

BULLETIN

Issued by the Division of University Relations

Vol. 63, No. 20, Jan. 20, 1987

CHALLENGE GRANT RESULTS IN NURSING PROFESSORSHIP

A professorship in geriatrics has been endowed for Harris College of Nursing as a result of a challenge grant offered by Mrs. George T. Abell through the Abell-Hanger Foundation of Midland. The $300,000 grant and the gifts that matched it will fund TCU's first endowed position in nursing.

Responding to the challenge with gifts of $10,000 or more were the Sid W. Richardson Foundation, The Walsh Foundation, Dr. A. M. Pate Jr. and Sebert Pate, G. Malcolm Louden, Col. and Mrs. Warner F. Rankin Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Burgess Sealy and Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Shiflett Jr. Other donors included more than 150 alumni of Harris College, which has achieved a national reputation for teaching excellence and clinical relevance.

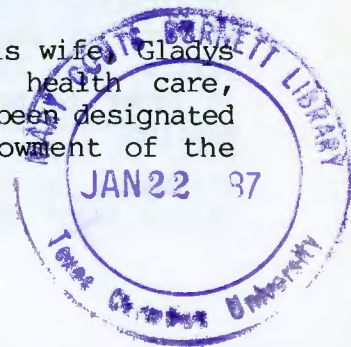

The first college of nursing in Texas and the second in the South to attain national accreditation, Harris College continues to be fully accredited by the National League of Nursing. Its 40th anniversary was marked by special activities last fall.

"With 23 million persons now 65 or older, this expanding segment of population is becoming an increasingly important part of American society," said Dean Pat Scarse. "The establishment of a professorship in geriatric nursing will insure that Harris College keeps its commitment to prepare students for responding to society's needs."

Noting that health care for the elderly has emerged as a powerful and specialized need that general health care has not been able to meet, Dean Scarse added, "Harris College and TCU intend to be leaders in meeting this challenge."

"We are especially grateful to Mrs. Abell and the Abell-Hanger Foundation for providing the impetus for a project to establish this professorship," said Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman. "Mrs. Abell's support in providing expanding opportunities in geriatric nursing demonstrates both an understanding of the need and a concern for solutions."

The foundation, established in 1954 by George T. Abell and his wife, Gladys Hanger Abell, has supported numerous projects related to health care, education, youth activities and the arts. Earlier gifts have been designated for nursing scholarships at TCU as well as for the endowment of the University's Starpoint School and Mary Coutts Burnett Library.

CAREER WORKSHOP SERIES BEGINS TODAY

The first of 19 career workshops planned for the spring through the Career Development and Placement Center will be conducted today, beginning at 3:30 p.m. "Graduate Placement Orientation" is the theme for today's workshop. Each session, excepting the job fair, will be held in Room 220 of the Student Center.

Other dates and topics are:

- Jan. 21, Interview Workshop, 3:30 p.m.
- Jan. 22, Video Tapes, 2 p.m.
- Jan. 26, Researching a Company, 3:30 p.m.
- Jan. 27 and Jan. 29, Practice Interviewing, 2 p.m.
- Feb. 4, Job Search for Arts and Sciences, 3:30 p.m.
- Feb. 10, Finding a Summer Job, 3:30 p.m.
- Feb. 12, Summer Job Fair, Student Center lounge, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.
- Feb. 18, The Job Search, 3:30 p.m.
- Feb. 23, Researching a Company, 3:30 p.m.
- Feb. 25, Resumes and Cover Letters, 3:30 p.m.
- March 3, Information Interviewing, 3:30 p.m.
- March 18, Interview Workshop, 3:30 p.m.
- March 19, Practice Interviews, 3:30 p.m.
- March 26, Assessing Your Career Interests, 3:30 p.m.
- March 31, Career Planning for Premajors, 3:30 p.m.
- April 2, Working for the Government, 3:30 p.m.
- April 9, Job Search in Fine Arts, 3:30 p.m.

*** **

MBA SEMINAR SERIES BEGINS JAN. 21

"What Can I Do with an MBA?" is the topic of tomorrow's seminar sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement Center. The four-part series for the spring is designed for current graduate students. Others interested in the Master of Business Administration program are welcome to attend, according to placement specialist Jan Baker.

Wednesday's program will begin at 5:30 p.m. in Room 218 of the Student Center. Other seminars are scheduled for Feb. 11, March 18 and April 9.

*** **

RESEARCH ROOM APPLICATIONS READY

Application forms for use of faculty research rooms in Mary Couets Burnett Library for the spring semester are available in the Library's administrative office, Ext. 7106. Completed forms must be returned to the Library by Jan. 28 in order to be considered by the University library committee at its next meeting.

