SEPT. 19 EVENT WILL CELEBRATE TRADITION

The 90 years of football tradition, dating from that first game in 1896 against Toby's Business College when TCU was AddRan College in Waco to the start of the 1986 season, will be celebrated Friday at the Proud Purple kickoff party.

The event, to be held at the Amon Carter Jr. Exhibit Building, will begin with a 7 p.m. social hour. A pep rally with the TCU Band, Showgirls and cheerleaders will precede the 8 p.m. fish fry buffet. Reservations, set at $15 each, are due in the alumni office by Sept. 17.

Unlike this year's six-game home schedule that opens Sept. 20 in Amon Carter Stadium against the Wildcats of Kansas State, that first season included only three games. The match with Toby's was won 8-6 by the robust group of AddRan students who had banded together to form a team. The opponent for the other home games in 1896 was the Houston Heavyweights, also from Waco. By the next season, the team had a coach and beat Texas A&M for the first time. But it was five years later in 1902 before the team was named the Horned Frogs. That same year the institution's name became Texas Christian University.

Coach Jim Wacker will be the speaker for the Proud Purple celebration. Special entertainment will be provided by TCU's award-winning Dixieland band.

Heading the steering committee are Class of '64 graduates Ken and Jane Wiggin Gudgen. Assisting them are Bill and Sandy Barnes, Greg and Terri Wilson Blackmon, Mike and Lynn Robertson McKendrick and George and Rosemary Johnson Runion.

SERVICES CONDUCTED FOR DEAN EMERITUS MOORE

Funeral services for Dean Emeritus Jerome Moore, who died Aug. 31 in a local hospital, were conducted Sept. 3 at University Christian Church. Officiating were Drs. J. M. Moudy, A. M. Pennybacker, Granville Walker and Charles Sanders. Burial was in Laurel Land Memorial Park.

Dean Moore, well known for his concern for others and his love for the University, spent some 30 years as a member of the faculty and administrative staff and was regarded as TCU's most knowledgeable historian. As Skiff editor while a student, he was in charge of the special edition in honor of TCU's golden anniversary. He was chosen to head the committee to plan and to direct the 75th anniversary celebration in 1948, an assignment he described as a "labor of love." When he was named dean emeritus of the University in 1973, one of his two assignments was to edit an updated history. Titled "Texas Christian University: A Hundred Years of History," it was issued by the TCU Press as part of the 1973 centennial observation.

Born Aug. 9, 1903, in Rio Vista and reared in Jourdanton, Dean Moore entered TCU in 1920 on a valedictorian's scholarship. He taught Spanish in the University's academy and served as a student assistant in biology before completing the B.A. degree in 1923. He was ordained to the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) ministry and employed by Shreveport's Central Christian Church to organize the Jewella (now Fair Park) Christian Church.

Dean Moore taught a year in Corsicana before returning to campus as a graduate student and part-time instructor in Spanish. After completing the master's degree in 1927, he was a graduate teaching fellow at UT-Austin. He was on the Spanish faculty at Texas Woman's University, then known as College of Industrial Arts, in 1928-43 and co-directed its summer program in Mexico.

In 1945 Dean Moore returned to TCU to head the foreign languages department, a position he held until 1959. He led the courses of study committee in 1943-70, the AddRan College curriculum committee in 1943-58 and directed summer school programs in 1943-63. Holder of the Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania, he was secretary of the board of trustees until after he retired in 1972, when he was named emeritus dean of the University.

When TCU's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was installed in 1971, he was one of three faculty members/alumni designated as foundation members. He became the first person to be awarded an honorary degree while still active on the faculty or staff when his alma mater bestowed the Doctor of Laws degree in 1968. Among his other honors was the Good Neighbor Award from the Fort Worth chapter of the International Good Neighbor Council in 1973. One of the men's residence halls on Worth Hills bears the name of Martin-Moore Hall in honor of the late athletic director Abe Martin and Dean Moore.

Dean Moore and his wife, alumna Ruby Scott, were married in September of 1928 in the Mary Coutts Burnett Library. Performed by the late Dean Colby D. Hall, the ceremony was the first of two held in the building. In addition to his wife, Dean Moore is survived by a son, Jerome A. Moore II, a grandson and a granddaughter, all of Tulsa. Memorial contributions can be made to TCU or University Christian Church.

WOMAN'S CLUB TEA IS SEPT. 16

The traditional tea opening the new year for TCU Woman's Club will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Sept. 16 in the Chancellor's Dining Room. Co-chairpersons for the day are Margaret McWhorter, Toni Newton and Nell Robinson.

Joining club president Audrey Campau in the receiving line will be past presidents Regina Boehm, Judy Smith and Carol Jane Lawrence.

