EMILY GUTHRIE SMITH SHOW OPENS SATURDAY

A retrospective exhibition of 20 years of painting by the late Fort Worth artist Emily Guthrie Smith goes on display Oct. 26 in Moudy Building Exhibition Hall. Opening reception will be from 5 to 8 p.m. Saturday. The showing, continuing through Nov. 23, will be open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

TCU and the Longview Museum and Arts Center are joint sponsors of the exhibition, which was shown in Longview Sept. 21-Oct. 19. Included are paintings from a number of private collections in Fort Worth, Longview, Austin, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Hillsboro, Gladewater, from Oklahoma and from the artist's own collection.

Mrs. Smith died Oct. 10 in a Fort Worth hospital from a massive heart attack. A native of Fort Worth, she had been winning awards in local and national art shows since 1932. Her most recent prizes came from the Pastel Society of America, which named her to its Hall of Fame last year.

She had taught at the Fort Worth Art Center (now the Fort Worth Art Museum), at the Taos Institute of Creative Orientation and at TCU. The family suggests that memorials be made to the Emily Guthrie Smith Memorial Art Scholarship fund here or to the acquisitions fund at the Longview Museum.

In the exhibition catalog Donald L. Weismann, emeritus university professor in the arts at the University of Texas at Austin, writes of the phenomenal range of color in Mrs. Smith's pastels and oils and concludes that perhaps the most abiding quality of her work is a "dedicated and unremitting effort to give more perfect form to the illusive qualities of light.

"In a deep sense light is the subject of just about all of Smith's paintings," he continues, "no matter the subject matter. One often feels in looking at her paintings that the objects are there mainly to catch and reveal the prevailing light. And this in a deep sense would mean that Emily Guthrie Smith is more concerned with the great unifying force of light than with the objects that trap that light."

Art associations in Longview, Wichita Falls, Snyder, Tyler and El Paso and galleries throughout Texas have sponsored her one-woman shows, and the last retrospective was in 1966 at the Fort Worth Art Center. The current show covers her work since that time. Funding for the show's catalog came from the William and Catherine Bryce Memorial Fund and the Fifth Avenue Foundation, both of Fort Worth, as well as from the City of Longview Commission on Arts and Culture.

COLBY 'GHOULS' PLAN HALLOWEEN FUN

Billed as an "Evening of Halloween Fun," the Ghouls of Colby Hall are inviting faculty and staff members to bring their children in their favorite costumes to the residence hall on Oct. 31 for Halloween activities. Residents of Colby Hall will take the children for trick and treating throughout the dormitory. Musical entertainment and such seasonal games as bobbing for apples will be centered in the lobby. A haunted house, planned by residents of Pete Wright Hall, will be featured in the Colby Hall basement.

For parents who want to wait for their children, snacks will be served in the lobby. Parents also are welcome to take their smaller children from room to room, too, Jan added. Additional details are available from her at Ext. 7926.

CHILDREN'S ART CLASS BEGINS OCT. 23

An after-school art activity class for children ages 5 to 12 will begin Thursday. Continuing through Dec. 4, the 4:30-5:30 p.m. sessions will be taught by art education majors and supervised by their instructor.

"This lab class for TCU students will offer an exciting afternoon in art for children," explained continuing education coordinator Mary Alice Oatman.

Tuition for the Thursday afternoon sessions is $35 for the public, and enrollments for TCU personnel will be half price. Registration information is available from the continuing education office, Ext. 7134.

SOUTH AFRICAN MP IS FORUMS SPEAKER

Helen Suzman, longtime member of the South African parliament who opposes disinvestment and sanctions that will "wreck the South African economy," will speak Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium. A TCU Forums spokesperson says that a divestiture proponent, Themba Ntinga, observer to the United Nations for the African National Congress, will speak on campus Nov. 5.

The Suzman lecture topic is "Will South Africa Survive?" Tickets are $3 if purchased in advance at Brown-Lupton Student Center information desk, $4 at the door or $1 with TCU ID.

The outspoken South African has been a member of parliament since 1953 and for 13 years (1959-1972) was its only Progressive Party member. The party now holds 26 seats.

