CAROLS BY CANDLELIGHT TRADITION GROWS

In "Fiddler on the Roof," Tevye and his fellow villagers sing a lot about "Tradition." That's not included in TCU's annual Carols by Candlelight celebration at 10:30 p.m. Monday in Robert Carr Chapel--but it well might be.

The whole idea of Carols by Candlelight grew out of informal discussions on student retention and the notion voiced by many students that TCU lacked tradition. By 1975, the first year of Carols by Candlelight, Ranch Week had been abolished and Howdy Week reduced in scope. In addition, recalls Emmet Smith, there was no longer a Christmas convocation as there had been when the semester ended in January. "Everyone was too busy with final examinations."

For that reason, Emmet conceived the idea of a 30-minute caroling observance late at night when students were ready to take a study break anyway. Success was never a problem: Carr Chapel holds 400, and the celebration drew 700 that first year. It has always drawn standing-room-only crowds.

In the now traditional form, Emmet will play the carillon from 10:15 to 10:20 p.m., followed by ten minutes of carols performed by a brass ensemble under the direction of Richard Morgan. Then the service will begin with Emmet at the organ. The 30 minutes of audience caroling will be broken only by one number performed by University Christian Church Collegiate Bell Choir, "O Come All Ye Faithful" by Douglas Wagner, and an anthem, Jane Marshall's "He Comes to Us," by the TCU Chapel Choir directed by Ron Shirey and John Butler's. Christmas prayer is the only spoken part of Carols by Candlelight.

University Ministries provides hundreds of luminarias lighting the way to the chapel, whose decorations are made and installed by Rev. Charles Calabrese, Catholic campus minister, and John.

COME EAT WITH THE ELVES

Breakfast close to midnight may be late, but at least it's different when you get a chance to eat with Santa and his elves and sing Christmas carols by candlelight--all for just $1.50. That's what's in store for faculty and staff members who join Student Activities and Marriott Dec. 16 in offering students a study break during finals week. The annual Late Night Breakfast begins at 11 p.m. in Student Center cafeteria. Don't be late.

STUDENT EVALUATIONS WILL BE EXAMINED

The process for student evaluation of faculty performance will be the major focus of activities for the Evaluation Committee for the current year. "Although this is only one factor of the total evaluation process, it is very important," according to chairperson Katy Nichols of Harris College of Nursing. The committee would welcome any faculty input regarding ways to improve the process, particularly the frequency and consistency of use, she said.

The second item to be considered by the committee is the possibility of some appropriate method of evaluation or input to administrative personnel.

The committee invites comments as well as suggestions from interested faculty members. These can be sent to Katy at Box 32899 or given to members of the committee, whose names are listed on page 45 of the Faculty/Staff Handbook.

PEACE AND GOOD WILL TO BE LUNCHEON TOPIC

John Butler, minister to the University, will lead Friday's Luncheon Reflection Group discussion on the stewardship of peace and good will. John will reflect on the Advent of God, who brings peace and good will, and on people's accountability for their stewardship of it. The Reflection Group meets at noon in Room 205-206 of the Student Center; all faculty and staff are welcome to attend and bring a sack lunch. Coffee and iced tea are provided.

CORRECTION

The Faculty Bulletin apologizes for a Nov. 25 article referring to "the late Bonne Enlow." Miss Enlow who chaired the home economics department for 40 years, now lives in San Antonio.

PUBLIC RADIO'S STAMBERG WILL SPEAK

Susan Stamberg, longtime co-host of the award-winning National Public Radio news program "All Things Considered," will speak on campus Dec. 13. The 3 p.m. event in Ed Landreth Auditorium will be a benefit for KERA 90.1, the Dallas-based public radio station.

Stamberg, who will be making her initial appearance in the North Texas area, was the first woman to anchor a national nightly news program in this country. She co-hosted "All Things Considered," which airs on KERA from 4 to 7 p.m. weekdays, for 14 years. Since September she has been preparing for her role as host for NPR's Sunday Morning "Weekend Edition," premiering Jan. 18 from 7 to 10 a.m. Continuing to contribute occasional stories on "All Things Considered" and "Morning Edition," she has conducted some 14,000 interviews. She has received most major broadcasting honors, including the George Foster Peabody and Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University awards.

Tickets, priced at $12 for KERA subscribers and $15 for the public, can be ordered from the station by sending checks, payable to KERA 90.1, to Susan Stamberg...In Person, KERA, 3000 Harry Hines Blvd., Dallas, 75201-1098.

DEC. 18 PARTY TO HONOR MAZIE VARLEY

Mazie Varley, whose friendly smile and happy voice greeted visitors and callers to the athletic department for more than 30 years, will be honored Dec. 18 at a retirement party. The event will begin at 3 p.m. in the Lettermen's Clubroom of Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. All Mazie's campus friends are invited to join her on this occasion, according to Frank.

Away from her desk since suffering an aneurysm last July, Mazie joined the TCU staff on Sept. 1, 1954, in the athletic ticket office. After a short time, she became secretary for the entire athletic department under athletic director Dutch Meyer. She also filled that position under Abe Martin and was named administrative assistant when Frank Windegger was named athletic director.

NOW'S THE TIME FOR SCHOLARSHIP GIFT

Contributions to the TCU Scholarship Fund in lieu of Christmas cards to campus friends are beginning to come in. Contributions can be made to the Financial Aid Office, 108 Sadler Hall, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays or mailed to Box 30787.