A shuttle van will be available to bring guests from the coliseum parking lot to the Student Center. Audrey says members who have not paid their $10 dues may do so at the tea, and yearbooks will be available there. Members also will have an opportunity to join special interest groups, including bridge, hobbies, theatre and luncheon group.

NURSES CELEBRATE 100 PERCENT PASSING RATE

Several Fort Worth residents who completed their baccalaureate degrees in May were present Sept. 4 to welcome incoming freshmen and transfer students at an informal reception. The social, planned as a get-acquainted event for newcomers to the Harris College of Nursing program, was held in the living room of the Bass Building.

A celebration of 100 percent of this year's Harris College of Nursing graduates in Texas passing the National Council Licensure Examination for Registered Nurses was a highlight of the event. Several of the 22 who took the exam in Texas were present.

The average nursing graduates passing the state board examinations is 90 percent from institutions across Texas, according to Dean Pat Scarse. In 1983 one of TCU's nursing graduates, Patti Newcomb, was among the highest scoring in Texas. The following year Linda Perrin of TCU had a perfect score on the test.

GRANNELL TO PLAY FLUTE RECITAL

Flutist Janis Grannell, accompanied by Judy Fisher, will perform a TCU Music Series recital at 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The Monday evening recitals are broadcast live over KTCU-FM, 88.7.

Opening her program with Bach's Sonate III in E Major, Janis also will perform works by four 19th and 20th century composers, Carl Reinecke's Ballade, Op. 288; Reverie and Petite Valse by Andre Caplet; Concierto Pastorale by Joaquin Rodrigo; and Benjamin Godard's Suite de trois morceaux, Op. 116.

RECEPTION HONORS SCHOLARSHIP HOLDERS

Some 75 new students who are recipients of Chancellor, Deans, National Merit and Phi Theta Kappa scholarships were present Aug. 25 for the first scholars reception hosted by the Office of Admissions. Welcomed by Chancellor Bill Tucker and Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler, the honorees were challenged to become leaders in every phase of their campus life.

Admissions dean Ned Boehm asked each recipient to name a high school teacher who had been most influential. He plans to send letters of thanks to those teachers.

FISCAL '87 GIFTS TOTAL $1,004,797

Gifts to TCU through the end of July totaled $1,004,797. This figure encompasses those gifts made during the initial two months of the 1987 fiscal year, according to Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman's report to the development committee of the board of trustees.

The total includes:

- $183,097 to the Annual Fund
- $298,978 in restricted gifts
- $388,721 for endowment of programs and services
- $134,000 for facilities projects.

Dr. Hartman called the committee members' attention to progress toward capital fund goals. A new commitment of $150,000 from Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has brought the total commitments for the $8.2 million project for the School of Business to within $500,000 of the goal. Nearly $5 million has been given or pledged for the residence hall-dining facility for athletes. According to Dr. Hartman, at least $1.1 million is needed for the food service portion of the project with the final amount pending cost estimates.

PARHAM SERVICES HELD WEDNESDAY

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at First United Methodist Church for Paul Parham, head of Mary Coats Burnett Library since 1965 and a former associate dean of the University. Burial was in Greenwood. Officiating were Bob Olsen along with Drs. Barry Bailey and William Longworth of First Methodist.

Paul died Aug. 31 after a lengthy illness. His family suggests that contributions be made to Friends of TCU Libraries.

A native of Paris, Paul attended junior college there and earned B.A. and M.L.S. degrees from the University of Texas. He received the Ph.D. from the University of Denver in 1964. Paul taught at George Peabody College in Nashville and Panhandle State College in Goodwell, OK, and was head librarian at Northeastern State College in Tahlequah, OK, for a year before coming to TCU. He served as visiting lecturer at Texas Woman's University in 1974.

During Paul's tenure, in the winter of 1981, the library acquired its one millionth volume, a rare edition of John Froissart's "Chronicles," published in London during the years 1523-25. Two years later the library was almost doubled in size, bringing its capacity close to two million volumes. Paul also was instrumental in the organization of Friends of TCU Libraries early in 1972.

He took a lead in establishing and developing the InterUniversity Council of North Texas and served the Association for Higher Education for North Texas in a variety of elective and appointive positions. President of the Texas Library Association in 1976-77, he also had served as treasurer of the Council for Educational TV in Tarrant County.

Paul was a member of First United Methodist Church; Texas Historical Association; Association for Higher Education; American, Southwestern and Texas library associations; American Association of University Professors; advisory council of TWU's School of Library Science; and editorial advisory board of TCU Press.

Survivors include his wife, Mary, and three brothers, W.H. Parham Jr. and Porter Parham, both of Paris, and Charles Parham of Dallas.

