TCU SETS $68,550 AS UNITED WAY GOAL

A total of $68,550 is the goal for TCU's United Way campaign, which begins Sept. 22 and concludes Oct. 3. The annual campus effort offers a single occasion for all University faculty and staff members to join together in assisting 55 non-profit human service organizations and programs that operate 274 service centers in Tarrant County and Burleson.

The 1986 goal represents a 5 percent increase over the $65,286 total contributed last year. The 1985 campus goal was the largest set to that date. Contributors last year numbered 1,357 active and 34 retired persons.

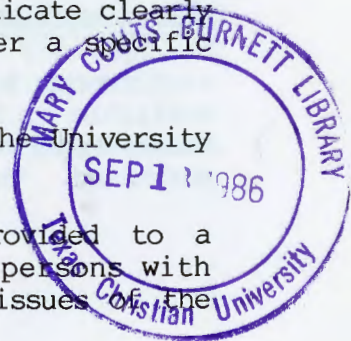

Of every dollar given to United Way, 92.1 cents goes directly into services for people in the Tarrant County area. It is due to the unselfish time and effort donated by some 15,000 volunteers that only 7.9 cents is used for fund raising and year-round administrative costs.

TCU-related persons play roles of leadership on boards of organizations supported by United Way in addition to their participation as volunteers for the agencies that provided services more than 661,432 times last year. "The meaning of these efforts comes to life when you or a member of your family has received help," noted Associate Vice Chancellor Larry Lauer, who is this year's campaign chairman.

Informational materials and pledge cards will be distributed to unit heads this week, and pledge cards and/or contributions will be due in the vice chancellors' offices Oct. 2. As in the past, gifts can be made in three ways: payroll deduction, cash or check returned with the pledge card and a pledge with a request that the donor be billed by the United Way. Instructions for payroll deductions, which will extend over a 10-month period, must be noted on the pledge cards. These should indicate clearly whether the total amount is to be divided by 10 or whether a specific amount is intended each month for each of the 10 months.

Campaign operations will be coordinated by Ruth Hubler in the University relations office, Sadler Hall 312.

Special sections detailing assistance United Way has provided to a TCU-related person as well as the involvement of campus persons with various agencies will be featured in the Sept. 23 and 30 issues of the Weekly Bulletin.

TCU PRESS ISSUES WORKS BY WEEMS, SANDERS

A classic study of Texas by Edward Weems and the colorful story of Fort Worth by Leonard Sanders and Ron Tyler are being issued by the TCU Press. Both volumes are available in the bookstore.

The history of the Republic of Texas is one marked by "heroism sometimes unappreciated, cowardice unerasable, wisdom occasionally unrecognized, follies uneradicable." So writes Weems in his "Dream of Empire: A Human History of the Republic of Texas, 1836-1846," which has been reprinted as the fourth volume in the TCU Press Chisholm Trail Series.

Weems and his wife, Jane Homeyer Weems, who served as his research assistant on this project, studied diaries, letters and journals to uncover the details that add depth to history. Concentrating on the lives of 12 individuals--some as famous as Mary Maverick and others less well known--Weems has woven those details into a compelling narrative marked by an even, measured style and enlivened by flashes of wry wit. First published in 1971 by Simon & Schuster, "Dream of Empire" won the Amon G. Carter Award for the best book of Southwestern history from the Texas Institute of Letters.

Weems of Waco and Austin is a well-known Texas historian and the author of several books, including the recent "If You Don't Like the Weather..." from Texas Monthly Press.

From outpost on the Trinity River to brawling trail drive town and then meatpacking, oil and rail center, Fort Worth boasts one of the liveliest histories of any city in the American West. In "How Fort Worth Became the Texasmost City 1849-1920," with text by Sanders and picture captions by Tyler, that history is told in rare old photographs. The accompanying text focuses on significant and colorful events, among them some of the most dramatic stories in the history of the Old West. Together, photos and text convey a sense of the past and the forces which shaped the present.

"How Fort Worth Became the Texasmost City," first published in 1973 by the Amon Carter Museum, has been reprinted in an entirely new edition by TCU Press as a Sesquicentennial project.

Sanders is a Fort Worth novelist, author of the historical saga "Fort Worth," "Sonoma," "The Hamlet Ultimatum" and others. Tyler, a TCU alumnus, formerly of the Amon Carter Museum, is director of the Texas State Historical Association.

JUST A REMINDER...

