terms dating from 1981 are included in a report issued May 18 by Dean Libby Proffer.

Of the 13 residence halls for which grade averages are compiled, nine had lower GPAs this spring than a year ago. The combined GPA for all residence hall students this spring was 2.886, down from 2.916 in 1987. Increases in grades were shown for Brachman Hall with a 2.743 average; Jarvis, 3.188; Milton Daniel, 2.596; and Wiggins, 2.938;

Five sororities had grade-point averages of 3.0 or above. One predominantly black sorority with a membership of five had a 3.224 GPA. According to the report, the sorority with the lowest GPA of 2.834 was higher than all the fraternities, excepting Lambda Chi Alpha with a 2.869 GPA. The fraternity average was 2.640, down from last spring's 2.737.

Figures for the last five spring terms include:

EVENT SET TONIGHT IN CORPUS CHRISTI

A complimentary barbecue supper is on the agenda tonight for TCU alumni and friends in Corpus Christi. The informal event is sponsored by graduates Brent Chesney, Bob Corrigan and Richard Crews along with Joe Fulton in conjunction with the alumni association.

HARTMAN TO HEAD KENTUCKY WESLEYAN

Paul Hartman, vice chancellor for University relations and development since 1977, will become the 27th president of Kentucky Wesleyan College on Sept. 1.

Announcement of the appointment was made May 25 in Owensboro, KY, by David Hocker, president of Kentucky Wesleyan College's board of trustees and head of its presidential search committee. Dr. Hartman was chosen from an initial field of more than 100 applicants from throughout the nation. Date for his inauguration will be announced later.

"All of us at TCU are deeply grateful to Dr. Hartman for his many contributions to our life and work," said Chancellor Bill Tucker. "He has played a major and, indeed, crucial role in the rapid development of the University over the last 11 years. We will miss him greatly, no doubt about it. Paul Hartman will provide strong and thoughtful leadership for Kentucky Wesleyan College."

With 25 years' experience in development and public relations, Dr. Hartman formerly held positions in these areas at the University of Evansville, Albion College, Colorado College and Ohio Northern University.

Since Dr. Hartman began as vice chancellor here, gift income to the University has increased from $5.2 million to $15.4 million in 1987. Voluntary gift support to the University has totaled more than $130 million during that period.

Dr. Hartman will succeed President Luther White, who assumed the presidency of the liberal arts institution in 1979. Earlier this year he announced plans to retire and to return to his home state of Virginia. Dr. Hartman will become only the second president of the college who does not come from the clergy. Previous to the selection of President White, whose academic training and experience were as an attorney, the first 25 KWC presidents were Methodist ministers. Three of the institutions Dr. Hartman has served were affiliated with the Methodist Church, and his father was a Methodist minister.

Holder of the Ph.D. degree in higher education administration from Michigan State University, Dr. Hartman earned the bachelor's degree in English from Asbury College and a master's degree in journalism from Southern Illinois University.

CONFERENCE ON AGING IS THIS WEEK

Harris College of Nursing is among sponsors of Conference on Aging—"Caring for our Elderly" to be held Friday in the LifeCenter at Psychiatric Institute of Fort Worth and Saturday at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine.

TCU speakers will be Ann Kirkham, discussing "The Angry, Hostile, Combative Elderly Patient: Nursing Assessment and Interventions," and Katy Nichols, whose topic will be "The Depressed Elderly Patient: Nursing Assessment and Interventions." Katy and Mildred Hogstel were Harris College representatives on the planning committee.

TRAGEDIES STRIKE STUDENT FAMILIES

During the 1987-88 academic year, more than 130 students experienced deaths in their families. A summary of information was prepared by Dean of Students Libby Proffer for sharing with "faculty and staff members who have been understanding, helpful and supportive" of these students.

The report shows the following:

- Nineteen students lost parents in the last nine months. This compares with 12 during the preceding 12 months;
- Documented deaths of grandparents totaled 105;
- There were nine uncle deaths, eight deaths of aunts and one death of a legal guardian;
- Two students died during the year.

