NEW FUND HONORS CHURCH IN POST

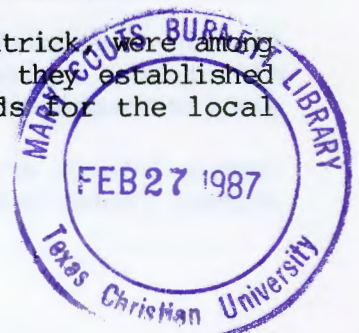

A recently established scholarship fund honors the First Christian Church of Post. Endowed with a $50,000 gift from Dr. Ruby Stoker Kirkpatrick of Post, the new fund will enable members of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) who are academically qualified and who have a financial need to attend TCU. Preference will be given to students from Post in the selection of award recipients.

To be known as the First Christian Church of Post, TX, Disciples Scholarship Fund, this is the third such program endowed at TCU by Dr. Kirkpatrick, a longtime member of the Post church. She also has established four ministerial education funds in Brite Divinity School. Prior to her most recent gift, all have been named in honor of members of her family.

Dr. Kirkpatrick, one of a family that has had more than 45 members attend TCU, earned the bachelor's degree here in 1927. In conferring the honorary Doctor of Laws degree upon her in 1977, the University cited her "for her half century of creative leadership in a single small community and its radiating effect throughout West Texas--in religious education, in church affairs generally...and as a leader in industrial promotions, senior citizen organizations, local museum and historical society."

Honored in 1955 as Post's "woman of the year," she was one of the organizers of the women's division of the Post Chamber of Commerce and served as its first president. She has served on the Texas Tech Foundation Board and on the advisory board for the Garza County senior citizens organization. The mother of two sons served the Post church as teacher of the same class for 50 years in addition to being one of its trustees and an official board member. She was treasurer of its Christian Women's Fellowship for more than 50 years.

Dr. Kirkpatrick and her husband, the late Willard M. Kirkpatrick, were among the leaders in a building drive for the Post church, where they established the Stoker Educational Memorial Fund that includes funds for the local building, Christian scholarships and other needs.

QUEEN MARY TO BE ALUMNI SITE

Chancellor Bill Tucker will be the featured guest March 1 for an event for Southern California alumni and friends of TCU as well as parents of current students. To be held on the Queen Mary in Long Beach, "Sunday Brunch with the Chancellor" will be the initial gathering in California hosted by the TCU Alumni Association. The event will begin at 1 p.m.

Arrangements have been made for alumni and friends to stay aboard the Queen Mary at the Royal Invitation rate, which includes tours of the ship and the Spruce Goose, according to alumni director DeVonna Tinney, who is coordinating the event.

Heading the planning committee is Sandy Stokes McGowan, Class of '60 member from Newport Beach. Working with her are William Bachman '43, Lynn Landon '86, Scott Scoggins '86, Kym Stephen '86 and Dr. Gerald Wilks '62, all of Newport Beach. Others are Dr. Wilson Baugh '42 of San Bernadino; Joan Bulmer Cole '52, Irvine; Dr. Kay Kriegel Deaton '66, Garden Grove; Gail Dwire '85, Glendale; Michael Fanelli '85, Montrose; William and Mary Anderson Garland '32, Pacific Palisades; David '76 and Joy Zieb Heisler '78, Los Angeles; LaVerne Brunson Huey '34, Long Beach; John and Vi Jones, Fullerton; James Manifold '75, Santa Ana; Cdr. Roger and Susan Gray McInnis '67, Coronado; August Schilling III '72, Laguna Hills; Cobbin and Rudy Reed Sheperd '57, Valencia; and Hervold Wattner '73, Encinitas.

RECEPTION WILL HONOR GREENWOOD

Cecilia Greenwood, administrative secretary in the Dean of Students office, will be the honoree at a reception Thursday. She is retiring after 20 years' service in the Division of Student Affairs.

Campus friends are invited to the fete, to be held from 2:30 to 4 p.m. in the Student Center's Woodson Room.

BRITISH MUSICIAN TO LECTURE HERE

When distinguished British humanist-composer-musicologist Wilfrid Mellers serves as Visiting Green Professor March 2-5, his public lecture won't deal with Bach or Beethoven. Instead he'll talk about female counterparts of the Beatles and Bob Dylan.

As retired music chair at the University of York and author of two of the four volumes of the widely acclaimed history of Western music, "Man and His Music," Mellers is eminently qualified to discuss the classics. Much of his research, however, has dealt with 20th Century music, and his more recent writings are concerned with music as an expression of human experience and with the conditions of life that created it.

Mellers' March 2 public lecture on contemporary women "pop" composers will begin at 8 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium. He also will teach master classes during his visit, and interested observers may make reservations through the music department, Ext. 7602.