...tickets for the TCU-SMU "bowl game" Sept. 27 in the Cotton Bowl are available to faculty and staff members as well as students for $15 each at the Daniel-Meyer Coliseum ticket office. A TCU ID is required for each ticket purchased. The limit is six per person.

NEW CAREER FAIR IS SEPT. 24

The first annual TCU Career Fair will attract 40 prospective employers to campus from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sept. 24. Rather than interviewing individual candidates for specific positions, the organizational representatives will visit informally with students of all levels--freshman through graduate--about potential career opportunities. Faculty members also are encouraged to take part in the discussions.

Participating in the fair, sponsored by Career Planning and Placement Center, will be hospitals, insurance companies, government agencies, home product manufacturers, retail firms, several "Big Eight" accounting firms, banks and financial service companies, computer sales and service firms, an equipment leasing company, D-FW airport, Dallas Appraisal District and Tarrant County Mental Health-Mental Retardation.

HARRIS COLLEGE PLANS TODAY'S ASSEMBLY

With "Around the World with TCU and the HCN Globe Trotters" as its theme, today's all-college assembly of Harris College of Nursing will bring together all four of the nursing classes with faculty members as the official start of their academic year. The event, held annually and open to interested persons from across campus, will begin at 5 p.m. in Room 141 of the Moudy Building. Refreshments will reflect the international theme.

Students, asked to dress in costumes representing their home state or country, will take part in a parade of states and countries. More than 20 states and 6 foreign nations are represented in this year's HCN enrollment.

Assistant vice chancellor Ned Boehm will give a brief "State of TCU" address, followed by a "State of Harris College" address by Dean Pat Scarse. Also taking part will be University minister John Butler, Kay Thornton of nursing/admissions and Alecia Armstrong, president of the Student Nurses Association.

BAND GIVING SPECIAL PERFORMANCE THURSDAY

For the TCU Ex-Bandsmen Association, the Horned Frog Band will give a special performance Thursday in Amon Carter Stadium. Open to the public, the free event will begin at 7:30 p.m. The event will feature a preview of the band's first public appearance of the season, set for the Sept. 20 football game here against Kansas State. Refreshments will be served.

A meeting of former band members will be held following the performance, announced Ex-Bandsmen Association president Paul Dods.

BIBLICAL SCHOLAR RECEIVES CHANCELLOR'S AWARD

New Testament scholar Bill Baird, member of the Brite Divinity School faculty since 1967, was presented the 1986 Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching during fall convocation Sept. 9. Endowed by an anonymous TCU alumni couple, the two-part honor includes a $5,000 cash award in recognition of outstanding accomplishment as a teacher in addition to a $5,000 check intended to cover the variety of expenses which the awardee feels will most enhance his contributions as a teacher and scholar. Given this year for teaching, the honor is bestowed for research and creative activity in alternate years.

Bill was selected by Dr. Tucker for the honor from among nine faculty members recommended by nominating committees of their colleagues. The distinguished nominees included Robert Doran, Ken Lawrence and Linda Moore, all of AddRan College of Arts and Sciences; Stan Block of the M.J. Neeley School of Business; Ben Strickland, School of Education; Bill Jurma and Fernando Schaffenburg, School of Fine Arts; and Linda Curry, Harris College of Nursing.

Holder of the master's and Ph.D. degrees from Yale, Bill is widely recognized for his scholarship regarding the New Testament and his focus on the apostle Paul. His earliest book, issued in 1960, was "Paul's Message and Mission." Later volumes have included "The Quest of the Christ of Faith--Reflections on the Bultmann Era" and "I and II Corinthians," issued by Word Publishing Company in 1980. His studies have been published in leading religious journals and dictionaries.

Bill was editor of the New Testament and Cognate areas in the Dissertation Series for the Society of Biblical Literature in 1979-84. He also has been on the editorial board for the Journal of Biblical Literature and one of the Network of Scholars for Religious Studies Review.

Holder of the Bachelor of Theology degree from Northwest Christian College, the B.A. from the University of Oregon and the B.D. degree from Yale Divinity School, the California native began his seminary teaching career at Phillips University in 1952. He was a professor of New Testament at Lexington Theological Seminary prior to joining TCU's faculty. His post-doctoral studies were done at the universities of Marburg and Heidelberg in Germany and the School of Theology at Claremont, CA.

Bill, whose interests in geography and photography complement his scholarly pursuits, has presented endowed lectureships at Yale Divinity School, Drake Divinity School, the Disciple Divinity House of the University of Chicago and Culver-Stockton College. For the Disciples of Christ, he serves on the Panel of Scholars, Commission on Restructure and Commission on Theology and Unity. A delegate for the Society of Biblical Literature to the American Council of Learned Societies, he holds membership in the Association of Disciples for Theological Discussion and Studiorum Novi Testamenti Societas.