"Most of these students had never experienced a death in the family before," Libby explained. "Understanding by faculty and staff members helps them to cope with their grief. I wanted to express my appreciation to all who were helpful to these young people."

DANCE SESSIONS TO BE HELD IN JULY

Intensive workshops in ballet and modern dance will be offered during July. For students aged 13 and older, the sessions will be held July 5-17 and July 17-29. A combined four-week course in ballet, modern dance, jazz variations, composition and pointe also will be offered during that time.

The two-week sessions, offered on a non-credit basis only, will require a minimum of three classes per day Monday through Saturday. Enrollment is open to dance teachers as well as students with at least three years of dance training.

The faculty, headed by Stephanie Woods, will include Ellen Page Garrison and Michael Kelly Bruce for modern dance and, for ballet, Lisa Fusillo and artist-in-residence Thomas Enckell, former dancer with the Metropolitan Opera Ballet and soloist with the Finland National Ballet.

Registration deadlines are June 20 for the first session, July 5 for the second. Information may be obtained by calling the ballet and modern dance department at Ext. 7615.

UPWARD BOUND IS LARGEST YET

Between 75 and 80 high school students, the largest number in the 18-year history of TCU's Upward Bound program, will spend 10 weeks studying and working on campus this summer.

In addition to academic courses, the college-bound teen-agers also will participate in Career Counseling/The World of Work, daily classes that will focus on resume writing, job interview skills and tax information.

Taking part in the program, which began Sunday and will continue through July 15 with four weeks of work on campus to follow, will be regular Upward Bound participants, Job Training Partnership Act students referred by The Working Connection and Fort Worth Independent School District and a few students who fall into both categories, explained Upward Bound director Charles Latham. Their job placements here will be in secretarial work, data entry, library and clerk/filing positions.

The 26-member summer staff includes several Upward Bound success stories. Tutor counselors Veronica Meeks and Vidalina Trevino both took part in Upward Bound at TCU, graduated here and now teach in Fort Worth high schools. Hamida Abdal-Kallaq, a Fort Worth middle school vice principal, received Upward Bound training in Massachusetts.

ORIENTATION SESSIONS BEGIN JUNE 15

The first of seven summer orientations for new students begins June 15. The three-day sessions provide opportunity for incoming freshmen and their families to become more familiar with the University, to gather useful information and to meet new and continuing students.

An eighth session, designed specifically for transfer students, will be conducted Aug. 16-17.

The orientations will be held June 15-17, 19-21, 22-24, 26-28 as well as June 29-July 1, Aug. 11-13 and Aug. 14-16. The last two sessions will be reserved for those who live more than 500 miles from Fort Worth and are not able to attend in June.

UNIVERSITY CALENDAR GOING TO PRESS

The 1988-89 University Calendar/Student Handbook is going to press soon. Normally the calendar is distributed to each student, faculty and staff member.

Unfortunately, said Dean Elizabeth Proffer, in the last couple of years several departments have asked for fairly large quantities of the calendar after the printing is complete. Anyone needing the calendar/handbook for persons other than faculty and staff should notify Libby before June 20. Send her a note to Box 32917 indicating the number needed and how they are to be used; otherwise quantity orders will not be filled.

TCU IN THE NEWS

Religious News Service, covering a symposium on the resurgence of religion in politics April 5-6 at North Texas State University, quoted MIKE DODSON (political science) as saying it is obvious that "in the 1980s, modernization has certainly not led to the eclipse of traditional religions, neither in highly developed countries like the United States nor certainly in the so-called developing countries of the Third World."

He and other participants cited as evidence the protests against Chinese Communist rule of Tibet led by Buddhist monks last fall, prominent roles played by Roman Catholic clergy in the toppling of dictatorships in Haiti and the Philippines in 1986 and the presidential campaign of Pat Robertson as a banner around which American evangelicals have gathered.

The most pressing concern young people have about attending college is paying for it, CHARLEEN MCGILVRAY of admissions told the Star-Telegram in an April 25 article on Paving the Way, a program to encourage students to start preparing early for college. TCU is one of several Texas colleges and universities participating in the program by visiting area middle schools.