WASHINGTON INTERNS SET A RECORD

Nineteen sophomores and juniors, the largest number in the ten years of TCU's affiliation with the Washington Internship Program, have been selected for internships next fall. They bring the total of TCU interns to 135. The new interns will be introduced and the 1986 interns honored at a reception in Student Center Woodson Room at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 27.

Selected for the program, which is administered here by Gene Alpert, political science chair, are Jonathan P. Carr, Hurst sophomore majoring in political science; Kelley E. Cunningham, junior political science major from Melissa; Leslie A. Custer, Tulsa, OK, junior majoring in advertising/public relations; Gregory B. Dixon, junior finance major from Willis; Douglas A. Dowler, junior political science major, Ardmore, OK; Lauri A. Ebel, sophomore psychology major, Albuquerque, NM; Robin J. Hill, junior in political science, Longview; Lori A. Keller, junior, political science, Albuquerque.

Also, Paula K. Lowe, Fort Worth junior, broadcast journalism; David L. Martin, junior in political science, Shreveport, LA; Elizabeth A. McQuary, junior, political science, Panama; Timothy A. Muirheid, junior, political science, Fort Worth; Sydney L. Robison, junior, political science, Amarillo; Aisha Saleem, sophomore, journalism, Missouri City; G. Wayne Stewart, junior, physics/astronomy and mathematics, Farmersville; Revathi Venkatappan, junior, political science, Fort Worth; Patrick D. Walker, junior, broadcast journalism, Grandview, MO; Heather E. Wintermeyer, sophomore, political science, Hillsboro, MO; and Michael J. Witgen, junior, political science, Plano.

*** **

COMPUTER PROFESSIONAL IS NOW 'IN RESIDENCE'

Business students are learning from the experience of a computer professional this semester. William E. Campbell, former director of communications systems for Chemical Bank of New York, is visiting the Neeley School of Business as the David L. Tandy Executive-in-Residence.

Campbell spent 27 years in the United States Army. During that time he managed two major data centers, directed the Army's Personnel Systems Development Center and headed operations of 35 data processing centers located throughout the U.S. In 1979 Campbell joined Chemical Bank of New York as director of systems development. His responsibilities included development and maintenance of software in retail, wholesale, capital markets, trust and investment, credit and staff functions. Later he was named director of communications systems in charge of Chemical's worldwide voice and data networks plus the data base management function.

Recently retired from Chemical Bank, Campbell will be on campus through Feb. 14 in the executive-in-residence position, first funded by the David L. Tandy Foundation in 1980 as a means of attracting recently retired chief executive officers or vice presidents who could bring to classrooms the "real world" flavor of business.

FACULTY COLLOQUIUM TO MEET JAN. 26

"Contrasting Distributive Justice Situations: Continuous and Discrete" is the title of the paper to be presented by Charles Lockhart of political science and Richard Galvin of philosophy on Jan. 26 for the Faculty Colloquium on Values and Public Policy. The Faculty Center will be the site of the 3:30-5 p.m. session.

The Monday date marks a departure from the usual meeting time for the colloquium. Copies of the Lockhart-Galvin paper are available for advance reading from Charles.

Three other meetings are set for this semester. On March 4 JoAnne Kagiwada and Paul Wilson of the Disciples of Christ office in Indianapolis will discuss divestment. Responses will be made by Chancellor Bill Tucker and Richard Hoehn of Brite Divinity School.

A presentation by Lewis Coser of the State University of New York at Stony Brook is scheduled for March 30. Sociologist Mike Katovich will present a paper in mid-April.

*** **

ANTIAPARTHEID FILMS SET

A film series entitled "An Evening Together/Against Apartheid" begins Thursday under the sponsorship of Student Activities and Black Student Caucus. Each of the four films is free.

Each film will be shown at 8 p.m. in Brown-Lupton Student Center. The schedule includes "Witness to Apartheid," Thursday in Room 205-6; "Mandela," Jan. 29, Room 205-6; "Allen Boesak: Choosing for Justice," Feb. 5, Room 207; and "Six Days in Soweto," Feb. 12, Room 205-6.