SEPT. 16 DATE FOR PLANO 'SWEET TALK'

Alumni and friends of TCU in the Plano area as well as parents of current students will gather Sept. 16 for a TCU "Sweet Talk." The evening of conversation and dessert will be held at Plano's Gleneagles Country Club, beginning at 7:30 p.m., according to Connie Harrington Eikenburg, president of Harrington Homeplace Inc., who is coordinating the social event.

A special guest will be Paul Hartman, vice chancellor, who will make informal remarks.

PEKING DANCER TO BE ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE

The Department of Ballet and Modern Dance will host Li-Chou Cheng, former principal soloist of Peking Ballet Company, as guest artist-in-residence Sept. 15-19.

Cheng's daily classes in ballet technique, variations, pointe and supported adagio will be open for viewing. During his residency, he also will set choreography on selected University dancers who will perform Cheng's work "Chopin Etudes" together with other faculty works on the TCU Autumn Dance Concert Oct. 31-Nov. 2 in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Currently a faculty member at the University of Utah and ballet master of Utah Ballet Company, Cheng was born in Shanghai and studied at the Peking Ballet School under Pyoter Gushev, artistic director of the Kirov Ballet who chairs professional dance at the Leningrad National Society.

In 19 years with Peking Ballet Company, Cheng danced leading roles in such Kirov classics as Swan Lake, Le Corsaire, Le Esmerelda and in contemporary Chinese ballets. Cheng also served as ballet master, rehearsal director and chairman of dancers for the Peking Ballet from 1966 to 1980.

Cheng came to the United States in 1981 and spent a year in New York studying modern dance at the Nikolais/Louis Dance theatre while teaching at the Asian-American Dance Theatre. He has been a guest teacher at Ballet West, Repertory Dance Theatre, Indianapolis Ballet Theatre, National Ballet School of Canada and at several other universities.

COFFEE WITH COACHES BEGINS TOMORROW

Tomorrow (Wednesday) is the date for the first of three "Coffee with the Coaches" events planned for the fall semester. Open to faculty and staff members, the informal gatherings provide opportunity to get better acquainted with the coaching staff and maybe even suggest a few "trick" plays for the upcoming season.

Donuts and coffee will be served from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. in the football office in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

NOTES ON FOLKS

BEN PROCTER (history) presented a paper at the American Historical Association Convention meeting in Honolulu in mid-August. His topic was "William Randolph Hearst and The San Francisco Examiner: The First Year."

ROGER RAINWATER (library) and wife Vickie are the parents of a baby boy, Thomas Walter Edward, born Aug. 20.

C.A. QUARLES (physics) has received notification that a research paper entitled "Inelastic Scattering of 120 keV Electrons from Carbon, Aluminum, Vanadium, and Silver Foils" has been accepted for publication in the journal Physics Letters. The paper is co-authored by SAYED SALEHKOUTAHI, who completed his Ph.D. in August and currently has a post-doctoral position in experimental atomic physics at Texas A&M.

ODETTE BRUNEAU (curriculum and instruction) will present a paper on "Youth Suicide" at the National Conference for Adolescents with Behavior Disorders in Minneapolis on Sept. 14.

During the summer JIM KELLY (chemistry and honors program) presented two research papers at the 4th International Conference on Reaction Mechanisms sponsored by The Royal Society of Chemistry at The University of Kent at Canterbury, England. Papers were entitled "Substituent Effects in the Hydrolysis of Quinoline-Boranes," co-authored with colleague DAVE MINTER and undergraduate scholar CURTIS KELLY, and "Peroxidatic Intermediate Formation from Deuterioferriheme and Selected Oxidants," co-authored with former post-doctoral fellow SRITANA YASUI and graduate student RICK RODRIGUES.

While in England, Jim also met with PETER JONES at The University of Newcastle-upon-Tyne in on-going collaborative work and visited with TCU Marshall Scholar KATHRYNE BRETSCHER (TCU class of 1982) who has recently completed her Ph.D in chemistry at Newcastle. During their stay, Jim and Lu Kelly also visited the Sellafield Nuclear Fuel Reprocessing Facility in Cumbria.

"Media Mannequins: How They Influence People" was the topic for the Sept. 8 presentation of BILL JURMA (speech) to the Fort Worth chapter of International Association of Business Communicators.

DALE YOUNG and ODETTE BRUNEAU (education) recently conducted a teacher in-service session on teacher-made tests in the Keller ISD.

During the summer JOHN LOUD (modern languages) participated in a two-month seminar for college teachers sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities at Princeton. The group of 12 professors was selected from an applicant pool of over 100 by Victor Brombert, a comparative literature scholar known for his work on the prison symbol in modern society and literature--this summer's topic. John made two extensive presentations to the group--one on Dostoevsky and the second on Solzhenitsyn, two survivors of collective prisons who have contributed work of international importance to the growing body of imprisonment literature.

