TCU HOSTS TOP EUROPEAN ORGANISTS

A pair of brilliant young European artists--Olivier Latry, titular organist of Paris' Cathedral of Notre Dame, and Johannes Geffert, organist and conductor of the choir and orchestra of the Kreuzkirche in Bonn, West Germany--will perform in the TCU organ festival Oct. 20-22. Latry's performances will be his first in the United States.

Each organist will play a concert of music from his native country, including an example of improvisation, in order that Fort Worth audiences may compare the German and French styles of composition, playing and improvisation, said Emmet Smith.

An active recitalist who has performed here in recent years for enthusiastic audiences, Geffert will play at 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. His program will include Choralfantasy: "How Brightly Shines the Morningstar" by Dietrich Buxtehude; Fantasy and Fugue on "Wie schon leuchtet der Morgenstern" by Heinrich Reimann; Johann Gottlob Topfer's Sonata in D minor; Legend I: "St Francis of Assisi Preaching to the Birds" and Variations on a theme of J.S. Bach: "Weeping, Wailing, Sorrowing, Sighing," both by Franz Liszt. He also will play three hymn tunes in three distinctive styles traditional to the German Lutheran Church.

Geffert's master class in German organ music will begin at 3 p.m. Oct. 21 in Robert Carr Chapel. His recital and master class are made possible by a grant from Dr. and Mrs. William R. Gardner of Fort Worth.

A 35-year-old native of Bonn, Geffert was appointed organist of the historic Annakirche in Aachen in 1974 and conductor of Aachener Bach Choir. There he established the Bach Festival. Since 1980 he has been organist at the Kreuzkirche, Bonn's largest church. He also is organist of that city's Beethovenhalle and teaches at the Robert-Schumann-Institut Dusseldorf.

Born in 1962 in Boulogne-sur-Mer, Latry was at age 18 the only European finalist in the International Organ Competition of Chartres. From 1981 until 1985 he was titular of the great organ of Meaux Cathedral. His appointment at Notre Dame at the age of 23 was the result of a competition.

Jean Langlais, famed blind organist of Paris, has said Latry is the most wonderful talent to be heard since Marcel Dupre was a young man.

The Latry program, beginning at 8 p.m. Oct. 21 in Ed Landreth Auditorium, will consist of Hymne Veni Creator by N. de Grigny, a canon and a toccata by A.P.F. Boely, C. Franck's Choral No. 1, Trois pieces de fantaisie by L. Vierne and Prelude, adagio et choral variee sur le Veni Creator by M. Durufle, as well as improvisation on submitted themes.

The French organist's master class will be at 3 p.m. Oct. 22 in Robert Carr Chapel. His appearances are sponsored by TCU's Sue Wheeler Smith Memorial Endowment Fund.

DEADLINE NEARS FOR TRUMAN SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS

Students planning a career in government and public service are urged to consider applying for the Truman Scholarship Program. Candidates should be sophomores; competition for the program is such that only a student with a high GPA and a record of public service and activity in public affairs has a reasonable chance for selection, said Gene Alpert of political science. Candidates compete against other students from their home state, and 52 scholars will be chosen at large. Truman Scholars receive awards up to $6,500 per year for four years.

Interested students are to contact Gene at Ext. 7468. A campus committee will screen applicants and select three nominees. Applications must be made to Gene by Oct. 17; a short essay on a public policy issue chosen by the student is due on Oct. 31.

DALLAS CLARK SOCIETY WILL MEET

The home of 1965 alumni Dan and Judy Thompson Tomlin will be the site of the by-invitation event set for Oct. 16 for Dallas-area members of the Addison and Randolph Clark Society. Special guests for the buffet-dessert social will be Chancellor and Mrs. Bill Tucker along with Dallas trustees. Joining them will be trustee John Roach and Jean Roach, who is Clark Society chairperson.

Coordinating the gathering is Harriet Eaker Adams, Class of 1965. With the Texas Sesquicentennial as its theme, the program will include vignettes presented by students and faculty members of the School of Fine Arts.

1932 FROG TEAM PLANS REUNION

Members of the Frogs' 1932 Southwest Conference championship team will meet on campus Saturday for a day-long schedule of events. The Alumni Association-sponsored reunion is being chaired by Lon Evans, three-year letterman who was named All-SWC lineman in 1932.