*** **

KTCU ANNOUNCES JAN. 25 PROGRAM

A number of classical music selections will be featured Jan. 25 on KTCU-FM, 88.7. These include the New York Philharmonic at 1 p.m. with Berio, Voci for Viola and Orchestra; Haydn, Symphony No. 90; and Berio, Concerto for Two Pianos. Starting at 3 p.m. the San Francisco Symphony will feature Mahler, Symphony No. 6 in A Minor. Music from Germany will be included in the Classical Showcase at 5 p.m. The Philadelphia Orchestra will begin at 6 p.m. with Weber, Overture to Der Freischutz; Beethoven, Piano Concerto No. 4 in G, Horacio Guiterrez on piano; Chinary Ung, the Inner Voices; and Hindemith, Symphonic Metamorphoses on Themes by Weber. The final selections will be performed by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, starting at 8 p.m. Music will include Solar, Fandango; Revel, Rhapsodie Espagnole; and Rimsky-Korsakov, Scheherazade, Opus 35.

LECTURER TO ADDRESS SOVIET MILITARY POWER

Capt. Kevin Johnson, who holds a master's degree in strategic intelligence from the Defense Intelligence College, will speak Jan. 27 on Soviet military power. Johnson is assigned to the nuclear negotiations division under the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Sponsored by Army ROTC, his lecture will begin at 7 p.m. in Room 156S of the Moudy Building. All faculty, staff and students are invited; admission is free.

*** **

MONDAY CONCERT IS CANCELLED

The TCU Music Series saxophone recital by Morris Moore which had been scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium has been cancelled. KTCU-FM, 88.7, will present a program of recorded music in place of the live broadcast of the recital.

*** **

NOTES ON FOLKS

C.A. QUARLES (physics) recently participated in the Third International Workshop on Cross Sections for Fusion Research at Texas A&M. The biennial workshop brought a select group of researchers together for discussion of topics of current interest in the field of electron, atomic and molecular collisions. C.A. also participated in the Conference on the Application of Accelerators in Research and Industry, presenting three research papers in collaboration with present and former doctoral students JOSEPH ALTMAN, RAJ AMBROSE, SAYED SALENHKOUTAHI and GREG WESTBROOK. He also chaired a session of invited papers on atomic physics. C.A. will present a research paper with Raj at the annual joint meeting of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the American Physical Society of San Francisco Jan. 28-Feb. 1. The title of the paper is "Measurement of Atomic-field Bremsstrahlung at Zero Degrees."

An essay by DAVID GRANT (religion-studies) on "Personal and Impersonal Concepts of God: A Tension Within Contemporary Christian Theology" has been accepted for publication in the Spring 1988 issue of Encounter.

During a recent research trip to Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, DON FRISCHMANN (modern languages) witnessed and videotaped a variety of manifestations of Mayan theater in the town of Oxkutzkab. In the capital city of Merida, he met with leading literary and other cultural figures of the peninsula. The Jan. 1-9 trip was sponsored by the TCU Research Fund.

CURT WILSON (music) arranged one of the numbers on "Transforming Traditions," an album by the TRPTS that has been nominated in 12 categories for 1986 Grammy awards. The TRPTS, a San Francisco ensemble headed by Mike Vax, will be guest stars during the TCU Jazz Festival in late March, thanks to a generous grant by the Arts Council of Fort Worth and Tarrant County. Curt recently participated in the National Association of Jazz Educators leadership conference and convention in Atlanta.

TCU IN THE NEWS

The Dec. 8 issue of Insight, The Washington Times' magazine, included a story on artist DAVID CONN and his studies of hobo art.

The new alcohol and drug education program and its director LORI WEISS were the subjects of a Dec. 7 story that appeared in the Dallas Morning News and one in the Dec. 11 issue of the Star-Telegram. Lori was interviewed Dec. 12 by Radio KKDA-FM.

"TCU is fighting alcohol abuse" was the headline for the Dec. 16 editorial that appeared in the Star-Telegram. It applauded the inauguration of the new alcohol and drug education program and quoted Lori and University minister JOHN BUTLER, who headed the earlier program administered by student, faculty and staff volunteers.

Mid-term graduate CLARE ZIERHUT of Richardson, who designed the new sign for the Fort Worth Zoo, was the subject of a story in the Dec. 14 Dallas Morning News. Donated by The Patrick Media Group, an outdoor advertising company, the sign is the result of a project developed by the Fort Worth Zoo Education Department and MARGIE ADKINS of the art department, who assigned a sign design to her graphics art classes.

"Beneath the beauty, the pain" was the Star-Telegram's headline Dec. 14 for the lead arts/entertainment section feature that quoted LISA FUSILLO on the importance of well-educated dancers. "I like to say we are expanding their minds as well as their bodies," she said. "If they don't dance, we are still giving our students the background to deal with life."