Born in Leamington, England, in 1914, Mellers was educated at Leamington College and at the University of Cambridge, where he read first for a degree in English literature, then for a degree in music. He was awarded a doctorate in music from Birmingham University.

Mellers taught first at Downing College, Cambridge, then at Birmingham University before moving to the United States from 1960-63 to serve as Andrew Mellon Professor of Music at the University of Pittsburgh. From 1964 until his retirement in 1981, he headed the music department at the University of York.

Mellers' books on music range from "Studies in Contemporary Music," a collection of his earliest writings published in 1948, to the first comprehensive account of the music of Francois Couperin and to "Harmonious Meeting," a study of the interrelationship of music, poetry and drama in 17th- and 18th-century England.

Mellers is essentially a vocal composer preoccupied with musical theatre. His experiences in this country in the early 1960s stimulated his interest in jazz and in its relationship to concert and "pop" music. He has written several works incorporating folk and jazz elements, including Chants and Litanies of Carl Sandberg and Yeibichai for coloratura soprano, scat singer, jazz trio, orchestra and tape.

Since his retirement from York University, Mellers has completed a two-volume study of Bach and Beethoven as religious composers as well as a book on Bob Dylan. "The Singing Eves," his study of female jazz and pop singers, is due to be published soon.

BOOK FAIR ON THE WAY

Keith Odom of English, the man who picks the bid books for the Book Fair sponsored annually by the Fort Worth section of the National Council of Jewish Women, passes along the tip that he has found Mark Twain first editions as well as a large number of first British editions by such notable British mystery writers as Agatha Christie and Ngaio Marsh.

The Book Fair, located this year in the Small Exhibits Building at Will Rogers Memorial Center, has its gala opening at 7 p.m. Saturday, then opens for business at 1 p.m. Sunday, with the rare book auction beginning at 7:30 p.m. Subsequent hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday.

HONORS SCHOLAR APPLICATIONS DUE

Freshmen, sophomores and juniors in the Honors Program may apply for the $650 TCU Honors Scholar Award to support the student's program of study from June 1 of this year to May 31, 1988. The award may be used for such projects as special research here or study abroad, special programs such as a Washington Internship or to take part in a professional meeting, symposium or art exhibit.

Applications, due in the Honors Program office by March 23, must include a short essay in which the student describes the proposed program of study as well as letters of recommendation from two faculty members. Those letters should address the academic performance and potential as well as the character of the student.

Winner of the award will be announced at the Honors Convocation April 9. Receipt of this award does not affect the student's eligibility for other gift aid.

ACCOUNTING GROUP OFFERS FREE TAX HELP

The members of Beta Alpha Psi (the national honorary accounting fraternity) are offering their services to faculty, staff, students and residents of the TCU area. Free income tax preparation assistance is available from 1 to 5 p.m. through Feb. 26 in the reading room of the Student Center. No appointment is necessary. All returns will be reviewed by a tax practitioner and/or faculty member for correctness and completeness. Individuals are asked to take all relevant 1986 documents along with a copy of their 1985 tax return, if available, to the session.

Additional information is available from Mike McCarty, School of Business, Ext. 7543.

NURSING CONSULTANT IS VISITING PROFESSOR

Dr. Marjorie Beyers, nationally recognized as a consultant in both nursing practice and education, is a guest of Harris College of Nursing this week as a Visiting Green Professor. Currently corporate director of nursing and quality assurance for the Sisters of Mercy Health Corporation in Farmington Hills, MI, since 1985, she also is the James R. Dougherty Jr. Centennial Professor in Nursing Service Administration at the University of Texas in Austin.

On Thursday Dr. Beyers will present a public lecture on "Productivity: An Issue in Nursing Care." The free program will begin at 7 p.m. in Room 164 South in the Moudy Building. A reception is set for 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Beyers, executive director of the National Commission on Nursing in 1980-83, has been a consultant for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Texas Nurses' Association, Council of State Boards of Nursing Inc., Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, Sigma Theta Tau, University of Rochester School of Nursing and American Society for Nursing Service Administrators. She has worked in this capacity with hospitals across the nation.

Director of the Evanston, IL, Hospital School of Nursing in 1962-80, Dr. Beyers also served on the faculty of Northwestern University Medical School for 11 of those years. She was executive director of the National Commission on Nursing in 1980-83 and has been active on committees of the American Society for Law and Medicine, National League for Nursing and American Nurses' Association.

Dr. Beyers, editorial advisor or reviewer for Nursing Outlook, Journal of Nursing Administration and Nurse Educator, is the author of numerous published studies.

TWO NEW SHOWINGS OPEN MONDAY

Two new showings--the University of Dallas print invitational and constructions and photographs by Iowan Dan Powell--go on view March 3.