Ranch Management's GARY WILSON was pictured in the Cleburne Times-Review following his recent presentation on the program at a meeting of the Johnson County Agri-Business Breakfast Club.

The annual Rat Olympics staged by students in ROGER THOMAS' (psychology) experimental psychology class was featured April 26 on KXAS-TV.

"An undying devotion" was the headline for the Dallas Morning News April 27 feature on FERNANDO SCHAFFENBURG (ballet), who is retiring after 24 years on the faculty. Complemented by a color photo of Fernando and his wife, alumnus Karen, the feature traced his lifelong dedication to the art.

Computer Center director FRANK FORNEY was interviewed in early April by WFAA-TV regarding the high-tech hazard known as computer viruses. He described these as "something that somebody somewhere wrote with the intention of sabotaging, modifying or changing data."

ARMY ROTC's annual raft races on the Trinity were pictured in the Star-Telegram's Southwest EXTRA section April 27-28. The caption reported that about 120 students participated in the watery event.

The recent QUINO CLUB reunion drew the attention of the Star-Telegram's CLICK, the pictorial portion of the paper's IMAGE section. Shown in the May 4 issue were alumni LESBIA ROBERTS, who heads the organization of those who graduated 50 or more years ago, CATHERINE CHAPPEL and JEWELL WALLACE.

In its series on honesty, KXAS-TV interviewed persons on campus, including ART BERLINER (social work) and DOLORIS BLACK (Student Center). One segment, which aired May 5, involved a TCU student finding a billfold planted by KXAS-TV as an honesty test and turning it in at the Information Desk.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

Brite student NANCY SUMMER was the subject of a feature story in the May-June issue of AURA Magazine. She serves as youth director for Genesis Methodist Church.

"Dietetics majors find new purpose" was the headline in the Dallas Morning News People section May 8 for the feature on KRISTIN KELLEY and KATHY COCHRUM, whose senior research project was developing a new program designed to refurbish U.S. Air Force wellness programs across the nation. They spent much of the spring semester lecturing and counseling military personnel at Carswell Air Force Base.

International student REENA DANIEL, originally from India and now a permanent U.S. resident, recently had an article published in WorldSpeak, a new magazine for international students in North America. Originally written for a freshman composition course, the article describes some of Reena's impressions of the United States when she first came here as a child.

New trustee CLARK JOHNSON along with trustees JOHN ROACH and JOHN JUSTIN and alumnus BILL MICHERO was among chief executive officers in Tarrant County who were featured in Tarrant Business, the Star-Telegram's new business section, May 23 in an article entitled "How to Get to the Top."

Journalist ANANTHA BABBILI along with his wife, Christi, and daughter, Laura, were featured in the recent Star-Telegram feature entitled "Culture clash," which called attention to "the meshing of Indian and American values and traditions among Asian families in the Metroplex." The threesome was pictured in a color photo.

"TCU professors work to revamp how calculus is taught" was the Dallas Morning News headline on May 26 for a feature on the work being done by CHARLES DEETER and BOB DORAN (mathematics) to make such studies more relevant and "livelier" to students fearful of such studies. Charles chairs the calculus study committee of the Texas section of the American Mathematics Association.

The importance of allowances in teaching children about finances was the subject of Steve Rassenfoss' Star-Telegram column on May 29. Among those quoted was LINDA MOORE (social work) who noted that "if you never give them an allowance, you never say what is too much or too little."

"Cash for class designed to aid self-esteem" was the Star-Telegram headline May 29 for a story about Tarrant County Junior College's College/Career Prep program designed to provide the basics while boosting students' self-esteem. Quoted in the story was CHARLES LATHAM, TCU Upward Bound director.

TENNIS CENTER RECEIVES AWARD

The Mary Potishman Lard Tennis Center was one of four recipients for the Fort Worth Beautiful Award, established in 1987 to encourage the private sector to consider the environment and aesthetics as developments were planned. The honor is sponsored by the Fort Worth Garden Club, Fort Worth Clean City and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The honor was announced May 20 at a ceremony and reception held at Rivercrest Country Club. Accepting for TCU was Robert Sulak, landscaping superintendent. Other winners were the Cityview development on Bryant Irvin Road, Lubrication Engineers Inc. of Airport Freeway and George W. Staples and the University West Neighborhood Association for Triangle Park at Rogers Road and Parkhill Drive.