An article in the November-December issue of International Sculpture featured a segment on TCU graduate student CAMERON SCHOEPP as well as a picture of his wood and steel construction "Two in Each Frame." The story dealt with small-scale sculptures important in the art world of the 1980s and highlighted Schoepp's house-like constructions of concrete, wood and wire. The Maywood, IL, student had an exhibition at the Houston Sculpture Symposium Oct. 23 through Dec. 12.

"Sport Inside Out," the TCU PRESS anthology written by DAVID VANDERWERKEN and SPENCER WERTZ, continues to draw rave reviews. The November issue of Baseball Hobby News said of David and Spencer, "Their effort has yielded the most intellectually challenging sports anthology ever published." The Sociology of Sport Journal reviewer wrote, "...this book compiles some of the finest literature in communicating the power of emotions evoked by sport as felt by each and every one of us."

The December issue of Major League Monthly has high praise for "Sport Inside Out." The publication says of David and Spencer, "Serendipitously, they've created a collection of intelligent sports writing that will appeal to fans long out of school, more concerned with a good read than the relationship between sports and life."

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

The story of horse racing in early Texas, as researched by Ph.D. candidate ANNE BAILEY, was the subject of Kent Biffle's Texana column that appeared in the Dec. 21 Dallas Morning News.

"Mergers won't mean end to Texas banks' troubles" was the Star-Telegram's headline in a Dec. 21 business section story. Quoted at length in the story, RICHARD LeCOMPTE (business) noted that "there's no question that the Texas banking industry is in for a period of consolidation."

Putting the useless to good use is, in essence, what BOB FRYE (English) does in using junk mail to teach good writing to his Honors freshman classes. A feature by Kim Brewer about Bob's technique, noting that he took 3,400 letters to England to continue his studies when he was on sabbatical, was featured Dec. 22 in the Star-Telegram's Living section. A photo of the professor complemented the text.

Bob's research on junk mail was highlighted in the December 1986 issue of Channels, a publication from Exeter, NH, that specializes in news and ideas about communication.

LARRY LAUER (University relations) was the featured guest in mid-December for KERA 90 FM's evening talk show. The topic discussed was the latest report of the Carnegie Foundation.

The superintendents' council organized through the SCHOOL OF EDUCATION was the subject of a story in the December issue of Working Together, the newsletter of the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System. Also noted were the Jan. 12-May 15 mathematics workshops and the March 15 math mentor training session to be conducted by KATHLEEN MARTIN.

"Santa Claus stories a part of growing up" was the headline for the Star-Telegram's Dec. 23 story that quoted MELISSA GROVES (family studies). Pointing out that it's around first grade that children start asking questions about Santa, she noted that stories/answers most usually come from their peers, not adults.

In calling attention to the importance of the essay portion of admissions applications, Dean NED BOEHM said, "It not only shows how a student thinks, it is also the one part of the application that the student can control." His comments appeared in the January issue of D Magazine in its college section.

Three pages as well as another story and additional photographs in the fall issue of The Scalpel, the publication of the premedical honor society Alpha Epsilon Delta, are devoted to coverage of the 26th national convention of Regions IV and V hosted by TCU's Zeta chapter last March. Faculty adviser is chemist MANNY REINECKE, who also is a Region IV director.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

"University presses alter the outlook for serious fiction" was the heading for Larry Swindell's column in the Dec. 14 Star-Telegram. In writing of the TCU PRESS' issue of the first novel, "Summertime," by David Fleming, he complimented the University and expressed the hope that "many fine works of fiction that might otherwise be ignored forever may be redeemed by university presses around the country."

In the Star-Telegram's Dec. 26 story about boosters "keeping the spirit alive," behavioral psychologist CHARLES BOND noted that "contributions to higher education are seen as charitable, and you're seen as donating to an institution that has a societal goal, not a self-interest goal." Vice Chancellor PAUL HARTMAN said: "There is no way a private university can hire the staff to get the student body you want or raise the money you need to run the university without volunteers...who create the homecoming celebrations...the alumni dinners. We just couldn't make it without them."

"Sculptor's homes reflect his outlook on life" was the headline for the Dec. 28 feature on artist HARRY GEFFERT in the People section of the Dallas Morning News. Two color photos complemented the text.

Athletic trainer ROSS BAILEY was among persons quoted in the Star-Telegram story entitled "Drug testing puts players out in cold" that appeared Dec. 28. It is unlikely that anabolic steroids would have been used for medical rehabilitation of athletes, according to Ross.