The Student Center will be the setting for the 11:30 a.m. luncheon, where former athletes will tell favorite stories about the team, the coach or incidents during their student days. After a bus tour of the campus, they will be honored during halftime ceremonies at the TCU vs. North Texas game and later at a by-invitation reception at Colonial Country Club.

On Nov. 11, 1932, the Purple team blanked the University of Texas 14-0 before a homecoming crowd of 21,000 plus. The game that decided that season's SWC title winner is recorded as one of the "20 great ones" in TCU football history books.

The team included current Fort Worth residents Foster Howell, Slim Kinzy, Johnny Kitchens, Madison Pruitt, Jack Shackelford, Otha Tiner, Judy Truelson and Jewell Wallace. Others were Richard Allison of Dallas; Lynn Brown and J. W. Townsend, Austin; Rex Clark, Beeville; Jack Graves, Palestine; Wesley Greene, Wimberly; Jack Langdon, Granbury; Wallace Myers and Cy Perkins, Jacksboro; Red Oliver, Weatherford; Dan Salkeld, Amarillo; Elbert Walker, Lake Jackson; and Johnny Vaught of Oxford, MS. Don Smith of Taylor was team manager. Members of the team now deceased were Woodson Arnes, Ben Boswell, Buster Brannon, Charlie Casper, Lee Bassinger, Hubert Dennis, Heard Floore, Dan Harston, Jimmy Jacks, S.L. Phelps, Blanford Spearman, Doc Sumner, Bud Taylor, Ellis Taylor and student manager Lee Glasgow.

HARVEY ANDERSON TO PLAY FRIDAY

Harvey Anderson and his 16-piece orchestra will salute big bands during a performance in the Student Center Lounge at noon Friday.

The public is welcome, and admission is free, said Curt Wilson, director of TCU Jazz Ensembles.

Anderson, longtime Fort Worth area band leader, is a TCU ex-student and a former Horned Frog drum major. His hour-long concert is under the auspices of the American Federation of Musicians and the National Association of Jazz Educators.

SERVICES HELD OCT. 8 FOR DR. ALICE NEELEY

Funeral services were held Oct. 8 at University Christian Church for Dr. Alice S. Neeley, a behind-the-scenes volunteer philanthropist who is well known as one quietly active in numerous service fields and civic organizations. A native of Waco and an alumna of Baylor University, she died early Oct. 7 following a lengthy illness.

Especially involved in the establishment and support of Starpoint School, Mrs. Neeley and her husband, TCU trustee M.J. Neeley, presented a gift to TCU in the early 1960s for a five-year study and research project in training teachers for children with perceptual handicaps often mistaken for retardation. That study led to the 1966 founding of Starpoint School when the Neeleys brought Mrs. Marguerite Slater, widely experienced educator and pioneer in the field, to TCU as the school's principal.

Dr. Neeley established the Alice Neeley Special Education Fund in 1974 to provide tuition for credit to as many as 10 junior and senior students seeking special education endorsement through Starpoint's program. In 1962 Mrs. Neeley began the Frances Sadler Scholarship to be awarded annually to a deserving student for performance and leadership during the freshman year. In 1976 TCU conferred the honorary Doctor of Laws degree upon Mrs. Neeley, noting that "her mind's eye and heart have always searched for unmet needs, and her hand has always extended its help quietly."

In 1975 Mrs. Neeley shared with her husband, who was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree by TCU in 1967, the Senior Citizen of the Year award presented by the Women's Civic Club Council. During the 19th annual award event, then-Mayor Clif Overcash cited the couple for "a lifetime of opening doors for others, especially children." The Neeleys were among founding members of the President's Endowed Scholars program at Texas A&M University, his alma mater.

In 1977 Dr. Neeley was honored by the Altrusa Club of Fort Worth as its 33rd "First Lady of Fort Worth." In addition to being recognized at that time for her contributions to teacher training and long-term study of disabilities in children, she was honored for her service to the Girls Club of Fort Worth.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Neeley is survived by two daughters, Marian Neeley Nettles of the Bahamas and Kathleen Neeley Williams of Sedona, AZ, and Fort Worth. The family has suggested that memorials be made to Starpoint School or a favorite charity.