TCU's tennis center, a gift of the Mary Potishman Lard Foundation which provides funding for ground maintenance and annual plantings, was constructed in 1976. The 25-acre grounds now include 400 trees and 11 major beds for seasonal plantings. The award citation noted that all the acres are under irrigation and "the 15 tons of fertilizer and 10,000-12,000 pots of bedding plants contribute to make this place a splash of color."

NEW FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

RICHARD YANTIS, who joined the Computer Center staff in 1983 as systems analyst in Management Information Services, became MIS lead systems analyst on June 1. Holder of the B.B.A. from TCU, he formerly was senior software engineer with General Dynamics for four years.

A member of the Neeley School faculty since 1974, ARNOLD BARKMAN will become acting chair of the accounting department with the opening of the fall semester. The appointment is for one year.

JAMES COMER, who came to TCU in 1981 from UTA, has accepted a three-year reappointment as computer science chairman. Holder of the Ph.D. from Texas A&M, he is author of studies published in a number of professional journals.

DARRYL M. TRIMIEW, an attorney who is completing his Ph.D. degree in theology, has been named lecturer in Church in Society at Brite Divinity School beginning with the fall semester. A native of Newark, NJ, he is a graduate of Barrington College and earned his law degree at Rutgers School of Law. After practicing law for six years, he returned to Northern Baptist Theological Seminary to earn the M.A. in theological studies and is completing his doctorate at Emory University.

Effective June 1, titles for four persons in student affairs/residential living division were changed. These include designations for EMILY BURGWIN, now associate director of housing; WANDA OLSON, assistant director of residential living; KAY HIGGINS, associate director and coordinator of orientation; and BARBARA BROWN HERMAN, coordinator of alcohol and drug education.

Effective June 1, CATHY CRUZ assumed the position of assistant director of development information services. She joined that office two years ago as research technician.

ATHLETES ACHIEVE ACADEMICALLY, TOO

In addition to their accomplishments in athletic endeavors, 13 students compiled 4.0 (straight A) grade-point averages for the spring semester. The cumulative GPA for 339 Horned Frog student-athletes was 2.64, and 107 of the total had averages over 3.0.

Women's teams in golf, swimming and basketball had GPAs over 3.0, football had a 2.4 GPA and men's basketball a 2.3.

The 4.0 athletes along with their sports and majors are Jared Shope, baseball, business pre-major; Carol Glover, basketball, journalism/English; Susan Warren, basketball, business pre-major; Tommy Sharpe, football, finance/M.B.A.; Teresa Windholz, golf, business pre-major; Kevin Faciane, soccer, nutrition; James Lloyd, soccer, arts and sciences pre-major. Swimmers include Claude Tate, English; Catherine Boyd, kinesiological studies; Rachel Eason, arts and sciences pre-major; Natalie Heidrich, management; and Jill Hintz, business pre-major. Track and field is represented by Lesley Croxton, a psychology major.

TYLER, WICHITA FALLS ON ITINERARY

Gatherings of alumni and friends in Tyler and Wichita Falls are on Coach Jim Wacker's schedule for next week. "Reaching New Heights" will be his theme for both presentations.

The East Texas event will be held June 13 at the Tyler Petroleum Club under the sponsorship of the TCU Tyler Association, headed by David and Suzi Harris Teegarden, both of the Class of '68.

Hangar 94 at Kickapoo Airport will be the site for the Wichita Falls event on June 15. Sponsors are alumni and friends of TCU, according to chairman Connie Sparks.

RESIDENCE RESERVATIONS SLOWER

Reservations for residence halls for fall are arriving somewhat slower than a year ago. According to a reservations status report as of May 15 issued by Assistant Vice Chancellor Don Mills, applications are down 3.1 percent or 97 students compared with 1987. Most of the decrease is among new students.