TCU IN THE NEWS

"Frosh year a puzzle to Pepsi generation" was the headline for the Star-Telegram's back-to-school feature on Aug. 20. In addition to several TCU students quoted, KAY HIGGINS (residential living) noted that students come to campus "with a variety of questions, anxieties and misconceptions." According to ANNE TRASK (student activities), some 60 percent of the freshmen join a fraternity or sorority their first semester.

While participating in the 13th Chicano-Latino Theatre Festival July 27-Aug. 3 in Cuernavaca, Mexico, DON FRISCHMANN (modern languages) gave his views regarding differences and similarities between Chicano and Mexican independent theatre that were featured in a July 31 article published in the Mexico City daily El Dia. His upcoming participation in that event was announced in a July 18 article published in the Mexico City daily La Jornada.

Philosophy chairperson GREGG FRANZWA was the subject of a lengthy feature that appeared in the Aug. 24 issue of the Dallas Morning News. In the article, subtitled TCU department chief concentrates on explaining human nature, he states that "if you talk their (students) language completely, then you're not educating them. You've got to pull them up."

The impact radio disc jockeys' chatter has on teen-agers was the subject discussed by JACK SCOTT (Counseling Center) in an Aug. 22 interview on KXAS-TV.

Sculptor HARRY GEFFERT is one of 16 Fort Worth/Dallas artists featured in the upcoming book, "50 Texas Artists: A Critical Selection of Painters and Sculptors Working in Texas," according to the Aug. 24 issue of Dallas Life Magazine. The volume, set for a Nov. 1 release, is published by Chronicle Books of California.

NADIA LAHUTSKY (religion-studies) was among persons commenting on refinement in Catholic beliefs during a KXAS-TV news segment on Aug. 22.

The TCU PRESS was credited with continuing "to bring back some excellent novels...reprints of classic Texas works" in the Dallas News Aug. 23 story, "A fall bumper crop of Texas books."

TCU folks are mentioned in the various news media, and the Ryan Place Newsletter is no exception. The August issue of the publication for residents of Fort Worth's Ryan Place area pays tribute to NEIL DANIEL (English) as "the Pied Piper of this hamlet" for his work as director, composer and lyricist for the July 4th celebration staged there.

MELISSA GROVES (family studies and home economics) with co-authors Janet Sawyer of Virginia Tech and James Moran of Oklahoma State have been notified that their article, "Reward and Ideational Fluency in Preschool Children," will be published in a future issue of The Early Childhood Research Quarterly.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

The importance of academics first and athletics for fun was the message of Coach JIM WACKER as he discussed the impact of Proposition 48 on athletes during a KDFW-TV newscast that aired Aug. 25 and 26.

"Professors say textbooks gloss over ethnic history" was the headline for the Star-Telegram's Aug. 25 story. Among those quoted were MORRISON WONG (sociology) and MARVIN DULANEY, former intercultural affairs adviser who now teaches history at UTA. They agreed that "textbook publishers choose profits over details of ethnic history."

The Aug. 14 issue of The Stethoscope, published by Fitzsimmons Army Medical Center in Colorado, included findings of a research study titled "An Analysis of Predictor Variables of the Passing Scores on Army Physical Readiness Test" done by DENISE ZANECCHIA (Harris College). Denise, a colonel in the Army Reserve, is scheduled to conduct a research protocol on volunteer members of the 94th General Hospital to determine if daily physical conditioning exercises make a significant difference in passing the Army's physical readiness test.

In its Sept. 1-2 issues the Star-Telegram focused attention on the effect of the Texas economy on colleges and universities, taking note of the financial aid available to students. Quoted in the articles were LEO MUNSON (financial aid) and Student Life dean LIBBY PROFFER. Sophomore DENISE GIESEA of Santa Ana, CA, was photographed as she shopped for textbooks.

Sponsored by Student Activities, Recreation Sports and Student Alcohol Awareness committees, the "Celebrate the New Age" mock-tail party on Sept. 1 was covered by KDFW-TV on its 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. newscasts on Labor Day. Vice Chancellor PEGGY BARR's comments on the age change aired throughout the day on KRLD, KPLX-AM and KLIF-AM Radio.

Coach JIM WACKER discussed the education of college athletes during a televised sports special Aug. 29. Channel 8 sportscaster Dale Hansen hosted the live broadcast from the Galleria in Dallas.

KIRK DOWNEY (business), discussing the rising enrollment in business schools on KRLD Radio, attributed most of the increase to women entering the business field.

JANET GEORGE (admissions) was the guest Aug. 17 on KDLZ-FM for its live call-in program that airs weekdays from 8 to 9 a.m.

Economist EDWARD MCNERTNEY was interviewed by WBAP Radio, discussing the present state of the Texas economy.