GRADUATES PUT PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT IN HIGH STANDING

The psychology department's doctoral program is one of nine in the country whose graduates have received the American Psychological Association's highest honors. Dr. Ludy T. Benjamin, Class of '71 and a professor of psychology at Texas A&M, won the APA's Distinguished Teaching Award for 1986. In 1976 Dr. J. Arthur Woodward, Class of '73 and a professor of psychology at the University of California at Los Angeles, won the APA Early Career Award, recognizing outstanding research.

Only nine doctoral programs in the country have produced winners in both categories, said Malcolm Arnoult (psychology). The other eight are the University of California at Berkeley, Columbia, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Stanford, University of Texas and Yale.

Another outstanding graduate of the program is Dr. Don W. Walker, Class of '68 and professor of neuroscience at the University of Florida College of Medicine. In 1983 he won the Research Career Scientist Award from the Veterans Administration.

JUST A REMINDER...

...Friday (Sept. 19) is deadline for Who's Who nominations to be returned to Dean of Students office.

NOTES ON FOLKS

BOB FRYE (English) published a piece of autobiographical fiction entitled "Grandpa Isaac's Farm" in the spring 1986 issue of Cross Timbers Review.

An article by JOYCE BECK (English) entitled "Denise Levertov's Poetics and Oblique Prayers" has been published in the spring 1986 issue of Religion and Literature.

"A Radical Critique of Behaviorism: Mead vs. Skinner" is the topic of sociologist MIKE KATOVICH's manuscript that has been accepted for publication in Studies in Symbolic Interaction, Vol. 8. He also has been notified of acceptance of his manuscript, "Inauthenticity, Suspicion and Honor," for publication in Information, Communication and Social Structure.

The paper given by JOHN BREYER (geology) at the International Symposium on Coal and Coal-Bearing Sediments in London last April will be published in the Journal of Geological Society. The title of his paper is "A Tidal Origin for Coarsening-upward Sequences Above Two Wilcox Lignites in East Texas."

CATHY COLLINS (education) conducted several inservice training programs in August for the following school districts: Northeastern Cooperative, Everman, Specialists Conference of Tarrant County and Stephenville. The topics included time and classroom management as well as study skills and creative teaching strategies.

"The Battle of the Alamo," a monograph by BEN PROCTER (history), has recently been published by the Texas State Historical Association.

BETTY BENISON (physical education) and MILDRED HOGSTEL (nursing) have been informed that their article, "Aging and Movement Therapy: An Essential Nursing Intervention for the Immobile Elderly" will be published in the December issue of the Journal of Gerontological Nursing.

CARLA DUMESNIL (design and fashion) recently received word that her paper, "Bureaucracy as a Human Ecological Force," was accepted for the 1986 Society of Human Ecology Conference to be held in October at the College of the Atlantic in Bar Harbor. She also is scheduled to participate on the conference's interior environment panel.

DAVID LAMBERT (geology) recently talked to faculty and students at the Universidad Autonoma de Nuevo Leon in Linares, Mexico, on "Petrology and Geochemistry of Alkalic Rocks of the Trans-Pecos Magmatic Province," which summarized the results of Debra Malek's M.S. thesis, and "Fundamentals of Isotope Geology," which was translated into Spanish. David and KEN MORGAN (geology) spent three days in Linares becoming familiar with the research interests of the faculty and establishing potential cooperative research areas in the state of Nuevo Leon.

BOB FRYE (English) published a piece on autobiographical fiction entitled "Grandpa Isaac's Farm" in the Spring 1986 issue of Cross Timbers Review.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

Indiana was the site of two recent lectures by DAVE EDMUNDS (history). He spoke on Indian diplomacy for the Indiana Historical Society on Sept. 6 and on patterns of Indian leadership at the George Rogers Clark Memorial in Vincennes on Sept. 7.

CAROL STEPHENSON (nursing) addressed the August meeting of the Fort Worth Better Breathers Club on "Getting to Know Your Medicines."

Funeral services were held Sept. 10 in Cleburne for GLISSON WRIGHT, formerly associated with the registrar's office. She died in a nursing home after a lengthy illness. Survivors include a sister, PEARL MEALS, who was former secretary to the late "Bear" Wolf, placement center director, prior to her retirement.