On-campus housing will accommodate 3,228 persons. This figure is 206 over last year because of the addition of Moncrief Hall.

Highlights of the report include:

- Freshman male students have decreased by 73 (16.4 percent)
- Transfer male students have decreased by 14 (56 percent)
- Freshman female students show no change from a year ago
- Continuing students have decreased by only two persons (0.1 percent)
- Reservations are presently at 92.8 percent of capacity.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Commencement, a composition for concert band by CURT WILSON (music), has been accepted for publication by William Allen Music of Marlowe Heights, MD, and will be available in late summer.

JULIA D. BAXTER (retired, housekeeping) died May 14 in a Fort Worth hospital. Services were conducted May 18 at Greenway Baptist Church, where she was a member.

Journalism majors REGINA HATCHER of Houston and TERESA DIANE WOOLRIDGE of Arlington have won scholarships from the Texas Gridiron Club, Society of Professional Journalists--Sigma Delta Chi, Fort Worth Chapter. Awards will be given at a banquet tonight (Tuesday).

MIRTH SHERER (emeritus, history), who now lives in San Antonio, suffered a broken pelvis in a fall there. Cards may be sent to her in care of Capt. and Mrs. Cort Nance Jr., 6603 Springhaven Drive, San Antonio 78249.

Badge #21 of the campus police force has been retired. The silver badge was mounted on a handsome plaque and presented to RAYMOND MAPHIS by the campus police. The inscription reads "In appreciation for 13 years of dedicated service to the TCU Police Department, August 1974-November 1987."

BOB DORAN (mathematics) attended the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, NJ, May 18-22. Chairman of the Western U.S. region of the Association of Members of the Institute, Bob was re-elected to a two-year term as a trustee and will serve in this capacity through May of 1990.

TEOBY GOMEZ, GAIL ZIMMERMAN and ROBERTA CORDER (Center for Academic Services) presented a workshop entitled "Integrating the Myers-Briggs Type Inventory into a Self-Assessment and Career Exploration Course" at the National Academic Advisors Association Region VII Conference in Little Rock, AR, May 15-17. Participants unfamiliar with the Myers-Briggs Type Inventory also had an opportunity to attend an introductory workshop conducted by Roberta. The conference theme emphasized developmental advising.

Former students and colleagues of Dean GEORGE TADE have provided endowment to Greenville College, IL, to name the dean's office at that institution in honor of George, who served as professor and dean there for 13 years.

In addition to being featured in a column with a color photo in the April-May issue of Parenting Adviser, JULIAN HABER (adjunct, speech and hearing) recently made a presentation on Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) to the South Texas chapter of the American Academy of Family Practice at South Padre Island. He also has taught a post-graduate continuing medical education seminar at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine during the spring.

SERVICES HELD FOR OLIN

Funeral services for Charlotte Olin, recently retired as special collections librarian, were held June 1 at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, and burial was in Greenwood Memorial Park. The West Virginia native died May 29 in a local hospital following a brief illness.

Married May 8 to Hugh Watson, Charlotte was a member of the library staff from 1982 until she retired two years later. In 1986 she assumed the special collections position and retired for a second time last year. Formerly a librarian with the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History, she was with the Fort Worth public schools for two years before being named librarian at the Kimbell Art Museum in 1974. She held that post until 1981.

Charlotte, a resident of Fort Worth for some 30 years, attended Sweet Briar College and earned a bachelor's degree in geography from Wellesley College in 1946. She held the Master of Library Science degree from Texas Woman's University. Past president of the Monday Book Club, she was well known in music and museum circles. Past president of the English Speaking Union, Charlotte was active in the Fort Worth Lecture Foundation, Daughters of the American Revolution, The Westerners, Les Amis du Vin, Friends of the TCU Libraries and Tarrant County Historical Society.

Survivors include her husband, Hugh Latimer Watson; four daughters, including Sarah Olin Grace of Fort Worth; two stepsons, James Watson of Arlington and Robert Watson of Fort Worth; and two stepdaughters, Jane Watson of San Antonio and Sue Watson of Seattle. The family suggests memorials to favorite charities.