ARMY ROTC CAPTAIN TO BE PROMOTED

Capt. James Bright of Army ROTC will be promoted to the rank of major tomorrow (Wednesday). The ceremony will be held in the Faculty Center at 10:30 a.m. All faculty and staff are invited to attend and to congratulate Jim on his advancement.

MARY WONG TO PERFORM HERE THURSDAY

Mary Wong isn't a little Chinese lady. Mary Wong is, however, three funny men from the Far East--the far east side of Chicago--who will be performing at noon Thursday in the Student Center lounge.

Tim Miller, Kevin Norman and Ali combine comedy writing skills and improvisational abilities to bring Mary Wong to life. Known for urban wit and sophisticated satire, the troupe has performed at such comedy clubs as Stand Up New York, Catch a Rising Star in New York, Zanies in Chicago and The Comedy Connection in Boston.

The comedians also have made concert appearances with Whitney Houston, Ray Charles, The Four Tops, Temptations, Kool and the Gang and B.B. King. Mary Wong has been nominated for 1987 Comedy Artist of the Year by the National Association of Campus Activities.

JAZZ FUSION BAND TO PERFORM TONIGHT

The jazz fusion group No Compromise, whose music incorporates reggae, pop, Latin and vocals, will perform tonight (Tuesday) in the Student Center ballroom at 7:30.

The five-member band was formed five years ago at Texas Tech University. In addition to engagements there and at Eastern New Mexico University, the group has opened concerts for Gil Scot-Heron, Stanley Clarke, George Howard and numerous others. The group has performed with artists ranging from Oscar Peterson to the Busboys to Joe Ely and the Blasters. The band's first album, entitled "No Compromise," was released in February.

The performance is sponsored by Programming Council's Concerts Committee. Tickets are $2 with a TCU ID and $5 for the general public; they are available at the Student Center information desk or at the door. Refreshments will be served.

NEW COURSE SET, ANOTHER EXTENDED

The Computer Center is offering a new short course on data communication, and its MS DOS class has been extended.

A lecturer from Gandalf Data, the company that supplies the University's terminal to mainframe communication equipment such as line drives and line misers, will be the speaker for the data communication class on Oct. 15. Sessions will be offered at 2 and 4 p.m. in Room 143 of the Sid Richardson Building.

The MS DOS class has been extended to Oct. 21 and Oct. 23. Meetings will be from 2 to 4 p.m. in Room 313 of Dan Rogers Hall.

NOTES ON FOLKS

JENNIFER WATSON (Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic) was invited to participate in the conference entitled "Stuttering: Brain Functioning and Linguistic Processing" Sept. 24-26 at Northwestern University.

ARCO Oil and Gas Company has given JOHN BREYER (geology) a $1,000 grant to support work by his students on the geology of the Wilcox Group.

ANN LIEBERTH (Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic) was invited to present a workshop on speech and auditory training of the hearing impaired adolescent at the University of Minnesota at Duluth Sept. 26-28.

CHERIE LOHR (education) presented a paper, "A Forum for Change: The TCU Superintendents' Council," at the annual convention of the Texas Association of School Administrators and the Texas Association of School Boards in San Antonio Sept. 28.

Adjunct professor JULIAN HABER (Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic) attended the 64th American Academy of Texas Pediatric Society, Chapter American Academy of Pediatrics, held Sept. 26-28 in Corpus Christi. Moderator of a panel on developmental pediatrics, he presented a paper entitled "The Role of the Pediatrician to the Potentially Handicapped Child--Value of Early Identification and Neonatal Risk Factors."

Associate vice chancellor NED BOEHM was a member of the faculty for the conference on Effective Admissions-Volunteer Programs Oct. 9-10 in St. Louis. Co-sponsors of the meet were the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) and the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers (AACRAO).

HERB BRUBAKER (financial aid) presented two financial aid seminars at the recent College Night, during which more than 130 colleges and universities provided information to prospective students and their parents. Some 2,000 persons attended the Oct. 1 event sponsored by high school counselors from 12 high schools in the Fort Worth school district.

A large volume by RICHARD FORRER (religion-studies), "Theodices in Conflict: An Ethical Dilemma in Puritan Theology and 19th Century American Literature," has been published by Greenwood Press.