"Book works as melting pot of Texan's influence on state" was the headline on the review of "Tolbert of Texas," issued by the TCU PRESS, that appeared Dec. 27 in the Wichita Falls Times.

The effects of odors on human behavior, as studied by psychologist WAYNE LUDVIGSON, was the subject of a story in the Tomorrow in Brief section of the January-February issue of The Futurist. The bimonthly journal is published by the World Future Society, based in Bethesda, MD.

Board chairman BAYARD FRIEDMAN was the feature subject Jan. 4 in the High Profile section of the Dallas Morning News. A color photograph complemented the story that detailed his career and personal interests.

"Church festival indeed legendary" was the Star-Telegram headline for the Jan. 5 story about the Boar's Head and Yule Log Festival at University Christian Church. Quoted in the story were LALONNIE LEHMAN (theatre), described as "one of the masterminds behind the intricate outfits" for the 150 participants, and KEN LAWRENCE (religion-studies), who helped organize the first festival 11 years ago.

Alumna CONNIE BAKER, who completed the B.F.A. degree in ballet in 1980, received a good review of her role in "The Pajama Game," now running in New York City's Equity Library Theatre, in the Nov. 5 issue of The New York Times. "Miss Baker is the hottest thing on a coolish stage," the review said. "She is blessed with several yards of leg and uses every inch."

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

- Jan. 21 --Slide/lecture, "Pre-Raphaelite or Post-Raphaelite? The Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood and the English Tradition," Dr. Teri Edelstein, director of Mount Holyoke College art museum, Moudy Building Room 132 North, 2 p.m. Free.
- Canterbury open house, home of Spencer Tucker, 3200 Wabash, 5:30-7 p.m.
- "Lili," docudrama on the life of the late pianist Mme. Lili Kraus, longtime artist-in-residence at TCU, airing at 9:30 p.m. on KERA-TV, Channel 13.
- Jan. 22 --Film Series: An Evening Together/Against Apartheid, "Witness to Apartheid," Brown-Lupton Student Center Room 205-6, 8 p.m. Free.
- Jan. 23 --Comedy Laff-Off, a trio of New York comedians presented by Performing Arts Committee of Programming Council, Student Center ballroom, 8 p.m. $2 with TCU ID, $3 for all others.
- Jan. 26 --Faculty Colloquium on Values and Public Policy: "Contrasting Distributive Justice Situations: Continuous and Discrete," by Charles Lockhart and Richard Galvin, Faculty Center, 3:30-5 p.m. Copies for advance reading are available from Charles in political science.
- Jan. 27 --Lecture on Soviet military power by Capt. Kevin Johnson of Joint Chiefs of Staff nuclear negotiations division, Moudy Building 156S, 7 p.m.
- Reception to honor the 1986 Washington interns and to introduce the 1987 group, Student Center Woodson Room, 7:30 p.m.
- Basketball, Lady Frogs vs. Rice, Daniel-Meyer Coliseum, 7:30 p.m. Free.

CLASSIFIED

HOUSE-SITTER AVAILABLE: Graduate assistant in MBA program desires a house to sit. Contact John Kay at Neeley School of Business or at 481-3588 (metro).

FOR SALE: Top-rated Schwinn XR-9 exercise bike, sturdy, heavy flywheel. Contact Jim Chambers, Ext. 7288.

LOVING HOME NEEDED: For three-year-old Australian shepherd; spayed and very affectionate, housebroken, loves children, needs fenced-in yard. Owner moving. Call 292-5581.

FOR SALE: Gun case, $200; Windsor chair, $200; love seat, $200; formal dining set, $600; walnut desk and chair, $200; 6 ft. x 9 ft. walnut entertainment center, $400. Call 292-5581.

HOUSE-SITTER AVAILABLE: Undergraduate student wishes to house-sit while attending summer classes. Call Stacy Arenz, 926-8855.

*** **

OFFICIAL ABSENCES

Students listed below must make up any class assignments that were missed. It is the responsibility of the student to arrange with his/her professors for the make-up. If you have any questions, call 921-7855.

Students participating in the Washington Center's Symposia Programs, "Leaders on Leadership" or "The Legal System" in Washington, D.C., January 12-16:

Marc Dombrowski	Dana Jost	Heather Rankin
Peter Fox	Kelly Lamport	Pamela Roe
Ed Gough	David Meyers	Robert Schindler
Elizabeth Hampton	Mike Mortell	Jamie White

Students missing classes in connection with their internship work at Casa Manana on January 16 and 23:

Becky Beeth Lauren Halyard Kelly Smith Daniel Tamez