TCU HUNGER PROGRAM IS A WINNER

TCU has won first prize for the most creative and effective hunger program on any campus in the nation. It was awarded by National Association for Campus Activities and National Student Campaign Against Hunger.

The 1987 award will be made at the NACA national meeting beginning Thursday in Nashville. In addition to providing free institutional dues to NACA and free registration for student leadership sessions, the award means that several TCU students may be funded to spend two months in Africa studying hunger-related needs and resources.

TCU's 1986 Hunger Week late last November resulted in contributions of more than $19,000 divided equally among five international agencies--Church World Service, Catholic World Relief, UNICEF, Oxfam America and the Southern Baptist Church's Manna--and the Presbyterian Night Shelter in Fort Worth. TCU junior elementary education major Lindy Nelson of Kingwood was student chair, and Andy Fort of religion-studies was faculty chair.

In five years of Hunger Weeks, TCU students, faculty and staff members have contributed more than $85,000 for hunger relief. John Butler, minister to the University and administrative overseer for Hunger Week, anticipates that next year TCU will cross the $100,000 level in giving to world hunger causes.

In 1986, 35 campus organizations took part in Hunger Week events, which directly involved more than 1,400 students. Major fund raisers included TCU's participation in the city-wide CROP Walk, which raised $1,352.74. The annual hunger auction brought in $3,808.50. Total income from meal card donations (with Marriott matching the first $1,000) was $4,642. Direct contributions totaled $3,146.79.

PATES GIVE LINCOLN COLLECTION

On Thursday, the 178th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, Drs. Joyce and A.M. Pate Jr. will formally present the Lincoln Collection to Mary Coats Burnett Library to enhance the collections on the American presidency and vice presidency already housed in the library's Pate Room.

Hallmark of the collection, 71 volumes of detailed etchings of objects and sites associated with Lincoln, is given in memory of University Librarian Paul Parham.

The Pate Room will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, said acting director Joe Cook, with the formal dedication taking place at 4 p.m. A display of Lincoln memorabilia belonging to the Pates as well as volumes from the Lincoln Collection will remain on view through February in the library lobby.

Joe describes the latest Pate gift as "a comprehensive, well thought-out collection of more than 400 volumes on both the private and political life of President Lincoln." The gift also includes three runs of Lincoln periodicals.

The set of Lincoln etchings, "Following Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865" by Bernhardt Wall of Lime Rock, CT, is one of only 100 sets. Wall spent 11 years and four months (from 1931 to 1942) completing the work, which contains 630 plates. The etchings cover the extent of Lincoln's travels, forming a veritable biography in pictures.

The Lincoln Collection adds further depth to the Dr. and Mrs. A.M. Pate Jr. Collection on the American Presidency. The initial collection of some 1,500 books on presidents from George Washington to Richard Nixon was presented in the spring of 1971. Many were first editions, autographed and rare volumes. The gift also included medals, coins, pictures and stamps. The collection is continually updated and now includes volumes on President Reagan.

Some five years ago Dr. Pate, a TCU alumnus and honorary member of the board of trustees, and his wife added 200 works on the vice presidency to enhance the collection. They also have presented the library with books on presidential wives.

For 25 years the Pates have been serious collectors of books on the American presidency. Both are avid historians, and Dr. Joyce Pate pursues a special interest in Abraham Lincoln. She was instrumental in the formation of the Abraham Lincoln Appreciation Society. She also is a past president of Friends of TCU Libraries.

Dr. A.M. Pate joined TCU's board of trustees in March of 1977 and was awarded an honorary LL.D. degree by the University the following August. He has been an honorary trustee since 1985.

CAMP FIRE TO HIGHLIGHT TCU JAZZ

TCU's Jazz Ensemble, directed by Curt Wilson, will star in First Texas Council of Camp Fire annual performing arts event Sunday at Will Rogers Memorial Auditorium.

The program, open to all Camp Fire members and their families, is entitled "All That Jazz" and is designed as an educational concert on jazz from its roots to the present. In addition to classics, the band will play jazz versions of "42nd Street" and "My Favorite Things" and will perform Curt's original work "Zanzibar."

LITERARY SCHOLAR TO BE GUEST

Dr. Jose Promis of the University of Arizona will be a Visiting Green Professor on campus Feb. 16-20. The modern languages department will host the specialist in Spanish-American literature and literary criticism.

A professor in the Spanish and Portuguese department at the University of Arizona since 1977, Dr. Promis will present a public lecture Feb. 18. "The Social Function of Latin American Literature" will be his topic for the event, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Room 141 N of the Moudy Building. A reception for Honors students and other interested persons will follow.

On Feb. 20 Dr. Promis will lecture in Spanish over the TAGER-TV closed-circuit network. His title for the 11 a.m. presentation will be "Etapas de la literatura hispanoamericana."