Opening reception for the print invitational will be from 4 to 6 p.m. that day in Brown-Lupton Gallery. The prints will be on display there through March 20, open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, 1-4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Works by Powell, an assistant professor of photography at the University of Northern Iowa, will be shown through March 20 in Moudy Building Exhibition Hall, also open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, 1-4 p.m. weekends.

Powell, who holds graduate degrees from both the University of Illinois and Central Washington University, has had one-person exhibitions at galleries in Syracuse, Seattle, Minneapolis, Amarillo, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Portland, OR, Cambridge, MA, and Hamburg, Germany. He has received grants and fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts, Society for Contemporary Photography and the Iowa Arts Council.

DALLAS IS POST-SEASON TOURNEY SITE

The top six women's basketball teams will compete March 4-7 in Dallas in the Southwest Conference's fifth post-season championship games. The winner will have an automatic SWC bid to the NCAA playoffs March 27 and 29 in Austin.

Last year's post-season tournament, which launched the UT Longhorns' bid to the NCAA championship, produced two other NCAA tournament teams. Texas Tech received its second at-large bid in three seasons, while Arkansas received its first invitation to the national games.

First-round play in this year's competition, which will be held in SMU's Moody Coliseum, will start at 6 and 8 p.m. March 4. Semifinals are set for March 5, and finalists will tip off at 7:30 p.m. March 7.

Ticket information is available from Tommy Love at Ext. 7967.

WOMEN OUTSCORE MEN IN FALL

Members of seven sororities achieved grade-point averages above the 2.907 average for all undergraduate women during the fall semester, while only two fraternities had higher averages than the 2.649 for all undergraduate men. According to a grade statistic report on Greek organizations prepared by Dean Libby Proffer, Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority and Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity led the academic standings.

The above average sororities and their grade-point averages are Alpha Kappa Alpha, 3.235; Kappa Delta, 3.0; Chi Omega, 2.996; Pi Beta Phi, 2.992; Alpha Phi, 2.985; Alpha Delta Pi, 2.927; and Delta Sigma Theta, 2.915. The average for all freshmen women last fall was 2.807. Sororities with pledges averaging higher than that were, in order, Kappa Delta, Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

With 2.649 the average for all undergraduate men, Lambda Chi Alpha's 2.835 and Sigma Alpha Epsilon's 2.738 put them above the average. The grade-point average of 2.564 for all freshman men was surpassed by the Lambda Chi pledges with 2.824 and the SAE pledges with 2.618.

According to Dean Proffer, the most improved scholarship recognition went to Kappa Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Kappa Delta also received the Panhellenic Pledge Scholarship Award and tied with Alpha Kappa Alpha for the Panhellenic Scholarship Award. Lambda Chi Alpha received both the C.J. Firkins Scholarship Award and the Pledge/Associate Scholarship.

DIVESTMENT WILL BE COLLOQUIUM TOPIC

"Contrasting Considerations on Divestment" will be the topic for the March 4 Colloquium on Values and Public Policy. The 3:30-5 p.m. program, to be held in the Faculty Center, will be moderated by political scientist Charles Lockhart.

Presenters will be JoAnne Kagiwada, director of International Affairs in the Department of Church in Society of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), and Paul Wilson, co-director of the international human rights program and staff of the corporate responsibility advisory committee of the Christian Church. Respondents will be Chancellor Bill Tucker and Richard Hoehn of Brite Divinity School.

Formerly a consultant on social responsibility in investment policy to the University of California Regents, Kagiwada is an attorney and a lecturer in international human rights law at the University of California School of Law at Berkeley. She is on the governing board of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States and was a member of the joint US/USSR delegation at the Church Leaders Vigil at the Summit in Geneva.

Wilson served on the National Council of Churches in the Philippines before imprisonment and ouster by the Marcos government. A member of the clergy, he has worked on the board of the InterFaith Center on Corporate Responsibility.

ALPERT TO LEAD CONVENTION CLASSES AGAIN

Political science chair Gene Alpert, who took the lead with The Washington Center three years ago in organizing the first academic classes to be conducted for credit at the two national political conventions, will serve once again as academic program director for the two courses.

Both are two weeks in length--the Democratic program in Atlanta July 10-22 and the Republican program in New Orleans Aug. 7-19--and each offers three hours of credit. In addition, a new MLA course proposed by Gene for each of the conventions was approved late last week.

Applications are available in the political science office, Sadler Hall Room 205, and must be returned to Gene by March 3. Interested students, who must have a grade point average of at least 2.5, must be nominated by TCU after their applications are received here and will then be eligible to receive applications from The Washington Center. Space is limited, Gene said, since this program is national in scope.

12 STATIONS ARE ON 'SUGGESTED' LIST

Following the decision that campus police would curtail driver assistance, 12 stations and/or auto services indicated their willingness to respond to emergencies such as unlocking vehicles with keys inside and jump-starting stalled cars.