Ms. Suzman maintains that recent reforms in South Africa (such as opening major South African business districts to all races, making property ownership available to blacks in townships and providing for a nonracial identity document to replace the old pass books that inhibited the mobility of blacks) signify a change of direction away from apartheid.

Ms. Suzman maintains that the most practical way to get rid of apartheid is through an expanding economy, one that would integrate blacks as skilled workers. "Strike action and consumer boycotts--both of which can be used as temporary expedients, unlike disinvestment and mandatory sanctions--are the most powerful weapons for blacks to use to resolve important issues like political power-sharing," she wrote.

Ms. Suzman received the United Nations Award for Human Rights in 1978 and was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize annually from 1981 to 1984. She was presented the annual award of the New York International League for Human Rights in 1983 and the American Jewish Committee's Civil Rights Award in 1984. Ms. Suzman and Winnie Mandela shared the Freedom Prize awarded in Copenhagen in 1984.

CHAPEL CHOIR TO SING SUNDAY

The Chapel Choir, under the direction of Ronald Shirey will present its first full-length concert of the academic year at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Robert Carr Chapel.

From the anthem repertoire the choir will sing the Ken Jennings setting of "With a Voice of Singing" from Old Testament scriptures in Isaiah and the Psalms, "He, Watching over Israel" from the oratorio Elijah, Ave Verum Corpus by Mozart and Song of Praise by Carl Sitton.

Major presentation of the concert will be Vivaldi's Gloria, an oratorio from the Italian Baroque period. The Chapel Choir also will perform four of the Liebeslieder Waltzes of Johannes Brahms, featuring as pianists choir members Jennifer Wendt of Longview and Russ Strader of Atlanta, GA.

BRAZOS BAROQUE ENSEMBLE TO PLAY

Brazos Baroque, an ensemble devoted to performing 17th and 18th Century music on period instruments, will perform at 8 p.m. Monday in Robert Carr Chapel.

Ensemble members are Harriet Risk Woldt, playing viola da gamba and Baroque cello; David Hart, Baroque flute; and Lenora McCroskey of NTSU, harpsichord.

The Baroque flute has only one key and is constructed of wood. Lighter supports and shorter necks of Baroque string instruments set them apart from modern counterparts. The harpsichord, forerunner of the pianoforte, is a stringed keyboard instrument whose action plucks rather than hammers.

On the program will be Trio Sonata in D major by Jean-Marie Leclair, La Forqueray and La Medee by Jacques Duphy, Handel's Hallenser Sonata No. 2 in E minor for flute and basso continuo and V^e Piece de clavecin en concerts by Jean-Philippe Rameau.

TCU IN THE NEWS

JOHN MANGIERI (education) was quoted in USA Today on Oct. 8 in a story from the American Council on Education convention in San Francisco dealing with salaries of college presidents. A survey by USA Today found that college presidents earn an average $95,000 per year. Asked for a comment, John said he knows two insurance agents who earn $100,000 annually. "It's not surprising that college presidents are being paid as well."

The recent visit by modern languages' guest lecturer Carlos Villanueva was announced in advance in Novedades de Yucatán, Diario del Sureste and Diario de Yucatán, the three major newspapers of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, according to clippings supplied by DON FRISCHMANN (modern languages).

Radio station WWCN in Albany, NY, talked to DAVID VANDERWERKEN (English) during a two-hour sports talk show Sept. 10.

ART BERLINER (social work) was interviewed on KTVT Channel 11 concerning the recent court decision condemning deceptive practices by a phony abortion clinic. Art, board member of the Tarrant County chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, commented on the civil liberties aspects of the case.

Political scientist RALPH CARTER was one of two persons who provided an analysis of President Reagan's Oct. 13 television speech about the summit in Iceland for KXAS-TV.

"Prophet was a religious zealot: professor says" was the headline in the Sept. 8 issue of Indiana's Vincennes Sun for the feature story on historian DAVE EDMUNDS' presentation there for the Vincennes Historical and Antiquarian Society. The lengthy article was complemented by a photo of Dave with the organization's officers at the 175th anniversary of the Battle of Tippecanoe held at Vincennes University.

UNION PACIFIC EXECUTIVE TO SPEAK

John C. Kenefick, vice chairman of Union Pacific Corporation, will be the speaker for the Wednesday luncheon that will mark the start of the 1986 TCU/Tarrant County campaign. The noon event for the Annual Fund will be held in the Student Center ballroom.