Holder of a Bachelor of Letters and a master's degree from the University of Chile, Dr. Promis completed the doctoral degree in 1965 at the University of Madrid. His later studies were conducted at the Catholic University of Valparaiso, where he was a member of the faculty in 1967-75.

Dr. Promis, founder and director of SIGNOS, Journal of Languages and Literatures of the Catholic University of Valparaiso, was producer-host of cultural and literary television programs broadcast weekly in Valparaiso in 1967-75. He was a member of the Center of Latin American Studies in Buenos Aires and since 1984 has been a member of the board of speakers for the Consortium of Arizona Humanists.

Author of textbooks used throughout Chile on the junior and senior high school levels, he also is author of a number of books as well as chapters in more than 20 scholarly books and monographs. Dr. Promis currently is working on a study of the development of Spanish-American literary thought from the 17th Century to the present.

Dr. Promis has been an invited participant at conferences at the universities of Pittsburgh, Georgia, South Carolina and most recently at the Louisiana Conference on Hispanic Languages and Literatures in 1985 at Tulane University. He was a speaker at the Rocky Mountain Council on Latin American Studies and the Symposium on Cultural Dependency and Independence in Latin America, held at Northern Illinois University.

MEMORIAL HELD FOR LEGGETT

A memorial service was held Feb. 2 in Robert Carr Chapel for Floyd Armand Leggett, emeritus associate profesor of religion who died Jan. 29 in a Keller nursing home. He had resided in Aransas Pass after retiring in 1972.

An alumnus of Phillips University, Leggett earned B.A. and M.A. degrees at TCU. He was minister for the First Christian Church of Marshall for a year before serving as a chaplain in the Air Force in 1942-46. Formerly minister for churches in Weatherford, Arkansas and Virginia, he joined the faculty in 1957 as associate professor of religion. He was director of student religious activities in 1966-68.

FALL APPLICATIONS UP OVER 1986

Total applications for the 1987 fall semester show an increase of 4.31 percent as of Jan. 15. According to the admissions activity status report, the total number on Jan. 15 was 2,055 as compared with 1,970 a year ago. These figures include all classifications as well as international students.

Freshman applications for the coming fall term stood at 1,925 last month, which was 4.79 percent higher than last year's mid-January figure. This count does not include international applicants. A decrease of 15.734 percent is shown in the total number of current transfer applicants, excluding internationals.

SPRING ENROLLMENT EXCEEDS '86 TOTAL

Enrollment for the current semester stands at 6,546, according to a report issued Feb. 2 by Registrar John Deupree. The total is 24 more students than a year ago and an overall increase of 352.5 credit hours.

Undergraduate areas showing increases this spring include business, education, fine arts and extended education. Arts and sciences, education and fine arts show slight increases in graduate programs.

DE-GROOTE, SYMPHONY TO PERFORM MONDAY

Steven De Groote, newly named as TCU's artist-in-residence, will be soloist with the University Symphony Feb. 16 playing a piano concerto written by Mozart for himself to perform. Steven, 1977 Van Cliburn Gold Medalist who joined the TCU music faculty last fall, will play the Piano Concerto No. 21 to conclude the 8 p.m. concert in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Steven is the University's second artist-in-residence. The late Mme. Lili Kraus was the first, setting the standards of that position on a high plane. Fort Worth Star-Telegram music critic Wayne Lee Gay confirmed last week that the mantle was successfully passed.

The position of artist-in-residence "is one that bears a good deal of responsibility with it in the minds and hearts of local music lovers," he wrote in covering Steven's Van Cliburn solo concert in Ed Landreth Auditorium. "De Groote proved himself a worthy heir, demonstrating the same unique combination of taste, technique and power that has won him acclaim in the past."

The concerto Steven will perform Monday is one of 12 Mozart composed in 1784-86 to play in Vienna. Its best-known part is the second movement, said to have moved Mozart's father to tears when he first heard it.

The University Symphony, conducted by Candler Schaffer, also will play Franz Schubert's Symphony No. 8 in B minor, the "Unfinished Symphony," and Quemadmodum by John Taverner, leading composer in the final years of Catholic England before Henry VIII divorced the English church from Rome.

The concert also will be broadcast live over KTCU-FM, 88.7.

TWO ARE TRUMAN SEMI-FINALISTS

Two TCU political science majors have been named as semi-finalists for $28,000 Harry S. Truman Scholarships. They are Steven Partain of Longview and Michael Hayworth of Bargersville, IN. Semi-finalists will be interviewed soon by regional review panels.

Truman Scholarships, each paying a maximum of $7,000 annually for up to four years, are awarded on the basis of merit to students who will be college juniors in the forthcoming academic year and who display outstanding potential for leadership in any phase of government.