Released by Chief Oscar Stewart, the businesses are as follows:

- Denny Matoon's Exxon, 2858 W. Berry, 923-2225
- Hopkins Texaco, 1527 S. University, 336-3579
- Mike's Automotive, 1013 W. Magnolia, 926-0253
- Hemphill Mobil, 3044 Hemphill, 924-2551
- University Gulf, 2961 W. Berry, 924-7533
- Westcliff Texaco, 3524 South Hills, 921-0943
- Jim Crow University Drive, 1541 S. University, 335-2752
- Ewell's Auto Service, 2000 W. Berry, 924-3207
- Gachter's Car Care, 1029 5th Ave. at Rosedale, 332-6921
- Tanglewood Mobil, 4429 Bellaire Dr., 924-6862
- Las Vegas Trail Exxon, 8601 Hwy. 30, 244-4470
- Buddy's Wrecker, 1913 Montgomery, 737-7277

Persons calling for assistance should remember to give their name, location, type vehicle, service needed and inquire at that point about charges for the service requested, advised Oscar.

'LEADERSHIP' DEADLINE IS MARCH 2

Deadline for applications for the summer-long development program "Leadership America" is March 2, rather than March 12 as noted in last week's bulletin. Fifty outstanding young men and women from colleges and universities across the nation will be chosen to take part in the national program, which begins June 12. Applications are available from Dr. Peggy Barr, the Student Center information desk, Student Activities and Dean of Students offices.

JUST A FEW REMINDERS...

- ...Dr. Alan Schriesheim, director of Argonne National Laboratory and professor of chemistry at the University of Chicago, will lecture on "Energy Crisis: Deja Vu" today (Tuesday) at 4 p.m. in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 4.
- ...International Student Week events will culminate in a banquet with cultural entertainment Saturday at 6 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. Tickets, which must be purchased by tomorrow (Wednesday), are available in Sadler Room 16.

NEW ERISMAN BOOK IS 'BARNBOKEN'

You'd expect an English professor to be horrified if the publisher of his book on children's literature twisted the name Nancy Drew into "Kitty." Not Fred Erisman.

The English chairman is delighted with his newest book, "Barnboken I USA," published by the Stockholm firm of Raben & Sjogren. Written in collaboration with Zena Sutherland of the University of Chicago and translated into Swedish by Ulla Froderstrom, the book is one of a series on world children's literatures being sponsored by the Swedish National Children's Book Institute.

Bearing a sketch from Laura Ingalls Wilder's "Little House" series on its front cover, "Barnboken" is aimed primarily at teachers and librarians, said Fred, who has been a central figure in the study of children's literature as social history. His doctoral dissertation at the University of Minnesota in 1966 was one of the first works outside library schools and schools of education to treat children's literature.

Fred's portion of the new Swedish study deals with American children's literature from its origins to the start of World War II. It caused something of a stir in Sweden even before publication. The Swedish translator, editors and publishers were excited to learn that FDR's catch phrase "New Deal" really came from Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

Some of what he can pick up from the Swedish volume comes as a surprise to Fred, too--for instance, the translation of Nancy Drew into "Kitty." He isn't really too shocked, however, that the Swedes didn't even try to translate Buckleberry Finn. That good old Mississippi River monicker stands out boldly as he flips through "Barnboken."

BROWN BAG FEATURES LECTURE/DANCE

A lecture/demonstration on "Dance: Classics to Contemporary" will be presented at noon Monday in Brown-Lupton Student Center Ballroom. Graduate student Kathleen Doyle will direct the program.

Stephanie Woods, who chairs ballet and modern dance, will discuss classical ballet from an historical standpoint, and her class in ballet variations will perform excerpts from "Giselle," "Sleeping Beauty" and "Les Sylphides." Faculty member Michael Kelly Bruce will introduce modern dance, an American art form born of the need for individual expression, and members of his repertory class will present sections of works of 20th-century pioneers Ted Shawn and Jose Limon.

Other segments of the Brown Bag program will include improvisations to give the audience a look at how dances are made; "Silverstein Dances," by faculty member Susan Douglas Roberts, set to children's poetry; and a collaboration by four choreographers, Bruce, Roberts, faculty member Ellen Page Garrison and graduate student Dana Nicolay, to produce one dance.

DANIEL HONORED BY COLLEGE BOARD

Neil Daniel of English received the College Board's 1987 Advanced Placement Special Recognition Award Feb. 12 during College Board's Southwest regional assembly in Fort Worth. Neil was one of only two college professors honored along with high school teachers and administrators in the five-state region.

The award, Neil said, recognizes the important contribution TCU has made in helping bridge the gap between secondary schools and higher education.

Neil and Marjorie Lewis have been conducting summer courses for teachers of honors and Advanced Placement English. The courses were developed in cooperation with the Gifted Students Institute, in part to provide staff development opportunities for Metroplex school districts participating in the Pyramid Project.