Donors will be listed in next week's issue of the Weekly Bulletin. The scholarship gifts, a tradition dating to 1972, now total more than the $5,000 necessary to make the initial award. The first recipient is senior Dale Hunt, a finance/real estate major.

THREE CHOSEN FOR ALL-SWC TEAM

Three Horned Frogs are among athletes listed last week on the Dallas Morning News' All-Southwest Conference teams. They are W C Nix and Chris Becker on the first team and Tony Jeffery on the second team.

A senior from Sachse, W C played at both guard and center and "dominated at both positions," the News said. Chris, a sophomore from Taylor, averaged 46.1 yards per punt and netted 40.5. The Dallas paper called attention to "great hang time, which has quickly earned praise from SWC coaches who rave about his placement on soaring punts."

Though out of late-season play because of injuries, Tony compiled earlier statistics that still have fans talking.

KICK IN YOUR CANS--AND YOUR CASH

It's not possible to count the money raised during TCU Hunger Week until the money is turned in, remind Hunger Week committee members. Money must be in place before the close of the fall semester.

The rice bowls and cans distributed to University offices should be returned to University Ministries as soon as possible. In addition, participants in Frog Family Fast should turn their savings in to Libby Proffer, Sadler Hall 101 or Box 32917.

NOTES ON FOLKS

KARL SNYDER (emeritus English) was pleased on a recent visit to the new Swan Theatre at Stratford-upon-Avon to see a Thomas Heywood play to find a reference to the Garland Critical Edition of his own work on a Heywood play listed in the program. The production by Trevor Nunn, probably his last work with the Royal Shakespeare Company, was acclaimed by the critics and was selected to be the performance seen by Queen Elizabeth when she dedicates the new theatre, gift of an anonymous American donor, this month.

LEE DANIEL (modern languages) chaired a session on Freelance Writing and the Foreign Language Teacher for the joint meeting of the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages and the Texas Foreign Language Association held in Dallas.

Ranch management director JOHN MERRILL was one of nine persons who provided insights for the recent 1987 Economic Outlook Conference hosted by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce. Other participants included executives of MBank/Fort Worth, Neiman-Marcus, Herman Smith and Associates, General Dynamics, Gearhart Industries, Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas and Trammel Crow Co. along with the director of the Baylor University Forecasting Service.

An essay entitled "Nevil Shute and the Closed Frontier" by FRED ERISMAN (English) has been published in the November issue of Western American Literature. The essay considers how Shute, who moved from England to Australia in 1950, incorporates the Turner Frontier Hypothesis into his novels of Australian life.

At the National Council of Teachers of English Diamond Jubilee meeting Nov. 21-26 in San Antonio, DAVID VANDERWERKEN chaired the session Pass and Play: Information on Teaching Sports Literature and spoke on "Teaching Dickey's 'For the Death of Vince Lombardi,'" and BOB FRYE talked on "Lee Iacocca, Garrison Keillor, and Samantha Smith: Addressing the Future Through Letter Writing" at a session on Writing for the Real World.

The session on Advanced Placement Courses: The Impact of High School and College English Programs heard from MARJORIE LEWIS on "AP Graduates in a College Literature Course" and NEIL DANIEL on "Rhetorical Demands of the AP Essay." The session was chaired by BONNIE DICKINSON of the Fort Worth schools, former part-time instructor at TCU, and recorder/reactor was doctoral student VICKIE WEIR. WIN HORNER chairs the committee on Status of Women in the Profession, which held a working session during the convention. DONNA B. HAISTY of Clemson, who earned the Ph.D. at TCU, chaired the session on Developmental Theories and Audience: Writing for Oneself and Others.

A paper entitled "A Proposal for a New Kind of Core Curriculum, Conceptual and Not Canonical" by JIM CORDER (English) has been accepted for publication in Perspective, the journal of the Association for General and Liberal Studies.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

Physicist BILL GRAHAM and doctoral student RICHARD SHEPHERD have been notified that their paper entitled "FTIR Study of D and ¹³C Substituted C₂H in Solid Argon" has been accepted for publication by the Journal of Chemical Physics. The article reports new results obtained by Richard during his Ph.D. dissertation research on the ethynyl radical, an abundant interstellar species. "Laboratory Spectroscopy of Interstellar Molecules" was the subject of a research colloquium Bill presented at ETSU Nov. 18. A review article by Bill on the application of EPR to transition metal ions in fossil fuel sources will appear in a forthcoming book "Electronic Magnetic Resonance of the Solid State" to be published by MCIC press in Toronto early in 1987.

BEN PROCTER (history) attended the Southern Historical Association meeting in Charlotte, NC, Nov. 12-16, chairing a session on The Texas Spirit. He also learned that his new Texas history textbook for the seventh grade, "Texas: The Land and Its People," has been adopted by the state.

JUDITH SOLOMON (music) spent Nov. 28-29 at the University of Houston adjudicating a statewide piano competition sponsored by the Texas Music Teachers Association. Other judges were from the faculties of SMU and UT-Austin.

DAVID BARKER (radio-TV-film) presented two papers, "'It's Been Real': Realism, Verisimilitude, and Forms of Television Representation" and "Taking the Historical Perspective in Television Production Research," at the Speech Communication Association convention in Chicago Nov. 13-16.

JULIAN S. HABER (adjunct, Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic) was part of the visiting faculty for a continuing medical education course on "Children with Disabilities, A Practical Approach" for the North California chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics in San Francisco Dec. 6. He made three presentations including office assessment of learning disabilities.