HARRIET RISK WOLDT (music) has been busy with programs for local organizations. On Sept. 17 Harriet, assisted by SHEILA MADDEN (music librarian) and Beth Abbate, gave a program entitled "Has Anyone Seen a Gamba Lately" for the Night Newbies of the Fort Worth Woman's Club. This same group, joined by VANESSA KLIMEK, graduate student in cello and gamba, provided music for the annual TCU Fine Arts Guild brunch Sept. 18. On Oct. 7 Harriet gave a short lecture-demonstration of the gamba for St. Cecilia's Guild at Trinity Episcopal Church.

TRUSTEE IS BREAKFAST SPEAKER

Trustee Rodger Meier of Dallas was the speaker today for the second in a series of breakfasts for Dallas-area alumni and friends. Planned by the TCU Dallas Association in conjunction with the M.J. Neeley School of Business, the 7:30 a.m. event was held at Park City Club.

A member of TCU's Class of 1946, Meier is chairman of the board of Rodger Meier Cadillac. He has headed the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, the Dallas/Fort Worth Airport board and the committee that pushed for the largest school bond election in the Dallas Independent School District's history. Currently he heads the Salesmanship Club.

HONOR DUE ALUMNUS DURING OCT. 17 EVENT

Fort Worth native Horace Carswell, who died in 1944 when he piloted a one-plane strike against a Japanese convoy in the South China Sea, will be honored Friday during the celebration of the 40th anniversary of Carswell Air Force Base's association with the Strategic Air Command. At that time, his body, recently exhumed from Rose Hill Memorial Park, will be reburied in a new memorial park near the 7th Bombardment Wing headquarters at the base that bears his name. The park was built with $170,000 in private donations.

The 1939 TCU graduate was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor, Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal and Purple Heart. Four years after Maj. Carswell's death on Jan. 30, 1944, Fort Worth's new military installation was formally named in his memory.

After Carswell's B-24 bomber was crippled by enemy fire during the low-level attack, he headed toward China and ordered his crew to bail out. He stayed on board to assist some wounded crew members and was killed when the plane crashed and burned on a Chinese mountainside.

COLLEGE BOWL SIGN-UP UNDER WAY

The varsity sport of the mind returns to campus as College Bowl hopefuls form teams for the campus playoffs. Students wanting to participate can sign up in the Student Activities Office through Oct. 22. The competition to choose four players and three alternates to represent TCU at the regional competition will be held Nov. 11-13. Additional information is available from Jan Graser in Student Activities, Ext. 7926, or Lisa Federwisch at 926-4738.

CADET EARNS TOP HONOR IN ROTC REGION

Senior economics major Paul Warren has been named the top non-scholarship Army ROTC cadet in the Third Region, which covers eight states and 68 ROTC programs. He received the $1,000 Creighton Abrams Memorial Award for his performance as a cadet. Last summer Paul was selected from hundreds of cadets to serve as cadet commander at the mid-cycle review during Advanced Camp. Airborne-qualified, he is this year's cadet corps commander at TCU. Paul is from Fayetteville, NC.

TCU IN THE NEWS

Two 1985 graduates, STEVE RYAN and AMY MILLER, are featured in the September issue of Business Week's Careers in an article entitled "Who Says You're Not Qualified?" The feature urged its readers not to "take yourself out of the running when your training doesn't match the job to a tee....Chances are you have more to offer than you might think." Holder of a degree in English, Steve was employed by Electronic Data Systems in Denver at the time of the interview. An interior design major, Amy is a cloth spreader with the textile design firm of Ferrell Reed Ltd. in Boulder, CO.

BILL JURMA (speech communications) drew on his expertise in the field of non-verbal communication in an interview with Mark Watkins of Radio KPLX on Oct. 6 in advance of the Mark White-Bill Clements debate. Bill and political scientist JIM RIDDLESPERGER were debate observers/commentators for KXAS-TV following the debate, and Bill also talked to Associated Press Radio News and to radio stations WBAP and KRLD.

The October issue of Fort Worth Magazine includes a story about the exercise program for older adults that has been developed by BETTY BENISON (physical education). Included with her in a photo are PAM HORTON (bookstore) and HOWARD PAYNE (Rickel Building).

"Colleges keep enrollments up with recruiting" was the headline for the Oct. 7 Star-Telegram story that quoted CHARLEEN MCGILVRAY (admissions) on TCU's recruiting program.