DRUG PROGRAM INTRODUCES CAMPUS SATELLITE NETWORK

A drug abuse program featuring Timothy Leary, Bruce Bosworth, Spud Webb and other panelists will be shown Feb. 18 in the Student Center ballroom. Broadcast live by College Satellite Network, the program will be picked up at TCU through the use of a rented satellite dish. The Permanent Improvement Committee of the House of Student Representatives is sponsoring the showing both as a service to the University community and as a trial viewing of the subscription-only network.

"Drugs: Plague of the '80s" will be broadcast from Nashville by CSN and the National Association of Campus Activities. The first segment of the program titled "Drugs: Why Not?" will air at 1-2:30 p.m. Panelists include Leary, John Phillips, Steve Tyler, John Bradshaw and Andrew Well. At 2:30 p.m. "Drugs and Athletics" will be the topic with panelists Webb, Bosworth, Steve Courson, Barry Word, Bob Hayes and Dr. Charles Schuster. "The Politics of Drug Abuse" will follow at 3:30 p.m. with Sen. William Roth and Reps. Lynn Martin, Benjamin Gilman and Charles Rangel. Members from the first two panels also will participate. Aimed at college students across the country, the program will use satellite technology to allow discussion between viewers and panelists.

In addition to the education and informational segments, a 7-9 p.m. concert will be broadcast live featuring the NACA Campus Entertainment Awards Show and three acts performing at the Grand 'Ole Opry. All programs are free and open to faculty, staff, students and the public.

LIGHTING PROJECT NEARING COMPLETION

The initial stage of what is hoped to be a continuing plan for improved campus lighting is nearing completion. The project, costing some $100,000, is a result of a review of such needed improvements by students and staff members, according to Vice Chancellor Edd Bivin.

With bases recently implanted, 39 new poles will be installed. Some of the oldest lighting poles on campus will be relocated in more concentrated fashion for better results after new fixtures are mounted on them. A number of wall packs will be removed from buildings, Bivin explained, and many of them will be moved to other areas as an interim solution to the additional lighting need. The project is being concentrated on main campus, around the Bass Building and in residence hall areas with particular attention to Milton Daniel Hall.

A highly regarded lighting system in Austin was studied before the TCU plan was finalized. When this phase is completed, its effectiveness will be evaluated, according to Bivin, before moving toward other stages in the program.

DANCE HOSTS TWO NOTED GUESTS

The ballet and modern dance department will host two noted guest teachers this week. Lucas Hoving, whose career in modern dance spans almost 60 years in Europe and the U.S., is on campus through Friday. Nanette Glushak, artistic director for Fort Worth Ballet, will be a guest professor today (Tuesday). Her advanced ballet class from 10 a.m. to noon in ballet building will be open to observers, who should contact the department at Ext. 7615 to make reservations.

Miss Glushak was one of the first Ford Foundation scholarship recipients at the School of American Ballet. At the invitation of George Balanchine, she joined New York City Ballet in 1968, moved to American Ballet Theatre in 1970 and was promoted to soloist two years later. Rudolf Nureyev was one of her partners there.

In 1978 Mikhail Baryshnikov invited Miss Glushak and two other ballerinas to appear with him as he made his debut in the title role of Balanchine's "Apollo." Miss Glushak also danced in the highly acclaimed film "The Turning Point."

Hoving's advanced modern dance class at 2 p.m. Friday also is open to observers who call for reservations. A native of Holland, he began formal modern dance training in Amsterdam in 1929 with the German-trained dancer Florrie Rodrigo. He soon was asked to join the Rodrigo company, whose repertory included anti-fascist works--touchy subject matter in Holland in the mid-1930s.

He studied with Kurt Jooss in England and toured with the Jooss Company for three years. In 1942 Hoving, who speaks five languages, joined the exiled Dutch Armed Forces as a wireless operator and interpreter. When the Dutch army was stationed in Canada, he was given leaves to study and perform in New York, where he danced with the Martha Graham Company.

Back in England to prepare for the Allied invasion of France, he met Agnes de Mille, who hired him to play opposite Kay Kendall in the J. Arthur Rank film "London Town." He also danced the lead in her "Bloomer Girl" and "Rape of Lucretia."

Hoving toured with the Jose Limon Company after the war, later was director, dancer and choreographer for his own company and choreographed for the Limon and Alvin Ailey companies. He has taught at the High School of Performing Arts in New York, at Juilliard School and for some 30 summers at the American Dance Festival.

EMERITUS PROFESSOR BRANDAU DIES

Funeral services were held in Burkburnett late last week for Dr. Edna P. Brandau, emeritus professor who died Feb. 3 in Oklahoma City. A Fort Worth resident until late last year, she joined the faculty in 1963 as home economics chairman and held that position until retiring in 1972.