LUTHER SMITH (art) is one of 18 Texas photographers whose work is included in Texas 150: New Texas Photography, a sesquicentennial exhibition on view at the Houston Center for Photography through Oct. 12. His work is from the High School Rodeo Series. The exhibition will move to the Southwest Crafts Center in San Antonio in January.

"Mythopoeic Consciousness and the Structure of Willa Cather's 'Death Comes for the Archbishop,'" an article by CHRISTINA MURPHY (English), has been accepted for publication in the Winter issue of the North Dakota Quarterly.

A recent volume of The Journal of The Chemical Society, Faraday Transactions I, contains a paper co-authored by JIM KELLY (chemistry and honors program) with Drs. Brian Robinson and Anne Hersey of the University of Kent, Canterbury, England. The paper is entitled "Mechanism of Inclusion-compound Formation for Binding of Organic Dyes, Ions and Surfactants to  $\alpha$ -Cyclodextrin studied by Kinetic Methods based on Competition Experiments." The paper describes collaborative research some of which originated when Jim was on sabbatical leave in the Fast Reaction Laboratories at the University of Kent. Research was supported by the Welch Foundation as well as The Science and Engineering Research Council and the Wellcome Foundation of Britain.

Three members of the English department read papers at the Penn State Conference on Rhetoric and Composition in July: JIM BAUMLIN's topic was "Psyche and Logos: Mapping the Terrain of Mind and Rhetoric"; JIM CORDER's was "Using Rhetoric Toward Culture Criticism"; and ESTHER HUCKABY's was "Megatrends and Rhetoric."

Physicist BRUCE MILLER spent three weeks in June at the Aspen Center for Physics. He participated in a workshop in classical and quantum chaos with former post doctoral student K. RAVISHANKAR. Bruce was in Boston Aug. 11-16 for STATPHYS 16, the triannual international meeting in statistical physics sponsored by the International Union of Pure and Applied Physics. He presented three papers: "Gravity in One Dimension: Selective Relaxation" (with graduate student CHUCK REIDL), "Mean Field Theory of Localization in a Classical Fluid" and "Lyapunov Characteristic Exponents for a Discontinuous Dynamical System" (with RAVISHANKAR and graduate student HALIM LEHTIHET) and was a co-author of two others. The article "Numerical Study of a Gravitating Billiard" by Bruce and Halim appeared in the August issue of Physica D.

FACULTY AND STAFF APPOINTMENTS, CHANGES

A member of the Neeley School faculty since 1978, TERRY DIELMAN has accepted appointment as interim chairperson of the finance/decision sciences department for the 1987 spring semester. Holder of the Ph.D. from the University of Michigan, he is the author of several studies published in the Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis and Journal of Forecasting.

A specialist in child development and early childhood, MELISSA GROVES has joined the family studies and home economics department. The Pennsylvania State alumna currently is completing the Ph.D. at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, where she was a graduate research assistant while earning the master's degree.

Alumnus GLENN FOGLE, Class of '82, has joined the finance/decision sciences department as a lecturer for 1986-87. Former vice president of Bronze Company of Oklahoma, he is working toward the M.B.A. degree. Last year he was a dean's special graduate assistant.

Formerly a programmer for Southwestern Public Service for three years, MICHAEL TEN EYCK joined Management Information Systems on Sept. 1 as a programmer/analyst. The Nebraska native earned the B.B.A. degree from Texas Tech in 1982. Prior to coming to campus, he was a programmer/analyst for Cactus Feeders.

TCU IN THE NEWS

"High-risk students need early identification" was the title of the article by JULIAN HABER (Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic) that appeared in the fall issue of the Beacon, the publication of the Fort Worth Classroom Teachers Association. He called attention to TCU research on children judged by their parents to be hyperactive or to have short attention spans.

Journalists ANANTHA BABBILI and DOUG NEWSOM returned to Fort Worth from an international communications conference in New Delhi, India, shortly before the hijacking incident with Pam Am Flight 73. Concerned about some of his colleagues scheduled to be flying out of India about that time, Anantha was interviewed by KDFW-TV on Sept. 6 and was the subject of a Star-Telegram feature that day.

Among the potential problems with the proposed tax law is the opportunity of parents to save for their children's college expenses. That was the subject of a Star-Telegram story Sept. 7 that quoted financial aid director LEO MUNSON.

"Shopping for Auditors: Bargain Hunting Leads to Questionable Practices" was the title of an article by MICHAEL KNAPP (business) that appeared Sept. 8 in Dallas Inc., the weekly business magazine published by the Dallas Times Herald.