A trustee of Princeton University and chairman of the board of directors of Creighton University, Kenefick was president and chairman of Union Pacific Railroad for 15 years before assuming his current position earlier this year. His career includes both operating and executive positions with the Denver and Rio Grande Western, Penn Central, New York Central and Missouri Pacific railroads.

Kenefick, recipient of the Brotherhood Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews in 1982, is past president of the greater Omaha Chamber of Commerce. A director of Clarkson Hospital and an honorary trustee of Joslyn Art Museum, he holds the honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

The 1986 TCU/Tarrant County goal of $1,405,733, part of TCU's overall budget-supporting total of $3.2 million, is the largest in the campaign's eight-year history. During the next six weeks, a task force of 500 volunteers will make gift requests for instructional and scholarship assistance, research and graduate education, athletics and general University support.

Under the chairmanship of William L. Adams, chairman and chief executive officer of Champlin Petroleum Company, efforts will be directed to TCU alumni, business leaders, foundations, parents of current students and other friends of the University by the volunteers, who are alumni of some 20 colleges and universities.

"TCU is a vibrant institution that plays a major role in the life of Tarrant County and far beyond," explained Adams, who headed campaign divisions in 1984 and 1985. "Gift support is the life line of an independent institution such as TCU."

Key positions in this year's drive are filled by four persons well known for their civic and business leadership. They are TCU trustee Alann Bedford, who headed the 1984 campaign; Dr. Don L. Smith, medical doctor and former TCU athlete who was vice president of the TCU Alumni Association; Ronnie Wallace, president of Ben E. Keith Foods; and S. Patrick Woodson II, president of the T.J. Brown and C.A. Lupton Foundation who headed the 1983 fund drive.

Describing the division managers as "an outstanding cadre of leaders and as dedicated to the University's cause as any I have ever worked with," Adams called attention to the 10-fold growth in dollars raised, in volunteers recruited and in contacts made since the annual effort began.

NOTES ON FOLKS

HAP KLINEFELTER (Counseling Center) presented a workshop on Sept. 12 entitled "Anger Management" for the staff of Fort Worth's CareUnit Hospital. The program was sponsored by the Tarrant County Mental Health Association.

On the weekend of Sept. 28-30, the geology department made its annual fall field trip to the Wichita Mountains near Lawton, OK. Trip leader NOWELL DONOVAN was accompanied by fellow faculty members JOHN BREYER, KEN MORGAN, DAVID LAMBERT and ART EHLMANN and 20 undergraduate and graduate geology students. Camping in the National Wildlife Refuge was especially interesting because many buffalo and, unfortunately, camp-raiding racoons were encountered.

LYNDA DAVIS (Management Information Systems) has been elected vice president-editor of publications of the Fort Worth chapter of the Data Processing Management Association. Last May she received the Master of Software Design and Development degree here and was installed into TCU's Upsilon Pi Epsilon chapter.

EMMET SMITH (music) played an organ recital in Eastland Sunday marking the first anniversary of the new Schantz pipe organ in that community's First Baptist Church. During the summer Emmet participated in an international symposium at Dartmouth on the music of Marcel Dupre. He has been a friend of Dupre since his Fulbright years in Paris in 1955-56.

In late July Emmet and John Weaver of Curtis Institute of Music taught master classes and played for services for the national convention of the Association of Disciple Musicians (Christian Churches). The conclave, drawing 268 musicians for a week of special activities, was held at TCU in observance of the 25th anniversary of ADM, organized here in 1961.

MILDRED HOGSTEL (nursing) spoke on "Communication Between Adult Children and Aging Family Members" at an Oct. 8 meeting at Ridglea Christian Church.

FRANK FORNEY, BENNETT FLETCHER and ROBIN MAYNE (Computer Center) attended an ACM User Services Special Interest Group (SIGUCCS) in Montreal from Sept. 29 through Oct. 1. Robin chaired a session on "New Directions in User Services" and participated in a panel discussing "Supporting the Administrative User."

ROGER PFAFFENBERGER MBank Professor of Management Science since 1981, is serving as interim chairman of the finance/decision sciences department this fall.