Holder of three earned degrees from Texas Woman's University, Dr. Brandau headed the art department at Drexel Institute of Technology in 1939-47. She was professor and director of merchandising at Syracuse University for four years before being named education director of the Wool Bureau Inc. of New York City. She was a member of TWU's research staff in 1959-63.

Dr. Brandau, past president of the Texas Home Economics Association and board member of the Texas Consumer Education Council, was a charter member of the women's division of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce. She served on boards of the National Home Fashions League Inc., Tarrant County Association for Mental Health and the William Edrington Scott Theater. She was listed in Who's in Texas Today and Who's Who of American Women.

Reared in Wichita Falls, Dr. Brandau was a member of the Federation Internationale for Home Economics as well as national and state home economics associations. She also was active in Color Marketing Group Association, National Society of Interior Designers and American Society for Testing Materials. She organized the University Professors European Field Trips to Fashion Industry and conducted these in 1949 and 1950. She was co-director of TCU's home economics cultural tours of Europe in 1968, 1970 and 1971.

Memorial gifts are being made to the American Home Economics Association Foundation, 2010 Massachusetts Ave. NW, Washington, DC 20036.

POLICE TO CURTAIL DRIVER ASSISTANCE

Effective Feb. 15, Campus Police will no longer be able to respond to requests for jumpstarting automobiles and unlocking vehicles. The police dispatcher will maintain a list of locksmiths and area service stations who are willing to respond to such requests for assistance on the campus. Any charge incurred for such services will be the responsibility of the requesting person. If a motorist needs assistance and is not sure who to call, the list of referrals is available for use.

This change in policy is due to the inordinate number of requests for assistance during this last year, according to Chief Oscar Stewart. In order to provide adequate security and protection on the campus, patrol officers need to be able to quickly respond to emergency situations and to be on patrol for surveillance purposes. "Our goal is to make the campus safer and more secure, and freeing police officers from this routine task will aid in that process," Oscar said.

Motorists are urged, however, to call Campus Police at Ext. 7777 in the event of an actual emergency or if they see suspicious activity.

FORMER PRESIDENT LINDLEY DIES JAN. 30

Dr. D. Ray Lindley, 81, who served as president of Texas Christian University in 1959-62 under the chancellorship of the late Dr. M. E. Sadler, died Jan. 30 in a Conroe hospital following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services were conducted Feb. 2 at First Christian Church in Conroe. Fort Worth residents participating included Chancellor Bill Tucker, Chancellor Emeritus J.M. Moudy, Dean Jack Suggs, Dr. Granville Walker and Jim Suggs, regional minister of the Christian Church in the Southwest.

A native Texan who attended schools in Archer City and Lufkin, Dr. Lindley served as minister for Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) congregations in Weatherford, Big Spring, San Antonio and New Orleans in addition to his outstanding leadership of three universities. In July 1950 he began a three-year term as president of North Carolina's Atlantic Christian College. While in this position, he was vice president of International Convention of Disciples of Christ and was one of five Disciple delegates from the United States to the World Conference on Faith and Order in Sweden in addition to other professional and civic offices.

Dr. Lindley, holder of the bachelor's degree from Phillips University, completed the Bachelor of Divinity degree through Brite Divinity School in 1929. In 1941 he joined the seminary faculty as assistant professor of Christian ministries. Six years later he was named dean of Brite and held that position until he went to Atlantic Christian College.

Holder of three earned degrees from Yale University, Dr. Lindley returned to TCU in 1953 as vice president with primary responsibility for campus administration. He was named executive vice president in 1958. He became president Sept. 1, 1959, when the late Dr. Sadler was named chancellor by the board of trustees. He resigned in 1962 to become chancellor of the University of the Americas in Puebla, Mexico.

Dr. Lindley, awarded the honorary Doctor of Humane Letters by TCU in 1972, served as a trustee of the Mexican-North American Cultural Institute, American Society of Mexico and Villa Jones Cultural Center. He had been a special education adviser for The American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico. He formerly was chairman or president of the Board of Christian Higher Education of the Christian Churches, Texas Council of Church Related Colleges and Captive Nations Committee. A contributor to both educational and religious journals, he was author of "Calling A Minister" and "Apostle of Freedom" and co-author of a three-volume set entitled "Renewal of Church."

A resident of Conroe since retiring, Dr. Lindley is survived by his wife, Maybon Lindley; two sons, Dr. Gene Lindley of Houston and Dr. Neil Lindley of Port Arthur; a sister; six grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren. The family suggests that memorials be made to Brite Divinity School.

TUCKER TO ADDRESS REGIONAL MEET

The Feb. 11-13 session will be held at the Fort Worth Hilton, and TCU is helping host "Local Counselors' Day" on Thursday. Attending the program will be high school principals, counselors, college admissions and financial aid officers from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arkansas.

Associate vice chancellor Ned Boehm, who heads the on-site committee, is vice chairman of the regional assembly's executive committee.
